Franklin Park Rejuvenation Committee Schedules Meet

By TED BEARDSHEAR

Wheels are moving fast in the proposed rejuvenation of historic Franklin Park.

The area advisory council, which was formed in June, will meet at 3:30 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 16, at the Franklin Park Shelter House. On the agenda are four important steps:

First, the council will set up a permanent committee and elect officers.

Second, the reaction of 500 letters sent to residents of the area asking for their comments and suggestions will be evaluated.

Third, the council hopes to adopt a concert series to appear next summer.

Last, the council hopes to adopt a recreational program, making Franklin Park a complete city supervised playground.

"Parks should answer the needs of the people in the vicinity—a park is part of the community," said City Parks Superintendent Richard Lawwill.

He went on to explain that the community surrounding Franklin Park was young. "Up to now, it has been used only for weekend activities. During the week we need supervised activities for the children and there is no equipment," he explained.

Asked how the movement got started, Lawwill commented that it was "co-incidental." He said that he had thought of setting up an advisory committee at about the same time that Miss Margaret E. Day, of 1761 Franklin-pk, S., a teacher at Clearbrook School, asked to set up the council. It seemed that the city and the people became interested at about the same time, according to Lawwill.

Basic needs, Lawwill said, are for more toilet facilities, shelter houses and parking area.

In addition to Lawwill and Miss Day, council members include City Recreation Director N. F. Barack, E. L. Allen, manager of Park Towers, 1620 E. Broad-st; Rev. C. F. Jenkins, minister of Second Baptist Church; Rev. Vincent Mooney, pastor of Holy Rosary Church.

William F. Walton, assistant parks superintendent; W. H. Weddington and David Hamler, physicians; Paul Dorsey, manager of the Lincoln Branch, Ohio National Bank; Joseph L. Davis, executive assistant to the superintendent of Columbus schools; William Curtiss, Mrs. C. Staltmiller and Mrs. William M. Thornton, residents of the Franklin Park area.

A Great Adventure Starts

Today we join the thousands of mothers and dads all over the nation who realize how fast the little ones grow up, as off to school they go.

It is a great adventure ahead as they start out to explora he field of learning. In most cases their knowledge at age six is far beyond that of ours at the same age. They have already learned so much and there is so much more they will learn.

The road ahead is an important one and we pray that those who receive them will be teachers and not just baby sitters.

Responsibility for the development of these little ones in the years ahead is a great one and surely there are real satisfying rewards for the dedicated teacher.

But the responsibility for the development of our young men and women does not rest with the teacher alone. Whatever success may come their way will also be in direct proportion to the interest of the parent.

Many a man and woman sending that little one off to school for the first time today is likewise embarking on a great adventure as they face new and greater responsibilities. They will grow together.

Traffic Controls Accepted

East Livingston-av will have some compromise traffic controls for an improved 3.25-mile stretch.

Parents and school officials have accepted Traffic Engineer John L. Gallagher's plans for the four-lane street. The compromises have been ratified at a meeting of the City Traffic Commission held Aug. 28.

A pushbutton-operated traffic signal will be installed at Yearling-rd and a school flasher signal will be placed at Elderwood-av for Pinecrest and St. Phillip the Apostle schools.

A pushbutton traffic signal will be placed midway between Zettler-rd and Waverly-st for Johnson Junior High School and Bishop Hartley High School.

Further action for the stretch included plans for restricted parking during peak traffic hours on both sides between James and Woodcrest-rds.

Representatives from each school suggested more traffic signals for Livingston-av or plan of the signals at different intersections.

They agreed that Gallagher's plan should be tried and could be adjusted after the opening of the schools.

Cuban Teenager Now Living In Whitehall

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.

With $60 worth of English, a Cuban teenager was launched on a new life in America last week, thanks to some giant-sized generosity and love by a young Whitehall couple.

Joan and Bill Teague, 4472 St. Ann-ln, have "adopted" a 15-year-old Cuban lad, Alberto Denis Hernandez, through the Catholic Welfare Bureau.

Young Alberto began his freshman year of high school this week at Bishop Hartley. The boy's quick mind and bright smile eliminate most of the problems of his adjustment. Language is the most serious obstacle, but even that has been reduced by the fact that the Teagues both studied Spanish in college.

"He's learning English very quickly," Bill said. "His father furnished him with $60 worth of English lessons in Cuba from a private tutor and this helped matters some. Actually, things are happening in reverse a little bit . . . he's teaching us Spanish."

Alberto is in this country mainly because his father decided that attending school in Cuba would be "unhealthy."

Last year, Cuba's Premier Fidel Castro began sending the cream of Cuban youth to Russia for schooling in the Communist doctrine.

Alberto was taken out of school two years ago because (1) he probably would have been sent to Russia since he is an above average student, and (2) because three-fourths of the day in Cuban schools, military men instruct the students in Castro's beliefs.

The boy's brother, Rafael, 29, came to this country with Alberto and is currently staying in Miami, Fla.

Perhaps the highlight of the boy's stay in America came last week when his new "father," Bill, took him to the Ohio State Fair.

Bill is a radio announcer with WBNS and was assigned to cover the visit of astronaut John Glenn to the fair. "Alberto walked up to him, tapped him on the back, smiled and shook his hand," Bill said. He talked about this for several days and wrote his father about his experience."

The fair brought out some more of Alberto's extrovert qualities. He struck up a conversation with a boy in the All-Ohio Boys' Band and got the out-of-towner to play chess with him. "I win, too," Alberto replied. It seems that his brother was an avid chess fan and taught the game to the boy.

'Suburbia Today' Presents The Good Life—At Home

Every article in the September issue of "Suburbia Today," which comes to paying subscribers in this week's edition of Eastern Review, covers some aspect of life at home. To begin with, you'll learn the secrets of the perfect cocktail party, gathered from hostesses, butlers, and inveterate party-goers. The pointers in "How to Have a Perfect Cocktail Party" range from how many people to invite; how much liquor to order, and how to remove the white-ringed stain from your best mahogany.

Then, C. Northcote Parkinson, author of "Parkinson's Law" and "In-Laws and Out-Laws," offers his plan to restore the suburban male to his rightful place as Head of the Household.

With school opening next week, another side of home-and-hearth living is homework. Teacher and author Frieda Van Atta asks "Should You Help Your Child With Homework?" and answers her own question with a resounding "Yes." She discusses how to tell when your child is having trouble at school and outlines the steps to follow when you tutor him at home.

"You Owe Your Dog An Education," says longtime trainer Willy Necker. In his article, he gives detailed instructions for teaching your pet to "heel," "sit," "stay," "come" and go "down"—useful for keeping him out of trouble with neighbors, range children, and the other dogs on the block.

READY AND WILLING

Navy Reservists Dispute Legend Of 'Don't Volunteer'

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.

I suppose the military phrase for it is: "Above and Beyond the Call of Duty" but officials in the recruiting department of the U.S. Navy Reserve Training Center on Sandusky-st refer to it as: "Ready and willing to get a job done well."

Those were the words of Chief Marvin Bigelow and echoed by Lt. Charles L. Cochran, who commented this week on the Reservists willingness to "volunteer" for important jobs in and around greater Columbus.

"Our biggest duty was the State Fair," the chief said. "We were really amazed at the amount of Reservists who turned out to give help with the fair."

Most immediate duty which will be handled by volunteers from the Reserve Center is controlling the expected 100,000 people at the Port Columbus Air Show on Sept. 9.

And, with the famed Blue Angels slated to perform at the show, 100,000 may be a conservative estimate.

At any rate, the Navy Reserves will be there. Some 50 men have already signed up to perform official duties during the show time.

There are no special rewards, either, for this work. It's strictly a donation, Lt. Cochran explained.

"Even considering this, we don't have much trouble getting volunteers," he said. "The men are eager to donate their time."

Besides this, Chief Bigelow added that the men take a definite interest in whatever program they happen to be "working." The chief pointed out how this was important since it kept the job from getting tiresome and "always remains a challenge."

Besides controlling crowds, the men act as recruiting officers, too. They're ready with the answers about the Reserve program and some make appointments for prospective recruits at the training center.

Recruiting here in Columbus has become a critical thing, the chief stated. Here, they have two divisions — one meeting on Tuesday night and the other on Wednesday.

"We'd like to have 225 in each division," Chief Bigelow theorized. "Right now, we have about 125 per."

On special duty jobs like those mentioned above, neatness is another important thing. The center representatives have to be in spic 'n' span order, said the chief, and must stay neat and maintain a military appearance.

With all these prerequisites, you wonder how they get any volunteers at all. But, they do — and in large numbers. The only explanation the chief could give was that "they're eager for a chance to do some good for their country."

Besides the fair and the air show, the men also work such functions as the Armed Forces Day at Lockbourne and are present at military funerals and other Naval ceremonies.

It's a big job, but they do it well, Chief Bigelow smiled.

Now, who was it that said "Don't volunteer for anything?" Probably just another old wives' tale.

Model Plane Folks Aided

Richard Lawwill, superintendent of parks and forestry for Columbus, assured model airplane enthusiasts this week that they weren't being forgotten.

A call to the Eastern Review this week by an unidentified model plane flyer reported that he "could find no satisfaction" as to who was responsible for the poor condition of a flying field on Hamilton-rd.

"The Recreation Department said that Parks and Forestry had charge of maintenance of the land while the Parks Department booted the blame back to recreation," the caller lamented.

Nick Barack, recreation department head, said that both departments had been given the responsibility of supplying flying areas within the city.

"We made Gowdy Field and Southview Park available," commented Barack, "while the Parks Department was to handle the sites on McKinley-av and Hamilton-rd."

Lawwill said that he would take care of the poor condition of the Hamilton-rd field which, the caller reported, was "full of rocks and unsuitable for plane flying."

According to the parks superintendent, "I looked at the situation and found it rougher than the dickens. There's no weeds there but the land was the location of an old dump that was filled in with rocky soil and the rocks have pushed to the top."

Lawwill added that he will try to find soil in the immediate area which will serve to completely resurface the area.

The land is clearly marked for model plane flying and Lawwill is confident that the resurfacing job will bring nothing but smiles to the airplane glue set.

MASS IMMUNIZATION SET

Polio Will Be Erased Here In Only 18 Hours

Polio will be erased in Franklin County this fall. It will take only 18 hours to do it.

Mass immunization by Sabin oral vaccine will be held from 11 a.m. until 5 p.m. on three Sundays — Sept. 30, Nov. 4, and Dec. 9. By nightfall on Dec. 9, polio will be wiped out.

It will, if all Franklin Countians over two months old drink the small cup of water containing two drops of harmless, tasteless Sabin vaccine on each of those Sundays.

There will be no trouble in obtaining the disease-killing liquid. A total of 114 Sabin stations will be set up in schools and other buildings all over Franklin County. A station will be within walking distance of nearly everyone.

It'll cost nearly nothing. A donation of 25 cents per persons will be asked. Those who can't afford to pay won't have to pay anything.

Dr. Richard L. Fulton, heading the SOS, — Sabin on Sunday — campaign here, stressed that everyone over two months old, including those who have been inoculated with Salk anti-polio shots, should take the Sabin vaccine.

That's because Salk shots — even though they prevent an individual from getting polio — still permit him to be a carrier of the disease. Even those of ad-

The Fabric Doctor

"Why did my dress shrink if it was drycleaned?"
Mrs. F.E.N.

Dear Mrs F E N:

You had your dress cleaned several times and it kept its shape. The last time you had it cleaned it shrank. Well, Mrs F.E.N., it wasn't because your cleaner used water to wash it. There are two possible reasons. One most girls don't like to hear or won't admit. The simple fact is we all are inclined to eat more calories than our activities burn. Our clothing doesn't change in size — we do!

The second reason is more likely in your case because the shrinkage was sudden. The fact is that most fabrics are produced under tension which leaves strains in the fabric. Unless the manufacturer pre-shrinks and fully stabilizes the fabric, relaxation shrinkage ultimately occurs.

In many cases sizings or special finishes hold a fabric in its stretched dimensions. Then use, wear, drycleaning and steaming remove the sizing or finish and the fabric returns to its original dimensions. Usually it takes several cleanings to wholly remove the sizing.

It wasn't your eating nor was your dress shrunken by your drycleaner. It was a return of the fabric to its normal size. The fault, if any can be pointed out, was in the failure of the manufacturer to fully pre-shrink the fabric. Make certain that the dresses you purchase are of fully preshrunk or stabilized fabrics. The cost is higher, but the investment is well worthwhile.

People Learn To Be Useful At Practical Nursing School

By MARTHA G. K. NEWTON

"Automation will never take your job," Miss Elizabeth Gurney, director of the Practical Nursing School of Columbus told a prospective student.

Training in practical nursing prepares the student for service in hospitals, clinics, physicians offices, private homes, public health nursing and juvenile diagnostic centers.

According to Miss Gurney, new scientific advancements are making additional demands of the medical profession. This has enlarged the entire field of nursing—and has given the practical nurse increased responsibility, too.

Who sponsors the School of Practical Nursing? It was started in 1953 by a united effort of the Columbus Board of Education, Columbus Hospital Federation, Central Ohio League for Nursing, and the United Appeal (at that time it was called the Community Fund). Today it is sponsored by the Board of Education with the cooperation of affiliating hospitals.

Since March, 1961, the school has been functioning in the old Broadview Elementary School, 1485 W. Fifth-av which has been completely remodeled. Before that it was located in the basement of nurses home, Mercy Hospital.

There are offices, classrooms, a growing library, a nutrition laboratory and a practice laboratory ward of eight beds. Instruments and other equipment used by nurses are neatly kept in glass cabinets.

"Mr. and Mrs. Chase" the manikins, are always in the ward awaiting the care of beginning students. The "Chase doll" is an adult size mechanical substitute for a human subject in the teaching techniques and procedures for the care and treatment of the patient.

The course in practical nursing covers a year of study. The first four months consist of class work at the school, including a few hours each week at a hospital. For the last eight months of the course, the students receive on-the-job hospital experience, dividing their time between the Columbus Children's Hospital and with University or Riverside Hospital, and a third location.

To be admitted to the school, an applicant must give evidence of good moral character and show a sincere interest in serving others. She must be in sound physical and mental health. She must provide a birth certificate and be between the ages of 18 and 50. A high school diploma is necessary for those between 18 and 25.

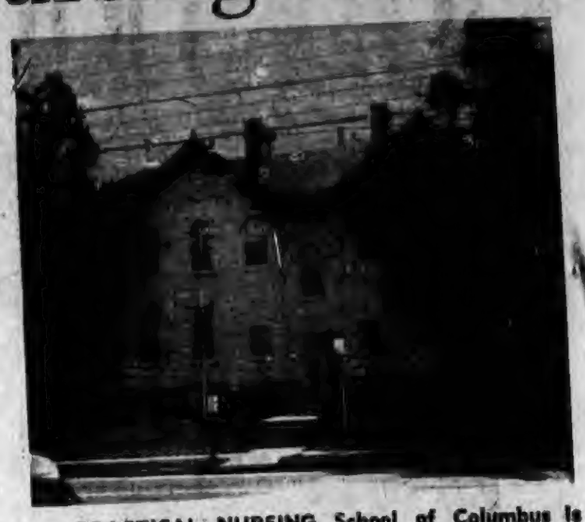
The application procedure includes a series of tests, a personal interview, a transcript of the candidate's high school credits and a physical examination. The applicant must also submit a photograph.

Upon completion of the course the graduate must pass the State Board examination in order to become a Licensed Practical Nurse (LPN).

How does the income of an LPN compare with that of a registered nurse? Generally, she can earn three-fourths the salary of a graduate nurse.

Differences in ages among the students creates no problems, according to Miss Gurney. There is a give-and-take situation. The more mature individual recognizes the aptitude of the young, while youth must necessarily acknowledge the wisdom of maturity.

Let's talk to some of these students to find out what promped them to enter the nursing field.



Mrs. C. W. Hefner, 47 years old and slim, is a mother of three children and a grandmother of two. She said she always wanted to be a doctor, but it was two expensive an ambition. "I decided on this profession now so as to get in under the age limit," she said.

Attractive, blue-eyed Karen A. Burke, 20, said: "I always wanted to be a nurse. I took the course to get the feel of nursing. Now I'm going to stay at it because I like working with people."

"I think I can do much to bring comfort to the ill besides the usual required duties." said Betty L. Swarmer, 18. "There are post graduate courses for practical nurses, and I may go to one of them sometime," said Betty.

(There are post graduate schools all over the country where the practical nurses can receive further training in operating techniques, obstetrics and pediatrics, rehabilitation, psychiatric, and in the care of eye and ear patients).

I'm going to work on the eleven o'clock night shift at one of the hospitals," said Mrs. Leroy Kennerly, 36. Mrs. Kennerly said she always wanted to be a nurse and took the training primarily so that she could take care of her family in case of illness. She and her husband have two children.

PRACTICAL NURSING School of Columbus is conducted by Columbus Board of Education at 1485 W. Fifth-av, in a building which was once Broadview Elementary School.

Mrs. Loran Loughran, 31, a 1961 graduate of the school, said: "Practical nursing is just what it implies. You learn what you use constantly. I am doing private duty and have all the work that I can handle, and more. I would highly recommend the course to anyone who has a desire to be a nurse."

Occasionally, a male student will register for the course in practical nursing. At present one of them who who has been registered operates a rest home. According to Miss Gurney, he said he couldn't expect his help to carry out orders of which he knew nothing. There is a definite field for the male nurse.

At Children's Hospital, students of practical nursing learn about prevention, treatment and control of children's diseases. They also learn about the general physical, mental and emotional makeup of a child, according to Miss Natalie Kress, nurse and teacher at the hospital. "In cases of extended recovery, such as polio, the child is prepared to take his place in society again," she said.

According to Loretta Davis, teacher of nursing at Riverside Hospital, the practical nursing student is taught bedside nursing and how to perform treatments and assist doctors. "The student is an important member of the nursing team," she said.

Mrs. John Hathaway and Mrs. Freda Thomas, who teach the practical nursing students at University Hospital, agree that they meet a definite need. They take their share of responsibility in the care of the patients assigned to them. Yet they work under the direction of a professional nurse. Frequent conferences are held so that they will understand individual patient's needs.

'Our graduates are really proud of the service they perform. They know they are really useful," said Miss Gurney.

A Hartley Headliner Report

Leftovers . . . by John McPeek

Civil War Charades Are Disgusting

What with being in the midst of the Civil War centennial, chauvinistic historians, writers and poets daily are deluging us with tomes and poems singing the glories of that infamous holocaust.

Perhaps I'm in a minority, but I'll be damned if I will contribute to the glorification of the Civil War.

McPeek

It was a stupid, barbaric, internecine slaughter of thousands — a bloody, senseless struggle, fought largely under false colors.

All wars are a result of man's stupidity, and in many instances, to gain freedom and dignity, man had no choice other than to fight.

But the Civil War was not one of them. It was a war that pitted neighbor against neighbor, brother against brother — and if the truth is recognized, slavery as a moral issue was not at cause.

The Civil War erupted when statecraft collapsed — a collapse brought on by the blind, greedy determination of the "slave power" to retain its economic death grip on the South — and not only to retain that power, but to expand it into opening territories of the West.

This "slave power," using state sovereignty as its banner, willingly, or so it appears, brought on the great national tragedy of a 100 years ago.

All historians are aware that at the beginning of the Civil War most people and leaders of the North had not desired to interfere with slavery, but circumstances had been too strong for them.

Even Lincoln had declared he meant to save the Union as best he could—by preserving slavery, by destroying it, or by destroying part and preserving part.

The abolition of slavery served only as a weapon to wipe out the feudal control imposed on the South with a one-crop economic system which benefited only a few.

If slavery had been the true moral cause of the Civil War, as many falsely paint in our history pages, then we could take pride in this centennial commemoration.

But it wasn't, and I won't permit myself to be duped by jingoistic ignoramuses who look upon war as one of man's higher forms of art.

Experienced Outdoorsmen Enjoy Fall

INSIDE ON THE Outdoors By ROD COCHRAN

With the passing of Labor Day, the summer season is officially drawing to a close. Vacations are over for the most part, and school is beginning. Fishing tackle and camping gear are stashed away somewhere, probably near a dry-docked boat in the garage or basement. It's all over for another year.

Over for the amateurs, that is. For experienced outdoor people one of the best seasons of all is just beginning. Not only hunters are getting the urge to tramp the fields and forests. But cooler weather is good for both fish and fishermen, and the best angling since last May is available. Campers and hikers enjoy a panorama of beauty during early autumn and state parks are uncrowded. Boating is at its best, with more dependable weather since the spring and summer shower seasons are over.

Fall is the only time when all outdoor sports are available, except swimming. When else can you combine a fishing-hunting-camping trip in ideal weather? When else can you launch your boat and navigate the state's lakes and streams under blue skies and white clouds, with no crowd at the launching ramp? When else can you hike or view nature's beauty without throngs carrying transistor radios? Early autumn is a season to savor.

It is true, of course, that fishing is good from now until freeze-up. As the water cools, bluegills will stop hitting on the surface, but will take slowly-fished wet flies. Live-bait anglers will find them deep, and watching a bobber dance on a hazy Indian summer day is a sport that I recommend.

Bass once again will hit a lure with authority through September and perhaps early October. But as the leaves fall you will also have to slow your fishing pass to catch bass. Some say that bass go on a feeding spree just prior to cold weather to store up energy for the winter. I have never been sold on this reasoning, for bass feed all winter and probably take in enough food to sustain their slowed activity. In any case, they do gulp in the calories and anglers should take advantage of it no matter what the reason.

For several years now fall has meant two things along Lake Erie — perch and small mouth bass. Mainly it has meant perch, and the good fishing started early this year. Fishermen on everything from row boats to sailing yachts drop anchor to get in on the perch bonanza. Party boat captain Elden Hales, 409-A E. Catawba-rd, Port Clinton, writes that excellent catches are being made and that many of the perch are big ones called jumbos.

Labor Day signals the coming of fall, it is true. But it means the beginning of a great outdoor season rather than the end.

Variety . . . by I. F. Howell

In this explosive and perilous age the people of this earth are confronted by individual and collective problems that seem almost insoluble. They seem to be turning for help more and more to things of mind and spirit.

No better guide for the future can be found than a re-examination of the past. There, if anywhere, we may discover values that we cannot afford to lose.

In the realms of mechanics, of spirit, of intellect, too many people have a pathological fear of being considered old-fashioned. There is nothing wrong about new things if they satisfy needs and don't violate legitimate laws of man and divine decrees of God and nature. But discovery of the new is based upon knowledge of the old. That is why we have education.

Always, and especially in this century, the struggle for power and prestige among earth's nations has dulled the sharp distinction between right and wrong. Expediency has replaced honesty in too many collective decisions about what to do or not to do. Necessity is the chief reason given for actions that often do not lead to satisfactory solutions of problems.

All this, we believe, is also true among individuals and families. Public moods reflect private, and the sum of individual qualities is the total of national if properly understood by national leaders.

So we think the new can be reconciled with the old. Why not rediscover the best of the past and use it as a foundation for the future?

It says here:

Too many have changed the Golden Rule to read, Do him before he does you.

Aim Your Life On Target Of Truth

I once heard about a young fellow who went about shooting a rifle at everything he saw. A hunter following him was amazed to discover that on fence posts, trees, buildings and so on bullseyes were painted. And in every instance the bullet holes were smackdab in the middle of the bullseye. He overtook the young gun-toter and expressed admiration for his exceptional ability to hit the bullseye. "How do you do it?" he asked, "Don't you ever miss?" "It's easy," the youth replied, "I just shoot and then I draw a ring around the bullet hole."

Rev. Bailey

Well! who couldn't hit the bullseye every time? But, who did he think he was kidding? To be sure, it fooled the following hunter for awhile, but eventually the truth came out.

There are probably a great number of us who follow this principle when it comes to something more important than shooting a gun at a fence post. Here is the person who does what he pleases and then draws a ring of righteousness around it. His moral practices are pretty much subject to his appetites. What he wants, he takes or gets; then he tries to figure out a way to make it look respectable. It's like the king who wanted to do certain things that were against the laws of his land. He went ahead and did them and forced the parliament to pass laws which made what he had done legal.

One founder of a religion believed in having as many wives as one could support. But, in the interest of his faith, he limited the number for any man to two wives. He had his two wives when one day he met a beautiful young girl with whom he fell madly in love. There were laws against divorce and the maximum number of wives was two. These he already had. But he worked it out so that the law was changed and he as the leader could have the special privilege of having four wives if he chose! Do what you want, he would say, and then draw the ring of respectability around it and make it legal.

This goes for the folks who think honesty is a relative thing. It varies from day to day and generation to generation, they say. After all, we must keep up-to-date and old-fashioned honesty may not be good enough for our modern day. Scale your standards to fit your desired practices, they assert.

Somehow, I get the idea that this is getting the cart before the horse! What is the purpose of a bullseye? I always had the idea it was a challenge to the gunner or the archer. This is the standard and we should seek to scale our performance to the center of the target where the bullet or the arrow should go.

And I cannot find any honest reason for moving away from the standards of Jesus as the points of reference for keeping one's life on target. How easy it is for us to succumb to the temptation to seek to bend His teachings to fit our practices! Let's try shooting at the target and avoid drawing rings around our bullet holes!

Technician Important Man Today

All of us depend more and more on electronics for communication, for entertainment, for control of our machines, for the countless civilian and military products which pour forth from our factories. Electronics has extended our horizons in the control of our environment, in the study of life's processes, in the study of diseases, in the exploration of the earth and of space. Through electronics we are literally reaching for the moon and the stars.

The growth of electronics in the past 20 years staggers the imagination. It is one of the largest industries in the United States, providing employment directly or indirectly for millions of people.

Midway Point

The technician takes his place in industry between the engineer and the skilled craftsman. He helps to create the practical product from the scientific ideas, discoveries, and designs of the engineer. He must possess the mechanical skills and practical know-how to apply the laws and principles of science to the job of developing these new products, services, methods, and processes. The technician deals with the practical application of established theory rather than with the principles themselves.

Unfortunately, not enough technicians are being trained to fill the needs of industry. Therefore, engineers are frequently called upon to do the job which is the technician's province. We are experiencing now a shortage of technicians rather than of engineers.

Shortage Exists

Why does this shortage of technicians exist? The answer lies partly in the fact that electronics technology has grown so rapidly. But equally important is the attitude toward the nature of a technician's training and toward his place in industry. Technician education is frequently looked upon as an inferior type of engineering training, as a second-class education, and the technician is viewed as a step above the laborer. These attitudes are as wrong as they are destructive.

The technician is an important and talented member of the technical team. His education is a first-class education, more specialized and intensive than the education of an engineer and directed toward a different goal. The technical institute curriculum is not identical to that of the first two years of the engineering school. The technician's education is complete in itself, preparing him for the requirements of the industry he is to serve and readying him to serve as an intelligent and active member of the community and the world in which he lives.

Officials Of Columbus Western Electric Announce Promotions

The promotions of Paul Zweier, 1413 Millerdale-rd, to assistant works manager, and Gerald A. Mitchell, 242 Sanbridge-ct, Worthington, to superintendent, manufacturing and development engineering, electronic switching systems, effective Sept. 1, 1962, were announced by Mr. J. D. Burlie, works manager of the Columbus Works of the Western Electric Co.

Zweier becomes an assistant administrative officer of the company with responsibility for all manufacturing and development engineering and for production, operating and inspection functions on electronic switching systems. Mitchell will assume responsibility for all engineering functions on electronic switching systems.

Patrick B. Lyons will continue as assistant works manager responsible for other engineering and production functions and Frank C. Hoppensteadt will continue as works comptroller.

Zweier

Mitchell

Zweier was graduated from Brooklyn College in 1940 with a B.A. degree in physical science. He holds an M.S. degree in industrial engineering from Stevens Institute on Technology and an M.B.A. degree from Northeastern University. He is currently working toward his Ph. D. at Ohio State University.

Starting with the company in 1942 as an assistant engineer in the former Radio Division, Bayonne, N.J., he held subsequent assignments in New York, North Carolina and New Jersey. He received promotions at the company's Kearny, N.J., location and was transferred to Columbus in 1957 as assistant superintendent, product engineering, and was promoted to superintendent, development engineering, in 1960 and as superintendent, development and operating, electronic switching systems, in January of this year.

Zweier is a member of the American Management Association, the American Institute of Industrial Engineers and Columbus Area Chamber of Commerce.

Mitchell was graduated from Northwest Missouri State College in 1939 with a B.S. degree in physics and mathematics and from the University of Missouri in 1941 with an M.A. degree in physics.

He was employed by the company in 1941 as an assistant engineer at the Hawthorne Works, Chicago, Ill., receiving promotions at that location to department chief and assistant superintendent. During 1955 Mitchell was on special assignment with the Bell Telephone Laboratories, Whippany, N.J., where he contributed to the development of the electronic switching systems which successfully completed trials in Morris, Ill., early this year.

In 1960 he was transferred to the Columbus Works, continuing work on the electronic switching systems.

Mitchell, who holds 14 U.S. patents, was instrumental in designing the model of the wire spring relay used extensively in electromechanical switching and in establishing the first large-scale computer application in the company.

Library Language Records Loaned Just Like Books

If you have the burning desire and the necessary "stick-to-itiveness," learning a language with the aid of materials borrowed from the Columbus Public Library is a snap.

At the main library you will find grammar textbooks and dictionaries in practically any language that might interest you. Later on, when you have achieved a certain mastery of the language, you may wish to borrow books of fiction and non-fiction in that language. The library's collection of French and German books is wide and far-ranging. Representative works are also available in Spanish, Italian, Latin, Russian, Polish and other languages.

Most recent addition to the self-teaching language records collection is a series of 30 language-familiarization albums prepared by Educational Services of Washington, D.C., for the Department of Defense in support of the "People to People" program.

Each album in the series consists of two 12-inch recordings and a completed manual of the text containing pronounciation hints.

Languages in the series include: Amharic (Ethiopia), Arabic, Bangali, Cambodian, Danish, Dutch, French, German, Greek, Hausa (Northern Nigeria), Modern Hebrew, Hindi, Italian, Indonesian, Japanese, Korean, Kurdish, Lao, Mandarin Chinese, Norwegian, Persian, Portugese (Brazilian), Russian, Serbo-Croatian, Spanish, Swahili (east Africa), Tagalog, Thai, Turkish, Vietnamese.

Add the above to the following language course recording already in the library collection of recordings that are loaned just like books to adult cardholders, and you can see where the "Tower of Babel" comes in:

Self-teaching courses in English for the foreign-born in the language collection are available for persons speaking French, German, Hungarian, Italian, Spanish and Portugese.

'White Oaks' New Name Of Scout District

"White Oaks" is the new name given to the South East District of Boy Scouts, according to Paul Love, district executive.

"The area needed a name more fitting than a compass direction," according to Love.

White Oaks was chosen because this variety of tree is the most common of the 13 species of pioneer oaks in this region. It is the easiest of oaks to identify.

As hardwood timber, the white oak is sought for its strength, durability and beauty. To the fur industry, the bark, and twigs are a main source of tannin. To the woodsman, the tannin extract brings relief from ivy poisoning or insect bites.

"Since the white oak possesses so many unique qualities and is the dominant original pioneer tree to this particular area, it seems fitting and proper that this district adopt it as a name," explained Love.

"The symbolism of the white oak parallels that of the Boy Scouts," he continued. "For example, the strength of the oak and 'physically strong.'

Bondaries of the district are the Pennsylvania and B and O Railroad tracks on the north, Alum Creek, west and south, and Fairfield and Licking county lines on the east, according to Ed Davis, district chairman.

Safety Director Explains The Rules Of The Road To All

With the start of the school year Safety Director John Gotherman of Reynoldsburg has has requested the cooperaion of all motorists, parents and students in making this a safe school year by observing these rules:

TO MOTORISTS

1. Obey all speed laws, as well as other traffic laws, in and near school areas, with particular zeal.
2. Watch out for the "new" pupil who is a beginner at crossing intersections. Give him the benafit of the doubt.
3. Keep your eyes on the road and adjoining sidewalk areas.
4. Watch for and obey signals given by school patrol boys and girls. Help them do their jobs by cooperating.
5. Watch out for young bike riders and allow for an extra margin of safety.
6. Don't park too close to school intersections and cross walks. Your auto may obstruct the view of children crossing as well as other motorists.
7. Obey school bus laws by stopping while buses are loading and unloading.
8. Don't park in regular school bus loading zones. By doing so you may require children to enter and leave the buses while they are in the street rather than at the curb.

TO PARENTS

1. Instruct your children, both "beginners" and "old hands" on safe walking and intersection crossing rules.
2. Urge your children to cooperate with and obey school patrol boys and girls. High schoolers should be included when they pass through elementary school crossings.
3. Don't drive your children to school unnecessarily, since the added traffic increases hazards at school crossings and entrances.
4. Don't allow kindergarten, first and second graders to ride their bikes to school. Experience shows that they are still too young to handle street traffic safely.
5. Secure a copy of the "Bike Rider's Manual" and explain its contents to all your bike riders.
6. If you must drive your children to school, avoid the busiest school crossings; don't block the view by parking or unloading too near school crossings or entrances; and avoid stopping in bus loading zones.

TO STUDENTS

1. Listen to your parents and teachers concerning safe walking, street crossing, and bicycle rules.
2. Obey the school patrol boys and girls and police officers. They are your friends.
3. Watch out for careless drivers. Take care of yourself and don't expect drivers to take care of you.
4. Don't "horse around" on the way to and from school.
5. Ask your parent or teacher for a copy of the "Bike Rider's Manual," then ask your mom or dad to go over it with you.
6. Cross only at marked crossings after looking all ways for autos.
7. Learn how and obey all traffic lights and signals.
8. Ask questions of your parents or teachers if you don't understand traffic or safety rules.
9. Watch out for and help younger children who are going your way.

EAST SCHOOLS TO BE ON TV

Jaycees' 2nd 'Coffee Stop' Serves 152

The Reynoldsburg Jaycees reported their "Coffee Stop," conducted Labor Day Night drew 152 people between 6 p.m. and midnight, an increase of about 30 per cent over last year.

Twenty Jaycees and their wives served coffee and pop to motorists from four states including Ohio. One project director, Chuck Dooley, reported some of the motorists had stopped at last year's "Coffee Stop," while others indicated they had seen the stop but had gone on.

Larger signs, located further away from the "Coffee Stop" location in the Ohio Federal parking lot was credited with drawing more motorists this year. Jim Thompson, project director with Dooley, indicated everyone expressed gratitude for the work being done by the Jaycee clubs across the nation by providing holiday travelers with a coffee break in driving.

Local Firm Low Bidder On Rt. 40

The contract for the resurfacing of U.S. Rt. 40 in New Rome and Prairie Township apparently will be awarded to the Complete General Construction Co. of Columbus.

The company bid $116,837, which is $12,437 over the State Highway Department's estimate of the cost.

The resurfacing would begin approximately 450 feet west of the intersection of Rome-Hilliard-rd and U.S. 40 and go, at intervals, to approximately 330 feet east of Wilson-rd.

'Tame' Wolf Heads For Tall Timber

After announcing the planned adoption of a "tame timber wolf" by Blacklick Woods for display in its zoo, the Columbus Metropolitan Parks Board has retracted its statement.

According to the board bulletin the Alaska Fish and Game Department was supposed to fly a three-year-old male wolf to the Blacklick Woods, one of the species once native in Ohio.

Cancellation came with this note — had to cancel arrangements due to unforseen complications. What the note didn't reveal was whether a ranger got bit by the "tame" animal, or the wolf heard about the local building boom and was afraid he might be uprooted in a short time, or wasn't coming back to Ohio for the same reason all his relatives left — people shot them.

Invite Public To Finish Limerick To Combat Litter

The Columbus Division of Parks and Forestry is urging the public to help with its war against litter. The division is sponsoring a limerick contest and winning entries will be posted in the parks.

There are no prizes or awards other than your line used on the posters.

"Before you scatter that litter,
There's a very good point to consider.
Clean up that trash!
Save yourself cash!

Send completed limericks to the park office, 1826 Franklin Park S., Columbus 5. Phone, CL. 2-2115.

"Statistics show that it costs the American people thousands of dollars each year to clean up litter", Lawwill said.

"Many costly man-hours are spent in collecting and disposing of the paper, cans, bottles, and garbage dumped on public lands".

Indian Trails First Pioneer Highways

When Columbus became the capital in 1812, there was no road worthy of the name in any direction.

And when Franklinton was named seat of government for the newly-formed Franklin County in 1803, overland ways into the settlement were tedious and perilous trails through the forest, broken first by animals and later followed by Indians.

The establishment of roads as the necessity of travel and trade was the immediate concern, and a number were soon located. Trees were felled and, more or less, stumps were removed.

The humble beginnings of the county's highway system came close on the heels of the location of Franklin County in 1803.

First was the road to Lancaster, crossing the Scioto at "Old Ford" and passing through the woods to intercept what is now Chillicothe rd. Surveyed by Joseph Vance, this road continued to be used until Columbus was laid out.

The road from the north end of Gift-st to Newark became the second road. Samuel Smith was its surveyor.

Another, surveyed by Capt. John Blair, started at Franklinton's public square at Broad and Sandusky-sts and stretched to Springfield.

Rev. James Kilbourne was among petitioners in 1804 to request a road from Franklinton to Worthington.

Joseph Vance was commissioned to survey this project, and Kilbourne was named, at the same time, to survey a crossroad from the thoroughfare to Newark into Worthington.

At their best these roads were difficult, filled with large holes and stumps. And after heavy rains, they became virtually seas of mud.

A network of turnpikes, mostly built or planned by incorporated companies as private enterprises and operated as toll roads, was started in 1816, and would eventually stretch in all directions.

FIRST TURNPIKE

Construction of the first turnpike from Columbus to Newark, was authorized and the Franklinton Turnpike Co. organized under an act passed Dec. 2, 1816.

The company included Lucas Sullivant, James Johnston, John Kerr, Lemuel Rose, Timothy Spelman, David Moore, John J. Brice, William Taylor, Zachariah Davis, William W. Gault, Stephen McDoughal, Lyne Starling, Joseph Vance and Joseph Miller.

Joseph Vance and Abraham Pickens were named commissioners for a road from Jacksonville to Columbus the following year.

Legislation for a state road from Columbus to the north boundary of Clinton Township was enacted in 1820.

A road crossing the Scioto near the west end of Gay-st, wound west, through the settlements on Big Darby and Gahanna, and crossed Alum and Big Darby Creeks by toll bridges built by David Pugh.

SANDUSKY TURNPIKE

Plans for construction of the first connection between Columbus and Lake Erie were authorized, and the Columbus and Sandusky Turnpike Co. incorporated by the General Assembly Jan. 31, 1826.

The company was formed by John Kilbourne, Abram I. McDowell, Henry Brown, William Neil, Orange Johnson, Orris Parrish and Robert Brotherson of Franklin County, and others of Delaware, Bucyrus and Sandusky.

With an eye towards speeding mail service and possible use of the road by the military, the government gave Ohio, for use of the company to aid in construction of the road, nearly 32,000 acres along the highway. These lands were to be sold for financial assistance.

Nearly eight years in the building, the 106-mile-road was opened in the fall of 1834, constructed at a cost of $74,376, or $701 a mile.

Built entirely of earth, with a graded arch in the center, the turnpike became nearly impassable with mud after heavy rains.

The public was loud in its dissatisfaction, and repeatedly tore down toll gates that were immediately replaced.

The turnpike company stood firm on its claim that the road's earth construction was in keeping with the conditions of the charter. However others claimed that gravel, stone or wood had been specified.

Finally, nine years after the turnpike was opened, the company's charter was repealed by the General Assembly in 1843.

A commission was appointed to build a state road on the bed of the turnpike and this was opened as a public highway in 1845.

Other turnpikes, all converging on Columbus were constructed as private enterprises until 1845.

The original toll roads, one by one, were purchased by the county, and the cost assessed against owners of adjoining lands. The last toll road disappeared about 1892.

Franklinton Reaches Peak Of Prosperity In 1812 War

The settlement at the fork of the Scioto, as center of military activity in the area as well as the east of county — well as the seat of county government, reached its pinnacle during the War of 1812.

Headquarters of the Second Army under Gen. Harrison was at Franklinton. Thousands of troops were constantly being moved through the town, and sometimes as many as 3000 would be encamped there.

Currency, so scarce in the pioneer settlement, became plentiful. Military agents in Franklinton purchased huge quantities of supplies for the troops, paying top prices.

But the prosperity bubble was to burst at war's end, and Franklinton never recovered from the staggering blow to its economy. The town steadily declined until, in 1824, the county seat was moved across the Scioto to Columbus.

Prices of livestock, pork and flour were inflated many fold during the war years. The price of oats and corn rose from 50 cents to $1 a bushel, and hay from $10 to $20 a ton.

Many of the settlers were able to pay for their homes from the sale of supplies and refreshments to the soldiers.

In the depression that followed the war, commodities and real estate plunged to a new low.

Money became scarce and unemployment was widespread. Families once considered wealthy were reduced to poverty.

Alexander McLaughlin, one of Columbus' four proprietors and considered the wealthiest man in the state, went bankrupt during the depression.

Another proprietor, James Johnston, also failed, as well as many other landowners in Columbus.

Their lots were all offered at public sale by the sheriff or US marshal, but money was scarce and the land would not sell at the required two-thirds of its appraised value.

They were re-appraised and offered for sale again and again, until choice lots around the capital square that had brought $300 a few years earlier, went for $10 or $20. Some even sold for as little as $7.

The general depression was made worse when Starling's title to the half-section on which Columbus was partly located was questioned in 1822 and 1823.

Heirs of the land's original owner challenged the legality of Starling's purchase, and ejectment suits were filed in the Supreme Court of Ohio and in the United States Circuit Court against owners of the most valuable lots in the tract.

Starling had guaranteed the titles to purchasers of the lots, and so defended the suits.

The final decision in Starling's favor was made in 1816.

A claim disputing the title of Kerr and McLaughlin to their half-section followed, and this was settled in 1827.

Lyne Starling was the only one of Columbus' original four proprietors to survive the depression with his large fortune intact.

Johnston, who failed, moved to Pittsburgh where he died in 1842 without recovering his prosperity.

Chief 'Caldwell' Played Big Role In Ohio History

The courageous and noted Chief Sauganash, or Billy Caldwell as he was most widely known, lived for short intervals with other Indians of Franklin County and makes a frequent appearance in histories of the county.

Believed to be the son of William Caldwell, a British officer, and a Ptowatomi woman, he studied with the priests at Detriot and spoke several Indian languages as well as fluent English and French.

He was Tecumseh's interpretor for six years, and it is thought that Caldwell encouraged Tecumseh and the Prophet at Greenville in 1807.

Although opposed to the advance of white settlers, historians are of the opinion that he did not believe in cruelty. It is certain that he prevented the death of several at Fort Dearborn (Chicago) when he arrived there the day after the massacre of Aug. 15, 1812.

Caldwell was in the British-Indian Department until 1820, and during that time declared his allegiance to the United States.

His frame house, built for him by the government in 1828 just north of the Chicago River, was probably the first of its kind in the Chicago region.

A man of high intelligence and exceptional abilities, Caldwell was respected by his white neighbors. He died Sept. 28, 1841.

High Flying 'Blue Angels' Headline Sunday Air Show

For those who have trouble keeping their stomarchs in the right place during a take-off, it is somewhat incredible to think anyone would willfully turn a plane upside down, tilt it on its side and do a loop-de-loop. Yet that is precisely what the "air-crobats" coming to Columbus next week plan to do — and furthermore they love it.

The high flying demonstrators will perform their air antics as part of the free admission Sesquicentennial Air Show to be held at Port Columbus on Sept. 9 at 1:30 p.m.

Headlining the three-hour air show are the Blue Angels, a Navy jet acrobatic team that executes rolls, loops, and other precision maneuvers at speeds of better than 600 miles per hour with wingtips barely five feet apart.

The group of pilots and fifty enlisted personnel is made up of regular navy or Marine Corps officers between the ages of 25 and 26. Their rigorous schedule as part of the "Blues" lasts for about two or three years before they return to the calmer fare of jet piloting with a squadron in either the Atlantic or Pacific Fleet.

The Navys other contribution to the Sunday show is the "Chuting Stars," a group of volunteer Naval Parachutists, who will demonstrate their accuracy at landing in small target areas.

Demonstrating their dual formations flying will be Harold Krier and Charles Hilliard; Hilliard will give a solo demonstration of light plane flying and his famous "Joe Snook" comedy-batics act. Krier will pilot a plane for an air walking act and he and Krier will demonstrate their amazing car to plane transfer.

Comedy highlights of the show will come from "Uncle Fudd" who is noted for such fantastic stunts that no other pilot dares to copy him. He banks his pint-size plane, seats himself backwards and flies upside down.

In addition to the air artistry, the show will also feature a helicopter demonstration, display of a jet engine, commercial and airline aircraft and antique and home-built planes for public inspection.

Planning for the Sesquicentennial air show began five months ago when civic and government leaders determined that the city should honor the various segments of the air industry, which has done so much to develop land-locked Columbus.

Mayor W. Ralston Westlake appointed an executive committee headed by W. H. Yahn, president of the Columbus division of North American Aviation to produce the show.

The sesqui-centennial show is free to the public with free parking. The 17th avenue entrance to the airport will be closed. There will be parking on both sides of E. Fifth and in the North American lots.

The official birth of the Columbus air age is July 8, 1929, when the first Port Columbus facilities were dedicated on the site picked by Charles Lindbergh. At 8:17 that morning a tri-motor plane, aptly named "The City of Columbus," took off with 10 passengers including the famed Amelia Earhart. Today seven major airlines serve Columbus. Among the famous fliers who have used the Port Columbus facilities are Charles Lindbergh; Eddie Rickenbacker, Douglas "Wrong Way" Corrigan and John Collins, who landed the first commercial plane at Port Columbus in 1929, and followed up 25 years later by landing the first helicopter to score a notable "double."

Symphony Holds Chorus Try-Outs

Evan Whallon, music director for the Columbus Symphony chorus, announces that audtions for the chorus will be held on Sunday, Sept. 9, from 2 to 5 p.m.

The Columbus Symphony has scheduled three choral performances at the Veterans Memorial this year. The first performance will be William Walton's Balshazzar's Feast on Wednesday, Dec. 5, 1962.

To obtain more information concerning singing with the chorus, contact Wilbur Walters, administrative director of the chorus, at HU. 6-3626, between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. or evenings at 885-5630.

She's Just Plain Funny— With Or Without A Script

It's hard to tell who's laughing the loudest — the audience or the cast—in the current Kenley show "Wildcat."

The reason for the hilarity on both sides of the footlights is star Martha Raye who does as much ad-lib clowning as she can get away with. The result is that the cast can hardly keep a straight face and the audience gets a double dose of one of the funniest ladies to grace a stage.

The story of "Wildcat" needs all the help it can get. It is the rather weak tale of a brash lady prospector (Miss Raye) whose sheer determination bags her a gusher as well as a man. Miss Raye saves the show with her natural talent for hamming it up.

BEVERLY

The Kenley cast makes the most of their roles. Don Potter is uproariously funny as Sookie, the "dirty old man," who sells "Wildcat" (Miss Raye) the oil well land; Alice Nunn steals a few scenes with her portrayal of the Countess, "Wildcat's" friend, and Robert Gallagher is a strong male lead as the man that gets caught.

None of the tunes from the show have become popular music; yet, when Miss Raye and Sookie sing "What Takes My Fancy" or when star Raye and the Countess double up on "Dancing on My Tippy Toes," they are as entertaining as any show songs can be.

The show remains Miss Raye's personal triumph. She is just a funny woman —her gestures, her speech, her singing—she can even get a laugh by standing still.

Twin Jet Trainer Tested At NAA

The first flight of the twin-engine version of the T2J Buckeye jet trainer, made last week at North American Aviation's Columbus Division, was termed "a complete success."

George W. Hoskins, chief test pilot at the division, made the initial flight. A group of Naval officers from Washington, D. C., Pensacola, Fla., and Meridian, Miss., were there to observe.

Two T2J-2s are to be tested, demonstrated and evaluated under a $3,323,091 modification contract awarded last January by the Bureau of Naval Weapons.

Park Space Available For Autumn Activities

"The cool, bright days of autumn are when park-going is at its best," according to Ken Byers, 30-year park [illegible].

State parks are less crowded after Labor Day. Fishermen, campers, picnickers, hikers and boaters have plenty of space for their sports.

The cool water and air bring an end to swimming and water skiing. Fish begin to hit again with a change of seasons, and anglers may enjoy some of the best sport of the year in quiet and solitude.

Lines of campers have disappeared and a multitude of campsites are available to those seeking them. Space and privacy, the two factors that most campers want, are available. Fall campers have a choice of sites, a luxury unknown to mid-summer throngs.

Picnic tables are vacant for the most part, except for chipmunks cleaning up fallen acorns from their tops.

"Autumn is a beautiful season," says Byers. "Fall is when we do most of our camping and boating. Summer's heat and insects are gone. The parks are cloaked in beauty and we have the chance to enjoy it."

Byers reported that foliage may turn color early this year, and that he has already seen a maple tree with turning leaves.

Class A campgrounds will remain open until Oct. 21. All other state camping areas remain open all winter for those who want to brave the elements.

Evening School Registration Open At Capital

Registration for Capital University evening school, for which college credits are offered, will take place Sept. 6, 13 and 15, according to Earl C. Metz, director.

Courses are offered in the educational field, English, fine arts, history, physical education, psychology, religion, sociology and speech.

High school and previous college transcripts and admission forms must be filed before Sept. 8. Entrance tests are scheduled for Sept. 7 and 8 at 8:20 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at Lehmann Hall.

All courses are held for approximately one and one-half hours one evening a week and begin the week of Sept. 17.

Registration hours Sept. 6 and 13 are from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. and from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Hours Sept. 15 will be from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m.

Further information concerning admission requirements, tuition and fees may be obtained by contacting Professor Metz, BE. 5-8611, Ext. 10.

THE RAZORS go out the window when the old fellows take over Camp Alfred L. Willson for eight days. Pictured here are four typical "portraits" with the hairs on the chinney-chin-chin shown. These men are, from left, W. J. Kinnell, Lou Berliner, John Bell and L. M. Levin. All of the men are mainstays at the camp. Kinnell is an 11-year veteran, 25 years for Berliner, 25 for Bell and 15 for Levin.

CAMP ALFRED L. WILLSON:

Where Men Become Boys For Eight Days

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.

To that phrase about little boys being made out of "snakes and snails and puppy dog tails" add:

"Wise-cracks and sore backs and cigarette packs."

The some 175 businessmen-turned woodsmen who attended the Alfred L. Willson camp last week near Bellefontaine will verify it . . . it sums up eight days of fun in the sun.

Better yet, it's a chance to forget the regular 9 to 5 doldrums at the office and, instead, play softball, eat, swim, eat, talk, eat, joke and relax.

Any of the campers with any sand in them at all threw away their razors and really rough it (in style) for the eight-day stay.

The camp, itself, was started in 1919 and, since then, it has become the big, bright spot in the lives of local businessmen. As one camper commented, "We have already started to look forward to the 1963 Men's Camp... It's something you look forward to for 51 weeks each year."

That mention of "local businessmen" in the above paragraph isn't exactly accurate. The camp draws heavily from the greater Columbus area but a large number of men come from as far away as Huntington, W. Va. and Peoria, Ill.

A usual day for them goes something like this (quoting from the camp's newspaper, the "Mac-O-Cheese"):

"7:30 a.m., out of the sack; 7:45, slimnastics and dip; 8, first call to breakfast; 8:15, colors and chow; 9, volleyball, sports, tournaments; 10, swim; 11, quiet hour and first call to dinner at noon.

12:15 p.m., mess call (dinner); 1:30, second ball game; 2:15, first ball game (you figure that one out); 3, swim call; 4, quiet hour; 5:15, first call to supper; 5:30, retreat, mess call, (supper).

If that schedule isn't tightly packed enough for them, they can consume free minutes with "goofy golf" (they don't use golf clubs or golf balls and space doesn't permit explaining it further), "jarts" (a new pitching game with plastic darts) or showing visitors the big, snapping turtle that's supposed to harbor near the swimming dock.

The turtle gag's a good one and after witnessing it you become a member of the "Turtle Club," which seemed to me little reward after feeling sure that a cloudburst erupted over your head. (Since this is sort've like a fraternalistic rite, it would be against the rules to give out any more details.)

The food? Well, it's tops, too. Plenty of the basics — corn, tomatoes and bread — with tastily-prepared main dishes that are guaranteed to give the men a reason to play volleyball to work off the farm-surplus consumption.

Best of all, perhaps, are the laughs. They're free and come fast and furious.

The conversations are loaded with enough material to keep a comedian stocked for many years. For example:

"Hey, Moose, what are the fundamentals of this bridge game?" Answer: "All I know is that the big cards take the little cards."

Try this:

"Wonder if we'll have this tent screened in next year?" Answer: "Heck, no. We won't even have a tent next year after they have the slum clearance."

One more . . . this one picked out of a conversation about a softball game:

"Did he get a single out of that hit?" Answer: "If he had a belt for his trousers, he would have had a double."

This and much more is all part of Camp Willson — almost a legend among men from 18 years old and up. So much of a legend that campers report they never say "goodbye." It's always, "We'll see you next year."

And, they probably will.

THESE ALFRED L. Willson Men's Camp members are waiting to take their places on the ball diamond for a daily game of softball under the beautiful skies that highlighted the stay this year. Physical activities are stressed for the men who, if they aren't worn out from the business world when they arrive, usually leave that way. But, they wouldn't have it any other way. As one businessman put it, "it really keeps you in shape."

Temple Tifereth Israel Students End Camp Stay

Nine students from the elementary and high school departments of Temple Tifereth Israel recently returned from eight weeks of summer study and recreation at three locations of Camp Ramah.

Camp Ramah is sponsored by the Teachers' Institute of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, the spiritual headquarters of the conservative movement in Judaism.

The camps, now situated in eight locations in the United States, Canada, Argentina and Israel, offer a program which combines Judaic study with camp recreation. During a typical day, a youngster would attend religious services, study (Hebrew literature, Bible, Talmud), swim, play ball, hike and participate in other activities.

Several members of the educational staff of the Temple filled educational and administrative functions at Camps Ramah.

The campers were: Jack, son of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Roth; Stanley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Reichgott; Gregg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Margulies; Larry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Al Solove; David, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Swedlow; Robert, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Kauffman; Jeffrey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Schneider; and Meryll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Levine. Steven, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Stellman, attended the Mador, or counselor training program.

Staff members included Saul Wachs, Barbara Wachs, Carole Stein Berkowitz, Susan Ross, Debbie Zelizer and David Zisenwine.

Religious Group Has Radio Show

Christian Science is presenting a radio series entitled "The Bible Speaks To You" and may be heard locally on WBNS each Sunday at 5:45 p.m.

Cuban—

Some of the pants furnished by the Catholic Welfare Bureau were about six inches too short. Bill figured he'd have to take them to a tailor to be altered. About an hour later Alberto came from his room with his pants — all cut, sewn and cuffed, just like an expert would do.

Sniffing from a slight cold the Cuban lad explained that American coffee was too weak. They drink it much stronger in his homeland and even the American's "43 Beans" don't produce enough "body" for him.

Gum's a big favorite with him, though. He chews it indiscriminately. Likes baseball, too, and has built up quite a relationship with the Teagues' cat. A neighbor of Alberto's in Cuba had a kitten and he enjoyed its companionship.

Adjusting to American food was a bit strange for him. He asked the Teagues if they had any green bananas he could fry. He isn't particularly keen on food here.

But, he wouldn't trade this country for all the coffee or green bananas in his native Cuba. America has made a big impression on him and the fact that his stay in this country is for an indefinite period doesn't bother him in the least.

And, quite probably America feels just about the same way about him and the 10 other Cuban youngsters who were brought here recently.

Since Alberto might not be able to read this story easily, here's a message from residents here that he'll surely understand:

Bienvenido a Columbus, Alberto!

Virginia Dare, first English baby born in the American colonies, was born in Virginia on Sept. 8, 1587.

POLIO WILL BE ELIMINATED—

vanced years, normally too old to get polio, can still be a carrier. So they too should take the Sabin vaccine.

Dr. Fulton also emphasized that everyone must take one dose of the vaccine on each of the three Sundays. That's because there are three different kinds of polio. The first dose will immunize against Type 1 polio — the most common kind. The second dose will protect against Type 3 polio — the second most common kind. The final dose will protect against Type 2 polio — not so common but still a threat.

Sabin vaccine, Dr. Fulton stressed, is absolutely harmless. It has no bad effects whatsoever, even if the individual being inoculated has some disease or condition. But Sabin vaccine does protect against polio.

Some 10,000 volunteer workers are being massed to handle arrangements for SOS in Columbus. They'll make it easy for everyone to take the vaccine.

It is predicted by Dr. Justin Andrews of the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases that, within five years, perhaps sooner, you can hope for a vaccine or vaccines to prevent the common cold.

Going away to SCHOOL
At this time of the year, all over our nation, boys and girls are leaving home to attend the school of their choice. Many, for the first time in their lives, will be away from home and their home church. They should be encouraged to, immediately, seek a church nearby where they may continue to worship the Lord, and have the companionship of friends with similar outlooks on life and God.
ATTEND CHURCH
IN YOUR NEW COMMUNITY
The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Inexperience Cuts '62 Warrior Hopes

By Jack Wittenmeier

That old slogan about all good things coming to an end could be the calling card Eastmoor coach Bob Stuart is using these days. Last season at this time Stuart's Warriors were loaded with enough talent to turn Buckeye coach Woody Hayes a little green with envy.

But the story is a little different this season as Eastmoor has a bare six lettermen returning to pick up where last year's Warrior eleven left off—smack dab on the top of the City League standings with a clean 10-0 slate.

"WE JUST lost too many good boys. It's as simple as that," was the way Stuart put it. "Inexperience will be a big weakness. I guess you could say we'll be using a rebuilding program this season."

And lose the boys Eastmoor did. Such outstanding Warriors as quarterback Frank Stavroff and fullback Jim Makar have departed via the graduation route. Stavroff has picked Indiana for college and Makar will be carrying the mail for Capital's Purple and White this season. Stuart's second team fullback and one of the halfbacks moved to further cut into Eastmoor's backfield talent.

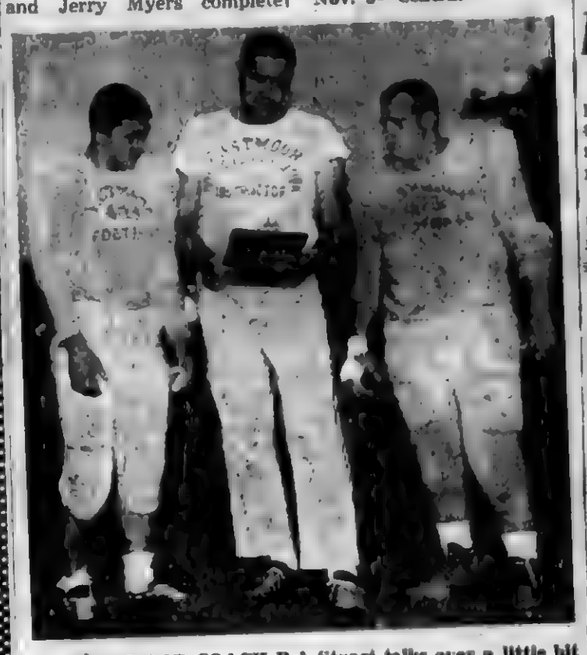
All in all, the Warriors lost three-fourths of their '61 starting backfield with only co-captain halfback Dean Ishida returning to add experience to the Eastmoor running attack.

"OUR BACKFIELD speed is not good this year," Stuart said. But the situation on the Warrior line is a bit better with an average weight of 175 pounds for Stuart's starting offensive seven. One of the bulwarks in the Warrior line will be co-captain tackle Frank Shannon, who comes close to touching the 200-pound mark on the locker room scales.

Ends John Koetz and Paul Naumoff, tackle Mike Andrew and Jerry Myers complete Eastmoor's list of returning lettermen.

Eastmoor could be hurting this season in the defensive part of the game also. Stuart pointed out that his Warriors looked weak defensively in a recent scrimmage with West's Cowboys.

THE WARRIORS jump right into City League competition opening night, Sept. 7, at North, whom Stuart tabs as the best in the league this season. The Eastmoor coach also figured West to be a contender for the City laurels with Linden's Panthers rating an 'improved' tag.



Helping Stuart to work his '62 squad of 85 candidates into a football machine are Bill 'Red' Courtney and Marsh Moobrey.

Here is the Eastmoor 1962 football schedule:

Sept. 7—at North
Sept. 14—at Whitehall
Sept. 21—Linden
Sept. 28—at Walnut Ridge
Oct. 5—East
Oct. 12—Marion-Franklin
Oct. 19—at Lancaster
Oct. 26—at South
Nov. 2—Whetstone
Nov. 9—Central

IF EASTMOOR OPENED its '62 season tonight, these seven gridders would hold down the starting positions on the Warrior line. Left to right are: end John Koetz, tackle Mike Andrews, guard Andy Powell, center Jim Simpson, guard Bob Schleppi, tackle Frank Shannon and end Paul Naumoff. Of the seven probable starters, Koetz, Andrews, Shannon and Naumoff are returning lettermen.

Big League Memo--- Ballplayers Restless

Recently in St. Louis a group of angry Pittsburgh ballplayers carried a grievance to the front office and demanded that their terms be met. The problem centered around a day-night doubleheader, hurriedly scheduled as the result of a rain-out the night before.

The storm center of the matter rested on the fact that the Pirates would have to play an additional twin-bill the following afternoon. Pirate player spokesman Bob Friend insisted that the management didn't have the right to do such a thing.

CARDINAL BUSINESS manager Art Routzing, considering the dollar and cents angle of the problem, quite tactlessly answered, "We have the right to schedule the game and the players don't have anything to say in the case."

Well, that did it! Friend's response was a little firmer. "We hope it doesn't come to a strike or a walkout. The players want to make a stand on this issue. We sit down every spring and they say they will consult us but they don't."

To make a short story long, the front office finally won out and the day-night doubleheader went into the record books as scheduled. However, letting the imagination wander a bit and considering that biggest, little word 'if', let us suppose that the Pirates did walk out. Ever wonder what might happen if a major league ball club actually did walk out. Every wonder what might happen if a major league ball club actually did go on strike?

WE IMAGINE it would be confusing at first until Leo Durocher organized the United Ballplayers Union and Bo 'let's get a pool table in every dugout' Belinsky was named Director of Publicity.

Then each time the ballplayers would spot something detrimental to their interests, the turnstiles would stop and the lines of paying customers would be replaced by lines of picketing ballplayers. Of course, ground crews and concession vendors would walk out each time in sympathy.

But it might be a good thing at first. Retired and twilight muscle-man players like Ted Kluszewski and Steve Bilko could find employment as strike-breakers. Cincinnati pitcher-author Jim Brosnan might write the great American novel portraying the tragic first-baseman torn between his love for the game and his loyalty to the union. The Chicago Cubs would probably even have to name one manager for the entire season.

BUT TOO soon the novelty would wear off and everybody would begin complaining. Pro football's Washington Redskins might not be able to get into the capital's ballpark since the Senators schedule had been delayed over a month by Jim Piersall's demand for a congressional investigation of American League umpires.

And there would be repercussions in other quarters also. The bubble gum baseball card people would perhaps become bitter about having to run .240 hitters in with the Mantles' and Kalines' following the 'equal space' decision by the union. And the fans would start to kick up a fuss about the increased price for their grandstand ticket to bolster the players' strike fund.

The Florida Chamber of Commerce would go back to plugging oranges when the Yankees and Cardinals voted to make spring training a matter of 'personal integrity.' Players would grow out of shape and begin to lose their popularity. Long-established stars would go unmentioned in the audience of the Ed Sullivan Show.

THE IMAGE OF the clean-cut ballplayers would vanish from the American sports scene. Shaving cream sales would drop off sharply and America's teenagers would go back to 'using that greasy kid's stuff."

Well, it's only a thought. The Pirates did play the doubleheader and baseball's labor and management retained their peaceful co-existence, at least for the time being. Anyway, it couldn't happen— could it?

'Fearless' Predictions

Well, here we go again! Every year about this time, all sport wags roll up their sleeves, wade through piles of statistics and then proceed to make calculated guesses as to the outcome of the football games of the day. Here's how they look this opening week of action on the gridiron:

EAST at WALNUT RIDGE—Inexperience hurts new City League entry against veteran-loaded Tigers. East.

EASTMOOR at NORTH—Defending Warrior champs lock horns with top CL prospect in circuit's top game. Nod to North.

AQUINAS at SOUTH—Bulldogs move through Terrier line. South.

ST. CHARLES at GREENFIELD McCLAIN—Cardinals travel for opening game win. St. Charles.

Depth Lack Hurts Bexley Title Plans

A lack of depth is the major difficulty facing Ben Tenwalde, Bexley football coach, as he prepares his '62 Lion gridders for their opening night kickoff.

Bexley, which finished in a tie for sixth place in the Central Buckeye League last season with a 2-8 record, has 10 lettermen back in a squad that totals 75, including freshmen.

"IT'S GOING to be difficult to two-platoon," Tenwalde said, referring to his lack of experienced personnel this year. "Too many of our starting eleven will have to play on the defensive team. They're good boys but if we're hit by injuries we'll be hurting both on offense and defense."

The Lion backfield will be one of Tenwalde's strengths, despite the fact that only one letterman is back to lead the Lion scoring machine.

When the Bexley club has possession of the football, Tenwalde will be counting on co-captain fullback Rick Mauger and right halfback Rick Harbold to do most of the Lion running. The Bexley mentor admitted that he will be depending a lot on backfield speed to carry his ball club through their nine-game schedule.

THE LION line will not be especially large by Central Buckeye League standards, averaging slightly over 170 pounds. Co-captain John Schmidt will add strength to the guard position on the forward wall with his previous game experience.

Tenwalde admitted that his gridders looked pretty good in the Lion's scrimmage with Hilliard last week. The Bexley head coach singled out halfback Harbold and end Roger Williamson as playing exceptionally fine football.

In regard to the power teams of the CBL this season, Tenwalde listed Upper Arlington, Delaware and Urbana as the clubs most likely to make an early run for the league title.

Here is the Bexley 1962 football schedule:

Sept. 7 — at Logan.
Sept. 13 — St. Charles.
Sept. 21 — Upper Arlington.
Sept. 27 — at Whitehall.
Oct. 5 — Worthington.
Oct. 12 — at Mt. Vernon.
Oct. 19 — Urbana.
Oct. 26 — Delaware.
Nov. 2 — at Grandview.

STRAIGHTAWAY

BY BILL GRAY

It was a short feature Friday night at Columbus Motor Speedway. Junior Kenny took the feature which was called after 30 laps because of rain.

Powell opened its racing season Sunday as fast qualifier Jack Minnich of Dayton took the feature event. Powell will run sportsman type cars every Sunday afternoon.

SUNDAY NIGHT'S show at Columbus Motor Speedway was full of thrills. Numerous accidents extended the show longer than its regular finishing time. The only injury of the evening was in the seventh lap of the first semi when Dick Edders flipped his car in the south turn and was taken to the hospital with a few fractured ribs.

It was the seventh straight win for Al Smith of Dayton who captured the 50-lap feature. Everyone missed the "Flying Irishman" Ralph O'Day, who is in Canada fishing. His good old number 12 was jockeyed by Curt Kraft.

The Columbus Motor Speedway has dropped Friday night racing for the balance of the season but will continue with Sunday events for several more weeks.

This Sunday night, the Williams-rd oval will be the scene of a combined program of flying-stocks and super-modifieds. The stockers will run in three events and the modifieds will race in five. Time trials will begin at 7 and the first race will get underway at 8.

A week from this Sunday, Sept. 16, racing will move to the afternoon for the second annual Charity Newsies program. The super-modifieds and flying-stocks will race in better than 200 laps of action. Following the race program a "demolition race" will be held. In this event, "junkers," driven by some of the stock pilots, will crash and smash into one another, until only one, the winner, is left running.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Bowler,
Each year we hold meetings with our bowlers to determine what areas of discomfort they might have encountered while bowling here.
The main complaint registered during the past season was that the noise level was too high in the bowling area.
In keeping with our policy of not only listening to the bowlers "gripes" but also doing everything within our power to correct them, we have installed the latest in acoustical ceilings.
This is just another way of living up to our motto, "Most important to us, is our bowlers.

IN WHITEHALL

Bus Route Looked At Unfavorably

About a score of Whitehall residents took a look at the new cross-city bus route during council meeting Tuesday night. They were frowning.

The Columbus Transit Co. route in the southern section of the city brought little else but protest from the residents who objected to the buses passing their homes and to certain parking restrictions placed on the streets to enable buses to pass.

The new route was opened last Sunday on a 90-day trial basis.

Residents were instructed to put their objections in writing and submit them to the solons.

Some of the residents said that the buses endanger children besides disturbing the neighborhoods. They also felt that the vehicles would eventually damage residential streets not built for heavy traffic.

Safety Committee Chairman Kenneth McIntosh urged the protesting throng to give the new system a chance since it's only been in operation a short time.

He read from the CTC contract which said that the agreement could be cancelled after 90 days if it proves to be too undesirable.

Council President Walter Siemer suggested that the protestors submit complaints to Mayor Walter B. Moling in writing since the matters of setting up the new route were handled by the administration.

In other action, council:

• Authorized curb cut changes and a traffic light at Whitehall's Discount City on E. Main-st.

• Adopted legislation allowing the city to hire emergency and private policemen.

•Tabled for two months legislation authorizing construction of an addition to the police station because of lack of funds, and

• Heard protests from residents who were opposed to the commercial development of the Howard Johnson Motor Lodge, 5000 E. Main-st, which, they claimed, violated zoning laws.

Ex-East Stars Coach Beatty

Henry Butler and Nate Noble, who were the touchdown twins of East High School's football Tigers during the '30's, will split the head coaching duties of the Beatty entry in the Ohio Boys Football Foundation League this season.

Butler, an ex-quarterback, and Noble, a left-halfback, provided the power that carried East to undefeated city championships in 1935-36. This year they will be trying to rub off a little of their knowledge onto their players, the Beatty Lions.

FOR THE PAST two seasons, the Lions won nine and lost only three in the National Division of OBFFL. With a tough line returning, the team is optimistic for another successful season.

Both teams (90-110 pounds) of boys from the East and South Sides of Columbus are sponsored by the local Swan Cleaners organization.

Assisting co-coaches Butler and Noble this season will be Ed Littlejohn and Vernon Salsbury. Bernie Lloyd and Bolitho Dorsey will handle the 90-pounders.

BEATTY'S FIRST foe of the season will be Gahanna on Sept. 30. The remainder of the schedule is: Oct. 7, at Lockbourne; Oct. 14 at LeCoumpte; Oct. 21, Meadow Gold at home; Oct. 28, Rams at home; Nov. 4, Westgate Lions at home.

The Lions will also participate in the preview game Sept. 15 at Franklin Heights.

State Park System Is Rated Near Top

Ohio's state parks have again been rated near the top of all state parks systems in the country according to V. W. Flickinger, chief of the Ohio Division of Parks. A national survey was conducted by the National Parks Service.

"When the eight factors used to determine rankings are averaged, Ohio rates third place among the 50 states," said Flickinger. "Only New York and California were ahead of Ohio, and were in that order. Pennsylvania was ranked fourth, followed by Kentucky. This indicates that Ohio has one of the leading park systems in the country, despite the fact that our state is 36th in size and has population density of 235 people per square mile, which is exceeded in only seven other states."

In total expenditures Ohio ranked fourth with $5,614,253. Ahead were California, New York and Kentucky.

Ohio was also fourth in funds available for expenditures, with $5,928,577. Here the order was changed to New York, California and Kentucky.

In revenue from operations Ohio was ninth with $696,076.

Ohio was third in attendance, behind New York and California.

The Buckeye State was ninth in areas and acreage, fourth in personnel, ninth in anticipated expenditures, and fifth in cost per visitor.

Questionnaires were sent to 106 agencies in the 50 states that administer state parks, recreation areas, historic sites, parkways and related facilities. All but five of these were returned, and were the basis of the foregoing findings.

The National Park Service conducted the survey at the request of the National Conference on State Parks and Related Recreation Areas.

Parking Lot May Be Topped Before Winter

Children's Hospital parking lot may be completed this year if the city can outrace winter, according to Public Works Expediter LeRoy Miller. The blacktopping and other improvements of the lot have been long delayed.

Miller also announced Aug. 30 that bids will probably be taken this week for blacktopping the lot at the north side of Livingston Park along Stone-av.

Bexley Democrats Slate First Meeting Of Season

Members of the Bexley Democratic Club and fellow Democrats have been invited to meet John J. Gilligan, of Cincinnati, city council member, at the first meeting of the 1962-63 season, at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 12, at Maryland Avenue Grade School, Room B-2.

Gilligan, business man and former college professor, will discuss the responsibilities of citizen participation in community politics and government. He has had first-hand experience in the field of organizing in Cincinnati. He believes that "good government can come only from a well informed and active citizenry." This, he contends, "must start on the community level."

A. W. "Stoop" Mininni, assistant to the state Democratic chairman, will present a short film on precinct organization. It shows how a small community similar to Bexley was activated and effectively organized by trained volunteers.

In addition to the above two Democratic dignitaries, club members and fellow Democrats will have the opportunity to meet the new executive board which includes: Oscar Fleckner, president; Leland McClelland, past president; Dan Kosnik, vice president; Hannah Koslin, recording secretary; Irwin W. Barkan, corresponding secretary; John R. Holden, treasurer; Rosalie Leach, financial secretary; John A. Connor, sergeant-at-arms; Richard Mann, Bexley Democratic committeeman, and Camille Barkan, publicity.

To close the meeting, there will be an informal refreshment period.

'Great Books' Idea Man Will Speak At Center

Cleveland attorney, Sam H. Shannon, will be the featured speaker at a Great Books social to be held at the Jewish Center, 1125 College-av, on Sunday evening, Sept. 9. The session, open to all Great Books participants in the Columbus area, will be held in the Adult Lounge, beginning at 8 p.m.

Serving as chairman for the evening will be Mrs. Burt Schildhouse, with members of the three Great Books Centers participating as hosts.

The Great Books Foundation is a non-profit organization whose sole purpose lies in the encouragement of people to read and to meet together to discuss great books.

Over two thousand discussion groups throughout the United States meet to enjoy the Great Books program. From first to fourteenth year, from Chicago (two hundred groups) to Whitefish, Montana (one group), the Great Books are adding an important dimension to the lives of Americans — doctors and housewives, mailmen and stenographers, lawyers and businessmen, and many others.

Shannon is well known in Great Books circles throughout the Midwest for his dedication and hardwork in behalf of the Great Books "Idea." His address to the group will concern new ideas, new methods, activities of other groups, and the numerous interesting highlights and sidelights of the Foundation. A discussion period will follow.

Mrs. Paul Machovina, Great Books coordinator for the Columbus area, will also be in attendance. Refreshments will be served during the evening.

Interested individuals with no previous Great Books experience are also invited to attend.

Elk Skeleton Reclaimed At Camp Willson Possibly Dates Back To Prehistoric Age

SENIOR ARCHAEOLOGY STUDENTS at Ohio State University study the bones of an elk found this summer embedded deep in the bottom of Lake Mac-O-Chee at Camp Alfred Willson. The skeleton will be studied carefully by the Ohio Historical Society at the Ohio State Museum. From left are, Richard Moore, Stephen

An ancient elk skeleton, recently recovered from the bottom of Lake Mac-O-Chee by staff members at the YMCA Camp Alfred Willson, south of Bellefontaine, was presented to the Ohio Historical Society last week.

The skeleton, third to be found buried in the sand at the bottom of the lake, is known to be at least more than 100 years old, and may date back thousands of years.

The last elk of the original herds was killed in Ohio in 1837. But the beast was a prehistoric animal, and the ones reclaimed at the camp may have been buried in the spring-fed, glacial lake for centuries.

The first skeletons were discovered by campers in August, 1960, their presence revealed by the tips of antlers in the lake bottom. These, too, were given to the society by the YMCA.

A fragment of the weapon that killed one of the original skeletons has been discovered in the bone of the animal.

Robert M. Goslin, the society's assistant curator of natural history, is now engaged in cleaning the latest addition, and the bones will then be treated to harden and preserve them for study purposes.

Boy Scout News

By CARL JAPISKE
BE. 1-8647

Camping Popular

It has been said that camping is Boy Scout's "middle name." Throughout the past, the boys in the Central Ohio Council have always had a good camping program. The pre-season forecast looks like this year is not going to be an exception.

Many troops have been inactive over the summer months, so they will hold overnights to get into the swing of things. These weekends may spread the troops all over Ohio, since there is a great variety of places to go.

The troop may have their own campsite, so they'll spend their weekend there. Or the boys might want to go to a State Park, in the Hocking Hills or up along Lake Erie.

The purpose of these overnights is to give the boys a chance to get out of doors and have fun. The boys learn outdoor skills like cooking, stalking, etc., so that they have a greater knowledge about the outdoors.

Camporees

Each of the 15 districts in the council will hold fall camporees for all the troops in their district. These will be held the second or third weekend in October. The sites of these camporees are usually Council campsites or State Parks.

The Central Ohio Council owns seven different campsites in its nine county territory, covering an acreage of 1598½ acres. These 1600 acres are divided among Camp Lazarus, near Delaware; Camp Klages, near S. Bloomingsville; Camp Pine, near Washington Court House; Camp Rad-O-Wood, near Marysville; Camp Madison Lake, near London; Camp Greenhills, near Logan; and Camp Larrimer, near Jackson.

Recently, the council has had a funds campaign for camping grounds improvements. The plan is to make Camp Greenhills into a new summer camp as a replacement for the present summer camp now at Lazarus. They also plan to rehabilitate Lazarus, so that it can be used for regular camping.

Sesqui Year not Success It Could Have Been

A lot of attention has been centered on the sesquicentennial year for Columbus. A huge Air Show on Sunday was billed as a sesqui feature.

Taking nothing away from the sesqui events sponsored to date, we venture the statement that the biggest sesqui event of all appears to be lost in good old Columbus town.

We think our sesquicentennial year has not been a total success without a good big sesqui parade and all the old time clothes, bugs, ox carts and beards that went with our early history.

It may be too late—if so, Columbus missed the best thing that could have been done to observe a sesquicentennial.

• • •

Something to Think About

Those brave souls who made up the crowd of around 200,000 who gathered near Port Columbus Sunday to witness the air show surely had plenty of time to ponder over traffic problems as they moved a foot, stopped then moved another foot until they got home and joined the chorus of "Thank God, we only do this once in a long time."

How many of you stopped to give a thought as to how vulnerable we are in this country as the Communist foes move their equipment within 90 miles of the USA down Cuba way?

While we spend billions in a race to get to the moon, which is perhaps not a heavenly place to be, one little well-placed bomb in each major American city could so confuse us that it would take months before another strike would be necessary.

Comes the first snow of winter and we will become literally paralyzed.

If one-thousandth of our energy and money spent on our space program could be put to good use on our traffic and road problems, our country could rest in far more security than now faces us.

Just something to think about!

Bexley Art Guild Off Ground With Big Show

15 Days of Exhibits At Capital University

One of Bexley's "baby" organizations — which is shaping up to be a real culture force in that city — will offer proof of its pudding beginning Sunday.

The group, the Bexley Community Art Guild, was formed last January by interested residents there who showed talent and interest with brushes and easels.

In all, 75 residents pulled talents to ready the show for Sunday — eight months since the guild's formation — and it'll be presented under the title of "Every Member Show."

Paintings will be displayed at the Schumacher Gallery, Huber Hall, Capital University.

The show will open with a reception from 2 to 5 p.m. beginning on Sept. 16 and will continue through Sept. 30.

Professor Richard G. Bauer of the Art Department at Capital University, 266 S. Gould-rd, is chairman of the show and Leland McClelland, 346 S. Drexel-av, is president of the guild.

Other officers include Mrs. John F. Drake, 356 S. Broadleigh-rd, vice-president; Mrs. John G. Richards, 50 S. Dawson-av, secretary, and Mrs. William Elberfeld, 316 N. Columbia-av, treasurer.

Mrs. Don D. Cook, 41 S. Roosevelt-av, is program chairman and Judith McVicker, 1445 E. Broad-st, is in charge of memberships.

Four categories of art will be seen in the show — oils, water colors, drawings and pastels. Each member was entitled to submit three entries. A first, second and third prize will be given for "best of show" and honorable mention in each category. Mrs. Marian Ryan will do the judging.

The group is composed of a number of professional artists, teachers and some who are not quite so professional, but like to paint and enjoy art—businessmen and housewives. Monthly meetings have been held since last January, with the purpose of the organization being "to further the interest of its members in art, and to be a cultural influence in the community."

IN SCHOOLS:

Enrollment Shooting Skyward

Columbus school officials emerged from their adding and tabulating machines this week and, after thoroughly checking the cash-register-type tapes, reported this towering fact:

"Total enrollment is expected to reach a record high of 93,143 by early October."

These are the words of C. L. Dumaree, assistant superintendent in charge of administration, who also reported that the fourth-day enrollment figure in Columbus public schools was 91,859.

Breaking down the fourth-day figures, they show:

How does this stack up with last year? On the fourth day of 1961, totals were: Kindergarten through sixth grade — 56,533; junior high — 18,677; senior high — 11,636.

Based on fourth day figures, enrollment need only increase 1284 to reach the 1962 estimated figure of 93,143. Warren F. Beers, director of research and plant studies of city schools, pointed out that enrollment increased 1653 last fall to reach 88,499.

"Although we are continuing to experience large increases in our elementary schools," Beers cautioned, "the highest per cent of pupil increases will occur on the secondary levels."

Secondary high schools increased from 30,313 in 1961 to 32,058 this year.

The basis for this increase on the secondary level, Beers theorized, is that the post-World War II babies are starting to reach the 10th grade level.

MAYORS OF BEXLEY and Whitehall purchase "Forget-Me-Nots" from members of the Disabled American Veterans Auxiliary who stand back-to-back representing their respective cities in preparation for th county-wide sale which will be conducted Sept. 14-15. At extreme left is William A. Schneider, Mayor of Bexley with a resident of that city, Bernadene K. Sriner who is past State department commander. At extreme right is Walter B. Moling, Mayor of Whitehall with a resident of that city, Velia VanMatre who is past State district 10 commander. Both ladies are life members of the DAV Auxiliary.

Forget-Me-Nots Go On Sale Sept. 14-15

"Wear a Forget-Me-Not" will be the slogan of volunteer sales girls on Columbus streets Friday and Saturday, Sept. 14 and 15, as they urge all area folks to purchase the little, blue flower.

The Forget-Me-Not drive is sponsored by the Disabled American Veterans organizations of Franklin County.

Some 300 girls from area high schools will participate in the drive.

Funds derived from the sale of these flowers are used for rehabilitation of disabled veterans who received disabilities as a direct result of their war service and for their dependents.

"The excellent rehabilitation service of the DAV has brought incalculable returns, both humanitarian and financial, to thousands of deserving war-time disabled veterans," said Wayne McClung, general chairman of the drive, "and has thus helped the purchasing power of every community.

"It is to the interest of every citizen that this type of constructive service be continued."

Fern Sharp, local personality, has accepted the appointment as honorary chairman of the drive this year.

EAST 'Y' CEREMONY SEPT. 23

The cornerstone of the new East Side YMCA will be laid at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 23.

Located on Woodland-av near Clifton-av, the $633,808 building will replace the Spring-st YMCA which will continue operation until the new building is ready for occupancy in February, two months earlier than anticipated.

The building will have a gymnasium, a swimming pool, multi-purpose room and club rooms, Spring-s. YMCA has 3,300 members. YMCA officials expect a doubling of membership after the new facility is opened.

Civitan Clubs Remind Of Constitution Week

The Eastern Civitan Club—along with Civitan clubs all over Columbus—remind that, by presidential proclamation, the week of Sept. 17 is designated as Constitution Week and Sept. 17 as Citizenship Day.

On this, the 175th anniversary of that historical event (the signing of the Constitution in 1787) and with the present world situation, it seems appropriate that each of us takes time to re-read our Constitution and to consider how fortunate we are to be citizens of this country.

In Columbus, it has been customary to observe Citizenship Day on the Sunday of the week of Sept. 17. This year, the observance will be Sept. 16, at the YWCA, 67 S. Third-st.

The meeting will be devoted to the welcoming of new citizens and will begin at 3 p.m.

Raymond Peck, 384 Blenheim-rd, Civitan state chairman of Citizenship, points out that your support of Constitution Week and Citizenship Day can be demonstrated by attending this meeting; displaying the flag each day of the week, and by re-dedication of yourself to the principal of government under constitutional law.

1350 STUDENTS WELCOMED

'Status Determined By Stature,' Says Yochum At Capital Opening

"Status is determined by stature, not by resolutions, petitions or constitutional revisions," declared President H. L. Yochum in his address to students and faculty at the opening convocation of Capital University Tuesday.

Dr. Yochum referred to the typical ambition of students to achieve desired status on a college or university campus, expressed in resolutions of the National Student Association which met on the Ohio State University campus in August.

Quoting from the Bible, he emphasized "A pupil is not above his teacher but everyone, when he is fully taught, will be like his teacher."

"The student will be humble in the presence of truth, recognizing his own limitations," Dr. Yochum added.

"He will be eager to exploit his educational opportunities to the utmost, recognizing his needs.

"He will be appreciative of the dedicated service provided by his teachers, recognizing their personal concern for his welfare.

As he acquires stature academically and otherwise, he will increasingly share with teachers and administrative officers in the partnership of the total educative process.

"All of us are pupils of the greatest teacher, Christ himself, and seek to become like our teacher as we acquire stature in the school of life," the college president concluded.

At the start of the convocation, Dr. Yochum was honored by the Air Force when he was presented a "Scroll of Appreciation" by Col. Raynor E. Robertson, professor of Air Science at Ohio State University.

Capital opened its doors to a total of 1,350 students, including a freshman class of 410.

Survey Set In Bexley For Traffic

Now that Livingston-av is opened to Hamilton-rd, Bexley City solons decide that it's about time to spend some money for a traffic survey.

Council appropriated $3,000 for this purpose and Councilman William Schoedinger gave a brief report on a meeting with E. Main-st businessmen, who discussed parking meters in that area.

Schoedinger said that the business men would be happy with the meters, providing that the city did away with the 7 to 9 a.m. and 4 to 6 p.m. parking ban which was imposed about a year ago.

In other action:

- A $25 a month pay increase was granted city employes.
- Passed a law making it illegal to take animals into Jeffrey Park due to unsanitary conditions.
- Appropriated $17,700 for a new cruiser, trash truck and compact car. The vehicles will be used by the street depart-

ANOTHER LOOPHOLE IN WELFARE SEWED

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.

Another welfare loophole got the old needle and thread treatment Monday night during City Council meeting.

Handling the sewing chore was City Attorney Russell Leach who introduced an amendment to the existing city welfare ordinance regarding so-called "chiselers."

Columbus solons approved the amendment which is expected to reduce the number of persons who received aid illegally.

County welfare officials said Wednesday that they were happy about the action and commented, "that's one loophole—only about six million more to go."

★ ★ ★

Leach's amendment requires any person receiving any form of welfare to report immediately any change in status making him ineligible to receive the aid.

Maximum penalty would be 90 days in jail and $300 fine. Present law provides a penalty only against those who misrepresent a welfare aid application.

According to Leach, his move for the amendment was prompted by a problem which arose during a recent court case.

The case, which was heard three or four months ago, Leach said, concerned an applicant who filed for relief and, at that time, was asked if he was getting any other money.

The man replied "no" and it was later discovered that he had applied for a veterans' pension and that the application had been approved.

The only problem was that he hadn't received his first check at his time of application for welfare so, the court ruled, he was telling the truth—technically.

This amendment of Leach's is expected to solve situations like these and is intended to make life a little easier for welfare workers who are forced to prove a fellow is chiseling.

Dante Bernadini, assistant welfare director, said Wednesday that previous to this amendment, the welfare department had to prove that a person attempted to defraud.

This wasn't always a snap, either.

"Now, however," Bernardini commented, "we don't have to find a reason why a person was fraudulent—the mere fact that he didn't report his change in status will be grounds enough."

Of course, this amendment isn't being looked at as a "cure-all" for the many welfare woes evident in this state.

"When you're dealing with human beings," Bernardini theorized, "you find

If ballet is given, are the French ballet terms taught?

Ballet Training for 8 Year Olds and Over: Is the ballet lesson at least an hour long? What method is taught — Russian, French, Italian, or a combination of these three? Again, are the French ballet terms taught?

Tap Dancing: Do they teach up-to-date tap dancing with style and body movement instead of the old-time routines?

Placement of Students: Is the beginner student placed according to his or her age group? Is the student with previous training placed according to the progress they have made and not merely according to age or the number of years of previous study?

Size of Class: Can the teacher handle 10 to 15 students at a time? What is the maximum in a class? If fewer students are placed in a class, is it because of lack of space, teacher's ability to handle small groups only, or the number of students enrolled?

Do the students get the full time of their lessons or do they lose 5 or 10 minutes while the teacher takes payments, marks the attendance, answers the phone, etc.?

How does the teacher hold the students' attention and maintain discipline? What kind of personality does the teacher have? Do all the students get the full amount of instruction or is the time wasted in taking turns?

Observe the advanced classes in addition to the class in which your child may be placed, as this will give you an indication of the quality of training and what the school can produce.

COMPARE GET COMPLETE INFORMATION FROM SEVERAL SCHOOLS.

Advertisements and publicity releases can be misleading. A competent teacher has spent many years of intensive study in gaining a thorough knowledge of dance. A good teacher knows what his instruction is worth. A good teacher is primarily concerned with imparting his knowledge to his students, in seeing his students benefit from dance training, in developing an appreciation for dance and the related arts, and in seeing them derive pleasure in dancing.

If you are considering dancing lessons for your child, or even if you have already enrolled with another dancing teacher, you are cordially invited to visit our school—without obligation.

SELF IMPROVEMENT

It's never wrong to attempt to improve on one's own good looks. However, you must know just how far you can go without venturing into the ridiculous. Don't type-change yourself to the breaking point. Play up your own good points. Some women are tempted to redo themselves because they aren't happy with their natural endowments. When thinking in terms of self-improvement, keep your own type in mind.

Retarded Children's School Needs Aid To Continue Remainder Of This Year

There is a serious problem in our community which needs the help and support of all citizens.

For 10 years the Franklin County Council for Retarded Children has been working very hard and diligently to build a good school program for the severely mentally retarded. In those years this program has grown from the first class of 10 children to the present enrollment of 243. They have a workshop at Goodwill Industries with 36 children learning to work and make things with their hands.

Council members are very proud of the growth of this program and the success it has had.

Now however, they fear that all of this program that is so needed in the community could be lost due to lack of sufficient funds for operational costs.

Recently the council presented a check for $35,000 to Franklin County commissioners to finance reopening of the school again this fall. This money was raised by the council members and citizens of Franklin County. This amount is only half of the amount needed to run this school program until the first of the year.

As stated by the county commissioners there is no money in the general fund to supplement this program at this time.

We would like to ask you to support this school program that is so badly needed for these children. Write to the Franklin County Council for Retarded Children, 131 E. State St., Rm. 314, Columbus 15.

This is an educational program for those children who are denied, by law, attending public schools. These children deserve the right to learn to the fullest extent of their ability.

Our society today can only be judged by the way we support those less fortunate, especially our children.

Opinion Swings Toward Early Traditions

"Doc, mark my words," said I yesterday in my best Drew Pearson manner, "the pendulum has begun to swing back. I'm convinced that most Americans are tired of having socialistic bunk tossed at them by the far-left goof-balls."

McPeek

Doc, whom I have no right to identify ((politics and medicine don't mix well) and I were talking about some of the recent socialistic type programs rocking around in the halls of Congress.

Like many Americans, Doc is alarmed that we gradually are being robbed of our heritage of freedom and free enterprise.

"Go home, Doc. Take a couple aspirins, a hot shower and relax," prescribed I. "If it will make you feel better, dash off an irate letter rapping heck out of Medicare to your congressman. I'll stop by tomorrow to see how you're doing."

But seriously, we can be thankful that many men like Doc are expressing concern. One has only to look at the Kennedy record to see that the pendulum of opinion has begun a slow swing back to the early traditions of this great country.

Let me point out a few things:

Kennedy has been almost totally successful in obtaining approval of measures that are clearly necessary to the national welfare and security. The $50 billion defense budget is proof of that. The amendments and changes made were minor.

He is virtually certain to be equally successful in obtaining approval of moves and policies that, whether we like them or not, stem from the pressure of irresistible world forces. The trade expansion plan, which is to give the President great and unprecedented powers in adjusting tariffs, and in making and gaining other trade concessions, is the prime example here. Sentiment, based on the hard rock logic and necessity, is powerfully in favor of it.

The President's legislative failures, on the other hand, have been in areas of welfare state expansion. Three examples are paramount — the Medicare bill, the farm bill, and the bill to establish an urban affairs body at the cabinet level. All would have advanced, one way or another, the welfare state "Big Brother" philosophy.

It would be absurd to argue that this Congress is anti-Kennedy. His party holds heavy majorities in both branches. But the country has had heavy doses of welfare-statism, and is learning what the costs are in lost liberty and independence, no less than in billions of money.

There are signs that the people have had more than enough of it— and the acts of Congress simply reflect the popular will.

'Closed On Sunday' Decals Identify Supporters Of Preserving The Sabbath

Southern Kiwanis "Closed on Sunday" decals are being increasingly displayed by community merchants. These decals are available to both Kiwanians and non-Kiwanians.

Decals such as these do not, alone, resolve controversy or materially change convenient Sunday shopping habits. However, they have well intended purpose.

Kiwanis believes the decals identify responsible persons of serious mind who have, we hope, made individual decisions for the best reason — a singular reason — the desire to preserve the Sabbath for its intended purpose.

The Sunday closing issue has become quite complex. We know there is both state and municipal "Blue Law." We know that some merchants exploit the Sunday opportunity and are irresponsible to both themselves and the community. We know the issue is another example of "gentle persuasion" being obscured by clamor.

Many persons are saying many things, and, unfortunately, we hear many folks resolve the issue by merely saying "It isn't very important . . . it's just another political football."

A few others hold to the conviction that Columbus' downtown merchants are at war with suburban merchants who are rewarded by staying open when the others close. We believe the issue cannot be simply defined. Many factors seem involved. And as long as church leaders plead hearing in the matter, Kiwanians believe the issue is VERY important.

Let's consider:

(1) Because there is a state "Blue Law" regulating Sunday sales, the issue seems to have genuine legal involvement. Perhaps the law needs refinement, and perhaps it doesn't.

(2) Because there is a municipal law, and the local police have been asked to observe it, the Columbus courts seem to have a regular and rightful jurisdiction. We believe Monday morning decisions should be based on strict interpretation of the law. This law perhaps needs refinement or restatement.

(3) Because a few merchants seem disposed to make opportunity of Sunday, and seriously threaten the success of some community merchants, they have precipitated an issue that will not "just go away." Our community merchants reflect responsibility; their competition exploits opportunity.

(4) Because our clergymen must accomplish tasks by gentle means, and deserve effective assistance and consideration in the matter, we believe they should be heard again — and listened to most carefully.

One of the objectives of Kiwanis is to "Support Churches In Their Spiritual Aims." Sunday is Sabbath to most persons. But it might also be Saturday or Wednesday — the day of the week doesn't matter as long as a Sabbath is observed.

Kiwanians try very hard NOT to judge others; they prefer not to editorialize except in matter of very serious importance.

This is one. We contemplate a Sabbath of infinite serenity and contemplation, a day when families and friends, and church, can be associated together according to choice. The day should be wholly unviolated by common conduct, by things for material purposes that can easily be done at another time.

We also are disposed to sentimentally support community merchants whenever we can. We know they offer services out of proportion to rewards. We know that they, alone among all merchants, respond to gentle persuasion, reminders, and good example. They seldom require ultimate public law.

The decals being displayed are supplied by Kiwanis. They are being displayed in communities all over the United States and Canada. Each decal reflects individual decision. Kiwanis applauds persons of deep convicition.

We will support them in material ways. We will enjoy their services and call it a privilege. We urge others to do the same.

Play Leader Writes

As one of the leaders from Hauntz Park who has been contributing weekly articles to your newspapers' playground sections, I want to thank you for the consideration which you have given us. . . Your full coverage is not only appreciated by the playground leaders but also the parents and children in the community who looked forward to reading about themselves and future park activities.

From Mr. Barack . . .

Your papers were very kind in giving the Columbus Recreation Department adequate and excellent coverage of all our playgrounds. We felt that this was responsible for our having the highest number of participants ever in a playground season for the department.

Our sincerest thanks.

Who Are The Gideons?

A Bible at the bedside in an unfamiliar room has brought comfort to travelers and solace to the ill and frightened in nearly every country in the world.

The work of placing Bibles in hotels, motels and hospitals has been the project of the Gideon Organization since it was formed at the turn of the century.

Three Christian traveling salesmen, knowing from their own experience the need of Scriptures for those far from home, first introduced the idea and formed the organization.

From this small beginning, the society has so grown in scope that Gideon Bibles are found in hospitals and hotels throughout this nation, and are printed in many languages for distribution in other lands.

The Gideon Organization, now composed of business and professional people are carrying out a broad, non-sectarian ministry undertaken by no single denomination.

Regional groups of the organization are referred to as "camps" and, like the Gideon Camps of old, are limited to small memberships.

In addition to supplying hotels and hospitals, Columbus Camp gave thousands of Testaments to men in the armed forces as they passed through Columbus on their way to training camps.

For a while, wherever accepted by superintendents, the camp also gave hundreds of School Testaments to children under 12.

Columbus Gideons, in 1958, supplied all motels, hotels and hospitals in the city with Bibles, and in 1961 presented Riverside Hospital with 450 bedside Testaments and 50 Bibles, and Grant Hospital with 400 Testaments

The same year, Gideons in 50 countries distributed more than 45,000,000 copies of the Scriptures.

ASSIST FROM AUXILIARY

Columbus Camp Auxiliary, through their own donations and efforts, have helped advance the society's work with the presentation of white Testaments to every student nurse in local hospitals, as well as trainees in the School of Practical Nursing and Nurse Aids.

More than 4000 copies have been distributed in this manner since 1940.

And during the war years women in the armed forces passing through the city enroute to assignments were presented with Testaments and served cookies.

TEXT: Matt. 6:19-21. "Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal: But lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor steal: For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also."

Real Treasure Is Better Than Gold

I read recently of a 22-year-old business man in Summerville, Mass., who paid a premium of $60 on an insurance policy and three months later collected $62,336. This is how it happened. He and a friend took out partnership insurance which would cover the life of each partner. One month later the other man was accidentally killed. As a consequence for the price of $60. the remaining partner received $24,970 outright and an additional $37,366 at the rate of $208 per month for the next 15 years. The John Hancock Insurance Company reports that this was one of the largest amounts ever paid for this type of policy.

Rev. Sowers

This was an unusual investment made here upon earth. We are looking for investments with big dividends, but the greatest investment we can make is in the bank of heaven which is an investment that will pay dividends throughout eternity.

Jesus tells us in Mark 10:29, 30, the results of such an investment: "Verily, I say unto you, There is no man that hath left house, or brethren, or sisters, or fathers, or mothers, or wife, or children, or lands, for my sake, and the gospel's, But he shall receive an hundredfold now in this time, houses, and brethren, and sisters, and mothers, and children, and lands, with persecutions; and in the world to come eternal life."

When little Tevis came into this world in December, 1950, his natural mother whose identity is closely guarded was unable to care for him. She gave him to a state agency for adoption. None could have known then that he was to be adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Forbes Morrow Jr. of Santa Monica, Calif. Mr. Morrow is a fabulous California-Texas-Wyoming oil man whose yearly income is about one and a half million dollars. The boy, now 11-years-old, is the sole heir to a 20-million dollar fortune.

We as Christians have a greater inheritance for we are the adopted sons of God. Paul writes: "We are the children of God and if children, then heirs of God, and joint-heirs with Christ; if so be that we suffer with Him, that we may be also glorified together." (Romans 8:16, 17). Paul prayed that each Christian might come to an understanding as to "what is the hope of His calling and what the riches of the glory of His inheritance in the saints." (Ephesians 1:18). My friend, as you tread the pathway of life you are constantly faced with a decision. What shall it be . . . . gold or God!

Rev. Ronald R. Sowers
Rosehill Church of Christ

Variety . . . by I. F. Howell

Of all the earth's people, one in a million is a genius. A few more are richly blessed with powers and skills of body, mind, and spirit. The rest of us are run-of-the-mill.

We are all sinners, but few of us ordinary folk are either saints on earth or totally unrepentent scoundrels. Most of us are in between, hating and loving, getting and giving, doubting and believing, rejoicing and sorrowing, liking or despising our jobs, but going about doing the things that must be done. We do most of the world's work.

In this time of earth's greatest peril, we feed and clothe and protect our children as best we know how, hoping and fearing for their future. After we've crossed the hump, we wonder how good a job we've done. But by then it's too late to cry. We cross our fingers, hope for the best for them and ourselves, and still try, sometimes not too earnestly, to find and fill our niche in the human brotherhood of our time and place.

Prhaps at times we cuss too much and pray too little. We get too impatient about the long haul. The mountains seem too high to cross, the way too rough and long. Then we remember. We live in a free land where after all we have a chance. That and God's grace are all we need.

It says here . . . . .
Success is doing your best with what you have.

Walnut Ridge High

Enthusiasm High At New Walnut Ridge School

Walnut Ridge has begun its second year, and enthusiasm is running high during the first month of this new term. Students enrolled in the E. Livingston-av junior-senior high school, number 1,360, an increase of approximately 250 over last year's total.

This includes 272 seventh graders who are beginning their high school careers at Walnut Ridge. Eighty-eight students comprise the school's first senior class. The faculty has been enlarged by 18 new teachers, as a result of new courses being added to the curriculum.

The month of September customarily brings a tremendous interest in football. Add to this the factors of a spanking new stadium and Walnut Ridge's first season in the City League, and one can see the almost fanatical interest in the sport at the school. Over 60 boys are on the lineup for Coaches Ralph Webster and Jack Moore. Scrimmage games prior to the opening of school were played with Brookhaven, Bishop Hartley and Rosary.

Last Friday night marked Walnut Ridge's first appearance in City League play. Hosting the East High Tigers, the new stadium was given an initiation by the over-capacity crowd, numbering almost 4,000. A very important part of the school's football games is the band whose 48 members were dressed in white jackets and black slacks. The girls drill team, numbering 24, dressed in scarlet and gray plaid, made an initial appearance. Accompanying the drill team were Walnut Ridge's four majorettes, making their debut. They are Babs Lindley, Peggy Hanvy, Janice Reid and Elizabeth Rhoads.

Led by cheerleaders Diane Tamanini, Kathi Westover, Connie Woods, Debbie Simonds, Genie Reeder and Cookie Reid, the spirit of the crowd was simply not enough to win the game. The Scots were stampeded 22-0.

Tomorrow, Walnut Ridge will play another home game against Teay's Valley. The year's first dance, a sock hop, will be held after the game, lasting until 11:30 p.m.

The Walnut Ridge Booster Club is already engaged in the task of securing money for the school's athletic activities. On Thursday, Sept. 6, the first meeting was held to determine new members and discuss plans. Tuesday, Sept. 11, was the actual Booster Drive in which 190 students canvassed the community in a door-to-door campaign.

Signs of activity are also apparent in Walnut Ridge's first journalism class, the ultimate goal being the production of a school newspaper. As yet unnamed, a contest will be conducted to title the paper. Students are encouraged to drop their ideas into a suggestion box; these ideas will be considered by a journalism class committee. The winner will receive a free subscription. The 1962 Tartan is currently in the process of being delivered to its purchasers.

Schools Close This Friday For Teachers' Meet

Schools will be closed Friday, Sept. 14, to allow teachers from 16 central Ohio counties to gather in Columbus for the 91st annual convention of the Central Ohio Teachers Asociation.

More than 12,000 teachers are expected to attend the all-day meeting at St. John Arena, Ohio State University.

Martin Agronsky, radio and television news analyst for the National Broadcasting Co., will deliver the main address on "The United States and the World Crisis," at the general session.

Dr. Harold Eibling, superintendent of Columbus Public Schools, will open the general session.

In the afternoon teachers will divide into 37 discussion groups covering virtually all facets of education.

That is our duty, our service.

Walnut Ridge

By Doug Beardsley

Enthusiasm High ... Walnut Ridge Sc...

Walnut Ridge has begun its second year, and enthusiasm is running high during the first month of this new term. Students enrolled in the E. Livingston-av junior-senior high school, number 1,360, an increase of approximately 250 over last year's total.

This includes 272 seventh graders who are beginning their high school careers at Walnut Ridge. Eighty-eight students comprise the school's first senior class. The faculty has been enlarged by 18 new teachers, as a result of new courses being added to the curriculum.

The month of September customarily brings a tremendous interest in football. Add to this the factors of a spanking new stadium and Walnut Ridge's first season in the City League, and one can see the almost fanatical interest in the sport at the school. Over 60 boys are on the line-up for Coaches Ralph Webster and Jack Moore. Scrimmage games prior to the opening of school were played with Brookhaven, Bishop Hartley and Rosary.

Last Friday night marked Walnut Ridge's first appearance in City League play. Hosting the East High Tigers, the new stadium was given an initiation by the over-capacity crowd, numbering almost 4,000. A very important part of the school's football games is the band whose 48 members were dressed in white jackets and black slacks. The girls drill team, numbering 24, dressed in scarlet and gray plaid, made an initial appearance. Accompanying the drill team were Walnut Ridge's four majorettes, making their debut. They are Babs Lindley, Peggy Hanvy, Janice Reid and Elizabeth Rhoads.

Led by cheerleaders Diane Tamanini, Kathi Westover, Connie Woods, Debbie Simonds, Genie Reeder and Cookie Reid, the spirit of the Gosnell crowd was simply not enough... terment, ... the game. The Se... ...ed 22-0.

LETTER PERFECT
SATISFIED ... because of a job well done.
The last check ... reveals a well organized, carefully typed letter, and now she is ready to present it to her boss for his inspection and signature.
Each of us needs to periodically check our lives, making sure that all is in order and would stand an inspection by the Lord. Are we letter perfect? Would He be satisfied with us? It is true that none of us are perfect, but if we study God's word and strive to follow God's will, He will be satisfied with us.

ATTEND CHURCH SUNDAY
The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Sabin Vaccine Campaign Coins Motto, Selects Dates

"Free Us From Polio. Sabin On Sunday Needs Everybody."

Franklin Countians will be hearing that slogan during the next few months. It's the official campaign theme of SOS, Sabin on Sunday, in the community.

Dr. Richard L. Fulton, president of the Columbus Academy of Medicine and head of the SOS drive, explained why the theme was chosen.

" 'Free Us From Polio' " is part of the theme," he said, "because SOS will do just that. The Sabin oral polio vaccine has been given to 250 million people in Europe and many more millions in the United State including about two million in Ohio. Among these, there hasn't been one case of polio. It has been completely wiped out.

" 'Sabin On Sunday Needs Everybody' " is the second key part of the theme," he continued. "And it means just what it says.

"Salk shots, though they prevent an individual from getting polio himself, may still permit him to be a carrier of the disease. Even older persons, who normally wouldn't get polio themselves, can still carry it to other people. But Sabin vaccine not only prevents the disease, it also prevents the individual from being a carrier. Thus it can completely wipe out the threat of polio in our community.

Dr. Fulton stressed that everyone must take the vaccine on each of the three Sundays that the SOS drive is conducted in Franklin County, Sept. 30, Nov. 4, and Dec. 9.

"There are three different types of polio. A different kind of vaccine will be given on each of the three Sundays, and each dose will immunize you against a different kind of polio. When you have all three doses, you will be completely freed from the threat of polio in all its forms," he said.

Dr. Fulton also emphasized that the Sabin vaccine is completely and absolutely safe.

A total of 114 Sabin stations, one within walking distance of nearly everyone in the county, will be in operation on the three Sundays of the campaign. Sabin vaccine will be given on those days from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Two drops of the odorless and tasteless vaccine will be placed in a cup containing a small portion of distilled water. The recipient will just drink it. If the recipient is a baby, two drops of the vaccine will be placed directly on his tongue.

The SOS campaign will be paid for through donations. The donation will be 25c per person. But those who can't afford it won't have to donate as they'll get their vaccine anyway.

By nightfall, Dec. 9, SOS will spell the end of polio.

Whitehall Firemen Set 'White Elephant'

WHITEHALL FIREMEN Association spokesmen announced this week that they will hold a "White Elephant Sale" Oct. 5-6.

According to association member John Downing, the firemen are in need of donations of articles to be offered for sale on these dates.

Anyone wishing to donate used appliances, furniture, records, books, clothing, toys or any miscellaneous items should bring them to the Whitehall Fire Station, 390 S. Yearling-rd, or call BE. 1-3073 to have the items picked up.

Ditzi Nagy Offers Diversified Lessons

Conveniently located at 2431 E. Main-st, the studio serves Bexley, Whitehall, Berwick, Eastmoor, Reynoldsburg, Groveport and adjacent areas.

It is designed and completely equipped for dance instruction — including barres, improved floor and mirrors for self-analysis. Besides this, a trained and experienced faculty are on hand to serve your needs.

Specially planned dance training for children three to eight years of age features ballet, tap and acrobatic.

Graded ballet classes for those eight years old and over include the best elements of the Italian, French and Russian methods.

Modern classical tap is also offered in the curriculum. This is the new trend for tap which adds style and body movement from other forms of dance such as ballet and modern jazz.

Instruction is also offered for those wishing to become drum majors or majorettes and for those interested in contest twirling.

Boy Scout News

By CARL JAPIKSE
BE. 1-8647

The one thing a Boy Scout can do best while on an overnight is eat. The enormous appetite built up by an average scout on the weekend forces him to become a good chef.

Mastering the culinary art is no easy matter, particularly for an eleven or 12-year-old. The typical boy is also somewhat lazy and would probably like to shun any difficult task. Because of these two basic qualities, the Scouts will from time to time employ some weird devices and methods.

Many a middle-aged man will get the idea that he wants to go out and barbecue a chicken for supper. So he gets out the charcoal stove, lights the charcoal with lighter fluid, and puts the chicken on a spit which is turned electronically.

This unfortunately, is not the case with scouting. The boys would like to be as lazy as their dads, but there is no electricity to plug the barbecuer into. So they build a device which turns the spit by use of water power. This water turned spit cooks the bird just right with no sweat off the boys' backs.

Another labor saving device is the solar cooker. This contraption is employed when the boy is too lazy to build a fire. This cooker looks like a radar detector and works by reflecting the sunlight to one focal point, where the food is cooked 93,000,000 miles from the fire.

Two other methods of cookery sometimes employed by Scouts are boiling water in a paper bag, and cooking chicken in a knapsack. Both are used for a good reason, and that is because they eliminate dirty dishes.

ONE OF THE 310 naturalized citizens who are to be honored by the Citizenship Committee of Columbus Sunday, Sept. 16, at the YWCA is Mrs. P. D. Heffner. Mrs. Heffner was born in Germany and became a citizen in June of this year.

Citizenship Committee To Honor 310 At 'YW'

The Citizenship Committee of Columbus will celebrate Constitution Day at 3 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 16, at the YWCA. Congressman Samuel L. Devine will talk on "What It Means To Be An American Citizen."

Purpose of the gathering will be to honor 310 persons who have become naturalized citizens of the United States during the past year. These individuals have studied for citizenship and passed the required tests.

Typical of these new citizens is Mrs. Erma Martha Heffner, 86 Mayfair-blvd, who was born in Berlin. She was reared by her grandparents in Mecklenburg, Strelitz.

After attending business school, she worked in a retail store which was bombed in 1941. After the bombing, she was forced to work in a salt mine, some 500 meters underground. At the mine she became ill and upon her recovery she worked in a factory under the Hitler regime.

In 1947, she met P. D. Heffner, a United States civil service army man of the engineer branch, whom she married in 1955. He had been transferred to headquarters in Heidelberg after a stay in Korea.

In 1958 Mr. and Mrs. Feffner came to the United States and settled in Reading, Pa., Mrs. Heffner began studying for citizenship there but took her final examinations in June 1962 in Columbus.

Her hobbies are gardening and swimming. "I like the United States because the people are so friendly and helpful. But best of all, I'm proud of my citizenship papers," said Mrs. Heffner.

Frank Christ Elected Head Of KC Unit

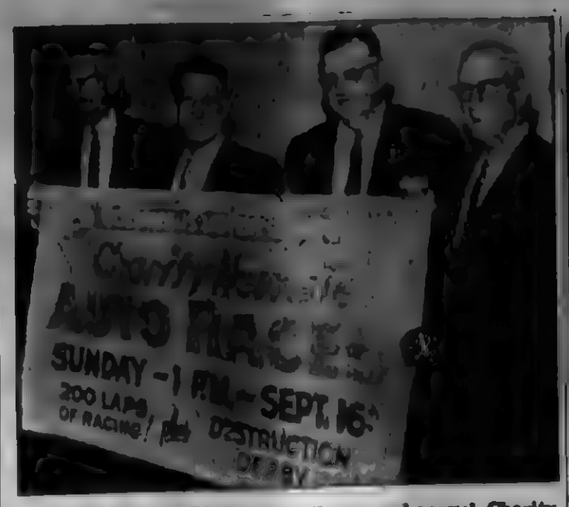
The first meeting will be held Thursday, Sept. 20, in the clubrooms of Santa Maria Council at 2596½ West Broad-st.

These other officers also will be installed: Frank Christ, navigator; Carl Van Horn captain; James Henry, pilot; James Ryan, purser; Francis Strapp, comptroller; Patrick Martin, scribe; Francis Downey, inside sentinel; Joseph O'Reilly, trustee (three-year term).

Mineral Society To Meet Sept. 20



The Good Earth Mineral Society will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 20, at 1100 King-av. Members and the public are invited.

The society is open for those interested in geology, Indian artifacts, fossils and jewelry making.

Subject of the meeting will be the "Summer Roundup." Members will present their findings over the summer months.

FINALIZING PLANS for the second-annual Charity Newsies auto race program scheduled for Sunday afternoon, Sept. 16, at the Columbus Motor Speedway is Ed Brinkman, chairman of the affair; John Nuckles, co-chairman; Bill Krause and Howard Foley. Nuckles is president of the Columbus Speedway, while Brinkman, Krause and Foley, are all former presidents of the Newsies.

Charity Newsies Sponsor Sunday Auto Race Program

The second-annual Charity Newsies auto race program is scheduled for Sunday afternoon, Sept. 16, at the Columbus Motor Speedway.

There will be a combined program of super-modified and flying-stock races, with a total of 200 laps of racing. The super-modifieds will compete in two 50lap features and a 25-lap contest, while the flying-stocks will race in two 20-lap heats and a 35-lap feature.

There's $2000 in prize money for the modifieds and a guaranteed purse of $700 for the stockers.

Following the races, there will be a destruction derby, in which stock drivers will drive "junkers." They will smash and crash into one another, until only one, the winner, is left running.

Time trials start at 12:30 p.m. and the first race gets going at 2:30 p.m.

Aivance tickets are now on sale at the Newsies headquarters, 716 S. High-st, and at the Columbus Speedway. Adults can save money by buying advance tickets.

Great Books Groups Date October Meets

The Adult Activities department of The Jewish Center, 1125 College-av, announces that its First, Second, Third and Fourth Year Great Books groups will begin meeting regularly in Oct. Registration is now being accepted and is open to the community.

The Great Books Foundation came into existence in 1947 and has grown to be the largest adult liberal education activity in the world. Its subjects are science and philosophy, poetry and history, politics and ethics, wit and tragery — the different expressions of man's understanding.

The end is liberal education for all interested adults, the method is reading and group discussion of an organized list of great works under the guidance of trained leaders.

Group discussion in the Great Books program affords experience in intelligent tolerance, the give-and-take of ideas, and reasonable argument, all essential to the citizenry of a democracy and for learning, ultimately, to think for oneself.

Anyone wishing additional information concerning the Great Books Discussion Groups is invited to call Harold M. Eisenstein at the Jewish Center, BE. 1-2731.

No Polar Bears Around Here But Squirrel Season Is Near

INSIDE ON THE Outdoors By ROB COCHRAN

Bob Richard, Rt. 1, Galloway, that intrepid big game hunter, writes from Norway that two less polar bears are now wondering around on the ice. He is in Lappland at Latitude 78 degrees N. and Longitude 30 degrees E. This is not much of an address if you had to find him in a hurry.

There are no polar bears in the Columbus area, although it felt like there could be, one night last week. But there are squirrels and the season opens at daybreak on Friday, Sept. 14. Hunting bears and squirrels are about as far apart as you can get, yet the benefits derived from each are about the same. Except for a white rug that is too precious to walk on, you can shed your present address and telephone number and exchange it for Farmer Jone's woodlot. By changing your address, if even for only a few hours, you walk into a different world — the outdoor world — and this is the real reason for going hunting anyway.

You can hunt squirrels too fast. The secret to fun in a squirrel woods is to go slowly and leisurely. There is no such thing as a "world record squirrel" nor a title of "best squirrel hunter." With no trophies or records, there is no compulsion to beat somebody else. All that is left is the pure enjoyment of watching and listening for squirrels, examining the odd shapes of mushrooms and toadstools, purposefully along their trails, speculating on how long it will take a spider spinning a single strand of silk to reach the ground.

Hunting squirrels is a contemplative sport. A lot of hunters like to keep on the move, slowly and silently through a woods. They look for deer tracks, ripe persimmons and the like as well as squirrels. Others prefer to find a couple of hickory trees and to sit down and wait. If a tree trunk is handy that fits your back, so much the better. This leads to soaking up enormous amounts of September sun and to catnapping. A squirrel or two that come to feed on the hickories constitute a bonus.

There are some squirrel hunting tips that will improve your chances. One is to take some mosquito lotion into the woods with you — often these insects are out in hordes and biting fiercely at this season. Another is to wear tennis shoes or crepe-soled shoes to enable you to get around quietly. If a squirrel is on the other side of a tree from you, throw a stick into the brush on his side. Sometimes this ruse works in chasing the squirrel into view, but other times it does not. Finally be careful—be sure it's game before you aim!

You won't find any bears come Friday and Saturday but you can find relaxation and pleasure aplenty.

WELCOME WAGON BASKET CONTEST

First place winner for her basket depicting fall and Welcome Wagon was Mrs. Charlotte Williams, 64 Park, Canal Winchester, hostess for the Canal Winchester area. Second place went to Mrs. Naomi McGuire, 341 Tallman, Groveport, new hostess in that town.

AMERICAN BUSINESS CLUB FORMED HERE

C. CARLTON HARTLEY, publisher of Hartley Newspapers, is shown here, at right, welcoming the Columbus Chapter of the American Business Clubs to the community during a charter night banquet last Saturday. Launching the new organization in membership was National President Keith Tingley from Tuscola, Ill., at Hartley's right. Others in picture include, from left, Ross Glick, first vice-president and Lee Hall, president of the newly-formed Columbus chapter. The Columbus chapter, which will aid the national program of granting scholarships to young men and women desiring to be cerebral palsy therapists, is currently working on a program to help open the Franklin County School for Retarded Children.

Head Of Order Leaves Hospital

She has been a patient at Mt. Carmel since July 6 after suffering a heart attack.

ON TO THE FIELD

WALNUT RIDGE gridders charged on to their football field for the first time as City League competitors Friday night when they hosted East's Tigers. East threw a monkey wrench into the evening's festivities when they downed Walnut Ridge, 22-0.

A TENSE MOMENT

WALNUT RIDGE football coach Ralph Webster (extreme left) looks concerned as he watches his gridders move the ball against East. Webster, who coached the Tigers before moving to the new CL school, grew more concerned on the next play as East intercepted a Walnut Ridge pass and scored a few plays later en route to a 22-0 win.

WARRIORS FALL

Rams, Lions, East Win Grid Openers

Area gridders compiled a 5-2 won-loss record in completing the first weekend of high school football.

Eastmoor's Warriors put up a strong, relentless battle before bowing to North's Polar Bears, 14-0, in a game which marked the end of the defending CL champs winning streak. The Warriors will long remember North quarterback Doug Shepard after Friday night's game. It's likely that other City League teams will remember the name also.

SHEPARD WAS the chief ingredient in serving up the Eastmoor loss as he scored the Polar Bear's first touchdown in a 25-yard run in the opening period and then calmly put the game out of reach, pitching a 70-yard touchdown strike to North end Sam Smith in the final period.

The Warriors made a last-ditch effort to get back into the ball game in the fourth quarter but the drive stalled on the North 25-yard line. Although Eastmoor's defense gobbled up five North fumbles, the Polar Bear offense functioned nicely, piling up 226 total yards to the Warriors' 139.

OVER AT Walnut Ridge, East's Tigers gave no quarter to ex-coach Ralph Webster as they spoiled the new City League entry's introduction to league play with a 22-0 victory.

The Tigers squeezed all their scoring into the second and third periods as they recorded their opening night victory. The Tigers scored all the points they needed in the second period when end Ken Fowlkes pulled in a 23-yard toss from East quarterback Mike Gorden for a touchdown.

Gorden scored early in the second half on a one-yard plunge after the Tigers exchanged fumbles with Walnut Ridge and then picked off a wayward pass. Vernon Fields completed the Tiger scoring later in the period when he pilfered a Walnut Ridge aerial and ran 56 yards for a touchdown.

WHITEHALL defensive end Mike Schmidt pounced on a Westerville fumble in the end zone in the first period to provide the Rams with the necessary margin in a 24-0 victory.

The Rams left the field at intermission holding onto a slim 8-0 lead but sewed up the win with two second half scores, one by Clark Fuller on a 25-yard run, the other on a 10-yard jaunt by Jerry Ramsey.

BEXLEY'S LIONS used a balanced scoring attack to take the measure of host Logan, 22-0. Jay Maupin started the Lion scoring in the first period when he raced 55 yards to paydirt.

The Bexley defensive unit contained Logan for the remander of the game but backs Rick Mauger and Rick Harbold kept the victory insured with five-yard TD runs.

ST. CHARLES Coach Jack Ryan took his Cardinal gridders to Greenfield McClain for an opening game victory. The Cards scored in every period while posting a 46-20 win in a purely offensive game.

Six St. Charles gridders entered the scoring column with Tom O'Leary leading the touchdown parade with end sweeps of five and 12 yards.

John Pettorini and Bob Faller provided Cardinal fans with the long-gainer thrills, the former adding up six points on a 50-yard run, the latter scoring on a 47-yard marker.

IN OTHER City League action, Aquinas walloped South, 30-0; Linden shut out Marion Franklin, 30-0; West downed Whetstone, 32-12, and Central battled Zanesville to a 20-20 tie.

Checking the Central Buckeye League action for Whitehall and Bexley fans, Watterson trounced Delaware, 38-0; Hilliard toppled Grandview, 30-6; Lancaster downed Upper Arlington, 26-6; Mt. Vernon shut out Coshocton, 12-0; Worthington squeezed past London, 22-14, and Urbana battled Bellefontaine to a 6-6 deadlock.

In Friday night's action around the area, Eastmoor takes a hop, skip and a jump over to Whitehall for a backyard rivalry game; East journeys to Newark; Walnut Ridge entertains Teays Valley.

St. Charles and Bexley resume their rivalry Thursday night at the Lions' den and Bishop Hartley opened its 1962 season, traveling to Springfield C.C. for a Sunday afternoon contest.

Wolves Top Big Ten

Michigan University leads the all-time Western Conference (Big Ten) football standings with a 183-88-11 record. Ohio State is second with 167-84-18 and Indiana is last with a 76-187-20 mark.

The second Morrill Act, in 1890, authorized $25,000 annual endowment for each land-grant college.

'Fearless' Predictions

Ouch! The first week of high school football games threw a pretty good cross body block into our picks. The record stands barely over the .500 mark with a 13-6-1 standing. Particularly embarrassing were those Hilliard-Grandview and South-Aquinas calls. Bloody but unbowed, we'll try, try again. Here's how they look from this desk for the second chapter of football, 1962:

Eastmoor-Whitehall — Warriors bounce back. Eastmoor.

Central-Newark — Pirates put out the plank. Central.

South-Arlington — Bears muzzle Bulldogs. Arlington.

Teays Valley-Walnut Ridge —CL newcomers break into win column. Walnut Ridge.

Dublin-Mt. Sterling — Shamrocks unlucky. Mt. Sterling.

Rosary-Amanda — Crusaders bring home win. Rosary.

Hilliard-Worthington — Wildcats on the warpath. Hilliard.

Gahanna - Licking Heights —Lions roar. Gahanna.

Fraseysburg - Carroll— Win for the hometowners. Carroll.

St. Charles - Bexley—Cards are stacked. St. Charles.

Ready - Pleasant View (Reserves) — Silver Knights off to battle. Ready.

Aquinas - Steubenville C.C. —Terriors put on the bite. Aquinas.

St. Marys - Elm Valley — Ram(ble) on St. Marys.

Hartley-Springfield C.C. — Winged victory. Hartley.

Welfare—

a million and one problems you never knew could exist."

Perhaps Leach's amendment will raise some more problems unforeseen so far.

For instance, the amendment reads that reliefers must report a change in status "immediately" — this, however could be vague enough, depending on the court's interpretation.

"Let's not forget, though, "Bernardini added, "that the number of "chiselers' on the welfare roles is comparatively small and has been exploded clear out of proportion."

This story wasn't meant to be a fuse.

Will She Be From Our Community?

Area Homemaker May Participate

Some time in early November, at a gala event in Chicago, a suburban housewife will step forward to receive the congratulations of her family — her friends — and the nation — as she accepts a trophy and a $5000 cash grant as the "National Suburban Homemaker of the Year."

Prior to that date Hartley Newspapers will cooperate in a search for the woman who has contributed most to "advancing family and community life."

Joining in the search will be civic groups, women's clubs, service organizations, and other groups in the areas served by Hartley Newspapers.

The National Award is planned as a sincere tribute to and recognition of the important role of the homemaker in the family, civic, and economic life of the suburban community.

How Search Will Be Made

In each community a local woman will be chosen by a local panel of judges from nominations made by families, friends, or organizations. The local woman so honored will receive a certificate and a trophy. She will be one of the group from which the National Award recipient will be selected by a panel of national judges.

Nominating the woman whom you believe qualifies for the tribute is easy. Appearing below are the Official Judging Standards which the judges, both local and national, will use as a yardstick for selection, and an Official Entry Blank.

You need not use the official blank so long as your letter of nomination includes the information required by the blank. Official entry blanks will also be made available at locations to be announced later.

Let's Go, Central Ohio!

Begin thinking now of the woman in our community you believe has made the most worthwhile contribution to our community's way of life. She may be a member of an organization, your wife, or your mother.

Tell us about her in a simple letter of no more than 500 words, accompanied by the information requested in the Official Entry Blank. Style of writing or manner of presentation will be not factors in the judging.

Deadline for nominations is Oct. 20.

Nominations may be made by any one in the community — friends, family members, or mere acquaintances of the nominee.

Send in your nominations today for our own community's "Suburban Homemaker of the Year."

East Siders Lead UA's Special Gifts

Three East Siders are leaders of the new campaign unit inaugurated this year by United Appeal — the Special Gifts Division.

William B. Hoyer, 70 S. Ardmore, is division chairman. The two honorary chairmen are George W. Byers, Sr., 658 Fairway, and Robert K. Levy, Sr., 584 S. Kellner.

Purpose of the Special Gifts unit is to contact potential givers of larger amounts individually. Those persons meeting the standard set by the division will be listed in the Roll of Honor.

Previously, the individuals who will be contacted by this new plan contributed as part of the drive in their companies or offices.

It is felt that under the new plan, Hoyer said, leading contributors will have better opportunity to express their "maximum responsibility" for support of essential services.

The Special Gifts contacts is being done in advance of the opening of the general campaign on Oct. 15.

City Fire Department Began As Volunteer Unit

Protection of property and lives from fires in the new city of Columbus became the concern of citizens when the capital was ten years old.

Thursday, June 11, 1959

A volunteer company, organized about February, 1822, consisted of one hook and axe company of about 15 men, a ladder company manned by 12, and a company of 12 men to act as guards of property.

All citizens between the ages of 15 and 20 were drafted as members of a bucket brigade, and a supreme director was named to be in full charge of all fires.

In addition to two ladders, four axes, four short ladders and two hooks purchased by the city for the use of fire companies, each owner or occupant of a dwelling, store or shop was required to furnish water buckets of "good jacketed leather, to contain ten quarts each."

The first fire engine, purchased about ten years later, was dubbed, appropriately, the "tub."

The apparatus was a clumsy affair; entirely inadequate. Water had to be laboriously poured from buckets into the engine, and a force pump, manipulated by hand levers, furnished the jet of water to extinguish the fire.

Not only was the equipment too meager to meet requirements for their job, volunteer firefighters were also entirely dependant upon cisterns, springs and wells for their water supply.

Little is recorded about the fire department until 1835 when it made a new beginning with 25 members.

First official act of the new organization was the purchase of badges and some miscellaneous equipment.

Chemical Unit First To Fight Hilltop Fires

Hilltop fire protection dates back to 1897 when a downtown fire unit was transferred to an old frame barn on W. Broad-st at Whitethorne-av, now the site of a service station.

Known as Number L Chemical House, the unit's equipment consisted of two horses and a double 80-gallon chemical wagon.

Four men were on duty 24 hours a day, six days a week, ready to answer Call Box 41, Sullivant-av at Princeton, alarm box for the entire Hilltop.

As the new community progressed the need for better fire equipment increased accordingly, and more call boxes were added.

Early in 1813 City Council provided for a new engine house to be located W. Broad-st at Wheatland, then part of the State Hospital grounds with an eye to the protection it would offer the institution.

The fire house, now designated Number 17, is still in use.

That same year, when the new motorized company went on duty, the chemical unit was disbanded and its men assigned to building inspection.

Two hand engines were later purchased, called 'the "Franklin" and the "Scioto" to service a city now grown to a populaton of more than 2000.

Firefighters received no pay, but were fined if they failed to attend fire meetings or respond to a fire.

In 1851 three sites were acquired for the building of fire stations—one at third and Chapel (then Sugar Alley), another on High-st at Gay and the third on State-st btween High and Front.

The new steamer, "Columbus," purchased in 1855, arrived Oct. 5, drawn by three powerful horses and was placed in service at the location on Third-st.

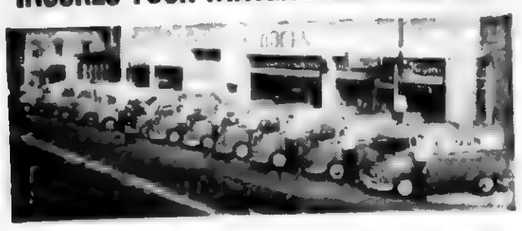
Cost of the steamer was $6000, a fraction of modern fire engines' $40,000 to $50,000 price tags.

It took the burning of the Neil House in 1860 to prove the inadequacy of hand engines, and Columbus emerged from the disaster as the fourth city in the country to adopt a full-time, paid fire department.

City ordinance also changed the title of "supreme director" at that time to Chief of the Fire Department, and John Miller, a banker, became the city's first.

From the colorful horse-drawn equipment of the department's beginning to today's shiny mechanical masterpieces; from three little fire stations to the system's present 25 and a handful of volunteers to a force of 700 trained specialists, Columbus Fire Department has kept pace with the city's growth.

The new Division of Fire Complex, dedicated May 27 this Sesquicentennial Year, on Greenlawn-av overlooking the Scioto River, houses fire administrative offices, the Bureau of Fire Prevention, photography department, Arson Squad, public information office, Communications Division with its radio and line departments, the Training School with offices and classrooms, and a six-story drill tower.



"PRIDE OF COLUMBUS," the city's first steam engine, was purchased at a cost of $6,000.

Early Flatboats Carried Produce To New Orleans

A plan to carry produce by flatboat to New Orleans was launched by Lyne Starling in 1811-12. The route was by the Scioto to to Ohio River and to New Orleans via the Mississippi.

Floated downstream with the current were barges of wheat, hams, barrels of cider, whiskey, flour and bacon.

After the initial success, boats made the trip twice a year. In New Orleans they were sold for lumber and the men returned by foot or horseback.

Some early Franklinton settlers moved their families with these boats—John Ransberg, who operated a flour mill here, built a large flatboat to carry his family, furniture and farm animals, and finally settled in New Madrid, Mo.

Greenlawn Was Once Sulphur Farm

White Sulphur Farm, named for the bubbling sulphur spring on its ground, bordered the Scioto River south of Columbus and was the farm of early Franklin County settlers, Isaac and Jeremiah Minor.

The brothers came to the pioneer village of Franklinton from their New York home in 1807. After two years here they farmed at Deer Creek in Madison County for awhile. Later they returned here where they purchased the huge farm, whose grounds included all the present Greenlawn Cemetery and several hundred more acres as well, settled, an Indian Village was Before Franklin County was settled, an Indian Village was located near the spring, where Greenlawn bridge now crosses the Scioto.

Since Mr. Minor was a prominent judge, the community's influential families often entertained in the Minor home, scene of many distinguished social affairs.

Veterans' Home Once On Hilltop

A Soldier's Home was established on the Hilltop, north of the Columbus State Hospital in 1864 and remained there until 1869, records show. More than 200 disabled veterans lived there at that time.

The patients were moved to General Assembly, Worth-the National Soldier's Home

Except for one vote in the at Dayton in 1869 and the home was abandoned.

SARAH KARN, right, is Ladies' Day manager at Penney's Town and Country store and she's got some real values lined up for the female customers this Friday, Sept. 14. It's a day when the ladies take the limelight and gigantic bargains are thrown in for good measure. Being shown some dry goods here is Martha Kincade, an early Ladies' Day shopper.

GALS IN LIMELIGHT
Friday Is Ladies' Day At Penney's . . .

This Friday, Sept. 14, is Ladies' Day at all seven Columbus Penney stores and the gals at the Town and Country store will have things under full control when the store opens at 10 a.m. Friday morning.

Ladies' Day originated at Downtown Penney's in 1950 to bring the women associates into the limelight and to show that the women are just as capable as the men.

Town and Country lady manager Sarah Karn has been with the Penney company five years and currently sells in the drapery department. Sarah, who lives at 104 Fairway-blvd, enjoys sewing, bowling and fishing in her spare time.

Among the special events she has planned for the day is informal modeling throughout the store. The men will also be dressed in unusual outfits to celebrate the event, and they will be required to do various trivial tasks throughout the day.

Charlie Collins, Town and Country store manager, says, "Ladies' Day gives the gals a chance to show us men what they can do while everyone has a good time and our customers get terrific values."

Reassigned To Lowry

It Still Goes

Over a century ago the John Wanamaker department store in Philadelphia started advertising when he opened his new business and took $24 out of the first day's receipts of $24.67 to invest in further advertising.

This firm has been a consistent user of newspaper advertising over the years and has used more than five million lines in Philadelphia this past year.

The moral of the story is that success in business is dependent on good advertising.

Congratulations, Kiwanis

A tip of the hat to our good friends in Eastern Kiwanis Club who celebrated their 10th anniversary with a big party this past Wednesday.

This club has had a wonderful service record in this community over the 10-year period and this past year was honored as the outstanding club in all of Kiwanis International.

We wish these men much more success as they pursue their program under the motto of "We Build."

Unfair To Jackson

Last week's Life Magazine carried a note to the effect that it is time for the annual Jackson, Ohio, Apple Festival, and said that Jackson County's "million apple trees produce half a million bushels of apples." Maybe the drouth hit Jackson County real hard this year!

Deshler Students Meet Peru Guests; At Bexley On Friday

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.

To four Peruvian Indians touring Columbus currently as guests of the F. and R. Lazarus and Co., America is just one big package of hot dogs, soft drinks, football games, and twisters tied in red, white and blue ribbons.

And, although they can't speak English, their smiling eyes verify the fact that they wouldn't have it any other way.

The Peru visitors are appearing in the Peruvian Indian Workshop and Pinata party on Lazarus sixth floor until Sept. 29. But, it's not all work for them—not by a long shot.

One highlight of their visit was a party given them Sunday by third grade students at Deshler Elementary School in the South Side.

The students there decorated the auditorium with everything — including a large Pinata which could satisfy the sweet tooth of any Spaniard in the best tradition—and topped off the afternoon by teaching the visitors the twist dance.

The twist lessons readily volunteered by the students, were prompted as a reciprocal venture after the youngest eight - year - old Reymunda member of the Indian troop, Polomino, taught a folk dance to the Deshler crew.

Polomino danced with her sister, 18-year-old Maria Nieve, to the music furnished by other Indians, 24year-old Juan Bautista Quispe and 20-year-old Augustine Chaina Huilca.

This Friday night will be another big one for them.

Arrangements have been made for them to be guests at the Bexley High-Upper Arlington football game at Bexley Sept. 2. They will be introduced during half-time proceedings but, judging from their past appetites, they'll be more wrapped up in eating hot dogs and drinking cokes than watching 22 men battle over a pigskin.

The four are technically Quechua Indians, of Inca descendants, and this is the first time they've been away from their remote village of Huarocondo—10,000 feet up in the Andes—a village that has changed little since the Spaniards overwhelmed the Inca Empire over 500 years ago.

This quartet was able to make the trip by winning a contest designed to determine the village with the greatest production output of the year.

Since Huarocondo won this year, the villagers competed in a giant fiesta—a kind of talent contest — and the four visitors were the winners in such talents as spinning, weaving, knitting, singing, dancing and playing musical instruments.

Young Reymunda, however, didn't have to compete. Her enthusiasm was so great that she was granted the trip anyway. She is the first Quechua child ever to leave Peru.

If one word had to be used

Special Permits Sought From Zoning Board

Francis E. Smyser, 4360 E. Livingston-av, seeks variance from the Board of Zoning Adjustment to establish a business and professional office at 4360 E. Livingston-av, in a suburban residential district.

Sylvia Schecter, 2811 Fair-av, seeks variance from the setback regulations at E. Broad-st and on Napoleon-av to erect store rooms at the northeast corner of E. Broad-st and Napoleon-av in a commercial district.

A public hearing will be held before the Board of Zoning Adjustment in Room 228 City Hall, Friday, Sept. 27, at 2 p.m.

Columbus Is Pilot Study Area

The Columbus metropolitan area will be the first Ohio city — and one of the few in the nation — to carry out a master transportation study, it was learned this week.

The study will include all forms of transportation, including private autos, buses, freeways, city streets and even street lighting, etc.

It will be an integral part of the Columbus master plan, for which organizational work already has been started.

Designation as a pilot city simply means that the work of creating the study will be observed by planning officials from cities all over the country.

The big push to get the transportation study started here is to get under the wire before passage of pending legislation in Congress. The legislation is expected to make it mandatory that all urban areas of more than 50,000 population have a continuing comprehensive transportation plan.

New (Sometimes Scary) Way Of Life For Transfers

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.

Hundreds of teen-agers are new to the Columbus school system this year . . . all of them experiencing a new way of life in strange surroundings and each grabbing a different impression in our high schools.

Students at South and Eastmoor were interviewed this week concerning any difficulties that have arisen over the switch of schools from out of town. Some of their comments bordered on the humorous—others indicated they were having a frightening experience.

Most unusual, perhaps, was the fact that the students seemed to be amazed at the footwear by students here. For instance, Pamela Dudley, a 14-year old sophomore at South, recently of Mill Valley, Calif., was amazed that sandals were't as popular here as on the west coast.

"Another thing," Miss Dudley said, "girls back home wore high heels more often — I guess they dressed up more or something. Here, it's all T-straps."

Even the male newcomers commented about the shoes. Also at South, Dale Collins, 16, of Williamson, W. Va., chatted about the fact that boys at his native high school wore loafers most of the time. "Here", he said, "it's pointed toes and Cuban heels."

Girls are pelted with questions about clothes, boys, social activities and courses in their old schools. Fellows are quizzed about girls and sports in their former hometown.

If you come from another country, the questions get even more interesting.

Whitehall Walks Eyed

A Whitehall councilman decided during regular meeting Tuesday night that sidewalks are needed in that suburb and he's setting out to provide them.

Councilman Ray Shipley told the solons of a resolution he's planning to submit during the Oct. 2 meeting which will call for plans and specifications for new sidewalks in English Village.

English Village is a community of two-family dwellings located generally south of Broad-st and bordered by Robinwood-av on the west and Yearling-rd on the east.

Shipley said property owners put blacktop over the sidewalks at driveway entrances in the village without properly repairing broken walks.

The councilmen gave their OK to a resolution calling for construction of sidewalks in five other locations, including the south side of E. Broad-st, west of Pinewood-dr, where sidewalks were supposedly ordered several years ago but were never built.

In other action, a council study of legislation to do away with the city's C-A-O zoning classification, which allows construction of large, multi-unit apartment buildings, was put off until Oct. 2.

The city's Planning and Zoning Board recommended against the classification, but the legislation was set for public hearing on the Oct. 2 council meeting date by a split vote of the solons.

Elimination of the classification would leave only two and four-family apartments possible, a situation looked on favorably by Mayor Walter B. Moling.

Council also:

- Heard an engineering study which reported an estimated $46,500 is needed for additional sewers to allow development of E. Broad-st, east of the Columbus General Depot.
- A $25,000, eight-inch sewer is needed for an 11-acre tract on the north side of Broad-st, east of the depot, where there are no sewers at the present time.
- Withheld action on an apartment rezoning request for Broad-st, near Yearling-rd, pending a study of the sewer survey.

BLISS RUN HELPS BRING ABOUT POLICY STUDY

If necessity is really the mother of invention, kindly refer to Bliss Run as "Mrs. Necessity" in the days to come.

With reaffirmed faith in good ol' foresight, city officials will sit down to set a policy long overdue on a matter that has caused considerable grief — grief now viewed through hindsight.

Bliss Run, a sewer problem in the East Side which has received considerable cussing and discussing, is one of several drainage ditches in the city which prompted officials to do some policy making to eliminate future similiar developments.

The decision to set policies on open ditches was brought about by Bliss Run area residents who attended Columbus City Council Monday night.

Sewerage Supt. Carl Schoene presented a $200,000 plan for troublesome Bliss Run Monday, but he wouldn't guarantee that it'll work.

The plan includes (1.) Replacing the culvert at Berwick-blvd to allow better flow in the present stream (2.) Installing a "draft tube" to reduce water velocity at the Livingston-av culvert (3.) Lowering the east lake of the twin Berwick Lakes by 1.3 feet and cleaning out mud and muck (4.) Deepening the stream's channel up to 24 inches, widening and paving its bottom with concrete and (5.) Replacing the Roosevelt-av culvert.

This is all practically "water through the ditch" now, so to speak, and what seems to concern city officials now is preventing same in the future.

City Councilwoman Golda Mae Edmonston, chairman of council's service committee, will meet with Schoene and City Finance Director Wayne Freeman to set policies on these matters.

"Something should have been done years ago," Freeman said Tuesday.

Freeman has his own theory on how to handle ditches in the future. As he sees it:

"The developer should bear a pretty doggoned big share of closing these ditches. If the area is so large and a ditch so big that it would prohibit development, then the city should step in and bear part of the expense — that's on ditches up to about 48 inches.

"Then, when feasible, the property owner should be brought in and charged assessments."

BEXLEY ART SHOW IS CROWD-DRAWER

BEXLEY'S BY-WORD FOR BEAUTY

CONDITION: QUESTIONABLE
Every so often, we have to confound a customer! Don't know why a lady looks so surprised, when we tell her that her hair isn't ready for a new permanent wave or more coloring—but she's usually shocked. Still, you surely wouldn't want us to gamble with your locks. That's what we would do if we applied a permanent waving solution to brittle, overprocessed hair-ends—and we simply can't do that to you!
HEAD START
Conditioning treatments in advance of the wave or hair color promise a vital improvement in the end result. Here's how the conditioning's done: We shampoo you; rinsing thoroughly. Carefully . . . inch by inch . . . we'll comb partings all over your head, and apply the substance to every strand. You'll just know it's going to be helpful. After it's all applied, we comb it into the ends of your hair. Then we wrap your head and warm you quickly, under the dryer. Feel the soothing treatment? It's wonderful.
UNCOVER BEAUTY
Off comes the cap—and there's your hair, bathed in richness! Now it's ready for setting, with added sheen you haven't seen for months . . . isn't it exciting? See how manageable it seems, as we comb. Soon usually in a week or two, your tresses will be ready to take a permanent wave, or bleaching. You've made a fresh start toward loveliness!

Exports of agricultural products for the fiscal year 1962-63 are likely to fall below the 1961-62 level. A major reason is that wheat exports are expected to decline substantially from last year's record because of larger crops in many importing countries.

SPAN THE SEASON

You can span the season from summer into fall and do it nicely. Of course, some changes are absolutely necessary. To look really attractive when you hit the autumn trail some new innovations are important in your make-up as well as your coiffure. Popular shades of the new season will require the change in your make-up. With the current variation in feminine fashions, a new hairstyle seems the smart thing to do.

Your new hairdo will make all the difference in your appearance. It takes professional know-how to arrange it to suit you alone. Iva's Beauty Salon, 3078 E. Broad Street, Columbus. BE. 5-5474. Town and Country Shopping Center.

The Fabric Doctor

"Was My Mother Correct To Say Drycleaning Wears Out Clothes?"
Mrs. A.R.P.
Dear Mrs. A.R.P.:
There are many "Old Wives' Tales" in all businesses and professions. This is one that plagues drycleaners and launderers. Not long ago the National Institute of Drycleaning conducted a two-year wear study which proved that it is not the cleaning, but the abrasion a garment receives that wears it out.
If you would like to conduct a test yourself, ask your friends where their garments wear out first. You will find that garments of different people wear out in different places. The man who stands all day will wear out the back of his trouser cuffs first. The man who toys with the keys or change in his pocket will wear out the pocket and the facing of the pocket that leads to the change or keys. The salesman who works behind a counter will wear out the area just below his pelt as he leans against the counter.
The National Institute of Drycleaning reported that a scientist who wore a large stop watch on his left wrist wore out his left trouser pocket first. A newspaper man wore out the inside of the knees of his trousers where they rubbed against his typewriter table. A night watchman wore out the collar on his uniform first because the bristly hairs on his neck rubbed against his coat collar whenever he turned his head, which was very often in his inspection work.
These incidents in addition to scientific tests show that it is abrasion, not cleaning, that wears clothes thin. In the drycleaning process all clothes receive the same amount of flexing. If they wear out where they have been pressed it is only because that is where they have been subjected to abrasion in wear. Frequent cleaning removes the tiny, sharp particles of soil which chaff a fabric. Actually cleaning will help preserve the life of your garments.

AROUND EDUCATIONAL CIRCLES

HIGHER HORIZONS

NEW YORK (ENS) — Volunteers from area colleges are helping out in the board of education's "Higher Horizons" project which seeks to raise the educational and cultural levels of school children in under-privileged neighborhoods. Between 150 and 200 students from Columbia University and Barnard College will work in the program this year.

MONEY NEEDED . . .

A recent survey by the State Department of Education shows that about $58.5 million is needed to provide adequate classroom facilities in Ohio public schools. Sixty-one districts in 34 counties said they do not have enough local funds for school building construction.

QUALITY COSTS . . .

A $33.6 billion a year price tag has been put on the cost of high quality public education by 1970. This is nearly double the current cost.

CHECKING COMMUNITY HEALTH

We Became A Joiner

Almost without exception, the communities which are thriving best also seem to be those served with well-functioning local newspapers.

Just which leads to which may be left open to conjecture, but it's a cinch that many communities are destined to grow faster in the next few years with the help of their hometown newspapers.

We see dozens of such cases every week in the "exchanges" mailed to us from every part of the country. One fine publication is the Arlington Heights Herald, one of the 14 Paddock weekly newspapers in the outer-Chicago area. Last week's regular edition of the Herald carried 120 beautifully edited pages. And a far cry from the old "country weekly" concept, it is! Nevertheless, it is serving the same basic purpose as that humble single-fold sheet still printed on a hand-fed press in a few towns - - - it's telling the people their story. Things about their homes, their schools and churches, their jobs.

There's a strange restlessness, however, that we've noticed among some publishers — the best ones seem to be the most impatient to improve their product. About a year ago Hartley Newspapers were attracted to the newly-formed Suburban Press Foundation. We were impressed with their kind of zeal: to improve the editorial and advertising content of suburban papers all over the nation. So we joined.

You're hearing from this foundation already. It has kicked off a nationwide search for the National Suburban Homemaker of the Year." A beautiful trophy and a $5,000 cash grant will go to some deserving housewife. She could be reading this newspaper now!

The Suburban Press Foundation has just granted its first college scholarship in Journalism. Dr. Curtis D. MacDougall of the Medill School of Journalism of Northwestern University selected the winning essays on the subject of "Suburban Journalism." Dennis Byrne of Marquette University won the top prize.

Chester K. Hayes, executive director of the Suburban Press Foundation said: "The interest shown by the journalism students from all over the nation is an indication of the increasing attention being paid to the suburban newspaper field."

But, it was something that young Byrne stated in his essay that was especially interesting. "Suburban editors," he wrote, "should not be blinded by the dynamic expansion of the suburbs to the extent that all they see worth reporting is news of (that community) . . . . they should take all the news of importance to their readers, even if outside their readership areas, and wrap it up with local news to present a neat, meaningful package to the reader."

Dennis, you started us cogitating on our concepts, again! Maybe it's time to call another conference of the foundation.

DENNIS BYRNE of Northfield, Ill. and a senior in the School of Journalism, Marquette University, Milwaukee, is presented a check as the first place winner in a student essay contest sponsored by the suburban Press Foundation, Inc. Robert Y. Paddock, foundation president and vice-president of Paddock Publications, Arlington Heights, Ill., makes the presentation.

Satire Best Ammo Against Stupidity

The great paradox of man is that he is the highest of animals, possessing unlimited intellect, and at the same time one of the lowest when it comes to habits of stupidity.

This probably explains why Roget's Thesaurus contains a half-dozen columns of synonyms for "stupidity" — verbs, nouns and adjectives — while "wisdom" occupies hardly one.

McPeek

Stupidity, or call it folly, being an easy target, through the ages has served as a ready butt for satire and denunciation.

But because stupidity is its own armor, it has survived millions of direct hits . . . and will continue to do so. Somewhere I once read "even gods fight in vain against it," a statement that in its implied acceptance of a multiplicity of deities, carries a fair amount of stupidity itself.

Being aware of man's seeming inability to cure this tumorous affliction, you would think a pip-squeak small-town editor would be wise enough to keep his mouth shut. But I'm not immune to vacuity.

Perhaps that is why it disturbs me — it is unpleasant to have a disease that appears incurable. This may be the reason I became a newsman; so I could have a weapon to take pot-shots at stupidity —even when the target is myself.

The history of stupidity—which most often crops up in the form of pride, vanity, greed, gullibility, prejudice and fear—started in the Garden of Eden (if we accept Genesis) and has continued to this moment.

It surrounds us.

It manifests itself in our total sacrifices for the sake of wealth, our beliefs in myths and disbeliefs in fact, our religious fanaticism, our love of titles and ceremonies, our sexual idiosyncracies, our entanglement in bureaucratic red tape, our search for eternal youth, and the irrational quirks and jargon of our laws, to name a few.

FOOD MARKETS THIS WEEK

Studies Show How Shoppers Use Ads

By ESTELLE B. FRANKS

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Fruits — Bartlett pears, prune plums, apples, grapes, bananas

Vegetables — Potatoes, carrots, cabbage, yams, squash

Are you a well informed food shopper? There are many ways that today's modern homemaker becomes informed. The most used source of information is probably the newspaper, according to findings of the vast amount of research done in this area. However, radio and television are also important media by which homemakers increase their knowledge of the food market. Magazines, food displays, neighbors and friends are also listed as sources of information about foods.

Mrs. Franks

One interesting study, done in Indiana on newspaper advertising, revealed that 85 percent of the homemakers that were interviewed read food ads within the past week. Forty percent said they used the ads to "compare prices"; 22 percent used them to get ideas for meals and another 35 percent using the newspaper ads for both prices and menu ideas. It was also found that food ads were used by all the classifications and groups of people who participated in the study.

Another study, conducted by Life Marketing Laboratory, concluded that the supermarket advertising in newspapers appeals to the price-conscious shopper. For one thing, these shoppers tended to buy store brands rather than nationally advertised brands.

The same survey showed that supermarket emphasis on "specials" causes women to look upon the supermarket advertising as strictly a price deal. Some shoppers even feel it is a waste of space to list national brands at regular prices.

It might be interesting to check yourself against the above findings. Do they hold true for you? If yes, then consider yourself a close reader of food ads.

Meat Prices

How long meat prices will stay at present levels is difficult to predict. Livestock marketings were reduced sharply the first week of September as Cornbelt farmers withheld livestock for sale. How long the holding action will last, isn't known at this writing.

However, it appears that the effect on supplies will be temporary, and that marketings will gradually increase. Retail prices have gone up on many cuts, reflecting prices increases at farm and wholesale levels. This is most noticeable on the highly demanded cuts, such as steaks and chops. These advances should be temporary.

Supplies of both cattle and hogs are relatively large from a seasonal standpoint. So sizeable price declines seem likely when a normal marketing pattern is resumed.

Mood Of Change In Air As Autumn Nears

INSIDE ON THE Outdoors
By ROD COCHRAN

There is a certain feeling in the air as autumn approaches. In some strange way it can be hot and still feel like fall. I know that I am not completely nutty, for the animals, which are more closely attuned to weather and the seasons than humans, also feel this change.

Fish begin to move around, and apparently because of this fishing gets better. Hunting dogs that have loafed all summer begin to look attentive, and wait hopefully for the sign to jump in the car and be off. It can be 80 degrees and squirrels will be hiding nuts. The mood of change is in the air, some strange motivation that harks back millions of years can be felt by every one who is not completely housebound.

This is best observed in the birds, for even in August the species of blackbirds begin to flock together and create a hubbub with their noisy conversations. A sprinkling of ducks is seen on ponds that had no ducks all summer. By September the nesting orioles, thrushes and vireos of shady lawns and streets of Suburbia have disappeared. In their places are small, drab-plumaged birds which must be warblers.

The colonies of martins which delighted us last summer with their cheerful, gurgling clamor are already nothing but a memory. They are replaced by large, soaring flocks of nighthawks that take insects on the wing high in the evening sky.

Migration, of course, is only one of the changes felt in the fall. The hibernators are stuffing themselves with calories to last them through the long sleep ahead, not consciously but because instinct or an urge tells them to. Woodchucks do not know winter is coming, indeed, do not know what winter is for they have never seen one. They live in a world that is perpetually spring, summer and autumn, and like the warblers have never seen a snowflake falling.

While the woodchucks eat, the squirrels and chipmunks fill their larders with nuts and acorns. They do not know winter is coming either, but respond to invisible fingers pulling on invisible puppet strings. These are the tree planters in the animal world, for many of the treasures are not recovered but sprout and grow into trees.

A period of change is always a bitter-sweet time, and one can get nostalgic about the passing of summer. But ahead are the bright, blue days of October with the brilliant colors of changing leaves. Then will come the less colorful days of November that are enlivened with woodpeckers and nuthatches at the bird feeder, and exploding pheasants and running rabbits in the field. The constant shift of seasons is exciting as one time blends into another, and the sorrow of losing summer does not last for most of us.

Guest Pulpit . . .

'Living A Day At A Time' Is Wise Counsel

Let's consider this matter of living a day at a time, something far easier talked about than done. We dare say that no minister, even, undertaking to talk about living that way, can hold himself up as a perfect example of it at all times. And yet, we know that's the way we ought to be living. And because we don't our lives get all clouded up with fretting about the past and worrying about the future, which renders us incapable of living effectively in the present, with less peace of mind than we need.

Rev. Roth

One of the gilt-edged promises of the Old Testament, given by God through Moses, is, "As thy day so shall thy strength be." In your Bible that's found back in Deuteronomy, while on the early pages of the New Testament we have this from the lips of Jesus, Himself: "Therefore, be not anxious about tomorrow; let the day's own trouble be sufficient for the day.

I don't think we take Him wrongly when we hear Jesus saying in these words: "Take it a day at a time." It's as though he were calling in our anxious thoughts from the stretch of the weeks and years ahead to the life and duty of the immediate day. In fact it was with an accent of rebuke in His voice and words that He referred to the practice and folly of those who are so given to dragging tomorrow's troubles and worries in today's living — a mental crossing of bridges not yet reached.

But with even less reason, probably, we too, are a generation haunted by the future — the possibility of failure and the uncertainty of success: the kind of home we want to acquire, maybe never really settling down to enjoy the one we have because of a better one on which we uneasily have our eyes. There's the understandable uneasiness about health, employment, old age, and retirement, and even anxiety about the possibility of mass destruction by atomic and hydrogen bombs.

But all this parting of the curtain with nervous fingers for peeping into the future does something for us that is NOT GOOD in the way it hinders us in living the present day, right now, with the result that bye and bye the past gets filled up with days of which we didn't make very good or full use, for which we unfitted ourselves by the way we allowed anxiety about what's ahead to knaw at our vitality and keep us too nervous to do our best with what's to be done today.

But, a day at a time and we can do it according to God's promise. Otherwise we can't. A hospital patient who was reasonably sure it wouldn't be a short hospitalization looked anxiously into the doctor's face, and asked, "How long will I have to lay here, Doctor?" to which the wise doctor replied, "Only a day at a time, sister." Even sick people who take it that way get well faster than those who don't, and people who are well hold up better by taking it that way. Such people conserve their strength. They don't fritter it away in anxious-worry about tomorrow to which they haven't yet come.

We recall the old boatman who ferried an old-fashioned boat across the English Channel remarking that he didn't wait to start until he had enough steam to get all the way across. "The old boat would explode if I did that," he explained. He'd get up about 30 or 40 pounds of steam, and start. But he further explained that he did carry enough coal on board to make the necessary steam for the total crossing. Make your own application of that, friends. God doesn't give us enough grace at any point in life to carry us all the way across. We wouldn't need it or have capacity for it. But He does say in words of golden promise: "As thy day, so shall thy strength be." Let's take life the way God gives it and lets it out to us — a day at a time, matching His good promise with daily faith and trust.

AROUND EDUCATIONAL CIRCLES

HIGHER HORIZONS

NEW YORK (ENS) — Volunteers from area colleges are helping out in the board of education's "Higher Horizons" project which seeks to raise the educational and cultural levels of school children in under-privileged neighborhoods. Between 150 and 200 students from Columbia University and Barnard College will work in the program this year.

MONEY NEEDED . . .

A recent survey by the State Department of Education shows that about $58.5 million is needed to provide adequate classroom facilities in Ohio public schools. Sixty-one districts in 34 counties said they do not have enough local funds for school building construction.

QUALITY COSTS . . .

A $33.6 billion a year price tag has been put on the cost of high quality public education by 1970. This is nearly double the current cost.

CHECKING COMMUNITY HEALTH

We Became A Joiner

Almost without exception, the communities which are thriving best also seem to be those served with well-functioning local newspapers.

Just which leads to which may be left open to conjecture, but it's a cinch that many communities are destined to grow faster in the next few years with the help of their hometown newspapers.

We see dozens of such cases every week in the "exchanges" mailed to us from every part of the country. One fine publication is the Arlington Heights Herald, one of the 14 Paddock weekly newspapers in the outer-Chicago area. Last week's regular edition of the Herald carried 120 beautifully edited pages. And a far cry from the old "country weekly" concept, it is! Nevertheless, it is serving the same basic purpose as that humble single-fold sheet still printed on a hand-fed press in a few towns - - - it's telling the people their story. Things about their homes, their schools and churches, their jobs.

There's a strange restlessness, however, that we've noticed among some publishers — the best ones seem to be the most impatient to improve their product. About a year ago Hartley Newspapers were attracted to the newly-formed Suburban Press Foundation. We were impressed with their kind of zeal: to improve the editorial and advertising content of suburban papers all over the nation. So we joined.

You're hearing from this foundation already. It has kicked off a nationwide search for the National Suburban Homemaker of the Year." A beautiful trophy and a $5,000 cash grant will go to some deserving housewife. She could be reading this newspaper now!

The Suburban Press Foundation has just granted its first college scholarship in Journalism. Dr. Curtis D. MacDougall of the Medill School of Journalism of Northwestern University selected the winning essays on the subject of "Suburban Journalism." Dennis Byrne of Marquette University won the top prize.

Chester K. Hayes, executive director of the Suburban Press Foundation said: "The interest shown by the journalism students from all over the nation is an indication of the increasing attention being paid to the suburban newspaper field."

But, it was something that young Byrne stated in his essay that was especially interesting. "Suburban editors," he wrote, "should not be blinded by the dynamic expansion of the suburbs to the extent that all they see worth reporting is news of (that community) . . . . they should take all the news of importance to their readers, even if outside their readership areas, and wrap it up with local news to present a neat, meaningful package to the reader."

Dennis, you started us cogitating on our concepts, again! Maybe it's time to call another conference of the foundation.

DENNIS BYRNE of Northfield, Ill. and a senior in the School of Journalism, Marquette University, Milwaukee, is presented a check as the first place winner in a student essay contest sponsored by the suburban Press Foundation, Inc. Robert Y. Paddock, foundation president and vice-president of Paddock Publications, Arlington Heights, Ill., makes the presentation.

Satire Best Ammo Against Stupidity

The great paradox of man is that he is the highest of animals, possessing unlimited intellect, and at the same time one of the lowest when it comes to habits of stupidity.

This probably explains why Roget's Thesaurus contains a half-dozen columns of synonyms for "stupidity" — verbs, nouns and adjectives — while "wisdom" occupies hardly one.

McPeek

Stupidity, or call it folly, being an easy target, through the ages has served as a ready butt for satire and denunciation.

But because stupidity is its own armor, it has survived millions of direct hits . . . and will continue to do so. Somewhere I once read "even gods fight in vain against it," a statement that in its implied acceptance of a multiplicity of deities, carries a fair amount of stupidity itself.

Being aware of man's seeming inability to cure this tumorous affliction, you would think a pip-squeak small-town editor would be wise enough to keep his mouth shut. But I'm not immune to vacuity.

Perhaps that is why it disturbs me — it is unpleasant to have a disease that appears incurable. This may be the reason I became a newsman; so I could have a weapon to take pot-shots at stupidity —even when the target is myself.

The history of stupidity—which most often crops up in the form of pride, vanity, greed, gullibility, prejudice and fear—started in the Garden of Eden (if we accept Genesis) and has continued to this moment.

It surrounds us.

It manifests itself in our total sacrifices for the sake of wealth, our beliefs in myths and disbeliefs in fact, our religious fanaticism, our love of titles and ceremonies, our sexual idiosyncracies, our entanglement in bureaucratic red tape, our search for eternal youth, and the irrational quirks and jargon of our laws, to name a few.

But incurable as it may seem, satire is still man's most effective weapon against stupidity . . . or perhaps irony, which is a more compassionate, gentle form of satire that often contains love.

At the risk of being pedantic let me give Webster's definition of irony:

"A sort of humor, ridicule, or light sarcasm, which adopts a mode of speech, the intended implication of which is the opposite of the literal sense of the words, as when expressions of praise are used where blame is meant, and vice versa."

SATURDAY, SEPT. 22

Camp Fire Girls Will Display Crafts At Shopping Centers

East Side residents will get a chance to meet local Camp Fire Girls in action and take care of their shopping at the same time.

The girls, who have prepared window displays with the theme "Today's Program for Today's Girl," will be stationed at two shopping centers.

The schedule includes:

TOWN AND COUNTRY CENTER, E. Broad-st—10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 22.

GREAT EASTERN CENTER, Main at Hamilton-rd—10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 22.

Personal demonstrations by the girls in handicraft, Indian lore, singing, camp crafts, etc., will highlight the program, which meets the needs of girls between seven and 18 years of age.

The Camp Fire Girls organization, with the slogan "Give Service," will be 52 years old in March of this year and is the oldest educational-recreational program of its kind in the country.

Dr. and Mrs. Luther Halsey Gulick, founders of the organization, wove Indian symbolism and other Indian crafts into the activities of the Camp Fire Girls, which has given the girls a recognition of the basically fine philosophy of life of the American Indian.

EASTERN KIWANIS HAS 10TH BIRTHDAY

The Eastern Kiwanis Club celebrated its 10th anniversary Sept. 10 with a banquet at the Desert Inn.

Principal speaker for the evening was Phillip V. Stout, of the Hilltop Kiwanis Club, who is past Ohio district governor and chairman of the 1962-63 International Committee on education, fellowship and inter-club relations.

Dr. Earl Metz, Eastern president, presided over the program and extended greetings to such visitors as Ken Weeks, secretary of the Ohio District from the Fremont Club and Dr. William C. Myers, lieutenant governor, of the Newark Club.

Weeks presented a special service plaque to Bob Ramsey, immediate past president of the Eastern Club and president of the inter-club committee.

Evan E. Williams, governor-elect of the Ohio District, from Eastern, gave a brief talk and introduced new members.

YMCA Sets Swim Classes

The swimming instruction schedule at the YMCA for after-school sessions has been adjusted this year to take care of the extra length school day in the elementary schools.

Classes will now begin at 4:45 and 5:15 p.m. in the pool with the physical fitness classes set for 4:30 p.m. in the gym.

This new schedule will make it possible for many who previously have been unable to take advantage of the health and safety features in this supervised program to take part during the week and save Saturday for outdoor sports, hikes, camping and family affairs.

THE BOYS' branch maintains a complete swimming instruction schedule on a year around basis. This fall, there will be instruction at the beginning, intermediate and advanced levels for boys ages eight through 17. The first swim class sessions will start next week.

These classes are scheduled both on week day afternoons after school and on Saturday mornings. For detailed information on the complete physical program and membership advantages, call CA. 4-1131.

There is a physical fitness emphasis for older boys, including team and individual instruction in swimming, gymnastics, wrestling and weight lifting. There is an opportunity for recreational swimming, running and basketball for boys of all ages.

In the regular gym program there are running games, relays, calisthenics, mat tumbling, gymnastic apparatus fundamentals and athletic skills.

Adult Leaders Sought For Camp Fire Girls

Calling all men and women interested in working with youth program.

This fall many girls between the ages of seven and 18 will be anxious to join the 52 year old Camp Fire Girls program of educational-recreational activities. They can join only if adult leadership is volunteered.

Program for the Blue Birds, 2nd and 3rd grade girls, is centered around their Blue Bird Wish. The Camp Fire program, for girls in 4th through 6th grades, is centered in seven fields of interest, the Seven Crafts of Camp Fire. The Junior Hi Camp Fire is for girls in the 7th and 8th grades. This is a new program level and includes a wide variety of activities. Horizon Club is the Camp Fire Girls program for girls in the 9th through high school. Some of the activities stress personality development, social skills, co-ed activities, community service, etc.

The Camp Fire Girls organization, the oldest educational-recreational program of its kind in this country, has the following objectives which it seeks to encourage in every girl member:

1. The application of her religious, spiritual and ethical teachings to her daily living;
2. A love of home and family that grows as she grows;
3. Pride in woman's traditional qualities — tenderness, affection, and skill in human relationships;
4. Deep love of her country, the practice of democracy, readiness to serve;
5. The capacity for fun, friendship and happy group relations.
6. The formation of healthful habits;
7. The ability to take care of herself, to do her work skillfully and to take pleasure in it;
8. Interests and hobbies she can enjoy with others, and alone;
9. Love of the out-of-doors and skill in outdoor living;
10. A happy heart that will help her find beauty, romance and adventure in the common things of daily life.

The purpose of Camp Fire Girls is to perpetuate the spiritual ideals of the home and to stimulate and aid in the formation of habits making for health and character. Because Camp Fire believes that a girl's experiences as she matures affects her entire life, it provides opportunities for enjoyable and worthwhile leisure-time activities through which she may develop her best potentialities as an alert citizen.

The program, which combines fun and friendship, is offered to girls from seven through high school age — of every race, religion, and economic background.

Adult leaders must be 18 years of age or older. No previous training or experience is necessary. The basic requirements are a real interest in working with girls and willingness to give some of your time.

A basic training course is offered to all volunteers early in November, at no charge of course. Baby sitting for preschool children is available at training classes and transportation can be arranged for you.

For further information, please write Camp Fire Girls, Inc., 718 S. High-st, Columbus 6, or call Mrs. N. Agnew, —BE. 5-4640— Mrs. W. Coons —CL. 8-6027, or Mrs. D. Kloss —BE. 5-1015.

Transfers—

junior fron London, England — now attending Eastmoor High School. Questions to him include everything from "What did you do on dates?" to "Do they really drink tea and eat crumpets all the time like everybody says?"

Another think newcomers are finding out: Those pictures in their billfolds get more scrutiny in one week than they do in a year.

Accents sometimes get a ribbing, too.

But, most of the students agree that all the talk — even the cracks — are meant as friendly gestures. But, all temporary, superficial and not enough to cement solid friendships.

What about academic differences?

"School here seems like a breeze for me," said Fisher. "We didn't have all these study halls in England."

The very familiar lunch box was a point of interest for pretty Nan Van Arsdale, 18, a junior at Eastmoor and a native of Indianapolis, Ind.

Ron Gemilere, 16, an Eastmoor junior, is from Covina, Calif., and was a little taken back by "all the rules around here." According to Ron, students at his native high school were allowed to wear T-shirts to school and, even, leave their shirt-tails hang out if they wanted to.

He misses the beach parties, too.

One South student was interviewed. She's not a newcomer but an incoming freshman from Barrett Junior High School. She is new, too, to South, but not to the Columbus School system.

Lynn Mitchell is her name. She's 15 and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mitchell, 172 Innis-av. Her reactions were:

It's easy for me. I know a lot of kids here that I went to Junior High with . . . no adjustment problems at all, hardly." In fact, she was delighted to learn that there's "more boys here."

Carla Globe reported this. She's a 17-year old Eastmoor senior — fresh out of Lexington, Mass.

"Had some problems in scheduling," she said. "For instance, I took the equivalent to Eastmoor's senior English last year . . . so, this year I'm taking what they have scheduled as junior English."

Some of the transfers told doleful tales of having to repeat a semester of math and of not getting full credit for arts courses because they couldn't make the new school understand what work they've done.

As for finding your way around, the students have surmised by now that the schools give you little more than a full program card and a friendly nod. Here's where they have to make up their own "orientation program."

The principals tell us that they can stop at the school office for a map, a listing of school clubs, a schedule of school events and a roster of teachers' names.

"One of the first things is to go to someone like myself . . . someone with experience who knows all the "angles." There are two main things that you shouldn't do," Mrs. Crist says. "Don't (1) boast a lot about where you came from and (2) don't be too quiet or too aggressive."

It'll be YOUR school soon, newcomers. And that Alma Mater will be sweet music to your ears.

Jewish Center Orchestra Now Open For Registration

The Jewish Center Orchestra, which is in its fourth season, is under the leadership of Richard Suddendorf. Suddendorf, since 1956 a member of the Columbus Symphony, brings to the orchestra wide experience with all forms of instrumental music.

He received his Bachelor of Science degree in music education from the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music and the University of Cincinnati in 1952. The University of Illinois awarded him a Master of Science degree in Music education in 1955. Suddendorf served as an instructor of trumpet and music theory and conducted the brass choir at Baldwin-Wallace College before coming to Ohio State University where he performs in the same capacity.

Suddendorf, during the past season, has given the Jewish Center Orchestra the opportunity of enlarging its repetoire through playing works representative of all eras of musical composition. In addition to the classic and romantic works of such composers as Bach, Mozart, and Glinka, contemporary composers have been included as part of the orchestra's regular repetoire.

Membership in the Jewish Center Orchestra is open to the community. Suddendorf meets with the group regularly for rehearsal Thursday, from 8 to 10 at The Jewish Center, 1125 College-av. First rehearsal of the season is scheduled for the evening of Sept. 27. Anyone interested in participating in the orchestra activity is welcome to attend.

If further information is desired, please call program office of the Jewish Center, BE. 1-2731.

Homemaker Contest Now In High Gear

"There she goes, walking on air she goes . . ." Chances are Bert Parks won't be on hand to sing these famous lyrics, but when the National Suburban Homemaker of the Year is selected in Chicago in November, she might well be from our area. And it's for sure the lucky winner will be walking on air — because she will be toting a check for $5000.

Because we believe the suburban homemaker is truly an important pillar in the American way of life, Hartley Newspapers, in cooperation with local civic groups, women's clubs, service organizations, and other groups in the area, is sponsoring a community-wide search for a local homemaker of the year.

Today's homemaker is wife, mother, interior decorator, cook, family purchasing agent, housekeeper, confidante, chauffeur, dressmaker, club and church woman, civic leader or worker, and even practical nurse.

All kinds of awards have been bestowed on today's career women, professional women and women executives. But what about the woman whose career it is to make a home for the man she loves and the subsequent responsibilities it entails.

We are all apt to hear a little too much today about the apologetic shrug which accompanies a "Well, I'm just a housewife." In all honesty the lady might say, "I'm Stella Dallas, Mary Queen of Scots, Little Red Riding Hood, and even occasionally Florence Nightengale. I'm enough of a professional to serve my family in so many ways, I'm not sure who I am.

The time has come to recognize the inherent human qualities of the suburban homemaker. Besides the honor of being named area winner of our local contest, the deserving lady will be entered in national competition.

Most homemakers are too modest to submit their own names, but each of us know many area women who deserve a chance at the final award of $5000, a trip to Chicago, and a trophy.

Deadline for entries is Oct. 20, so drop us a letter at once of not more than 500 words telling us of your choice. Use the officials judging standards below as a yardstick in preparing your letter. Don't forget to send along the official entry blank.

McDonald's To Celebrate Second Year

The man who has served a whopping total of 4,800,000 hamburgers to families in Columbus is getting ready to celebrate his second anniversary of his McDonald's hamburger restaurant at 3643 S High-st, Great Southern Shopping Center.

Tony Felker will mark his second anniversary at that location on Sept. 28. He also operates McDonald's restaurants in Columbus at 45 W. Hamilton-rd, 2815 Winchester-pik in the Berwick Shopping Center, and 3500 E. Broad-st.

The local McDonald's is part of the big national chain which now numbers 370 units in 40 states. Nationally, McDonald's has sold more than 600 million hamburgers since the chain operation began in 1955.

"The overwhelming acceptance which families in Columbus have accorded McDonald's has been gratifying, and I would like to take the occasion of this anniversary to say thanks to them for helping us become a part of the community," Felker said.

Bell Changes Billing Dates

The Ohio Bell Telephone Company has announced a change which will affect the billing dates of most customers is being made in the company's Columbus District, which includes all of Franklin County, West Jefferson, London and Sedalia.

Ohio Bell is changing from six to 10 billing dates each month to spread the billing schedule more evenly over the month. Modern computer equipment has been installed in Ohio Bell accounting centers to help effect the change.

In order to cope with the complexities of billing, approximately 220,000 customers in the Columbus District, Ohio Bell has had to devise a smoother, more continuous workload schedule for its billing department.

J. P. Gibbs, Ohio Bell district commercial manager, said that a steady influx of new telephone subscribers, plus an increasing volume of long distance calls here, has made the change necessary.

The billing date change will begin with bills that some customers will receive the first week of October. And all customers will get their new bills before Oct. 31.

The fall hunting season is here again and millions of Americans of all ages and both sexes are taking to the woods and fields, gun in hand, bent on bringing back a loaded game bag.

Sunday School To 'Itch' For Carolyn

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.

MONROE-LIKE POSE OF CAROLYN
'. . . Not My Character At All'

It's a good thing children aren't being allowed to see the Prairie Players' production of "Seven Year Itch", because what would they say seeing their Sunday School teacher playing an alluring siren?

"It's not my character at all," exclaimed Carolyn Lane, 4650 Musket-wy, Lincoln Village.

Mrs. Lane has the marilyn - Monroe - popularized lead in the "Itch" show. In real life, however, she goes to the other extreme and teaches Sunday School at First Community church, instructs an adult sewing class for the South - Western School District and is listed on the roles of Lincoln Village Beautifiers Club.

The Prairie Players, a southwestern Franklin County community theatre group, presents three major productions each year and as many minor productions as scheduling will permit.

"The Seven Year Itch" will be presented Sept. 28-29 at 8:30 p.m. in the Prairie School auditorium on Norton-rd.

The Friday night performance is the night of the theatre party and will include cocktails and dinner at the Nationwide Inn, seats at the play and a chance to meet the actors and actresses at a dance at the Nationwide Inn.

Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Rolfe Harper, 878-3671.

Mrs. Lane sees "Itch" as a "real fun-type play." She says it's a "great deal of fun for me because I'm playing three different characters."

In case you're not familiar with the plot (or, your wife wouldn't let you see Marilyn's movie), Mrs. Lane is looked at in two dream sequences by the male lead, Tom Good.

"One of the dreams has to be in a silver, slinky gown," Mrs. Lane said. "A very sophisticated character with a cigarette holder and all."

In the other dream, Mrs. Lane appears in a very possessive role.

It all adds up to a big night of fun—two of them, in fact.

Mrs. Lane has appeared in "You Can't Take It With You," "Our Town" and "Desk Set" with the Prairie group and in "Auntie Mame" with the Columbus Players' Club.

Memberships in the group are still available for the year and persons interested are invited to join. Mrs. Richard Butler is membership chairman and may be contacted at 878-4744.

Tape Recorders Squeezing Record Company Business?

There's nothing more consorting than to remember hearing something which, at the time, seemed to come from a reliable source, and be unable to remember said source.

The problem becomes even more involved when checks with authorities in the field indicate that the story is false.

It was a couple of months ago that someone told me that either record companies or radio stations had devised a frequency at a pitch where it would be impossible to pick it up on home tape recorders.

Seems sort've logical, too, since I figured record companies were feeling the pinch in the pocketbook with folks doing their own recordings off the radio.

What was the reaction from greater Columbus area radio station engineers?

"Electronically impossible," replied Glenn Boundy, Jr., director of program operations at WTVN. This seems odd, too, in a day when we're about ready to believe that nothing is "impossible."

Record Companies Optimistic...

Boundy, who was speaking as an engineer, said he believes even firmer that the rumor was nothing more than that since "Cash", "Billboard" and "Variety" newspapers claim that the record business is booming. The publications go on further to state "More dealers are stocking more singles now than at any other time."

Clarence Schairbaum, engineer at WBNS radio, chimed in support of Boundy:

"A signal is put into 'free air' and I can't think of any way people with home tape recorders could be stopped from picking it up," Schairbaum said. "I don't put any stock into the theory."

These comments make it rather emphatic. Engineers say "it can't be done" but, then again, that's about the time someone sits down and does it.

Might not be a bad idea, either, if visitors to record stores become fewer and more far between.

Memoirs Of A Midnighter . . .

WTVN-TV personality Gene Fullen reports his record hops at Buckeye Lake every Saturday night are proving to be a popular stopping-off place for local teens. Season closes there Sept. 22. . . Interesting to note that Bel-Sha-Zaar, the first Egyptian dancer to open at Mike Joseph's Sands Club, 3915 E. Main-st, is back again following three or four of her predecessors. She must be the big favorite with the crowds. Incidentally, she told me not to confuse an Egyptian dancer with a belly dancer. "They use their bellies," she said. "We use our hips." "I'm hep," I said.

Downtown on the main stem, Benny Klein has been having good luck with pretty "twisters" and he's keeping pace. Currently appearing there are the Mambo-Cha Cha Dancers, having favorable results at the Broad and High Steak House. . . Columbus town has quited down somewhat with the folding of the local summer-stock tents and the stars slowly stealing away. Maybe theatrical houses — with the Cinema films, Dad — will feel an upsurge again now, until next summer anyway.

Just an all-too-brief mention of a wonderful performer, Mahalia Jackson, who'll appear Sunday, Sept. 30, 8 p.m. in Veterans Memorial on W. Broad-st. She's billed as the "World's Greatest Gospel Singer" and that ain't too far from wrong. Tickets on sale at Central Ticket Office, 46 N. High-st, and all Richman Bros. stores.

Don't Stop Johnny On Injury Grounds

Football injuries are like hydrogen bombs. Everybody knows they exist but nobody likes to talk about them. Coaches dread them and the parents who send Johnny off to the gridiron wars each year consider his departure for the football field with apprehension.

Everytime a gridder is fatally injured somewhere in the nation (10 last year in high schools), newspapers run the story because it is news but in most cases the article is buried in the hopes that it won't reach the eyes of anxious parents.

SPORTS photographers are instructed to stay away from pictures that depict a player stretched out on the field with an injury of one type or another.

I'm not trying to say that the seamy side of the game should be given top billing. But injuries do occur and it's best to look at the problem realistically instead of pretending it doesn't exist.

With the advent of widespread organization along football lines, a great percentage of our nation's pre-college gridders today are members of either their elementary-high school team or some sponsored amateur organization.

THIS SETUP naturally is the most desirable since proper equipment and supervision are natural safeguards to prevent injury.

As a result of this organization, there are more boys than ever before playing competitive football. Considering the number of boys involved and the opportunities (each time contact is made) for minor and, on occasion, major injury, the injury figures are low.

Anyone who has ever seen a football game knows that, due to the necessity for constant contact, the sport is naturally rough. For this very reason proper physical conditioning is absolutely necessary in the prevention of injuries since it hardens the body and increases resistance to fatigue.

THE AMERICAN Medical Association recommends a minimum of three weeks of conditioning prior to the first game of the season. Of course, maximum protection against injury can be obtained by a year-round training program set up by the individual athlete. This plan might include daily exercises and a job that demanded physical effort.

There are many points to be considered by parents who wonder if they should let their son play football. Two are of prime importance. Does he really want to play and is he physically adequate?

The boy who plays without a real desire and love for the game and its contact is just asking for injury. Half-hearted blocking and tackling is a sure invitation to injury to say nothing of the psychological problems involved when he really doesn't want to play.

BEING HEALTHY does not necessarily mean being physically adequate. A boy who has a history of broken bones, a record of concussions or weak ligaments, for example, is not physically adequate, although he might be healthy.

A thorough physical examination is of prime importance for boys desiring to play football. Good medical care, such as the attendance of a doctor at all games, is a major factor in cutting down on serious injuries.

High school coaches today must be well versed in more than just ways and means to field a good football team and win games. He must check equipment to see that its adequate, safe and properly fits his players. On the field, he must keep an eye open for players who are tiring or no longer alert.

THERE IS a lot of criticism today abou the "quick whistles" among game officials. However, the official that allows a play to continue after the forward pro s of a player has been halted is placing gridders on the field in danger of direct injury. Today's officials must meet careful standards in order to qualify.

New and improved equipment has made football safer today than at any other time. The old style helmet, shoulder and hip pads have been supplemented with additional safeguards to protect almost every area of the body.

Face guards and mouthpieces have largely cut down on facial injuries and each year, sporting manufacturers work to find more ways to improve the safety of the helmet and cut down head injury.

ARM, ELBOW, hand and knee guards are accepted subordinate equipment today while ankle taping has become a regular practice for most teams.

Despite the progress of protective equipment, the American Medical Association has strongly advised the strengthening of neck and leg muscles, with a particular emphasis on the knees. In these areas, a large percentage of injuries occur.

However, despite the physical training programs, the close supervision and the protective equipment, football injuries continue to raise their ugly heads each fall.

STATISTICS do show, however, that your boys chances of suffering injury on the gridiron are far less than sports such as swimming, diving, hunting and even basketball. And how about the toll of young people taken on the highways each year — young people that might not have been behind the wheel for a joy ride if they were out on the practice field.

Football can be one of the most important steps to the social, physical and psychological development of our nation's youth. It's a rough, tough game but so is the game of life. It demands co-operation with others, discipline, sacrifice, perserverance and courage—all tools in attaining mental maturity.

But, perhaps most of all, it is a vital link in cutting down the growing physical softness of America today. It is an important factor in tightening up the midsection of a nation that doesn't even have to cross the room to select a TV channel anymore.

Lady Golfers Hold Roundup

"A Day at the Carnival" was the theme for the first Roundup Party given by the lady golf members of the Stoney Creek Country Club on Tuesday, Sept. 11.

The party began with coffee and doughnuts served on the patio as each golfer selected her three favorite clubs with which to compete in a nine-hole tournament.

The hazards around the course were marked with gay streamers and bright balloons to point out the places where the ladies didn't want to drop a shot.

OBFF Opens Season Sunday

The Ohio Boys' Football Foundation will open its season play Sunday at 2 p.m. with 12 teams battling for league laurels this year.

American League matches find Arlington at Harley Davidson Comets, Obetz at Duckworth and LeCoumpte at Mifflin. In the National Division, Gahanna plays at Lockbourne and the West Mound Rams play at Meadow Gold.

Largest Crowd

The largest crowd ever to witness an Ohio State football game watched the Buckeyes defeat Michigan's Wolverines, 31-14 at Ann Arbor in 1957. The over-flowing stands held 101,001 football fans.

'LET SCHMIDT DO IT'

Whitehall, Cardinals Nab Second Wins

The word out at Whitehall these days seems to be, "let Schmidt do it," and the Rams end just can't help but respond. Mike Schmidt was instrumental for the second straight week in leading Whitehall to victory, this time with an 8-0 shutout win over backyard rival Eastmoor.

The two clubs battled to a standstill through the first three periods and it appeared that the game was to end in a scoreless deadlock until the final minutes of play.

WHITEHALL managed to put together a late drive that carried to the Warrior two-yard line. On a fourth down situation, Ram quarterback Bill Dildine handed the ball to Clark Fuller who fumbled as he drove into the end zone. But when the pileup of players unraveled, there was Schmidt with the football and the game tucked between his arms.

Schmidt came up with the same type of heroics last weekend as the Rams downed Westerville.

ST. CHARLES turned heads again Thursday night with its second point-productive victory of the season, downing Bexley, 41-16. The Cardinals, averaging better than 43 points in two wins, relied on the ball handling of quarterback Joe Breiteneicher and the break-away speed of halfback Tom O'Leary to run away from the Lions. St. Charles scored four times after intermission.

Breiteneicher's 11-yard sweep completed a 65-yard march in the second quarter to give St. Charles a 14-0 lead at halftime. O'Leary took charge in the third quarter, racing 59 yards around end to playdirt before adding a second tally later on a five-yard slant.

Jay Maupin broke through tackle for an 11-yard score in the final period for the Lion's second touchdown but it was not enough to prevent Bexley from evening its record at 1-1. Joel Brandt scored the other Lion touchdown.

TED COCHRAN, whose touchdown in the waning moments of play held Central to a tie two weeks ago, again made the difference as Zanesville handed East its first loss of the season, 13-0.

Cochran scored on a nine-yard run in the second period to give the Devils a 6-0 halftime lead, then matched his performance in the final period to solidify the win over the Tigers.

TEAYS VALLEY scored in the second period on an 11-yard pass from John Rush to Dane Roese, added a two-point conversion by Dave Hollenback and then hung on for an 8-6 win over new City League entry, Walnut Ridge.

Walnut Ridge made a bid for a tie in the third period when the Highlanders' Dan Arledge scored on a short plunge. The visiting Vikings maintained their lead and won the game, however, when Walnut Ridge failed on the conversion attempt.

STEUBENVILLE Central Catholic scored 18 points in the second half to hand Aquinas its first loss of the season by a 26-12 score Saturday night.

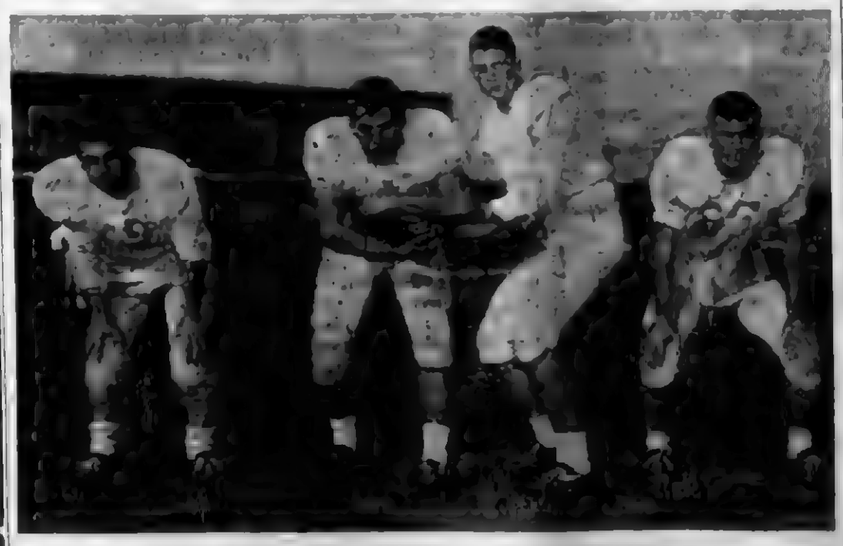
The Terriers' Fortcamp crossed the goal line twice for the losers but it wasn't enough to offset the running of the hosts' Bob Hagerty, a 220-pound halfback, who set the CC pace with a pair of scores.

A FOURTH QUARTER touchdown with only eight minutes to go in the game gained Bishop Hartley an 8-8 tie with Springfield Central Catholic in the Hawks' opener Sunday afternoon.

Quarterback Bob Schlager climaxed an 83-yard drive, sneaking over from the one-yard line. Halfback Jerry Emrich added the tying points with a two-point conversion run.

Later in the period, the Hawks drove to the Central Catholic one-yard line but were unable to score.

IN OTHER City League action, Arlington whipped South, 20-6; Middletown upended North, 36-6; Logan edged Whetstone, 8-6; Watterson slammed West, 48-0; Newark shutout Central, 18-0, and Lancaster battled Linden to a 14-14 tie.



CHECKING AROUND the CBL, Delaware toppled Marysville, 42-8; Worthington dumped Hilliard, 46-20; Pleasant View stopped Grandview, 14-6, and Urbana fought London to a 6-6 tie.

Friday night's card finds Linden (1-0-1) at Eastmoor (0-2), Walnut Ridge (0-2) at Marion-Franklin (1-1), East (1-1) at Lancaster (1-0-1), Arlington (1-1) at Bexley (1-1), Grandview (0-2) at Whitehall (2-0) and Aquinas (1-1) at Whetstone (0-2). In Saturday night play, St. Charles (2-0) travels to Mansfield Madison while Hartley (0-0-1) entertains Pleasant View (2-0).

Hartley $1000 Football Contest To Start This Week

Area Football Fans Given Chance At Cash Jackpot

Don't read this story unless you are sure you could use a little extra spending money each week for little or no work on your part.

The gigantic Hartley Newspapers football contest will give every area football fan a crack at winning up to $100 each week for the next 10 weeks. The contest is open to everyone—there is nothing to buy—and contestants place themselves under no obligations.

In the advertisements on this page you will find 24 top games to be played on the weekend of Sept. 29. Included are games in professional, collegiate and local high school ranks.

Everybody knows the Columbus area has the world-wide reputation of being the hottest football section in the universe, so picking most of the 24 game winners should not be too tough. The real fun comes when you realize that amateur pigskin predictors have as much chance of winning as the "experts" do. There's enough upsets each week to make things mighty interesting.

Tie games will be disregarded unless entrant specifies same on the coupon blank.

Rules of the contest can be found elsewhere on this page. Read them carefully and don't forget to fill in all the blanks and the tie-breaker. Be doubly sure the coupon blank is sent to the Football Contest Editor of this paper, 2465 W. Broad st, Columbus 4, O., not later than Tuesday midnight the week of the contest.

Bumper-to-bumper driving, says the Columbus Auto Club is a dangerous highway traffic hazard. A sudden stop on the highway can mean a disasterious pile-up of cars if they are traveling too close together. Always leave enough distance between you and the car ahead for a safe stop.

'Fearless' Predictions

There is either going to be a terrific balance in area football teams or we better stop listening to those little voices whispering in our ears. Last week's slate of football picks were enough to send the crystal ball out the window with the forecaster right behind. With a new sense of humility, we'll give it another try, hoping to improve on a sad, sad 23-17-2 season's record. Here goes:

Aquinas-Whetstone — Terriers back in win column. Aquinas.

Central-West — Pirates in a tossup. Central.

Linden-Eastmoor — Panthers parade. Linden.

Walnut Ridge - Marion-Franklin — Devils extend win streak. MF.

North-South—Bears bounce back. North.

Arlington-Bexley — Golden Bears growl. Arlington.

Grandview - Whitehall — Rams nab third win. Whitehall.

Groveport-Hilliard — Wild-Hilliard.

Hamilton Township - Amanda — Rangers roll on. Hamilton.

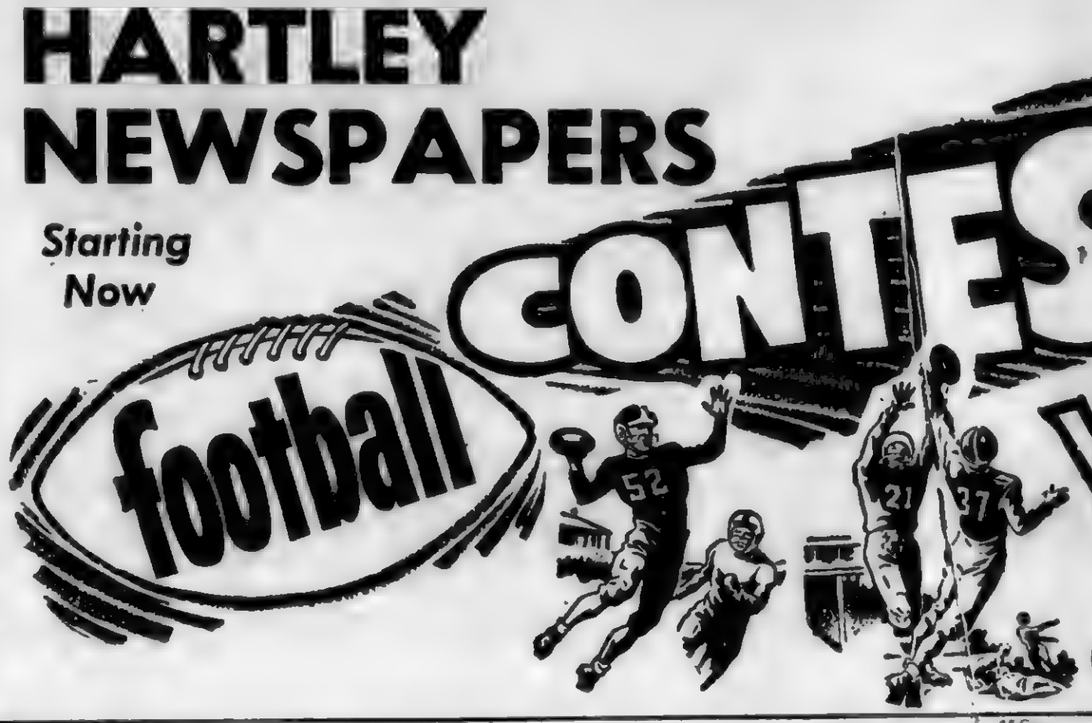
OCT. 28—Tigers vs Blues (1:30), Eagles vs Bears (2:30) at Southview. Pirates vs Maryland (3:00) at Harley.

Western Clubs Nab 'Cat Tilts

Two touchdowns by Dennis Brady and a strong Bear defense provided the Westgate entry in the Ohio Bearcat League with all the necessary ingredients to defeat the Southside Blues, 14-0, Saturday night in the season's opener at Jet Stadium.



Brady showed the Columbus Capital football club, who followed the smaller gridders onto the field, some fancy footwork. He scored on a 25-yard end run and an eight-yard slant off tackle.

THE WESTSIDE [illegible] displayed a balanced scoring attack to down the UAW Tigers, 28-0, Sunday at Harley Field.

'FELLOWSHIP'

Civitan Entertains Officials

Good fellowship and seriousness of purpose both prevailed last Wednesday evening when Eastern Civitan entertained several district and local area guests at a dinner meeting in the Vintage Room of the new Park Towers, 1620 East Broad-st.

Good fellowship brought together 25 business and professional men from the Eastern section of Columbus to meet Dr. Roy Miller, of Dayton, the recently elected governor of the Ohio District of Civitan, who relayed messages from zone and international officers.

He especially stressedthe six precepts enumerated by Fritz Kuler, president of Civitan International, in a speech made earlier this summer before the delegates attending the Dallas, Texas, convention:

"1, Effective leadership. 2, Stated, understood, adhered to purpose. 3, Useful, working committees. 4, Specific service rendered in the community projects. 5, Full membership encompassing fellowship, and 6, Informative, educational, entertaining, useful club programs."

Governor-elect Wallace W. Stover emphasized the need for every Civitan to "Speak Up For Freedom Today," and do all in his power to have his friends join in the efforts being made to overcome defeatism and personal lethargy.

Stover implored his listeners to accept their full share of responsibility for freedom's future by first being correctly informed, then think things through, then "speak up" and act for freedom as his informed conscience dictates.

Six new members of Eastern Civitan were introduced.

Eastern Review area residents may use any of these stations, or any of the 114 located all over the county, to receive their vaccine. Doctors stress that to completely free the community from polio all persons over two months of age must take the vaccine on each of the Sundays.

There's a good reason why everybody over two months old must take the vaccine.

Salk shots, though they prevent an individual from getting polio himself, still permit him to be a carrier of the disease. Even older persons, who normally wouldn't get polio themselves, can still carry it to other persons. But Sabin vaccine not only prevents the disease, it also prevents an individual from being a carrier. Thus, it can completely wipe out the threat of polio in the community.

The SOS, Sabin on Sunday, campaign has been endorsed by community and county boards of health. The vaccine is odorless and tasteless.

SOS does wipe out polio. The vaccine has been given to 250 million people in Europe and many millions in the United States, including two million in Ohio.

Giving the vaccine is easy. Two drops of it are placed in a cup of water containing a small amount of distilled water. The recipient just drinks it down. If the recipient is a baby, two drops of the vaccine will be placed directly on his tongue.

Dr. Fulton said the donation will be 25c per person. But those who can't afford it won't have to donate. They'll get the vaccine anyway.

Deshler—

by these folks in describing America it'd probably be "food."

Since this is one of the main things hard to come by back home, the plentifulness of it all has been overwhelming to them.

The variety, too, is quite a shift for these people who have survived most of their lives on toasted beans and corn. They had to walk two miles for water, also, and the "magic" of a spigot holds them spellbound.

Sound a bit like a chapter from "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court?" Maybe so, but no fiction story could have a happier ending — or beginning — than this one.

They say it best, in their own tongue, with a word most everyone understands: "Gratias." It means more than our "Thank You" . . . it means "Thank You Very Much" and, perhaps, we can say the same back to them but something tells me that, without their flashing eyes, we can't say it as well.

YOU HAVE A . . .
SERIOUS HEART CONDITION!

This warning by a doctor has made many stop and think seriously about the remaining years. When the doctor places you on a diet, or regulates your exercise, it is wise to obey.

Even more serious is the matter of making our hearts right with the Lord, for this deals with an eternity.

..."Man Looketh on the outward appearance, but the Lord looketh on the heart."

Regular worship is God's prescription . . . Attend Church Sunday.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH — THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

American Cancer Society Slate s Public Conference

Dr. Jack Miles, 2586 W. Broad-st, is in charge of arrangements for the Cancer Volunteer Conference to be held in the Youth Center Building on the State Fairgrounds Tuesday, Sept. 25.

"This is a chance for everyone who is interested in cancer control to be brought up to date," Dr. Miles says. "The meeting is open to the public."

"We will show two new cancer movies, and we will also have a 90-minute panel discussion on research at 4 p.m. with Dr. Arthur G. James as moderator. Dr. James has arranged to have nine physicians on this panel," added Dr. Miles.

The program will start at 2 p.m. with the new movies.

Dinner at 6:30 p.m. will feature an address by Ritherford L. Ellis of Atlanta, Ga., on "The International War Against Cancer." Ellis, chairman of the American Cancer Society's national board of directors, recently returned from Moscow where he attended the International Cancer Congress.

The only charge for the day's program will be for dinner. Reservations should be made with the Society's Franklin County Unit Office at 2300 W. Mound-st. Dinner tickets are $2.50 each.

Training and Development Of Manpower, Postive Steps

The Ohio Worker Training Act and the Manpower Development Training Act are both indications that positive action in Adult Education and training is a necessity. Dramatic changes in our economic picture have thrown a challenge to all of us in the community. Education and training of our local labor force to meet this challenge is a step in the right direction.

Here in Columbus, several training programs have already been accomplished. Under the Distributive Education plan of the State Department of Education and the Columbus Public Schools, 47 women have been trained as maids and 21 men have received training as custodial-housemen. Both programs were considered successful since most trainees were placed in jobs.

Currently the Ohio Worker Training program is upgrading 110 typists and 50 stenographers in skills to fill the many vacancies existing in the local labor market.

Approximately 500 persons applied for this typing and stenography training which started on July 2. Applicants were screened by means of tests and interviews, and final selections were made on basis of previous training, aptitude for office work, learn-ability and employability.

Typing students attend classes four hours per day, stenographers seven hours per day. Classes are offered through the facilities of Central High School, Whitehall-Yearling High School, Franklin Heights High School and Linmoor Junior High School. School officials report excellent progress in all classes. Trainees will be offered local, state and federal civil service tests as well as other avenues for employment opportunities.

ADVISORY GROUP

The federal Manpower Development Act, which became effective July 1, is administered under the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and the Department of Labor. Local schools and public employment services as well as other agencies such as the Bureau of Apprenticeship and Training serve in communities to establish needs for specific programs and for setting up such courses.

An advisory committee made up of business, labor, educational and civic leaders aids in these activities. The MDT programs differ from the OWT in that MDT courses not only provide training but may pay the trainee an allowance while he is in training.

Actual amounts of payments may vary, with a present maximum of $42 per week for a period of up to 52 weeks. Additional payments for travel and/or subsistence could be made to trainees required to live or travel out of the local area while in training. Trainees under MDT need not be unemployed but could be under-employed in relation to his skills and potentials.

WELDING COURSE

Several programs are now under consideration for establishment within the MDT framework. Possibly one of the first to be offered locally will be a training course in welding. Preliminary surveys have shown the need for welders does exist and employers are quite interested in the course. Various commitees are presently working out details involved.

Applicants who may be interested in training opportunities in the clerical or sales fields should register at the Clerical-Professional and Sales Placement Office of the Ohio State Employment Service, 74 E. Gay-st.

Food and Family Fitness
A Daily Food Guide

This Daily Food Guide, prepared by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, defines the four essential food groups necessary to good health and physical fitness. Well-balanced portions of each should be included in every day's meals.

Isn't it deplorable that, in this land of abundance, we have health problems directly related to food? Figures show that it's not our poor who make this so, for malnutrition is as prevalent in families of upper income brackets as it is in those of lesser incomes. This is more appalling when we consider that we have a greater supply of food, and, most important, a greater variety than any other nation in the world!

What is the reason? It's our eating habits. Food is a fetish . . . not the pleasant gathering of the family for happy, pleasant dining of good, well-balanced meals.

Overweight is placed high on our health problem list today, and we've been made aware that obesity is something to guard against. And so we indulge in faddism—crash diets; self-denial—to lose weight in a hurry lest the scale begins to climb. From over 500 million to one billion dollars is spent annually on pills, potions and so-called health foods.

Malnutrition among our teenagers is most frightening. The rate is mounting, especially that of the girls. The no breakfast, catch-as-catch-can snacking which they consider "smart" is making its mark—not only in the teenagers of today, but on the future generations they are bringing into the world.

Why do we make such a problem of food! Our forefathers didn't think of foods and fads. They depended upon the good things of the land—meat, fruits and vegetables, milk and bread as general fare. They worked hard and ate heartily—and had energy and strength. There is no reason why we, too, can't eat the good, substantial foods by simply making it a habit to eat well-balanced meals. We're more static today—less physical effort in our way of living—so it is balance that counts. Quantities must be related to activity. Medical science has established the basic food requirements.

It's up to the families—especially the homemakers—to know the food requirements for health and fitness—and make them a habit of the household. A little discipline to establish these good eating habits, will eventually become a habit of enjoyment—not one of prohibition and control. And it can be fun for the cook, too, in creating interest and variety in the way these basic foods are prepared.

Make eating a good pleasure—not a hardship. Should a specific health problem come up, such as required dieting, see your doctor—not a health faddist.

Stepped-Up Recreation Eyed For Future In Whitehall

JACK EBRIGHT AND JOHN WOLFE IN DIFFICULTY . . .
. . . Trying To Get Edge In Wordwise With Dorothy

Signal Session Burns Out

Parents from Pinecrest and St. Philip elementary schools in East Columbus again packed the Traffic Commission hearing room at City Hall, pounded on the table and criticized the group for inaction.

The group has been seeking traffic control signals on E. Livingston-av, and have received little satisfaction.

Traffic Commissioner John L. Gallagher continues to insist that more traffic signals could cause increased danger — instead of less — for children in the area.

Commission member William Neno criticized the board for "sitting on its hands" and for "not doing its job."

Neno also stated that the issue was becoming a "hot potato — politically and otherwise."

A regular traffic signal was installed at Yearling-rd and Livingston-av early this month. Gallagher said children attending either Pinecrest or St. Philip should cross Livingston-av there.

Neno gave his support to parents who stated the Yearling-rd crossing forces small children to walk too far off their route to school. The commission chairman said he personally observed traffic conditions in the area.

A motion was made to approve a signal at Vilardo-ln and another motion called for approval of both signals. The commission split evenly and both motions died for lack of seconds.

Cash on the carrelhead! That's how you're paid off if you win the Hartley Newspapers gigantic football contest. A total of $1000 is being given away during the football season to area football predictors who want to have a little fun guessing the winners of 24 top games each week. A contestant can win up to $100 weekly. You will find complete details on another page of this paper.

Drug Stores To Close On Sabin Sundays

If you find your neighborhood pharmacy closed on the days that the Sabin Polio Immunizations are being given, it will be because the services of the pharmacists are required to prepare and dispense the vaccine. More than 300 pharmacists will be required to staff the Sabin Stations in Franklin County.

After contributing their professional services in this community health program, most community pharmacists

New Muny Building Is Site

If you ever want lessons in becoming a one-armed paperhanger, just check with Whitehall residents in the future.

If plans submitted to that city's council are approved, both the youths and adults there will be busy all the time —with a capital "B".

The city is aiming to step-up its recreation program and, with the near completion of a new and spacious municipal building, this aim is closer to hitting the target.

Too Much?

The only problem that developed was too much activity.

A report submitted to the recreation board by Ernest Spychalski, director, listed activity in the basement of the new building Monday through Saturday, from about 3 p.m. to 10 p.m.

This was too much.

The recreation board decided that students should be home and doing homework earlier than that and Mayor Walter B. Moling pointed out that the basement area should be available to other groups besides recreation, so the program has been curtailed a little.

But, not much.

As it stands now, and as it is up for council approval, there'll be recreation activity every day of the week and on Saturday and night-time action on Tuesday and Wednesday for adults only.

Other Details

The recreation board, chaired by John Bishop, hasn't exactly decided yet how they'll work their late afternoon activity, however. They plan to have the building open for junior and senior high schoolers from 3 p.m. to 7 p.m. Whether or not this will be a continuous four hours isn't set yet . . . maybe they'll have the kids go home for supper and then return for an hour, from 6 to 7 p.m.

On Tuesdays and Wednesdays, the adults will take over. Women will have the run of the place on Tuesdays and men on Wednesdays.

Besides all this, Bishop says he hopes to organize community-wide dances and other activities one Friday out of each month.

The basement area isn't equipped yet. Shuffle boards are being built into the floor, but purchases will have to be made of ping-pong tables, a juke box and, perhaps, later a kitchen complex.

Just Exist

"We're designing our program so that junior and senior high school students will have a place to go immediately after leaving school," Bishop said. "A place where they can relax a while before going home and tackling after-hours school work."

How does the mayor feel?

"I think the building should

CHARLES T. Turner, lay administrator, and Sister M. Ferdinand, S.F.P., hospital administrator, are pictured in front of the new Frances Schervier Memorial Wing at St. Anthony's Hospital, 1450 Hawthorne-st. The new wing will be formally dedicated Sept. 27.

AT ST. ANTHONY'S

Patient, Research Wing Opens Sept. 27

Much-needed patient and research facilities will be gained by St. Anthony's Hospital Sept. 27 when the new 28-bed Frances Schervier Memorial Wing is formally dedicated.

His Excellency Clarence G. Issemann, Bishop of the Columbus Catholic Diocese, will pontificate at the 1:30 p.m. ceremony at St. Anthony's. Paul Gingher, president of the Columbus Hospital Federation, will deliver the principal address.

The new $1.5 million wing, which will provide facilities for patient care, surgery and research, is expected to begin service shortly after Oct. 1.

Included among the wing's facilities are a laboratory, pharmacy, nine operating rooms, recovery room, patient rooms, and bacteriology department. A central supply room will house all instruments, instrument trays, bandages and medical supplies.

The new wing will be staffed, as is St. Anthony's, by the Franciscan Sisters of the Poor. The order was founded a centruy ago in Germany by Frances Schervier, for whom the new wing is named.

Four stories high, the Frances Schervier Memorial Wing is built of brick and is located adjacent to the west side of the general hospital at 1450 Hawthorne Ave.

No Action In Bexley Council

Bexley Council, lacking enough members to pass any legislation, batted around a zoning ordinance and batted the breeze for exactly 27 minutes Tuesday night before adjourning.

Main discussion was the zoning ordinance which is expected to be introduced during council's next session and provide for apartment house sectioning.

Rather than amend existing zoning laws, the solons thought it best to try and pass a new zoning ordinance to handle apartment house problems. In essence, the ordinance makes it mandatory for all building specifications to be cleared by council.

In usual good humor, Councilman Roy Stage wanted to be sure the press got an item about $9.51 to replace a damaged "SLOW" sign within the city.

Two Area Residents Will Judge National Homemaker Contest

The Suburban Press Foundation, Inc., sponsor of the 1962 national search for the suburban homemaker of the year, has announced that two area persons have been named as judges for the nation-wide event.

See Suburban Homemaker Contest Story on Inside Page.

Judge Clayton Rose, president of the National Council of Juvenile Court Judges, has been named to one of the five positions. A graduate of Ohio State University College of Law, he has had an extensive career as an Ohio lawyer.

From 1927 to 1936 Judge Rose served as public defender of Columbus, and as a judge of the court of domestic relations and juvenile court of Franklin County, from 1936 until the present time.

He believes, "The problems and responsibilities of a homemaker are many in that we all know the strength of our family life is the cornerstone and foundation of our entire social structure. The homemakers' duties call for training as an economist, psychologist, sociologist, and above all, a community peacemaker."

The second local personality named to the national panel of judges is Mrs. Marie Pfeiffer of Columbus who has become something of an authority on the problems of young married couples in today's complex society.

During research for her doctoral thesis, Mrs. Pfeiffer interviewed young undergraduate married students and compiled data in a variety of areas. Questions in her survey covered childhood en-

WHITEHALL POLICE GAL FRIDAY

Complaining Officers Taken In Stride By This Female . . .

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.

If it's a man's world, evidently no one has told a very feminine 31-year-old Whitehall mother.

Perhaps, if anyone has ever tried to tell her, she probably came back with a disconcerned "Oh?" or, more likely, just a deaf ear and a nod of the head. She's had a lot of practice at turning deaf ears.

The pretty lass is Mrs. William Pettit, 4554 Broadhurst-dr—known at the Whitehall Police Station on Yearling-rd as "Dorothy — girl typist, file clerk, telephone answerer, friend of lost children and, in general, one of the original Gal Fridays."

With all these duties, you'd think that the job would be a trying one. "Oh, no," she smiled, "I love my work here—I wouldn't change for anything."

She must mean what she says, too. She's held the Whitehall police clerk job for two years now and prior to her work there she served in the same capacity with the Columbus police force for six years.

What's the biggest task as police clerk? "Listening to the gripes of all the men around here, that's what," said Dorothy quickly. "It's amazing all the things they find to complain about."

This explains her experience in turning a deaf ear mentioned previously.

She's heard lines like "Well, how's our desk man today" over and over again. But, she still smiles at them all and usually comes back with some funny answers of her own.

★ ★ ★

Lost children find her a real friend. She keeps an ample supply of suckers and peanuts in one of the file cabinets there to stop the tears until Mom and Dad arrive. She has three children herself, Steve (12), Michele (8) and Bonnie (3).

It all adds up to testimony, though, to Mrs. Pettit's statement that "There's never a dull moment around here."

Basically, Dorothy's a secretary. She took business courses during her high school years at South and was graduated from Bliss College in 1949.

"Police work is different from other

FREE FRANKLIN COUNTY FROM POLIO

Take Your First Dose Of Sabin Vaccine This Sunday

Sunday is the day.

The all-out drive to free the community from polio will begin this Sunday, Sept. 30, at 118 Sabin stations located all over Franklin County. A Sabin station will be within walking distance of nearly everyone.

The stations will be open from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Every resident of the county who is above two months in age should visit one of the stations and receive the first dose of Sabin oral polio vaccine.

The donation will be 25 cents per person. But those who can't afford it won't need to donate. They will get their vaccine anyway.

The program will continue on two later Sundays—Nov. 4 and Jan. 6. The same Sabin stations will be open on those days, also from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

As the beginning of the mass immunization neared, several important facts were emphasized by Dr. Richard L. Fulton, president of the Academy of Medicine of Columbus and Franklin County and head of the community Sabin on Sunday program. Dr. Fulton pointed out that:

• Type I Sabin oral vaccine will be given Sept. 30. This vaccine immunizes against the Type I polio virus. Type I vaccine is perfectly safe and harmless and completely effective. It should be taken by ALL persons above two months old.

• Type II Sabin oral vaccine will be given Nov. 4. This vaccine immunizes against the Type II polio virus. Type II vaccine also is perfectly safe and harmless and completely effective. It too should be taken by ALL persons above two months old.

• Type III Sabin oral vaccine will be given Jan. 6. This vaccine provides immunity against the Type III polio virus. In deciding whether or not Type III vaccine is given to everyone over two months old — or only to pre-school and school age children — the Sabin on Sunday doctors will follow the latest recommendations of the United States Public Health Service.

The Public Health Service has temporarily recommended that Type III vaccine be given only to pre-school and school age children and not to adults.

"However," Dr. Fulton said, "we are fully confident that Type III vaccine will soon be completely cleared for all persons. But to prevent any confusion, we have postponed the date for giving Type III vaccine until Jan. 6. This conforms with what other communities all over the country are doing.

"It's important to stress that the Public Health Service's recommendations for Type III vaccine do not in any way apply to Types I and II vaccine," Dr. Fulton said. "It's vitally necessary that everyone over two months old get Types I and II vaccine."

Dr. Fulton emphasized that even those who have had Salk shots should take the Sabin vaccine. The reason, he said, is that Sabin vaccine prevents the individual from being a polio carrier, while Salk shots do not. So Sabin should be taken even by older persons who normally wouldn't get polio but can still be a carrier.

It's anticipated that there'll be little or no waiting at the Sabin Stations. Two drops of the odorless and tasteless vaccine will be put in a disposable paper cup containing a small amount of distilled water. The recipient will just drink it down. In the case of babies, two drops of the vaccine will be placed directly on the tongue.

The Sabin Stations will be conveniently located and well marked. The program will be coordinated through the combined efforts of some 10,000 volunteers — doctors, nurses, pharmacists and others. Dr. Fulton said that the Type I vaccine — one million doses of it — has already arrived in Columbus and that all arrangements have been made for a successful kickoff to the program.

Solemn Services Set At Tifereth Israel For High Holy Days

Sundown on Friday, Sept. 28, marks the beginning of the Jewish High Holy Days.

The spirit of Rosh Hashanah and of the entire ten Days of Repentance is one of seriousness and solemnity.

It is a Jewish belief that has been handed down from generation to generation that there is a Book of Life in Heaven in which every act, word and thought of every human being is written down during the year.

On Rosh Hashanah this Book is opened and the good and evil deeds are carefully evaluated. This record is the basis upon which the fate of every person is decided.

Into the Book of Life is written everyone's fate for the coming year.

Rosh Hashanah is the time to send greeting cards to relatives and friends. These cards are inscribed "L'Shanah Tovah Tikatevu," which means "May You Be Inscribed For A Good Year."

The sounding of the shofar is to stir those who have forgotten that man is but a very tiny being in the eyes of God Who keeps a constant watch on His world.

In Biblical times the shofar was used to herald great moments. Every man, woman and child listens intently to the call of the shofar.

It is a symbol of the Jewish peoples' unity and has been that for thousands of years.

At Temple Tifereth Israel, 1354 E. Broad-st, Rabbi Nathan Zelizer will conduct Rosh Hashanah services Friday evening, Sept. 28, at 8 p.m. His sermon will be "God Wants More Than A Calling Card."

Sunday morning services begin at 8:30. Rabbi Zelizer's sermon will be "Prayers That Are Unanswered."

Sunday morning services begin at 8:30. The Rabbi will discuss "The Space Within."

Complete services are scheduled for Junior and Teenage Congregations.

The nursery rooms will be open for pre-school children throughout the High Holy Days.

Life often seems but a long shipwreck, of which the debris are friendship, glory, and love. The shores of our existence are strewn with them. —George Sand.

Services for Dr. William B. Morrison, 67, of 2640 Fair-av, Columbus surgeon, will be held at 2 p.m. Friday, Sept. 28, in the Schoedinger Funeral Home.

Some there are who are so ashamed of all they do not know that they strive to disguise themselves either as wits or philosophers — Voltaire.

Officers in the group include President Sharon Love, Vice President Marsha Greene, Secretary-Treasurer Karen Dorsett and Manager Rae Peyton. The gals get together every day to practice their routine and try to come up with new formations each week. They integrate their performances with the high school band and both share the halftime spotlight.

Sunday Sabin Sip Is Beginning Of End Of Polio

An opportunity. An obligation.

That is the situation that will face all residents of Franklin County on three Sundays this fall and winter — Sept. 30, Nov. 4, and Jan. 6.

The occasion will be the Sabin on Sunday campaign in our community. Through the achievement of a dedicated Ohioan, Dr. Albert B. Sabin of Cincinnati, we will be able — once and for all — to stamp out polio.

Perhaps you aren't familiar with Dr. Sabin's story. It is one that needs telling. A Lithuanian immigrant, he began to work back in 1935 on a live vaccine that would immunize against polio. He found a way to grow polio virus in a test tube, and eventually developed three highly weakened strains — one that would combat each of the three types of the disease.

In 1955, Dr. Sabin started giving the oral vaccine to the first humans — volunteers from a penal institution. That same year, another dedicated American doctor, Jonas Salk of Pittsburgh, announced that he had developed a killed-virus that would be injected into the bloodstream through shots.

Then, as now, Dr. Sabin viewed the Salk shots as a step forward," but not the final answer. Convinced that his job "wasn't finished," he continued to work on his live-virus vaccine.

The result of his work will now enable Franklin County to conquer polio forever.

Here's why:

Salk shots, though they prevent an individual from getting polio himself, still permit him to be a carrier of the disease. Even older persons who normally wouldn't get polio themselves can still carry it to other people. But Sabin vaccine not only prevents the disease, it also prevents the individual from being a carrier.

That is where our opportunity and obligation come in.

The opportunity is to completely wipe out polio in our community.

The obligation is for all of us over two months of age — even the very old and those who have already had Salk shots — to visit one of the 114 Sabin Stations all over the county on each of the three Sundays.

It's vital that all of us go. And it's also vital that we go on each of the three Sundays. Why? Because on each of those days we'll receive vaccine that will immunize against a certain kind of polio. When we have taken all three kinds, we'll be completely free from the threat of polio in all its forms.

Taking the oral vaccine will be a snap. Just two drops of it, odorless and tasteless, in a cup of water. It's completely harmless — will have no effect on you whatever — but it will end polio. It's been given with 100 percent success to 250 million people in Europe and millions more here in the United States. The donation will be 25 cents, but if you can't afford anything you won't have to pay. You'll get the vaccine anyway.

It's our opportunity. And our obligation.

Ten Tests Of Good Religion Suggested

Romans 1:16 "For I am not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ; for it is the power of God unto salvation to everyone that believeth."

2nd Timothy 1:12 "For I know whom I have believed and am persuaded that He is able to keep that which I have committed unto Him against that day."

In these days when we carefully test so many things to determine their practicability, it might be well to ask ourselves some challenging questions about our personal religion. The following 10 questions should help us to determine if ours meets the tests of good religion.

1. Is my religion practicable and reasonable?

Rev. Schurman

So many theories and doctrines of men fail to meet the tests of every day living though they sound plausible. "Come now let us reason together saith the Lord. Though your sins be as scarlet they shall be as white as snow." Here is offered a remedy for our greatest dilemma, one that promises results that are both satisfactory and reasonable; pardon for sins, and cleansing from all unrighteousness."

2. Is my religion satisfying?

Does it leave you with hungers yet unsatisfied and frustrations unanswered? Have you experienced peace of mind and rest of soul, an inner assurance of faith in God and His Son the Lord Jesus Christ as your Savior? 2nd Corinthians tells us "Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature; old things have passed away; behold all things are become new."

3. Is my religion scriptural?

So often we accept religious doctrines and then we use our Bibles to support them? Why not let the Word of God speak for itself, and from the Bible itself discover and make ours the doctrines of Good Religion that meet the needs of life here and in the next world? We should be able to give Bible answers for the hope we hold.

4. Does your religion solve the problem of your sins?

Bible religion does. "His name shall be called Jesus for He shall save His people from their sins." Titus 2:14 "That He might redeem us from all inquity." A sinning religion makes no difference between a sinner and a Christian.

5. Does your religion affect your sinful nature?

Hear David the Psalmist's prayer. (Ps. 51:) In it is a double request. First, "Blot out my transgressions." Second, "Create in me a clean heart." Inspired by a need for both pardon and cleansing.

6. Does your religion meet a universal need?

Throughout the world of many races and tongues lift hearts of longing in prayer, turn their prayer wheels and seek to atone for their sins. Only Jesus Christ can meet this universal heart cry. "What can wash away my sins? Nothing but the blood of Jesus." "What can make me whole again? Nothing but the blood of Jesus." Faith in Christ brings the power of God to everyone that believeth." John 3:16.

7. Is my faith reaching others?

Fishermen are expected to catch fish, and salesmen to bring in sales; but thousands of church members today in a whole year fail to win and bring one soul to the Savior they profess to love and serve. Have you forgotten that the Great Commission involves you?

8. How much is your religion worth to you?

Would you miss it if you lost it? Your religion is worth what it costs you in devotion, in sacrifice and in service.

9. Will your religion do to die by?

Just enough to keep respectable will be insufficient when you face death.

10. Will your religion stand in the judgment?

Rev. 6:17 "For the great day of His wrath is come; and who shall be able to stand?" Psalm 24:4. "Who shall ascend into the hill of the Lord or who shall stand in His holy place? He that hath clean hand and a pure heart."

FOOD MARKETS THIS WEEK
Convenience Foods Often Save You Money

By ESTELLE B. FRANKS

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Fruits — Grapes, Bartlett pears, apples, bananas, frozen orange juice

Vegetables — Cabbage, potatoes, salad greens, carrots, cauliflower

Protein foods — Beef "specials," pork loin roasts, cured pork items, fryers, small and medium grade A eggs

The important question is often asked, "How much more do convenience foods — foods with some of the work done for you — cost than foods you prepare from scratch?" More than four-fifths of our food is processed to some extent, if no more than being put in a plastic bag prior to sale.

Mrs. Franks

Until recently few studies have been made on this complicated subject. This year the U.S. Department of Agriculture is completing a study on comparing cost and time of preparation for 300 food items. Reports are slowly coming out. Here's one that may interest you:

You're saving money by using convenience foods such as frozen orange juice concentrate, canned chicken chow mein and instant coffee, the U.S. Department of Agriculture reports.

Comparing the cost of convenience foods with the same dishes prepared in your own kitchen, researchers found that 42 convenience items were less expensive and 116 were more expensive than home-prepared items. But if you're a typical shopper, you buy enough of the money-saving items so your food bill is smaller than if you bought only fresh foods and prepared them yourself.

For each $100 you spend in the grocery store, 68 cents goes for frozen orange juice concentrate. An equal amount of fresh orange juice prepared at home would cost $1.39. So, when you buy the concentrate you save 71 cents — and this does not include the value of time you have spent in squeezing the oranges.

You also make a sizeable saving when you prepare chow mein, whether frozen or in the can. Frozen chicken chow mein costs 85 cents for 4 servings; canned chow mein 66 cents. If you make it yourself, these same 4 servings would cost you $1.02.

Instant coffee, however, was the biggest bargain among the convenience foods studied. Out of every $100 spent on food, $1 goes for instant coffee. Yet the same number of servings from regular coffee would cost you $1.96.

Among the higher priced convenience foods — in comparison with the do-it-yourself variety — were fresh ready-to-serve yeast rolls. They accounted for 10.6 cents out of every $100 spent on food, while the ingredients to make an equal quantity of these rolls in your home would cost only 3.4 cents. However, many homemakers are willing to purchase convenience items such as this because of the time and skill required to prepare them at home.

Variety . . . by I. F. Howell

A college graduate was opening his gifts. When he got to the one from his mother, he found it was only her apron strings.

Of course, it was her silent but most eloquent way of saying, "Now you are on your own, my son. If ever things get too rough, come back for a time. But go now, and may God bless you."

So it has been for unnumbered generations. People cross the high bridge of their years, nurturing and teaching their young, then send them forth, hoping to see them, in their turn, meet the challenges as they come. Each generation succeeds or fails. There is little the older ones can do about it. Responsibility cannot be bought, traded, or sold. Each generation must hoe its own row.

The young of today face more challenges . . . and more opportunities than any have ever seen before. And they are wiser than we think they are. Sometimes a few make some more or less serious mistakes and get into trouble. But while too many of us oldsters are crying into our coffee about them, the rest are tackling the business of useful living with right good will and wit.

They might just rediscover Eden and rebuild a paradise on earth.

It says here . . . . .
Awareness of ignorance is the beginning of wisdom.

Pre-Hunting Advice: Go Take A Walk

INSIDE ON THE Outdoors By ROD COCHRAN

Remember how they cured those miserable train windows you never could open? They didn't. They just air conditioned the old cars!

This was a fairly simple solution. Not so simple, however, is the conditioning of old hunters — young ones, too. With the current hunting season hardly away from the starting gate, I am stiff and sore from a couple of mornings in a squirrel woods. Hunting squirrels is not a strenuous sport, but you creep around trying to walk or crawl quietly and these seldom-used muscles protest for the following week. After looking skyward for a couple of hours, your neck seems to develop a permanent crick.

These early aches and pains are good warnings that your conditioning for field hunting should begin. Regular exercises are good, physicians have told me, but they are boring and I do not believe many people will take them short of doctor's orders. Upland hunting is mainly walking, and progressively longer hikes should ready you for the mid-November opening. These are a lot more fun than push-ups and sit-ups, and more hunters will probably take hikes than will do exercises.

Some hunters do not need conditioning, even in this age of mechanization. Farmers, even though they ride a lot on tractors and trucks, still do plenty of physical work to keep them in shape for hunting. Golfers who have been walking the links all summer will not put undue strain on themselves by taking to the field with a shotgun this fall. They might toughen up their arms and shoulders some by leaving their little carts at home, and carrying their clubs for a few rounds.

Others who are physically active all year find that hunting is fun—telephone linemen, construction workers, timbermen, brick layers, carpenters and the like. Those who get into trouble on opening day often are the sedentary workers — people in offices and factories. These are the ones who need conditioning.

You can be just as dead or crippled from a heart attack as a gunshot wound. Indeed, the newspaper headlines and accident report include heart failures and strokes in the field with other hunting casualties. The safe hunter guards against over-exertion as well as other accidents.

If you have a hunting dog, take him with you on your hikes. He will run his heart out for you while hunting, and you owe it to him to get him in shape.

A bonus derived from these preseason walks, is that you will meet farmers who will let you hunt this season. Also, you will have an opportunity to check the game populations in several areas. You will know the good places , and this knowledge will almost insure successful hunts later.

For more fun this fall then, start walking.

Leftovers . . . by John McPeek
Phooey! Fuzziness Ain't Feminine!

Fellow husbands take heed; devote some time to careful study of your spouse's snozzle, because come winter the only recognizable thing about our mates may be their ruddy little snoots.

At least this will be so if those idiot fashion designers have their way. They've been traipsing in and out of New York from fashion capitals around the world in recent weeks to ready their winter attack.

McPeek

And it's a doozer. Seems the big emphasis will be on fur-lined garments, which is quite a switch from their usual pneumonia-baiting tactics.

Fact is, according to plans they've whipped out of their frilly sleeves, our women will be bundled from head to toe in bulky, furry, masculine garments.

(Could this be more Red subversion? Sounds like they want to make our women look like Moscow snow shovelers.)

Sure the last couple winters have been long and unpleasant and no doubt fur-lined dresses and undies would tickle our women pink, but I for one will encourage my soulmate to wear gooseepimples before I fork out money, or even trading stamps, for clothing that will contribute to the decimation of our beloved squirrel and rabbit populations.

Besides which, I want my wife to continue looking like a woman. Who in sam heck wants to kiss a creature that may resemble Burt Lancaster after a trip to Denmark?

That's where I stand!

And even if the reports that my friend Harold Marx, generalissimo of the Bargain House, is building rabbit warrens in his back yard prove to be true, I won't be swayed.

So strong are my anti-fuzzy-women feelings that henceforth I shall raise no objection when Virginia uses my razor. But I do hope she doesn't forget to change the blade.

$5000 Cash Slated For Homemaker

Local Ladies Eligible For National Honor

Somewhere in Central Ohio lives a woman who typifies the best of Suburban home making and strong family life. Maybe you know her. Perhaps she is a relative of yours, or a neighbor, or belongs to the same club or church you do.

You can see that she gets the honor she deserves, by entering her in the Suburban Homemaker of the Year national search sponsored by Hartley Newspapers and the Suburban Press Foundation of which this newspaper is a member. The contest is now open, and the winner will compete with candidates sponsored by 91 member newspapers for a national award of $5000 to be given in Chicago the second week of November.

In this 1962 search, the winner will receive recognition like few women before her. In an exciting award ceremony, your favorite homemaker will reign supreme. There are no gimmicks — there is nothing to buy — and your homemaker candidate can be nominated from your own living room.

Here's all you have to do. Write us a letter of 500 or less words telling us about your nominee. In the letter answer the following questions:

1. In what way has she revealed her spiritual and moral strength in modern day living — for her home, her church, her community, and for the world in which she lives?

2. In what ways has she helped in developing and maintaining the total health and fitness (mental, emotional, physical, and spiritual) of her family?

3. How well does she demonstrate her personal health and fitness through her attitudes, habits, appearance and physical well-being?

4. To what extent has she participated in civic and community affairs — local, state, national and international? Be specific.

5. How well does she exemplify her ability in management of the family resources of time and income in relation to family needs and goals?

6. To what extent has she demonstrated her skills in: (a.) preparing meals (b.) clothing the family (c.) appearance of the home (d.) housekeeping.

7. How does she create an atmosphere of love, respect, and affection for family living?

8. How else has she demonstrated her abilities as a successful homemaker?

Remember, style of letter presentation is not a factor. The manner in which the letter is written will not be judged. Send your letter today, along with a filled-in Official Entry Blank, to Suburban Homemaking Editor, Hartley Newspapers, 2465 W. Broad St., Columbus 4, Ohio.

Eastmoor High School's Warriors' Spear-It

By CAROL HARRISON

Booster Drive Is Successful; Top Goal

Eastmoor High's Booster Drive, held Sept. 18, totaled $290.42 more than the set goal of $2000. Money received goes to support the athletic programs.

Mustafra Siyahi, an exchange student from Eskieshir, Turkey, came to Eastmoor for his senior year through the American Field Service. Besides his studies Mustafra, who is better known to his fellow students as Musty, has time for a hobby, electronics. Mustafra lives with Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Farkas at 2714 Talisman-ct.

"The Hasty Heart" will be the next production of the Eastmoor dramatics department. Final tryouts for parts were held Sept. 12. Receiving roles were: Phil Wilson, Wynne Justice, Ron Steelman, Mike Kapson, Mike Bullen, Craig Bergman, Lee Sharpless and Stu Tishkoff.

The "Pigskin Social" was the theme of the dance sponsored by the Warriorettes after the football game Friday. The Warriorettes will make their first appearance of the year Sept. 28 at Walnut Ridge during the half-time show.

Sally Seckel, a junior, was honored with 21 other Columbus area high school juniors Saturday morning at the Lazarus High School Press Breakfast. These girls make up a group called the Lazarus High School Board, now in its third year. Karel Kreisl-man represented Eastmoor's journalism class.

HONORED

WILLIAM V. ASHTON, Reynoldsburg, was awarded the Thirty-third Degree, the highest honor of Scottish Rite Masonry, Sept. 26, at Philadelphia during the annual sessions of the Supreme Council of Scottish Rite Masonry for the Northern Masonic Jurisdiction. He was one of 158 members chosen from 15 states because of "outstanding contribution to the fraternity or for dedicated service to humanity, reflecting credit on Freemasonry."

Football Contest Going Full Tilt

Gee whiz! I don't know nuthin' about football, so how can I expect to win any money in Hartley Newspapers' giant football contest?

There's a good chance that this remark has been made during the last week in your own home. The truth of the matter is that every weekend, even our so-called "experts" in pigskin predictions find they don't know nearly as much as they thought they knew.

A football takes some mighty weird bounces, and consequently the outcome of football games each week is subject to all sorts of unpredictable outcomes.

It's for this reason that the little mother in the family household is able to compete with the local sports editor in guessing who is going to win that game.

In the advertisements on this page are listed 24 top games to be played on the weekend of Oct. 6. Games in the collegiate, professional and local high school ranks have been included to make the contest more interesting to everyone.

Simply fill in the official entry blank, and don't forget to print the advertiser's name on the left side of the blank along with your selections down the right side.

Games resulting in ties will be disregarded unless the contestant specifies them as such on the entry blank.

Remember the deadline! The contest today pertains to games being played on the weekend of Oct. 6. No entries will be accepted unless postmarked before midnight, Oct. 2.

Winners will be notified by telephone and their names will be printed the week following the games.

Be doubly sure your blank is sent to the Football Contest Editor of this newspaper, 2465 W. Broad-st, Columbus 4, Ohio.

RUNNING FOR CARDINAL TD'S

ST. CHARLES head football coach, Jack Ryan, in his 25th year at the Carolian helm, checks over a handoff play with his two starting halfbacks. Left to right are, fullback Tom O'Leary, quarterback Joe Breitenicher, halfback John Pettorini, halfback Bob Faller and Coach Ryan.

Whitehall, Warriors, Hawks Nab Wins

Coach Jim Bline's Whitehall club opened its '62 Central Buckeye League season on a successful note Friday night as the Rams ground out their third consecutive win, 28-0, over Grandview.

Senior halfback Clark Fuller did most of the damage for the Rams, scoring three touchdowns on runs of 45, 23 and 95 yards. Whitehall hit paydirt three times in the first half for a 20-0 lead and then coasted along to the victory.

JERRY RAMSEY racked up the Rams' fourth score on a 55-yard punt return, picking up two more points on the receiving end of a conversion pass. Jay Hout also added a two-point conversion.

BISHOP HARTLEY'S Hawks cashed in on two of six Pleasant View fumbles Saturday night to defeat the visiting Panthers, 14-8, in a game which featured two rugged defensive lines.

With five minutes remaining in the first half, Steve Ortman recovered Pleasant View's third bobble of the half on the 11 yard line of the Panther's — a play that had been set up by a Hawks coffin corner punt that bounced out of bounds on Pleasant View's nine yard line.

ON THE VERY first play, Hartley took to the air (where they were most successful all evening) and scored when quarterback Tom Schlager flipped a flat pass to fullback Jeff Nelson who eluded one tackler as he sprinted down the sidelines. The extra point try was no good and Hartley led, 6-0 with 3:06 remaining in the half.

The Hawks capitalized on another Panther fumble with only four minutes gone in the second half when halfback Jerry Emerick covered a loose pigskin on the Pleasant View 18.

A penalty, followed by three straight line smashes by Emerick earned Hartley its second score from the two yard line with 6:15 remaining in the third period. Schlager added the two point conversion and it was 14-0.

PLEASANT VIEW put together its only sustained drive of the game late in the third period after Bob Neely intercepted a Hawk pass on the Panther's five-yard line and returned the ball 31 yards.

Quarterback Pat Mogan connected on a pair of passes and then skirted right end for 25 yards to the Hawk 10. Halfback Ray Palmerton capped the 95-yard drive several plays later with a four-yard TD. Mogan hit end Bob Garey with a conversion pass and Pleasant View cut Hartley's lead to 14-8 with nine minutes remaining in the game.

EASTMOOR SNAPPED a two-game losing streak and evened its City League record at 1-1 with an 8-6 squeaker over Linden McKinley.

The defending CL champion Warriors made a first-period score stand up for the victory when quarterback Vince Van Horn hit halfback co-captain Dean Ishida with a 13-yard scoring pass. Terry Marburger on a line plunge and the Warriors held an 8-0 lead.

The Panthers, hampered by seven fumbles, made their bid for a tie shortly before intermission when Bill Workman hit end Jerry Cook with a six-yard TD aerial, following Don Clark's 47-yard burst. Linden failed on the conversion try and the scoring was complete for the evening as Eastmoor left the field at halftime with an 8-6 lead.

WALNUT RIDGE overcame a 14-8 halftime deficit with three second period scores to gain the Highlanders their first varsity victory with a 28-14 win over Marion-Franklin.

M-F halfback Larry Jones got the Red Devils, who snapped a 27-game losing streak last week, off to a good start when he capped a drive with a short touchdown plunge. The Devil's Bobat scored on a 49-yard burst in the second period to offset a Walnut Ridge TD, coming on the first of two scores by fullback Dennis Day.

Day's second score on a nine-yard run brought the Highlanders to within two points of Marion-Franklin shortly after the second half began. The score was set up by Day's 73-yard ramble on a trap play.

Don Pinkston then took over from Walnut Ridge, picking up the Highlanders' final two tallies. The Red Devils were held scoreless in the second half by a tough Walnut Ridge defense, headed by end John Roop.

UPPER ARLINGTON struck quickly in the first period, survived a strong third period Bexley comeback and then added two final quarter scores to drop the Lions, 34-16, in the CBL opener for both teams.

The Bears' Bill Robb sank Bexley hopes at the outset of the game when he pounced on a Lion fumble in the end zone following a bobble on the opening kickoff. After the Lions were unable to move the pigskin, Dick Fishel returned a Bexley punt to the Lion 27 where Robb scored again several plays later on a 16-yard sweep around end.

Down 20-0 at halftime, Bexley struck back in the third quarter with Rick Mauger's 66-yard touchdown and Jay Maupin's 64-yard score pumping new life into the Lions.

MIKE GORDON'S 26-yard second quarter touchdown pass to Jack Homler was the only points East could put on the scoreboard as the Tigers bowed to Lancaster, 26-6.

East trailed only 12-6 at halftime but fullback John Baughman scored twice in the second half for Lancaster to dim Tiger hopes of a comeback.

ST. CHARLES, hampered by the loss of both its starting halfbacks with injuries, battled Mansfield Madison to a scoreless deadlock for three quarters before bowing to its undefeated hosts, 16-0, Saturday night.

Friday night's action finds Aquinas (2-1) at Central (1-1-1), Academy (0-1) at University (0-0-1) in a 3 p.m. matinee, East (1-2) at Marion-Franklin (1-2), Eastmoor (1-2) at Walnut Ridge (1-2) and St. Charles (2-1) at Lancaster (2-0-1). Whitehall (3-0) entertains Bexley (1-2) in a sectional CBL battle Thursday night and Hartley (1-0-1) hosts DeSales (0-2-1) in a game Saturday night.

SPORTS SLANTS

By JACK WITTENMEIER
Hartley Sports Editor

Cross Country Boys Take Overland Trail

In this day and age with football, basketball and baseball taking the limelight throughout most of the year, it's pretty hard for other so-called minor sports to squeeze into the sport picture.

We guess it's a matter of pleasing most of the people most of the time but it's only good sportsmanship that we consider that knowing the Cleveland Brown's starting lineup, who will relieve the Red's Joey Jay (if necessary) and how many years Bob Cousy has been dropping them in for the Celtics doesn't really make one a well-rounded, well-informed sports fan.

TAKE CROSS-country racing, for example. We were asked the other day what the sport was all about. Red-faced, we were forced to admit that it had something to do with running over a few hills and through the woods.

"Is that all there is to it?" we were asked. At this point we changed the subject to how many bases we thought Maury Wills would finally steal this season, deciding that retreat would be the better part of ignorance.

Then we got to thinking. Maybe there are other people who don't know what is involved when the subject of cross-country racing pops into the conversation.

A CALL TO Chuck Shaner, cross-country coach at South High School, proved very enlightening. It seems cross-country racing programs in area schools have been going on for quite a few years.

South will compete this season in the City League, where every school but Aquinas fields a cross country team. The meets are not necessarily limited to two schools and often meets include a number of schools around the area.

Shaner has 15 boys out for the sport but admits that this is not a large number with schools like Arlington and Worthington fielding much larger teams. Worthington, where Shaner calls the perennial favorite in the area, might have more than 100 boys out for their team according, to the South coach.

IN ALL meets with the exception of city and district meets, all the boys on the team run. In the larger meets, only seven members of each team compete with only five of these seven counting toward the total score.

Cross country scoring is exactly like golf, (except for those blasted sand traps, of course). In other words, the scoring is reversed. The lowest point total wins.

This, in a city or district meet, a perfect score would be 15 (if a particular team could finish in the first five positions.

"If only five entries count toward the final score, why do the other two entries run?," we asked. Coach Shaner explained that since each entry is given a number of points in regard to his finish (sixth place, six points), if his sixth or seventh runner finishes ninth, no other competing runner can claim that amount of points. Therefore, the "extra" runners can build up the opposition's final point total. Confused?

THE OFFICIAL city competition course length is two miles. To prevent traffic tie-ups and irate property owners, the course usually is set up on a perimeter basis. Keeping in line with the type of scoring procedure used, the official city cross-country course is the Raymond Memorial Golf Course.

At cross country meets on the course, the two-mile pattern just about covers the perimeter of the course with the exception of about 400 yards. The runners go about 1000 yards in one direction then circle around.

An effort is made to attempt not to recross your previous path. This along with the fact that cross country races are not run on prepared surfaces help distinguish the sport from track competition.

Shaner explained that the ideal situation for cross country meets would involve hilly, wooded areas to provide the runners with a limited amount of obstacles.

SOUTH'S ASSISTANT Jim Hilty, who is running with the boys to get them into condition, mentioned that cross country courses vary greatly. Hilty, a member of the OSU freshman team, is an ex-Marine and remembers a cross-country course that extended across a city dump. "We even run up Sunset Boulevard one time when I was at UCLA," Jim added.

"What would be a good time for a cross country runner to cover the course?," we asked. "Eleven minutes is a better than average time for a high school boys," Shaner answered.

As far as qualifying for the state meet goes, Shanner pointed out that the first three top teams from the district competition qualify for a try for the statewide title. The first 10 boys who are standouts on an individual basis also qualify for the state meet.

SINCE CROSS country racing has grown so popular in recent years, Shaner admits that any team that hopes to win a big meet better have five above-par runners.

The "really big one," the district qualifier, will be held the first week in November. The setting will be the Ohio State University Golf Course where the meet has been held the past two years.

"What type of training or practicing is involved with cross-country racing?" we asked Shaner. "We haven't been running any particular distances. I run the boys 20 to 25 minutes, concentrating on time rather than distance. Then we have 20 110-yard dashes. An evening's workout usually goes from a half-hour to 45 minutes."

PRACTICE SESSIONS will be cut down soon to accommodate the season's schedule which includes meets every Tuesday and Thursday.

Endurance is the major factor to consider if you plan to became a cross country runner. Of course, stamina and building up the wind power are keys to success in both track and cross country racing.

Last, but by no means least, is speed. When you're racing a group of competitors with no lanes to give you a clear shot for the lead, that burst of speed necessary to get you around the pack is pretty essential.

We thanked Chuck Shaner, hung up the phone and were happy that we now knew that cross country racing involves more than just huffing up a hill and puffing through the woods.

Anyway, if you should spot a young man hurrying through your back yard this fall — don't be alarmed. Chances are he might just be one of the area's cross country runners a little bit off his intended course.

UFL's Longest Run

The longest run from scrimmage ever recorded in United Football League history was chalked up by the Columbus Capital's halfback Lee Williams. Williams ran 79 yards in a game against Akron on Sept 16, 1961.

Edith Halpert Opens Lending Gallery Sessions On Oct. 4

The Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts will open its 1962-63 season with an exhibition of paintings from the Lending Gallery Oct. 4 through 25.

Edith Gregor Halpert, Director of the Downtown Gallery in New York, will address members of the Gallery at the opening of the Exhibition on Thursday, Oct. 4.

Mrs. Halpert has long been a supporter of contemporary American paintings and sculpture as well as American Folk art of the 18th and 19th centuries. She will discuss the scene "Behind the Canvas Curtin" and will include advice for the new collector.

The Lending Gallery collection contains some 200 painting from New York galleries and local artists Through this facility members of the Columbus Gallery may borrow original works of art for their homes and offices.

All the paintings in the Lending Gallery are for sale and the minimal rental fee can be deducted from the sale price. Family membership in the Gallery is available for as low as $15.00 per year.

The Lending Gallery's collection this year contains works both abstract and realistic in style. Perhaps most interesting to residents of Columbus and Central Ohio will be the lithographs by the area's best-known artist, George Bellows. Others, from the more contemporary art world, include: James Suzuki, C. Heidenreich, Elaine De Kooning, Everett Shinn, Arthur Davies, Peter Hayward, Karl Schrag, Stanley Twardowicz, Ernest Kirchner and many others. Particularly notable will be the drawing by Paul Cezanne and two drawings by John Singer Sargent.

On Oct. 25, a dinner will be held at the Gallery for members when final choices will be made.

'Happy Faces'

"Happy Faces," new half-hour program of fun time for the pre-school set, will begin on NBC's affiliate WLW-C, Channel 4, Sept. 29, at 8:30 a.m. WLW-C's Jeanne Cummins, as "Miss Jeanne," along with Clay Eager, will initiate games, tell stories and provide music from their small fry audiences.

Jetsons: Added Testimony To Theory Of Mouse Traps

No one's theory of evolution can be complete unless it includes the cartoon industry.

Let's make one thing clear right now—this column isn't intending to take anything away from a Mr. Walt Disney because that mirror, mirror on the wall still says he's the greatest of them all.

The intention here is to merely point out what a little ingenuity, a little blood, sweat and money can do in an industry that seems to be about as set in its ways as a hunk of hardened cement.

The proof of this statement is on WTVN-TV and added testimony for the defense premiered Sunday, Sept. 23.

To keep from getting criticized by journalism majors for getting into the meat of a story slowly, we're writing about the Hanna-Barbera Productions — a big boom to the American Broadcasting Company, WTVN-TV and, specifically, to a fellow named Joseph Barbera and his associates.

This young cartoon empire is hitting Columbus area televiewers almost everyday of the week: Tuesdays at 6:30 p.m. it's Quick Draw McGraw, Wednesdays at 6:30 p.m. it's Yogi Bear, Thursdays at 6:30 p.m. it's Huckleberry Hound and Fridays at 8:30 p.m. it's the Flintstones.

Now, on Sundays at 7:30 p.m., it's the new half-hour show "The Jetsons"—supposedly a product of the Space Age. And, although press time prohibits giving a first hand account of the new Hanna-Barbera "baby," the lovely voice at the WTVN-TV home base called it a "darling show."

Love Is A Simple Thing . . .

Simplicity — that's the key to the success of these wild and nutty cartoons. Simplicity in an industry that seemed to be heading in and striving for one end—realism.

Cartoons were looking as good as feature movies with actions drawn so cleverly that one could hardly tell whether the characters were real or from an ink pen.

So, along comes Mr. Barbera who sets up a talented crew and throws the simplest of cartoon techniques on the viewer and he loves it. (Ex. a guy falls from a tree. The camera doesn't "follow" him to the ground. It just focuses on the tree-tops and a loud "Smash" and the tree shakes and everyone knows what happens. Effective, isn't it?)

In analyzing the success, let's not overlook the snappy dialogue — some of the funniest and cleverest stuff I've heard in a long time.

Barbera sums it up best: "We stress the new in visual gimmicks. In other words, if it's ever been seen before—anywhere, in any form—we don't want it for our animated series."

The new Jetson family will maintain a 100-year lead and keep in accouterments of Century 21. The cartoon studio has three designers working full time on Jetson futuristic "inventions."

For example, Elroy (one of the characters), is tubed off to school neat as a proverbial pin after being run through wash, rinse, spin dry and clothe cycles on a shower belt.

Should be good, clean fun anyway you look at it . . . and, you will.

Musings Of A Midnighter . . .

How about that. I was just sitting around the other night wondering why Columbus didn't take up a collection to bring back home sweet Nancy Wilson and I read where they've done it . . . and more!

She's a local girl—lived on the Hilltop—and will be appearing as a headliner with Omega's Jazz Festival at Vet's Memorial Oct. 30.

It's good we got her back before the song bird got too far out of financial reach. She's been singing with a talented fellow named Cannonball Adderly and, I figured, we might be able to afford Miss Wilson but never Cannonball. But, I read further, the trumpeter is making the trip too. You better get ready for this big show.

'Corner Lot' Readied

The Little Theater Off Broadway members are finishing up plans to present "Corner Lot" as the first production for the group this fall.

"Corner Lot" opens Sept. 28 and 29 and will be presented again Oct. 5 and 6 at Richard Avenue School in Grove City.

In case the play doesn't sound familiar to you, it shouldn't. It's a three-act comedy authored by hometown Grove City boy Dick Grace, who, and you might remember this, authored two former productions given by the group, "The Shirt Off His Back" and "Panic Seat."

The cast includes faces familiar to Little Theater productions as well as some newcomers to the group.

CULTURE: That's Objective Of New Whitehall History Class

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.

What's the biggest "hiss" in history? Kings and battles and dates — right?

Whitehall High School is trying to do something about that and, at the same time, administrators there feel confident that they're broadening the culture "fence" in the suburban school.

A relatively new high school course, ancient history, has been introduced into the Whitehall curriculum and it's specifically designed for college preparatory students.

All other schools, of course, have history in their curriculum, but Whitehall is one of the few to have a special course just for delving in the ancients.

It's being taught by James Friday, himself a Master's Degree holder in history from Ohio State, and it's designed to take a deeper look into lost eras.

And, the popularity of it among students there is testimoney enough as to its success.

"This year we have more students than ever before," Friday commented. "We feel that it's an interesting course—but, it's not an easy one . . . not by a long shot."

The popularity of the elective has enticed some 60 students to the class attendance sheet. The course is usually followed the next year with modern history.

It's Friday's belief that an intensified course in ancient history is helpful for the course in modern history since, as he put it, "one gets an historical perspective of civilization."

He pushed his point further by stating that "history is the common denominator for most liberal arts studies. For example, most all political leaders now pattern themselves after Greek and Roman orators.

Despite the difficulty of the course, it is offered predominately for ninth graders. However, juniors and seniors are permitted to come back and pick it up if they want to.

Friday uses the school's well-stocked library to a great extent in teaching his course. "We're really fortunate here," he said, "to have a library as well equipped as ours. Where else can you find 60 books on the ancient Near East, 60 books on Greece and 120 on Rome? That's pretty good."

The teacher theorized that the course is "rather forgotten" in the Midwest and is predominately taught in East Coast schools.

"Be sure you understand," Friday said, "that this is designed as a CULTURE course. I can't emphasize that enough. Not just more kings and more battles for the students to memorize."

He made his point. The students, most important, got it and they'll be glad they did when they go to their respective universities in a few years.

Bookmobile Schedule Announced

Area Medical Officers End Army Course

Two Army officers from the Eastern Review area recently completed the six-week medical officer orientation course at the Medical Field Service School, Brooke Army Medical Center, Fort Sam Houston, Tex.

Instruction in the course emphasized combat medical procedures and included such subjects as emergency surgical techniques, care of combat exhaustion, care for mass casualties from nuclear explosions and the logistical requirements of field medical service.

Capt. Bernard S. Davidorf, 25, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Davidorf, 146 S. Stanwood-rd, was an intern at Philadelphia (Pa.) General Hospital before entering the Army. A member of Zeta Beta Tau and Phi Delta Epsilon fraternities, Captain Davidorf was graduated from Bexley High School in 1954 and received his degree in medicine from Ohio State University in 1961.

First Lt. Stephen F. Gallagher, 24, son of Frances D. Gallagher, 1349 Bryden-rd, received his doctor of dental surgery degree from St. Louis (Mo.) University in 1962.

Osbun Sent To Wilmington

C. David Osbun has just graduate from Ohio State University with a bachelor's degree in chemical engineering, and is now a research and development engineer at Jackson Laboratory of the E. I. DuPont de Nemours and Company. He will make his home in Wilmington.

Osbun is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Osbun, 302 S. Cassady-av.

FITTING REPS OF FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

Franklin County Unit Elects Officers At Day-Long Cancer Conference Tuesday

Dr. Jack Miles, 2586 W. Broad-st, was elected president of the American Cancer Society's Franklin County Unit Tuesday evening, as a climax to a day-long Cancer Volunteer Conference.

During the day the 300 who attended saw two new cancer movies, both of which are available for showing before clubs and organizations.

They heard talks on the society's functions and policies, and sat through a panel on cancer research, moderated by Dr. Arthur G. James, who was assisted by nine physician-researchers in Columbus.

Rutherford L. Ellis of Atlanta, Ga., chairman of the board of the American Cancer Society, spoke after the dinner on how progress in the United States compares with that in 60 other nations which recently held an International Cancer Congress in Moscow.

Ellis stated it was his feeling that scientists in the United States were making more progress than others, but that the exchange of ideas during the congress could speed up research in all countries.

He also described the amazement of Russian scientists, as well as the general public, on being told how the United States voluntarily supports health agencies, and their reaction when told that the American Cancer Society each April visits nearly every home in the United States to discuss cancer's seven danger signals and to ask for financial support.

In the near future, Ellis predicted, the society will launch a strong three-fold program including an educational program among labor unions, an attack on lung cancer and a program to provide financial assistance to families where children have been striken by leukemia.

He acknowledged that the Franklin County Unit had been one of the leaders in the general attack on lung cancer, and particularly praised the local group for spearheading the program among junior high school students, a program to be followed throughout the nation.

Dear friends:

We are frequently asked, "What should I pay for a funeral?"

Our advice, always, is this: "You are the only one who can answer that question. Your tastes and your finances should decide. Don't spend beyond your means. On the other hand, don't deprive yourself of the life-long satisfaction of paying a loving tribute to the one who is gone."

We prefer to leave the selection entirely in your hands.

Respectfully,

Arthur B. Leach

☆ Be ever mindful and thankful to GOD for . . .

HEALTH and FOOD

In our nation today, the majority of us have so much to be thankful for. Sure we lose a tooth or two in growing up, as the one pictured here, but these will soon be replaced. Health and Happiness are generally ours, and through our abundance we should share with others who are less fortunate. God's word and the church encourage sharing with others. There are many areas of service to others within the churches, and these we should not neglect, but God has said that we should take advantage, as we are able, of all opportunities to give aid.

"As we have therefore opportunity, let us do good unto all men."

GALATIANS 6:10

THE CHURCH ENCOURAGES LOVE AND COMPASSION FOR OTHERS

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

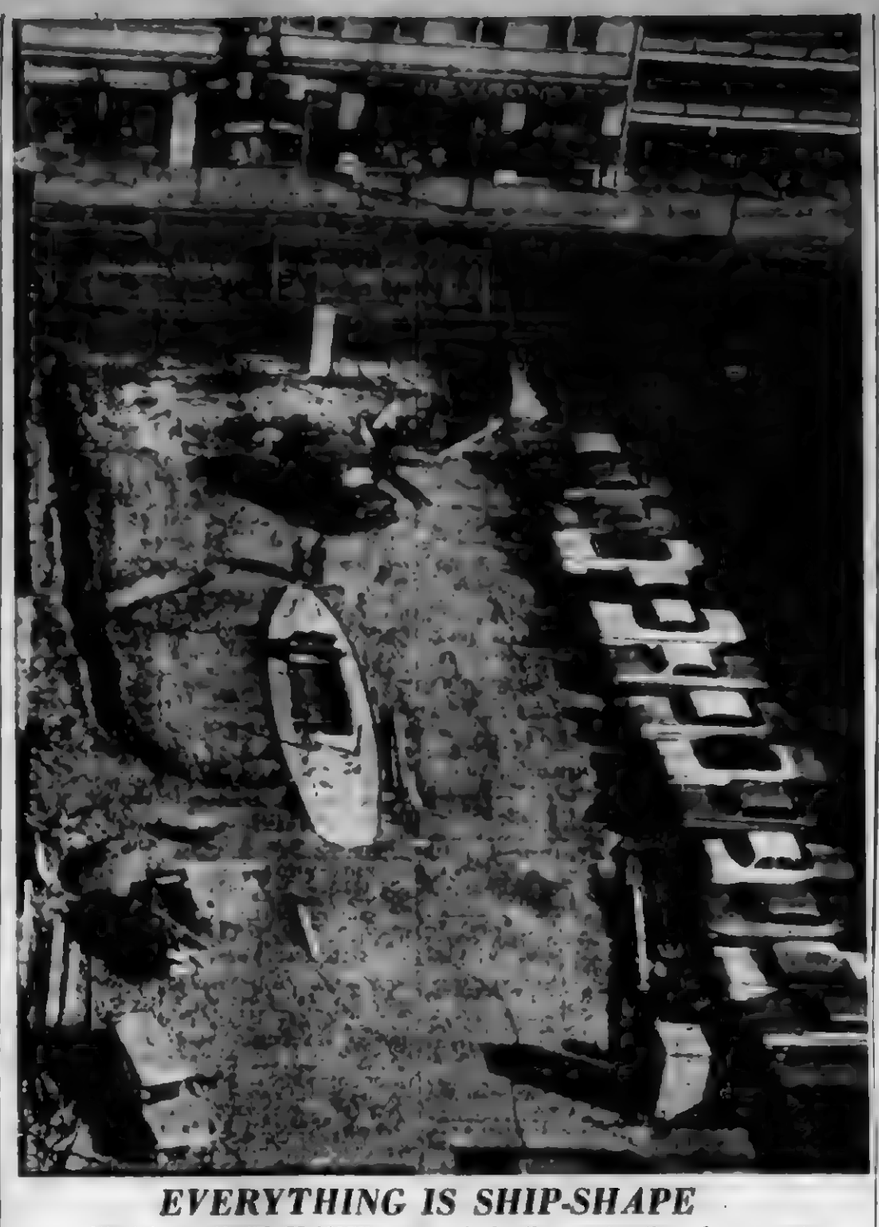
Food and Family Fitness
Teenagers' Food Fancies

Food fads, favored by teenagers today, are showing the effects of malnutrition in all economic levels. This development period—the "growing" time—makes well-balanced meals (including meat, milk, vegetables, fruits, breads and cereals) most important to their future well-being. Help them to know that it is smart to be physically fit . . . that good health, appearance and popularity are always compatible.

What does food mean to a teenager? Camaraderie . . . and filling a void. What they eat is pretty much dictated by the clan spirit . . . their world of social doings. Unfortunately at this age food, as related to health and physical fitness, just doesn't belong!



To mention it is apt to bring rebellion. That's kid stuff! This age is the beginning of independence, and attempted control from adults is tantamount to kid treatment . . . like "Drink your milk and you can have dessert." The result of this rebellion is pronounced . . . in the growing number of our teenagers who are poorly nourished . . . not physically fit. There are many statistics which trigger a warning. They show that poor food habits among our teenagers are creating a national health problem — and one that is increasing.

There is no age at which well-balanced meals made up of the four food groups that have been established by nutrition research authorities—milk, meat, vegetables and fruits, breads and cereals—aren't essential to good health. They are paramount to growing youth.

It isn't a matter of how much they eat . . . but what they eat. Strangely, boys are apt to over-eat, for this is male. A healthy appetite is a BIG man's way. Teenage girls present a different attitude. Too much food is unladylike, it's fattening, and a svelte figure and pretty complexion are essential to popularity. And so many of them nibble . . . and not of the good, health-building foods. Today, many of our young mothers are still in their teens—and their malnutrition, caused by poor eating habits, ill equips them for child-bearing . . . and, unfortunately, their children may inherit the maternal weakness.

What's to be done about our teenagers? Rigid discipline at this age may lead to trouble and frustration. Understanding and guidance is far more beneficial. Positives, rather than negatives, have a better chance of making a goal. Make them realize they are smart—in understanding the importance of well-balanced meals—as an accomplishment, not as a rule dictated by adults. And let them practice it among their friends—with parties THEY plan at home—and meals they have selected and even prepared—in very adult fashion. And do appeal to their vanity—a good looking boy—an attractive girl—is a healthy one.

But, like most ills, prevention is always better than cure. If good eating habits—well-balanced meals—are established in the home, your children will carry the basic habit into their teens as a joyful pleasure, not a command. And this will serve them all through the rest of their lives.

Research Is The Important Key In Designing Efficient Homes

By John E. Sandefur
President, Homebuilders Assn. of Greater Columbus

These are exciting years in the home building industry for the era is one of change and progress.

Home builders have embarked on a vast research program which should have a great influence on the kind of homes we live in and the way we live.

One of the overall objectives of the research program is to find and test better and less expensive ways in which to build. Another aim is to bring about better use of residential land. Each year the industry is advancing toward the achievement of these goals and, simultaneously, making home ownership possible for more families.

No single home builder or any small group of home builders has the resources, financial or otherwise, to conduct such large scale research activities alone. But members of the Homebuilders Association are participating in these activities through the National Association of Home Builders with which they are affiliated. The NAHB has more than 40,000 members. It is the united effort of this huge group that makes the far-reaching program possible.

Among the dramatic projects in the research program have been the building of demonstration low-cost homes for low-income families and the construction of research houses to test new building procedures and materials. Four research houses, built in the last few years, have contributed innumerable better features to today's new homes, from improved clothes closets to exterior walls.

A fifth Research House, due to be completed this year, will add its contributions to home building skills after it has been tested through family use.

Studies and tests of new ways to use residential land are being made by the NAHB in cooperation with the Urban Land Institute. The objective is to prevent waste of land through new patterns for locating a house on a lot.

One of the encouraging aspects in this frontier-crossing era of home building is that many elements of the industry are realizing that cooperative efforts will bring richer rewards to all concerned, but especially the consumer public.

Many large industrial firms whose products go into homes are working with home builders to develop better materials and equipment.

The home builder himself is changing. He has moved away from the role of small-scale artisan builder of one or two houses a year. He has become a land developer, merchandiser, and, frequently, a community founder as well as a builder.

Today's home builder also is proud of his standing in his community and the code of ethics which governs his business. Members of the Homebuilders Association of Greater Columbus subscribe to the NAHB Code, which declares:

"Home ownership can and should be within reach of every American family.

"American homes should be well-designed, well-constructed and well-located in attractive communities with educational, recreational, religious and shopping facilities accessible to all.

"Honesty is our guiding business policy. High standards of health, safety and sanitation shall be built into every home.

"As members of a progressive industry, we encourage research to develop new materials, new building techniques, new building equipment and improve methods of home financing, to the end that every home purchaser may get the greatest value possible for every dollar."

62% OWN HOMES

Most American families want to own their homes, and the availability of the kind of financing made popular by FHA has helped them to do it. In 1940 about 30 per cent of all families in the United States owned the homes they lived in. Twenty years later, the proportion had risen to 62 per cent. Sixty-two of every hundred families are home owners. This is the highest ratio in our history.

Carpet Meets Rigors Of TV

The pros and cons on TV have raged ever since the introduction of the "one-eyed monster" in the living room—and no matter which side of the argument you're on, there is no doubt that television has meant changes in our way of life.

Remember the days when Grandma's prize carpet was in the "parlor" and was rarely exposed? Compare this with today's living room or den, where there's most likely a cluster of children around a TV set during the day, the family and friends at night.

Carpet can take it, however.

Designs are both attractive and practical.

For The Handyman

Cut down clean-up time by installing stainless steel wall tiles to form spash boards behind your sink and range.

Stainless steel floor edging and carpet binding withstand foot traffic and repeated washing, save wear on linoleum and rugs.

Stainless steel tools—hammers, pliers, screw-drivers, saws, measuring tapes have built-in rust resistance, need no special care even when stored in basement or garage.

Perk up your front entrance and make it easy to locate night or day with bright stainless steel house numerals and letters. They resist wind and weather without painting.

"Live Those Good Years In The Best Home You Can Afford"

We call it "EXORDIUM '62" . . . a home design for the Housing Revolution! Here you will see the shape of the house to be designed and built around the wants and needs of tomorrow's living habits. In "Exordium '62" you will find "livable comfort," convenience, privacy and a pride of ownership that has never before been offered to the Columbus home buyer. Here is a home that will be the "standard type" as the decade progresses . . . yet it is "at home" in any present day neighborhood.

"Exordium '62" is the prelude of new living standards that will endure. Yes, it is new in its concept, but so is each day of our life different from the last. Its flexible plan, with literally dozens of variations, makes this design adaptable to any size family.

We urge you to give this home your careful and thorough inspection.

Deffet, Inc. Project Is Nearly Done

George H. Deffet, president of Deffet Homes, Inc. a residential construction firm, stated that its $250,000 project on St. Agnes-av, located Southwest, is in its completion stages.

George Deffet

These are ranch and split - level homes with completely new floor plans. The interiors feature such custom items as twin bowls in bath vanities; the use and combination of Walltex, paint, wallpaper and ceramics to give beauty and distinction to the decor; well-designed traffic patterns and many other features of interest to today's discriminating purchaser.

In addition, announcement was made of the formation of Deffet Rentals, Inc., which will immediately begin the extension of sewer and water lines to Eaton-av, west of the South freeway, for a quarter million dollar apartment development featuring medium priced rentals.

Purchasing and supervision on these sites is being handled by Thomas H. Deffet, recently appointed construction coordinator.

The appointment of Walter H. Popp as a salesman with the brokerage section of the Deffet companies was also noted.

GLICK'S DISPLAYS NEW LINE

THE FRESH COUNTRY LOOK is becoming a favorite in the city as well; inspired in part by the traditional appeal of furniture styles from the French countryside, and in part by the increasing desire for a sense of mellowness in apartment homes. Endearingly informal in mood. Thomasville's new Chateau Collection, creates an air of friendliness and relaxation, whether in a dining alcove or a full scale room. Glick's Furniture Stores are exclusive dealers of the new Chateau Collection in Columbus.

Taxus Hedge Could Be Real Bargain This Fall

Taxus is one of the finest of all evergreen plants for a hedge—low, medium or high—depending on what you want. And this fall over most of the country a taxus hedge could be a real bargain because there is a surplus of these plants in many parts of the country, according to the American Association of Nurserymen. There are of course many other excellent plant materials for hedges. In the more Southern states, Podocarpus, oleander, hollies, box and similar materials are widely used.

The surplus of taxus and other hedge materials is not expected to last because of the high demand for these evergreen plants for many uses on the home property. Many nurseries do not carry over surpluses from one year to the next. So if you want a hedge, now is the time to get it, the association advises.

U-Shaped Kitchen Is Handy

Homeowners cramped for space will find many advantages in a U-shaped kitchen. Not only does it pack many utilities in little space, but it also saves steps and provides work-flow convenience.

U-shaped kitchens are usually laid out with the stove on one side, the refrigerator on the other, and the sink at the curved end of the "U." Thus, the sink is handy both to the refrigerator and stove—while to get to the refrigerator to the stove, or vice versa, the housewife need only to turn around.

And, while working at any of the three work stations, other persons can readily enter the room without creating traffic jams. (The center aisle of the "U" should be at least four feet across.)

Counter work space is built on both sides of the stove and the sink. If surfaced with quality materials such as ceramic tile the countertops provide added working space for hot pots and pans, wet vegetables and cutting or slicing. And, because real tile is stainproof, such countertops are easy to keep clean.

The U-shaped kitchen provides adequate space for doors and windows, including a window over the sink which many housewives prefer.

DURING COMING WEEK—

Glistening Array Of Homes Displayed

National Home Week, Sept. 30 to Oct. 6, rings up the curtain on a drama close to the hearts of American families—the drama of new homes.

Throughout the country, wonderful new homes are on display. The showcase of new homes amounts to a preview of the homes to be built in 1963.

Home building is an evolutionary process. Each year's new homes have some new features, along with the best retained from other years. Many of the homes on parade this fall are bellwethers of the homes to come early in 1963.

The desire to own one's own home is a characteristic of American families. The nation is a country of home owners. Our homes are among the first things visitors from overseas want to see. Each year, many housing officials from other countries arrive in the United States to study Government policies and conventional financing that help make home ownership possible here. More than six out of every 10 American families live in their own homes.

If you are among those who want and plan to upgrade your family's mode of living, there is no better time than during National Home Week to inspect new residences and see for yourself what is available.

The new homes are the most liveable, attractive, convenient and comfortable that the home building industry has ever produced. This is true of homes in every price bracket.

I have seen hundreds of sparkling new homes in my travels about the country as president of the National Association of Home Builders.

Everywhere, new homes are giving more value, dollar for dollar, compared to 15 years ago, than other important basics such as food, clothing and transportation. Because builders are using a wider variety of new and improved materials, new-home buyers benefit daily—they get more house for their money to begin with and they spend much less on maintenance than they would have spent to keep up an older home.

Remember when built-in appliances or an extra bathroom were luxuries you saw only in more expensive homes? Today they are a part of many moderately-priced homes. Today's new homes have built-in features in the kitchen and bathrooms that were not even available in expensive, luxury homes of a mere five years ago.

When was the last time you heard someone say, "They don't build homes like they used to?" Whoever say it today is right. Homes today have more work-saving conveniences than a few years ago and they are built of improved materials. There is better heating, cooling, insulation, flooring, plumbing, wiring, roofing and siding.

Every section of the country tends to have housing features dictated by its own climate and customs. The new homes you will see in your own community may have different features but I do believe you will be impressed.

The plans are designed to give privacy for the sleeping area to avoid through traffic patterns in the living areas and, above all, to make every inch of house space count.

The amount of storage space in any new home should be a joy to the housewife.

The best way to find out is to make National Home Week a time to go and see for yourself.

Women Have Last Say In Selection Of Home

The nation's home builders are becoming increasingly sensitive to "my fair lady's" likes and dislikes. The reason, of course, is that women generally have the final say in the selection of a new home.

When women indicated their preference for attractive kitchens, builders quickly became kitchen experts. Today, kitchens are all that any woman could ask for. And now that women have indicated a desire for air conditioning, builders are offering air conditioning as an optional feature in most new homes.

Many families, the American Gas Association reports, are going a step further and specifying gas central systems which combine heating and air conditioning on a year-round basis. One advantage of these systems is their ability to maintain comfortable indoor temperatures in every room in the home, regardless of the weather outside.

Automatic Controls Replacing 'Sixth Sense' In Gas Cooking

"It cooks just as well as it did the day I bought it — twenty years ago."

How many times have you heard a friend or neighbor say this about her gas range? And it makes a certain amount of sense, too. After all, as the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association points out, there's nothing about a gas range to wear out; there aren't any moving parts; there aren't any elements to burn out. All it takes to assure gas range longevity, says GAMA, is reasonably good housekeeping.

"Many people are downright sentimental about their old stoves," says Edward A. Nash, gas appliance sales director for Norge Sales Corp., Chicago, and chairman of GAMA's domestic gas range division. "But in most of these cases, sentiment actually stands in the way of better, surer results, and a saving of time, energy and money that results from cooking on a modern automatic gas range."

Aside from the fact that today's ranges are made of better materials than were available a decade ago, are cooler to the touch and are better finished there is the most important matter of greater versatility.

Present day models are equipped to boil, broil, fry, deep-fat-fry, simmer, rotisserie, barbecue, griddle, sear, braise, bake and keep foods warm, and ready to serve without drying or overcooking.

"This is not to say that you can't do most of these things on the old ranges," says the GAMA official. "But it takes the sixth sense of experience to get good results without waste, particularly in the preparation of meats which, of course, are the most expensive item on the average food budget.

"On the other hand, when you can put a roast into the oven and set the controls for quick high heat to sear the meat and lock in the savory juices, then cut the temperature back to the roasting heat, stop the heat when the meat reaches the degree of doneness you want, and then hold just enough heat to keep the meat ready to serve even hours later—and do all this automatically, unattended — then you re really cooking modern."

What about top burners? Nash answers by explaining that the average top grade gas range now features at least one top burner with a "brain," an automatic sensing element that holds the heat in a utensil to within a couple of degrees of the preset temperature. This means that top-of-the-range recipes now can include specific temperatures. No more guesswork.

"In other words, if you add cold ingredients, the sensing element signals the burner for more heat and you can see the flame rise to the occasion," says Nash. "With this control, you can even bake on a top burner—and failures in the separation of items like omelets, delicate sauces and souffles are practically eliminated."

A large percentage of the nearly 2,000,000 gas ranges bought each year go into home modernization projects, Nash reports. Of these and the balance that are absorbed by the new-homes market, at lease 25 per cent now are built-ins. These, of course, provide an oven and broiler at eye-height in the kitchen wall and at the top burners in a counter.

Another new ayps of gas range is either wall-hung, with the oven and broiler above the top burners, or set against the wall on a kitchen counter. Still other models are slide-ins. These are like the regular free-standing types, but fit into the counter. In many homes where there are large families or a good deal of entertaining, householders prefer double built-in arrangements.

Sliding wood windows make the sweeping view an important decorative element in this handsome livingroom. Folding shutters of ponderosa pine screen out sun, allow lake breeze to enter.

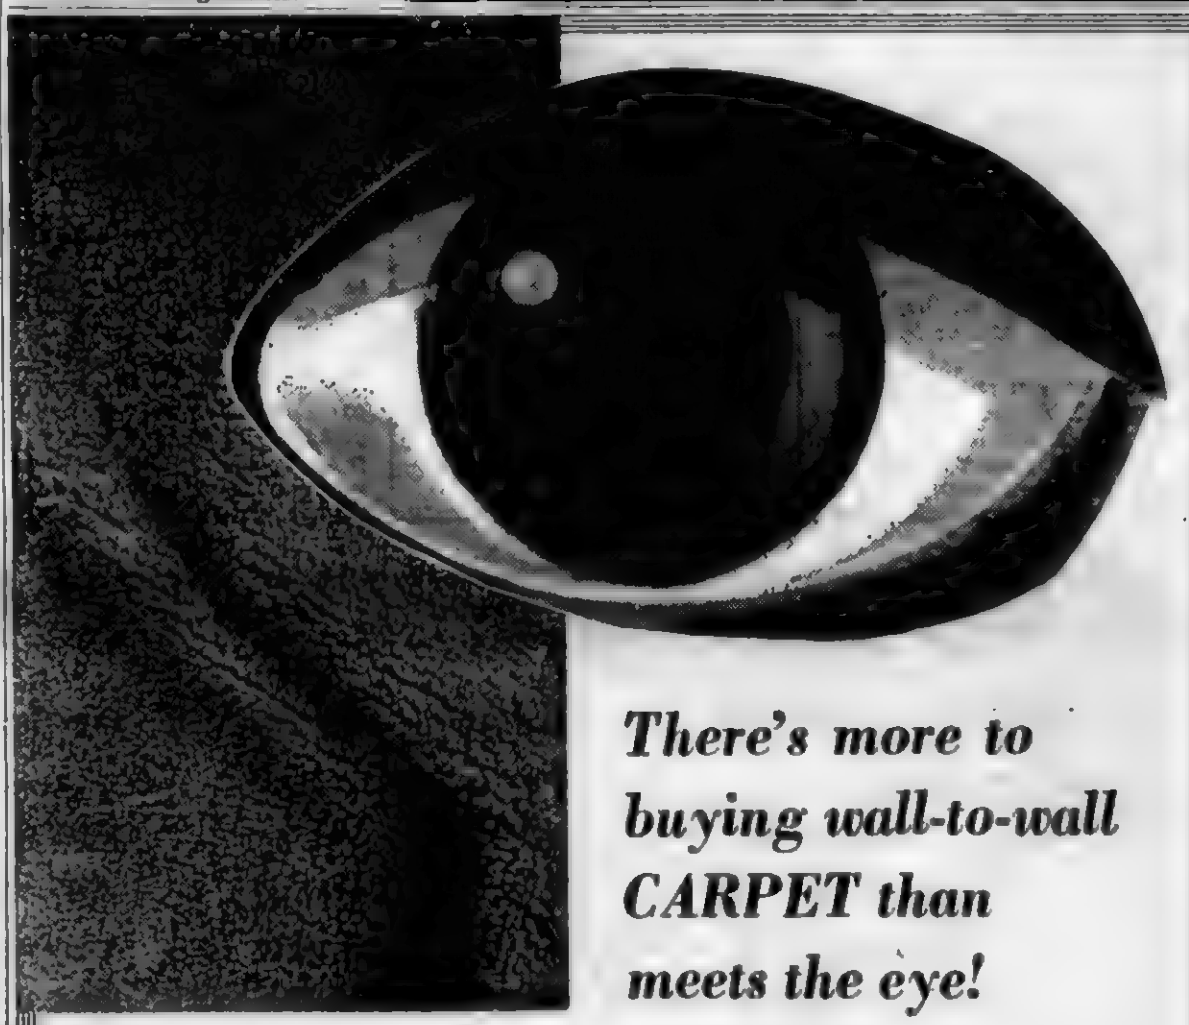
Carpets Of Beauty, Warmth Give House Lived-In Feeling

Carpeting — soft, warm, quiet and beautiful — is one of the first major items for a new house that homemakers want and buy. In fact, carpets and rugs are rapidly becoming the finished flooring in many new homes.

Last year, according to a nation-wide consumer survey, 12 per cent of all the U. S. families that bought wall-to-wall carpeting made this purchase for a new home. In many instances, the carpet was bought with the home or shortly after the family moved into the house.

Newlyweds, for example, buy carpet at the rate of two-thirds above the national average, and families living in their homes less than five years account for 51 per cent of all the carpet and rug purchasing families.

There are a variety of reasons why homemakers want carpets in their new homes as soon as possible. A growing number of families are realizing considerable savings by having carpet installed over inexpensive subflooring materials, such as plywood, or directly over concrete slab. In many cases they find the money saved by eliminating conventional flooring will cover the cost of the carpet.



But besides its economic advantages, new home owners hate to delay their enjoyment of carpet's multiple decorative and practical features. Carpeted floors give a new house a "warm," furnished appearance. For the homemaker who has probably not yet bought all the furniture she needs, this is important. On carpet, the basic pieces she does have will not look isolated and scanty as they often do on bare floors.

Also carpet can absorb as much as 50 per cent of the airborne noise in a room, and is the only acoustical material that can effectively deaden floor impact noises. By eliminating the hollow, echoing sounds of footsteps across bare floors, carpeting contributes further to making new homes seem more "lived in" and less barren.

Carpet's cushioning comfort is fatigue-reducing and pleasant underfoot, and from a safety standpoint, its non-skid surface prevents slips and absorbs the impact of falls that do occur. Another practical is that carpet provides ready "seating" for guests—a vital point in new homes usually a little short on chairs.

Not to be overlooked is the easy care feature of carpet. Quick whisks of a sweeper or vacuum cleaner can make a room "instantly" ready for guests without the effort of floor scrubbing and waxing.

But beyond all these practical benefits, one of the major reasons new home owners really like carpet is its sheer, luxurious beauty. It gives pride and pleasure in a new home that is difficult to match.

CONFUSED by trade names given the new carpet fabrics? Do you know which will clean easiest? Wear best? Serves a particular need to advantage?

Modern Landscaping Pays For Itself, Survey Shows

Well-designed landscaping on home properties will return the money it costs many times over in increased value of the property, in the opinion of home owners who have landscaped their properties, says the American Association of Nurserymen.

In a Pennsylvania State University study, 62 per cent of home owners who have landscaped their homes estimate that the plantings have increased the value of their real estate from two to more than 10 times the amount of money spent for the landscaping. Increased property values of three to four or more times the cost of the planting were the most frequent answers by these home owners who already have had their properties landscaped.

'Nicer To Live In'

Beauty and utility also were leading reasons for landscaping, including shade, privacy, windbreaks and other reasons. Many said the landscaped home is "nicer to live in"; or the "home would look bare" without it, while others just liked to grow flowers and fruits. In doing so, they have a "feeling of accomplishment."

How do you go about modernizing? You are the judge. The first step is to take a critical look at your property. Is the planting overgrown? Does it provide for "garden living" in a space planted for that purpose? Is it pleasing and private from the street, as well as from inside the house looking out? Does it have color in winter, or is it drab and cold at that time? Finally, does it supply flowers and fruits for inside the home?

Once you have taken a good look at the property, there are several ways to go about modernizing it. Here sound planning pays off. Contact your nurseryman for his advice. A professional plan by a landscape nurseryman, in which you can have the work done completely, or planned on a do-it-yourself basis, may be desirable.

Should Be Planned

To get the fullest returns in increased property value the planting should be modern and beautiful, provide a higher standard of living on the entire property. Incidentally, a majority of the people who have good landscaping urged that their friends do likewise because "trees and shrubs increase the value of the property."

Most nurseries of any size will plan your landscaping in such a way that it can be completed piecemeal, on a do-it-yourself basis, or planted by the nursery.

The objective of good landscaping is to blend your home into the surrounding landscape to provide a composite picture of beauty and utility. From the street your home should be doubly attractive because of the plantings.

Site Planning

For people who contemplate building a new home, the time to call in the landscape nurseryman is immediately after you have purchased the site and before you start building. The landscape nurseryman can cooperate with your builder and help you to determine the best location for the house on your lot, in order to take full advantage of land contours and other features in making the site as beautiful and useful as it possibly can be. He will show you where your garden living room should be to take full advantage of terrain and sun and shade, and the most practical location for it with respect to your kitchen, for example.

Any way the home owner looks at it, says the American Association of Nurserymen, competent advice in planning his landscaping will save both future dollars as well as headaches.

Colorful Trees Are Excellent Decorations

In the Northeast especially, fall color generally is considered the color of the maples, oaks, pines and spruces, birches and other trees which are striking with contrasting yellows, oranges, reds and greens.

The Midwest and North Central states also have their brilliant colors, while the Rocky Mountain area with yellow aspens and evergreens is believed by some to be the most beautiful of all.

Every area can have beautiful color and bloom, according to the American Association of Nurserymen.

Moths Acquire Tobacco Habit

You can forget about that old excuse of "ashes being good for the rug—they protect it from moths."

For one thing, a research group at the University of California has found that these perverse insects actually have a taste for both cigar and cigarette ashes.

And anyway, leading carpet manufacturers in the United States have already eliminated the need for such precaution. Most rugs and carpets today are mothproofed permanently during the process of manufacturing by special chemical treatments.

Pretty Planter

A glass planter is a novel gift idea for any season. As a gift or for your home, fill a 6" or 8" glass block vase ¾ full of pebbles, sand, marbles or dirt, resting Narcissus bulbs on top. Fill with water to the base of the bulbs and place in a cool, dark location for two weeks. Keep water level constant. When the roots have formed about 2", take the vases into the light—not direct sunlight. Full flowering will come about five weeks after planting, a perfect gift for anyone at anytime.

USE BRIGHT COLORS

Have fun with colors in decorating your vacation home. Vivid colors in a year-round home could tend to be hard to live with after a while. Most families prefer restful for their permanent home, but they enjoy brighter colors for their vacation cottage.

IF YOU BUY REAL ESTATE—YOU SHOULD KNOW . . . .

When you buy a home you are usually making the most important investment of your life. That home is "real estate." The validity of your ownership depends entirely on the "TITLE" to that real estate. This "TITLE" therefore, becomes the most important part of your deal. Now — how do you protect yourself in such a transaction? The answer is OWNER'S TITLE INSURANCE. No doubt you have noticed that the most experienced real estate investors and mortgage lenders insist on TITLE INSURANCE protection when they buy or lend money. If your title is insured you, too, have used good business judgment. OWNER'S TITLE INSURANCE is the only kind of insurance that protects a buyer in his future ownership of real estate against the consequences of what may have happened before he owned the property. This TITLE INSURANCE is issued after a careful investigation has been made into the past history of the title. The purpose of this investigation is to determine, so far as possible, whether or not the title is complete and valid and the extent to which it is encumbered when the investigation is made. No annual premiums are involved. Once you have it, it protects you forever. It is the only sure way to protect against title loss because of mistakes of the past. When you buy real estate, always ask: "Is my title being protected by OWNER'S TITLE INSURANCE?" Most knowledgeable real estate investors INSIST on it. When you buy real estate always DEMAND Owner's Title Insurance for YOUR title protection — no real estate investment is better than the TITLE. What's more, you can always prove your good title, later, if you wish to sell or mortgage it. It's the best way to protect your real estate investment.

There's A Different Way Of Life In The New Split-Level Homes

One of the popular home designs being built today is the split-level, with living-dining and kitchen on the main level, and a bedroom wing above a lower level family room area.

This large informal space, usually with a second bath and utility areas on the same level, can produce a remarkable change in home living patterns. The big change it makes is on freeing the other rooms in the house for the uses for which they were originally intended.

The living room can be a place for quiet relaxation and adult hospitality, and the kitchen need not double as a playroom for the youngsters, if the house has an adequate family room. The family room takes over the functions of playroom, rumpus room and even a workroom for family projects and individual hobbies.

Distinctive Decor

Although its functions are less formal and it is subjected to harder use, the family room can have decorative distinction. It can be a good looking room through the use of hardboard panels for wall coverings, for facing partitions, for acoustical ceilings and even for cabinets and other necessary storage units.

Once used in home construction as a purely utilitarian product, hardboard is now available with many new faces, including realistic wood-grained finished surfaces, ribbed, striated, embossed and grooved patterns. There are also plastic-coated finishes and a full range of perforated designs, some with random patterns, square holes and lattice-like die-cut designs. The wealth of possibilities make it feasible for the householder to achieve almost any wanted effect in the family room, or quite literally in any room in the house.

Research Product

Hardboard, a product of research, has certain advantages over the natural wood from which it is made. It will not warp, check or split. It resists dents, which makes it a natural choice for hard use areas in the home, especially where active youngsters play. That is why, for example, it is so often used for wainscoting in hallways. In addition, it is easy to clean, with just a wipe of a damp sponge or cloth.

Besides its durability, hardboard has water-resistance engineered into it. Standard grade hardboard, while it can be used in humid areas in the home, should not be applied in really damp rooms. In a bathroom or laundry room, for example, the use of tempered hardboard is recommended. Tempered hardboard has been specially processed at the factory to withstand damp conditions.

These properties made hardboard popular with home builders for such uses as underlayment and soffits. Now, with the new swing to beauty and variety of surface, hardboard has gained acceptance as a handsome and practical interior paneling material in the best rooms of the house.

Hubbub of Activity

Because a family room is a multipurpose area which may be filled with a hubbub of activity, control of the noise level becomes important. Perforated hardboard is the new, easy and economical answer. Applied over two-inch sound absorbent batts, it provides the desired reduction of noise, and retains the advantage of ease of cleaning and painting, and its tough dent-resistance.

Modern Stone Products For Handyman

For the first time, colorful "do it yourself" stone is available to the homeowner. New steel-reinforced, pre-formed Perma-Stone engineered to allow the average handyman to apply it to any surface with east, each stone has its own fastening hoops extending from it through which nails or screws pass to hold the stone to the wall surface.

Each fastening loop is also a spacer so that proper joint size becomes automatic. It comes in three sizes: 2"x24" 4'x24", 6"x24" and is easily sawed for special sizing.

Abecedarian Or Zymurgist, Gas Helps You Earn Better Living

Marlay Newspapers National Home Week Section — Sept. 26, 1962 —

You may not be an abecedarian or a zymurgist by profession. But whatever you do, you can be sure that gas or products made with the aid of gas help you make your living.

The Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association figures that industry uses gas in more than 26,000 ways, ranging right through the alphabet.

For instance, the abecedarian (a person who teaches the alphabet) works with paper made with the aid of gas and printing that uses gas heat to dry the ink. The zymurgist (who works in the chemistry of fermentation, as applied to wine making and brewing) uses gas to provide heat for his experiments and processes.

Whether it's an adze, a kaleidoscope, a tiddlywink or a vacuum tube, gas had a part in its making.

Industry uses gas to anneal, bake, cut and dry, and to make toys, underwear, verniers, watches, xylophones, yo-yos, and even zippers.

And, whatever the materials that went into your home, most of them were either created or finished by gas technology. Lumber, cast iron, steel, tile, linoleum, paint, plastics, appliances, nails and almost everything else in the structure is processed by gas at some point in its manufacture.

Lowell F. Crouse, vice president of Maxon Premix Burner Co., Muncie, Ind., and chairman of GAMMA's industrial gas equipment division, says "here are sound reasons why so much of our manufacturing muscle stems from gas."

"Among the more than 150,000 industrial gas users," Crouse points out, "there is general agreement that gas is flexible in its application, clean to use, economical, burns at a constant and easily-controllable temperature, and suffers none of the service breakdowns that can be caused by weather."

Gas is used for such diverse purposes as making lipstick or heating industrial ovens, some as long as a city block. Watchmakers and precision tool makers use gas to help produce parts so precise that they are measured under a microscope.

The automobile manufacturers, in the course of putting the nation on wheels, have found gas useful in more than 80 separate ways on the production line, ranging from the block testing of engines to the quick drying of body paints.

Approximately 50 billion tin cans, carrying much of the nation's food supply, are manufactured each year by gas equipment. And, in most instances, the food in the cans will be cooked with gas.

The GAMMA official points out that gas also is playing an important role in the Space Age. Laboratories using gas have produced temperature of more than 3,000 degrees, and industry leaders say that 5,000 degrees may soon be attained.

25,000,000 Prefer Gas

Today, gas heats the water in more than 25 million homes. In 1961 alone, 2,500,000 gas heaters were sold, and an expected three million will be sold in 1962.

One reason for the steady increase in the sale of gas heaters is the tremendous demand for hot water in the home. More than 80 percent of all water used in the home is hot water. Even discounting baths, dishes, laundry and showers, there are still 136 uses for hot water.

New Homes Designed For In-Out Living

By Robert Fox
Chrmn. Design Subcommittee,
National Association of Home Builders

Today's new homes are better designed than ever before —and they are designed for outdoors as well as indoor living, a trend that is bound to continue in view of the increased leisure most Americans enjoy.

We are seeing better design in our homes because builders have the services of a greater number of talented people. They have, either on their staffs or as consultants, such specialists as industrial designers, architects, landscapers and interior decorators.

One of the most dramatic advances in home building is that design today tends to embrace an entire community rather than a single home. Home buyers consider their choice in terms of the overall neighborhood effect.

If we can throw off the burden of inflexible planning requirements that some communities have created, we can build architecturally more interesting communities and achieve a more interesting placement of a house in a community. This has to come.

Many of 1962's new homes have exteriors of traditional design. This is because, of a trend among families to take a conservative view of how their homes should look from the outside.

But most of these same families want modern interiors for their homes. They want modern design in their kitchens, bathrooms and in their indoor-outdoor living areas.

Actually, we are seeing dramatic changes in interior design. For one thing, the family room has become a standard room in nearly all new homes. I believe that in the future the living room will become a small formal room, much like the old-fashioned parlor in many respects.

Unquestionably, we are going to see the advent of the mechanical core in the home of the future. This may be only five years away. It will mean a concentration of bathroom, kitchen, heating-cooling pipes, wiring and equipment in one area, which could be located in the center of the house or elsewhere.

Big steps toward the installation of such a mechanical core were taken by the National Association of Home Builders in several of its research houses. All the plumbing pipes and fixtures were located on one wall. On one side of the wall was the kitchen sink with its water inlets and outlets. On the other side was the bathroom equipment. The "back-to-back" installation is quite common now.

The home of the future, I believe, will make use of larger components, such as an entire pre-built bathroom which will come with tub, vanity and all equipment. Such large components will be easier to clean and maintain and they will be built to high standards of production under completely controllable conditions.

Obviously, we will see, too, the greater emergence of plastics in the materials used for home building. They will be used for floors, ceilings, and walls, and piping of all types and they likely will contribute structural strength to a house as well as beauty.

New homes at this particular point in history have become more exciting because of many new developments in design and materials.

ARCHITECT'S ROLE

Time was when most people considered an architect indispensable for large commercial buildings, but far too expensive for single-home construction. Nowadays, people are coming to realize that retaining an architect to plan their home is one of the most practical steps they can take. It's all part of the emerging concept of long-range economy, which is also influencing people to select quality, durable materials such as ceramic tile when they are planning a new home or a major remodeling project.

Ceramic Tile Is Often A Sign Of Good Quality

How can you tell whether a new house you visit during National Home Week (or any other time) has built-in quality?

Architects and other professional men admit this is difficult, because you can't lift out a wall and see the homes's basic structure — the way you can kick the tires or lift the hood of an automobile.

But there is one quick, easy way to get an indication of a homes's quality—take a peek in the bathroom.

If the builder used waterproof ceramic tile around the tub and shower, it's a good indication that he didn't stint on quality materials. If cheap materials are found there, be wary! They may also be hidden behind the walls throughout the house.

Another good place to check for real tile is in the kitchen. If the builder used quality materials there, it's all the more assurance that he builds a good house.

Ceramic tile has, for good reason, become the most desired all-around surfacing material of today.

The new Cuisine Console, produced by Elkay Manufacturing Company, is one of the latest designs in stainless steel sinks.

Modern Kitchen Sink Saga; Make Less Work For Mom

For many years, the kitchen sink was the symbol of the housewife's daily drudgery. And for good reason. Early American women used a wooden tub to wash all the family's possessions, including pots, pans, clothes and small children. Our own mothers spent hours bending over a heavy porcelain sink scrubbing garments on a ripple-surfaced wash board.

With the dawn of the electronic day, many of these hard jobs are being handled automatically outside the sink. Even if today's housewife doesn't have the latest push-button equipment, she probably benefits from such developments as spray attachments, single-control faucet for hot and cold water, double- or triple-bowl sinks, and easy to clean sink materials. So far, modern designers have been unable to simplify child-washing, but at least it has been removed from the kitchen.

Illuminated Sinks

According to a recent study, the housewife continues to spend a quarter of each day in the kitchen, and most of that time in front of the sink. But thanks to labor saving devices, modern design and materials, the kitchen is somewhat less of a prison cell. With the current trends toward stainless steel, for instance, the sink is no longer an eyesore, but a center of attraction. One of the leading sink manufacturers placed lights on a pedestal at the rear of the working area, and also to "present a dramatic effect, reflecting and highlighting the beauty of its stainless steel construction."

Stainless Ahead

Here are some recent developments in kitchen sinks — One manufacturer now builds sinks which not only have lights on the rear, but an entire console of electrical outlets, remote control drains, garbage disposal switch, vegetable basket and cutting board. The spray hose has been replaced by an adjustable water faucet. Another popular twist puts sinks in corners or island counters in the middle of a kitchen. You can also get an insulated sink with a cutting-board cover for ice storage.

Sink materials have included wood, stone, porcelain enamel, galvanized steel, and now stainless steel. A leading plumbing industry magazine reports that 22 per cent of all new sinks installed in 1961 were made of stainless steel and forecasts 70 per cent by the end of the six.ys. Another source says stainless sinks are installed in 70 per cent of all kitchen modernization jobs. Main reasons for the metal's popularity are its soft, velvety sheen that reflects and complements kitchen colors, its tough and easy-cleaning finish, and its great resistance to food stains or acids which pit other materials.

You can select your own stainless sink from over 400 models and sizes. And your local plumbing contractors installs it easily because stainless is light and rugged. A testimonial to the metal's durability is the fact that it has been standard for many years in restaurant kitchens. You'll be in good company with a new stainless steel sink. It's reported from Cape Canaveral that the transfer van which carries our astronauts to their rockets is equipped with a pair of stainless steel sinks.

Extra Sinks

The next step in the sink saga will probably be installation in other parts of the house. Basement or garage sinks are handy for clean-up after play or garden care. Many homeowners blessed with extra space are installing small, single-bowl sinks in the guest room to prevent jam-ups at the bathroom, and provide comfort and privacy for the visitor.

Already, experimental sinks have been developed which use ultrasonics to remove dirt and grease from cookware and dishes. Some scientists claim the future housewife will be able to sit at a control panel and prepare, cook, and clean-up meals by pushing buttons.

Home Hints

BURNPROOF COUNTER

Most counter surfacing materials will be permanently damaged if contacted by a hot pot or pan. This presents a problem in a small kitchen with limited counter space. The solution lies in covering the counter with burnproof ceramic tile. This versatile product is also scratchproof and comes in more than 250 colors.

A Mortgage Is Not Bogey; It's A Way To Save You Many Dollars

You don't need to be a financier to understand mortgages.

Actually, a mortgage is another way of saying loan. But a mortgage is also a means of forced savings. For most of the millions of American families who have one, their mortgages represent the only possible way they could have bought their homes.

A mortgage is simply a document containing a written promise from the borrower to repay to the lender the amount of the loan on the house, together with a specified rate of interest. The house itself is the security for the loan.

Payments on interest and principal of the loan usually are scheduled through a plan of regular monthly payments. At the start, the interest represents the biggest share of the monthly payment. But as it decreases, payment on the principal increases by the same amount.

Thousands of families have watched with satisfaction as their monthly payments melted their mortgage. For many, this is a goal and an incentive for saving. And while they are paying off the mortgage, they are enjoying their new homes. In the end, they own their own home outright and, instead of a collection of worthless rent receipts, they have property worth thousands of dollars.

There are three main types of mortgages. One is known as the conventional. This is any kind of mortgage that is not insured or guaranteed by the Federal government. The terms of the loan are agreed upon between the lender and the borrower, subject only to state interest rate laws.

A second type is the FHA-insured mortgage. The Federal Housing Administration, a government agency, insures the lender against loss through default on the part of the borrower. The borrower pays an insurance premium. Before it issues the insurance, the FHA makes its own appraisal of the property to see that it meets the government's standards.

The other type is the VA-guaranteed mortgage. The so-called "GI" bill authorizes the Veterans Administration to guarantee against loss any home loan it approves made to an eligible veteran by a private lender. The ceiling on a VA guaranteed mortgage is $7,500.

How Does Your Home Look From The Street?

From the street-side, a home should present a pleasing picture that will provide neighbors and yourself with a pleasant feeling of family stability and beautiful living, says the American Association of Nurserymen. Such an appearance can be provided by sound plantings of trees and shrubs that help fit the house into the surrounding landscape, instead of having it look stark and naked, or overgrown.

Small homes as well as large can easily be planted to present a most pleasing appearance. Natural beauty by the use of trees and shrubs has no limitations — rich or poor can achieve it. You can plant it yourself or have it done by an experienced landscape nurseryman.

Stand on the sidewalk at a point opposite your front door and look directly at the house. Draw imaginary lines from where you are standing to the corners of your house. Any large trees should be planted outside of such lines, so your home will present an unbroken view of lawn.

Along the foundation in curved beds plant a variety of low-growing plants, with just slightly higher plants beside the doorway and grouped at the house corners. Avoid a straight-line row of plants along the front of the house. This is poor practice.

Your main objective is to plant a pleasing picture. Take care in the planting, standing off at a distance and observing it to get effects you wish.

Are You A Loser Or Lover?

Millions of home owners in the United States "lose" many of the benefits of having their own land by not caring for it properly, or by allowing overgrown shrubs and trees to detract from its beauty and value, says the American Association of Nurserymen. Many home owners appear to the public from the street as if they hate their land by the way they treat it, says the association, when it should be a source of pride and inspiration because of its neatness and beauty.

Ragged overgrown landscape plants reflect poor housekeeping, and reduce the resale value of a home, while attractive plantings increase the value some 15 to 20 per cent or more. Difference in the price obtainable for raggedly overgrown as compared to lovely planted grounds could reach as high as 30 to 40 per cent, it is said.

Best advice is to consult a reliable landscape nurseryman and have him work out a professional plan for increasing the value of the property, the prestige of the owner, as well as the respect of neighbors, with attractive plantings of trees and shrubs, it is stated. Sound landscaping and family garden living not only pays off in pleasure, but in sound real estate values. Pennsylvania state extension survey found that 81 per cent of home owners who had landscaped their homes reported the landscaping had increased the value of the home by one-half up to 10 times or more of the total cost of the planting.

Push-Button Plumbing Featured

The first home in Central Ohio with "Ultraflo" push-button plumbing has been built by Art Borjanowski, 699 Bernhard-rd.

The home located at 733 Ross-rd, is being presented in open-house fashion by Rose Carley Realty.

Smaller pipes, reduction of heat loss and water waste, and less danger of pipe leakare are listed as main advantages to the new water system.

Two out of three new homes have more than one bath. In homes of quality, the floors, walls and countertops of these bathrooms are surfaced with a durable material, such as ceramic tile, that will hold up through the years. Real tile is waterproof, resists stains and scratches and is easily cleaned. It now comes in a wider selection of colors, shapes and patterns than ever before.

Doors can and should be dramatic. A door is the first contact anyone has with your home. It should impart a pleasing appearance.

Daylight Bathing Time

For a light and bright bathroom, homeowners today can eliminate drafty windows by replacing them with glass blocks. Regular windows are always in need of repairs due to excess moisture in the bathroom. New glass blocks admit an abundance of natural daylight, but restrict all vision, so comfort and privacy are achieved. The construction of glass block has insulating qualities equal to that of an eight-inch masonry wall. Two specially constructed glass blocks provide proper ventilation.

17,500 Green Trading Stamps Are Offered By Pool Builder

A total of 17,500 green trading stamps might be yours if you are among the many millions of American families about ready to :"take the plunge" with the purchase of your own, in-the-ground backyard swimming pool, it was announced by local swimming pool equipment distributor, Nathan M. Meyer of Swimming Pools of Ohio.

Never before in the history of trading stamps has such a large number of stamps been offered free on a nationwide basis with the purchase of just one item.

Swimming Pools of Ohio, distributors for the Spartan steel swimming pool for Major Equipment Corporation, is awarding every new pool buyer with 13,5000 S and H green stamps with its 16'x32' backyard pool; 15,500 stamps with the 18'x36' Spartan model; and 17,500 stamps with the large 20'x40' size.

Besides the stamp bonus, Mr. Meyer said a manufacturer's price reduction is being made of $150 on the 16'x32' and the 18'x36' Spartan pool models and a $250 reduction of the large 20'x40'. Prices now range from $1345 to $2745, either on a contractor installed or home owner do-it-yourself basis. However, regardless of the method of installation and the eventual cost, the number of stamps for each pool size does not vary.

The manufacturer - sponsored stamp give away and price cut, Mr. Meyer stated, is designed to encourage fall and winter installations when weather and ground conditions are ideal.

"Most people wait until spring," Mr. Meyer said, "and then contend with the battle of sand and mud for one entire season. If the pool is installed in fall or early winter, the pool backfill is alowed to settle, a patio can be laid at the new pool owner's convenience, and landscaping accomplished. When the swimming season arrives everything is in a 'go' condition with all the inconveniences of installation a painless thing of the past."

Prevent ugly rust streaks on outdoor construction by using stainless steel nails, screws and fasteners. Their strength makes installation easier.

Up to two or three week differences can be noticed between the south and north side of the home, says the American Association of Nurserymen. If you want spring bulbs to flower at the earliest possible time plant them on the south side as near to the foundation as practical.

Here's a "pattern for people who don't like pattern." This cut-and-looped pile carpet has a multi-tone effect made up of six or seven closely-related hues—a texture-color combination that is both practical and decorative underfoot. Predominant tones can be picked up for accent or blending in this dual-purpose room with decor that is reminiscent of "the good old days."

Color Still Keynote In Modern Carpet Styles

Color continues to make news in carpets and rugs. Whatever your taste or budget may be, you'll find a wide color range available in decorative soft floor coverings.

Current favorites in carpet and rug colors include blues and greens, plus many combinations of these two hues; rich golds and clear reds, and the always-popular beige. This neutral is seen in many shades, with emphasis on the yellow-beiges, rather than the rosy shades which were popular in the past.

As important as interesting solid colors, are the numerous color mixtures — carpets and rugs combining two or more tones of one color, or several contrasting shades. Some are lively tweeds, others suggest a subtle pattern with rich color blending.

Texture — carpet's unique contribution to a decorative scheme — continues in wide variety. Many new styles are shown with a tight-looped surface pile, a texture which is extremely practical underfoot. More formal textures include the familiar "sculptured" surfaces and thick plush piles, as well as combination textures such as high-low loops.

Watch for more and more carpets and rugs which are "meant for each other" — compatable colors and textures which can be used in adjoining areas of the home. They offer a change of pace in styling, but with a continuity of design throughout the house.

On the market today are many carpets designed for particular decorative schemes — Victorian floral patterns, tweedy carpets for Early American rooms, soft patterns to complement delicate furnishings in the formal French stylings.

Area rugs make news in both size and shape. A number of striking rug designs are available in sizes which go all the way from 4' x 6' to 12' x 15'. Shapes include squares and rectangles as well as ovals, round rugs and "free-form" shapes.

Fringe trim is popular for many area rugs—thick, yarn fringe which matches or blends with a predominant color in the design. Other styles have their own borders for added interest.

Hardwood Is Really Hard!

Hardboard is hard board.

This widely adaptable building material, according to a U.S. Department of Commerce report, is made from wood which has been reduced to its individual basic wood fibers and then reformed under heat and pressure by a predominantly natural bond in the wood, lignin.

It is used for hundreds of different purposes, the report continues, "where a combination of strength, hardness, density and uniform surface is required."

Hardboard was developed in 1924 and first produced commercially in 1926.

Fading Resort Lives Again As New Suburb

Houses planned and equipped for a modern way of living in a quiet lakeside setting have transformed Mt. Arlington, a one-time resort town in northern New Jersey, into a bustling commuter's community.

Most of the new year-round homes bear a Gold Medallion, an award given only to all-electric homes that meet a rigid set of standards.

"As has happened with many other resort towns near large cities, new highways and better transportation facilities have made year-round living here practical but, delightful as this area is, most people don't want to put up with a back-woodsy way of life all year long. When we meet Gold Medallion standards, home owners can have their cake and eat it, too."

Hunsicker's homes, which overlook the south shore of Lake Hopatcong, New Jersey's largest inland water body, are individually designed in colonial, ranch and split-level styles, and priced from $23,000 to $28,000.

The Gold Medallion Homes all have several things in common. Each one has an all-electric kitchen equipped with a built-in range, electric dishwasher and waste disposer. There is also remote-controlled lighting in every room and closet, outdoor lighting and electric baseboard heating with individual room controls. Wiring and outlets are designed to meet all the demands of modern electric living.

Hunsicker has also provided extras such as "lake rooms" that overlook peaceful Lake Hopatcong, and basement fall-out shelters for a sense of security.

Hardboard Adds Plus Values

In many cases a man who's handy can improve a brand new house by adding the finishing touches that add up to a luxury look without luxury cost.

An unfinished basement can be transformed into a useful and pleasant recreation room or hobby center. Finishing the interior of the garage can increase the comfort and convenience of a new home. Adequate fencing can give a new home a more finished look even before lawns, plantings and terraces are fully developed.

On the basis of economy, durability and easy workability, hardboard is a versatile solution for the problem of applying these finishing touches, even if the builder does the job. For the handy homeowner, hardboard is easy to handle and goes up quickly, yet requires no special tools, just those used for other wood products.

Speedy Coverage

Regular 4-by-8-feet panels cover wall areas speedily to provide a smooth-as-glass surface that takes paint beautifully. Without checks, grain or knots the smooth panels will resist dirt and moisture and clean easily, when primed and painted or enameled.

But the easiest way for the homemaker to use hardboard is to select one of the many specialty products which the domestic industry has recently developed for specific applications around the home.

To finish the basement there are dozens of handsome prefinished hardboard panels, including glamorous wood-grained finished, plastic-coated, embossed, perforated, corrugated, grooved, ribbed or striated surfaces. They come in a range of panel sizes, too. Most popular are the 4-by-8-foot boards and the 16-inch by 8-foot planks, with lap or tongue-and-groove edges.

Save Expenditures

Economical in terms of original cost, these panels save maintenance expenditures over the years. Once up, the pre-finished surfaces need no further treatment nor refinishing. The factory-applied finishes resist dents, scuffs and stains. Smudges and dirt can be removed simply with a damp cloth or sponge, or the panel can be washed down without soaking.

Hardboard, which is an engineered product made of wood fibers bound together with lignin — the natural binder in wood itself — under heat and pressure, is made tough, durable and moisture-resistant in the process.

Finishing the interior of a garage is simplified by using another hardboard product tailored expressly for the purpose. Strong, heavy-duty sheets with perforations that will support even a power mower on hooks, eliminate clutter by providing hanging storage space as well as improving the appearance of the interior.

Some of these lining panels for garages are pre-finished in colors and can be fastened directly to the studs with matching color nails. The prefinished panels also resist scuffing. Panels perforated all over, or some with perforations only on the upper segment above a grooved wainscot, are available.

Exordium '62' Is The New Melvon Theme

Exordium "62" is the new living plan recently initiated by Melvon Inc., 464 N. Highland-av. The five-year-old Columbus firm manufactures custom homes, apartments and small commercial buildings.

TILE WIDELY USED

Ceramic tile is being used by American architects and designers in every room of the home, and also on exterior walls, roof decks, terraces and swimming pools in all climates.

Munkel Firm Is Featuring Show Room

Tailor-made indoor comfort control by means of individual designing is being featured at Munkel Heating and Cooling, Inc., 569 N. Fourth-st.

Whitehall Council Gives OK To Fairway-Main Rezoning

With Fairway-blvd residents protesting during Whitehall Council meeting Tuesday night, the solons unanimously approved a $3.5 million apartment-motel-service station project in the area.

During the public hearing of the rezoning issue at Fairway-blvd and Main-st, some residents said they would take the matter to Common Pleas Court.

The area was rezoned from residential and plans now indicate that a gasoline station will be built in the low portion of the junction, near Big Walnut Creek. Approval was also given for a motel, a restaurant, large apartment houses and doubles.

Biggest protest from the residents was because of the expected traffic problem that such a complex would create.

The resolution for the rezoning was first introduced to council July 3 and referred to the Planning and Zoning Commission.

In other action:

- Passed an old ordinance prohibiting the operation of unsafe vehicles.
- Rezoned an area on the north side of E. Broad-st (west of Peter Pan Drive-In) for apartments.
- Authorized the public service director to obtain an appraiser for property located at 3580 E. Main-st.
- Appropriated $1,348 for paying off the remaining outstanding bonds of the city's fire department building. This marks the last payment for a 10-year period.
- Authorized the service director to get plans ready for for a relief sewer, beginning at Collingwood-av and running east in Doney-st to an easement west of Beechtree-rd and then north.
- Passed an ordinance levying special assessments for improvements to the west side of Elaine-rd from Pinecrest Subdivision, north to McAllister-av, by constructing a sanitary sewer.
- Authorized sale of $380,000 in councilmanic bonds to finance the nearly completed Municipal Building.
- Passed a resolution requesting the highway director to make a study of traffic conditions on E. Main-st from Country Club-rd to the east corporation limits for the purpose of reducing speed limits.

This was requested by the mayor and stems from a case recently heard in the Court of Appeals where Gahanna had stationed a 35-mile limit on Hamilton-rd. The judge determined that there wasn't enough development on the east side of Hamilton to warrant a 35-mile limit and said it should be 50.

In all, the solons passed 10 pieces of legislation during the lengthy session.

Eastern Jaycees Get Award

The winning project was Easterns' Chapter organization. Last spring, representatives of the Columbus Jaycees met with a group of local interested young men.

The ensuing membership drive, election of officers and application for charter to the national organization was finalized when the charter was granted by the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce.

It was presented by Ohio Jaycee State President Richard Croyle, of Lorain, at charter night festivities held at the Desert Inn Aug. 18.

The award presented to Eastern was won in competition with other Jaycee chapters throughout Ohio in the same population grouping.

It represents the finest achievement of Jaycee activities in an internal area. Other awards are presented for external and profit-making projects.

Representatives from the Eastern Jaycees on hand to receive this award were:

President J. Rogers Vien, State Director Thomas B. Studebaker, Vice - President William L. LaRue, Treasurer Paul Knoblauch, Directors William H. Shanks and Dennis D. Varvel and Committee Chairmen Richard A. Bailey, Dennis Klein and Roland Gilbert.

Here's Real Chance To Honor Our Homemakers

$5,000 in cash!

What local homemaker wouldn't be happy to be told that she had just received this fine award in recognition of the fact that she is an outstanding homemaker.

There is a wonderful opportunity that some lady in the area served by the seven Hartley Newspapers group will win this amount of money.

It is all very simple. Any friend, any organization, or any individual (even a husband) can nominate a candidate for this prize by merely writing a letter not to exceed 500 words and covering the points outlined in official judging standards. These standards are listed elsewhere in this paper today under the heading of the Suburban Homemaker award.

All entries must be in our office no later than Oct. 20. A local homemaker will be selected from each of our papers. Present plans call for this winner to be sent on an all-expense paid trip to Chicago for the announcement of the national winner and the presentation of the $5,000 award sometime near the middle of November.

There are no costs involved and no demonstrations necessary. The letters will merely serve as a means of determining the outstanding homemakers and these, in turn, will be screened by a committee who will call upon them at their home and verify certain statements.

Every service group, every women's church group, every PTA should have a nominee and many other individuals will want to nominate someone.

The chances are very good that the National Homemaker Award can go to a local

Zanes Wins First Round In Contest

Herbert Zanes, 1477 Watkins-rd, won the first round in Hartley Newspapers' big football contest last week. Zanes received a check for $25 for his efforts in picking 19 of 24 winners.

He edged Warren Harman, 1162 Roundlay-rd, Glenn E. Eagle, 152 W. Williams-rd and R. Larry Terman, 591 Brinker-rd, all of whom picked 18 of 24 winners.

Had he been a paid subscriber, Zanes would have doubled his money.

The more than 200 contestants missed an average of 10 of the 24 winners which is much better than anticipated. The Hartley Football Contest Editor missed 13 of the 24 winners.

Since no one picked all 24 winners correctly last week, the $25 jackpot money has been added to next week's jackpot, raising the total to $50.

On an inside page of this paper are 24 more top high school, college, and professional games. These games

BEXLEY EXCHANGE STUDENT ANETTE
... Thinks Football Is "Crazy" Game

FAIR EXCHANGE

Norwegian Gal Now Attending Bexley

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.

To a 17-year-old Foreign Exchange student now attending Bexley High School, America is a "wonderfully friendly place" — with the possible exception of football which she describes as a "crazy game."

Anette Plahte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Einar Plahte, will be a student at Bexley all year before returning to her native Norway. Her home is six miles outside of Oslo and last Saturday's Ohio State-North Carolina game was her first glimpse at the sport which she described as a game "where everyone kicks and knocks and pulls each other down."

According to Bexley Principal Clyde W. Jones, Anette is the third student there to participate in the exchange program. Jones explained that the pretty blonde lass won't get a degree (she's in the senior class there) but she will be presented with a certificate of attendance.

"There's no common denominator so you can't compare education in America and Europe. Therefore we can't issue grades," Jones said, "and she won't get any class credit back in Norway for her time here."

Other observations of this county? Here are a few:

"Everyone has asked me how I like it here and I tell them I like it very much. Many students have asked me to teach them some Norwegian—they always ask to learn how to say 'I love you.'

"The people here are very friendly . . . they really make you feel welcome. Bexley's school is about as big as mine but the halls here are all alike. I never know where I am . . . it's very confusing.

"People told me I would be homesick when I came here. It's funny, but I'm not . . . maybe it's because I haven't had the time."

The conversation evolved to her Norway's neighboring Sweden, the country that has produced many movie beauties. To this she said: "Yes, but they've just got pretty faces that don't say anything . . . just like dolls. I really like your Spencer Tracy."

She's staying in this country with Mr. and Mrs. James F. Kurtz, 122 N. Stanwood-rd.

"I learned fast," she said "that in America you can't wear the same clothes twice in the same week, like in Norway. I like it this way . . . it's fun."

'BARGAINS!' SAY FIREMEN

Whitehall Fire Department's big white elephant sale will be held this Friday and Saturday at 166 S. Hamilton-rd, according to John Downing, chairman.

Downing reported that there'll be "bargains galore" and that it'll all be on sale during both days from noon to 9 p.m.

Red Cross First Aid Course Set

The Whitehall Fire Department, S. Yearling-rd, announced this week that classes will begin there Oct. 9 for Red Cross first-aid instructions.

The course is set-up on a six-week basis and is open to anyone over 15-years of age.

All first-aid techniques will be taught during the two-hour sessions — from 7 to 9 p.m.

Those who complete the instruction will be awarded a standard American Red Cross first-aid card.

ROBERT RAMSEY, 189 S. Kellner-rd, shown here as he received the plaque from Gov. Earl Brooke of the Ohio District Kiwanis, for first place in achievement competition with 260 clubs in Ohio in 1961. The award was presented at the Monday session of the Kiwanis District Convention in Cleveland. Ramsey was president of Eastern Kiwanis Club in 1961.

Former FBI Agent Speaks To Sertoma

Speaking last week to the Eastern Sertoma Club, Columbus attorney Raymond Cunningham told the group:

"While the Brinks Co. robbery was never solved to the extent that a conviction was obtained, its investigation turned up hundreds of other federal crimes for which convictions were had."

A former FBI agent, Cunningham emphasized that "The function of the Bureau is to investigate and report its findings. The giving of opinions and recommendations as to policy are reserved to the agencies requesting the investigation."

Schaaf Hall: New Men's Dorm At Cap Opens Officially Sunday

Capital University will dedicate a new $430,000 men's residence hall this Sunday, Oct. 7.

Schaaf Hall, named in honor of Julius Schaf, a 93-year-old retired Berea farmer who donated $100,000 toward the project, was opened for upperclassmen this fall. The three-story face brick and glass block structure houses 104 men.

Sticking to its stand against Federal Aid, Capital borrowed $300,000 from a local savings and loan association on a 20-year schedule of amortization to help finance this project.

The $430,000 total cost includes the cost of the site and $86,000 for furnishings. General contractor was Robert W. Setterlin and Sons of Columbus.

Schaaf Hall is the first building to be completed in the University's $10 million "Decade of Decision" expansion program. Scheduled next summer are ground-breakings for a new classroom building and an administration building.

Taking part in the act of dedication will be Dr. Kenneth Priebe, president, Ohio District of the American Lutheran Church; Dr. Irvin F. Young, chairman of Capital's Board of Regents; Ralph G. Dix, Jr., architect from Canton; John A. Kirker, dean of men at Capital and Joseph Schwartz, a senior from Pittsburg and president of Schaaf Hall.

Offering the dedication sentences and prayer will be the Rev. Raymond Wolf, director of church relations at Capital.

THIS $43,000 Men's Residence hall at Capital University will be dedicated during ceremonies Sunday, Oct. 7. The structure is named Schaaf Hall in honor of Julius Schaaf, a donor toward the building's construction.

Unique And Beautiful Setting Planned For YW's 'Song Of India'

"Song Of India" is the theme for the fellowship tea to be held at the YWCA, 65 S. Fourth-st, Saturday, Oct. 6, 2 to 5 p.m.

Tea will be served and exhibits displayed from 2 to 3 p.m., and 4 to 5 p.m. with a program in the auditorium from 3 to 4.

Mrs. Sunanda Ghosh of Calcutta, India, a graduate student in education at Ohio State University, will sing one of Tagore's songs and will narrate a Hindu wedding.

Mrs. Donald Zehr, 387 E. Torrence-rd, chairman of tea tables, has planned a setting unique and beautiful. The five tea tables, placed in several rooms on the fourth floor of the YW, will feature cloths of India and women of India will serve as hostesses.

The Indian "Festival of Lights" which is observed in October in India, will be depicted in a handmade design of colored rice, placed on a hand-woven cloth of plain color.

A display of hand-carved elephants will be placed on an elephant cloth; an ivory cloth, made in Southern India, will be the background for figures of hand-carved ivory.

Figurines of the gods and godesses will appear on the table covered by a hand-painted cloth featuring these dieties of India, and a hand-printed cloth showing the village women of India will cover the table featuring dolls dressed as the various workers of the country.

Mrs. Zehr's daughter, Mrs. David Elder, formerly of Columbus now living in Valpariso, Ind., will wear the dress of a village woman and serve as hostess at this table.

Refreshments, of special sweets of India, will be prepared by a committee under the direction of Mrs. Kapal Madra, 154 W. 18th-av, and tea services will be loaned by friends of the YWCA.

TEENERS' HAIRDO

A professional haircut by a good hair stylist once in a while is a good investment for you.

Miss Teen. The trouble with a do-it-yourself attempt is that you cannot get at all parts of the head. A young face looks best with little lipstick, and a simple, well-brushed hairdo. Make a fetish of reaching for the hair brush and using it with the intent of making your hair an outstanding beauty item.

Miss Teen, let us arrange your hairstyle the way it should be done. Expert cutting and shaping are a "must." Iva's Beauty Salon, 3078 E. Broad Street, Columbus. BE. 8-8474. Town and Country Shopping Center.

TEEN TOPICS
One reason teen-agers often have bad luck with a home beauty session—young hair can be surprisingly porous. This means it absorbs waving lotion too fast, drinks in more chemicals than average hair, and processes too quickly. Yet, you can't tell just by looking—it takes a frizzled, frowsy disappointment to tell you the things about your hair that we could have told you in a twinkle! Once we know how thirsty your hair will be, we choose the proper lotion for lovely results—and time the wave to perfection.
EXPERIENCE HELPS
Know what happens, when inexperienced hands—yours, for instance—wrap too much hair on a waving rod? The lock can come out as straight as it started! That looks mighty silly on a freshly curled head. Lotion simply can't penetrate too much rolled-up-tight hair. But by the same token, too-skimpy hair on a waving rod gets too much action. That could make frizzy, dried-out curls—and what smart girl wants that? We know how much hair . . . and what size rods. That's our business!
SIZED FOR SUCCESS
Different parts of your hair need different-size rods. If you're going to have style in your do. We know where the big ones belong, and where medium-sizes will bring the most magic. That's why the girl who looks beautifully put together is the girl who put her soda-money into a good beauty-salon permanent. You'll be surprised to see how neatly we can fit a fine wave into your budget! Come in and see.

Keep A Cautious Eye On Referral Selling Tactics

Have you ever been broached by a salesman who tells you you can get an item free if you give the salesman enough names of friends who might be interested in buying the same product?

This is known as "referral selling," according to Ohio's Attorney General.

It works like this. You are persuaded to buy some item with the promise you can pay for it by setting up appointments for the salesman or furnishing him with names of prospective new customers.

"Products from automobiles to vacuum cleaners are sold this way," said the Attorney General.

However, it is very rare, indeed, that the buyer makes enough to pay for his own item."

The Consumer Frauds and Crime Section of the Attorney General's Office is requesting all such persons who sign up under such a plan to report whether satisfactory or unsatisfactory results were obtained.

"We know that this type of selling is flourishing in Ohio," said the state's top law-enforcer. "We want to know if actual fraud is being perpetrated upon the public. We can't promise relief from valid contractural obligations, but hope to help someone else in the future."

If you have ever participated in the "referral selling" plan include the following facts in your letter:

1. Date of contract and name of company.

2. When the article was purchased and approximate cost.

3. Details as to how much money you were to receive for each prospective customer.

4. Success of the program.

5. Did you earn as much as you expected to earn when you signed up?

6. Did you earn enough to pay all of the purchase price, a substantial part of it, or practically nothing?

7. Would you again sign up under such a plan? Explain please.

All letters should be sent to Attorney General, State House Annex, Columbus 15, Ohio. Attention: Consumer Frauds and Crimes Section.

Ted Lee Specializes In Leaf Raking— All For The Cause Of Conservation

INSIDE ON THE Outdoors By ROD COCHRAN

Ted Lee, 986 Wilson-av, is a man with an outdoor-education mission, and right now he is collecting leaves, of all things. But he is doing it for a very good reason. Lee teaches children and school teachers how to mount leaves on display boards that make attractive classroom decorations and instruction panels.

At this season of the year he is in his glory, for he can collect both green and multi-colored leaves for spectacular displays. Lee carries in his car a long pole with a pruning device on the end, so that he may clip a particular leaf from a tall tree. He has permission to collect these leaves from a variety of areas, including a cemetery. One private arboretum wants him to come and collect their leaves. Lee must certainly be the best known leaf raker in town.

Long active in outdoor educational work, Ted Lee has participated in many programs of two local conservation clubs — The Southeast Conservation Club, and The Central Ohio Hunters' and Anglers' Club. Since his retirement, he has been carrying out an educational program statewide for the League of Ohio Sportsmen. The great, wide outdoors is his classroom, and in it he acquaints youngsters with the wonderful world about them.

Much of his leaf-mounting activity is experimental at present. He varies his process to see which combination produces the best mount. The problem of color fading has nearly been solved, and the mounts are proving to be durable and long lasting. Green leaves of the ginkgo tree, however, have faded. This is disappointing, for the tree, also called maidenhair tree, arouses a lot of interest among both children and adults. It is apparently rare enough to be a novelty, and its fan-shaped leaves turn to a striking yellow-gold, and Lee hopes to preserve these specimens.

Ted realizes that teaching youngsters about leaves and trees, birds and insects, rocks and soil, fish and mammals is not instructing them in the art of hunting and fishing. But he feels that once they have touched and smelled, heard and seen something of the wonderous outdoor world, they will become conservationists.

Being a conservationist is not quite the same as being a hunter or fisherman, even though most sportsmen practice conservation. Fishing, hunting, boating, camping and all the rest are fine, healthful family sports. But conservation is a way of life.

Because of this philosophy, both the local and state sportsmen organizations are encouraging Lee to continue his hobby, which requires his full time, incidentally. He wades into the whole program just like he collects leaves, with a lot of zip. And he's doing a whale of a good job.

FOOD MARKETS THIS WEEK

Plan Thrifty Menus Around Plentifuls

By ESTELLE B. FRANKS

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Fruits — Apples, grapes, pears.

Other Foods — Round steak, pork roasts, ground beef, fish, cheese, small grade A eggs, canned and frozen food "specials".

For the homemaker who likes to plan her menus well in advance—here's what the marketing specialists say will be plentiful during October:

Mrs. Franks

Fresh apples, cheese and broiler fryers are likely to be the featured items. Also frozen concentrated orange juice, grapes, pears, fresh cranberries, potatoes, rice and turkeys.

Fish and seafood products will get added emphasis while red meat supplies are getting adjusted. Supplies of fresh, frozen and canned fish will be at a high level this month. Canned fish will b1.7.D

ned tuna should be an especially good buy. There'll be plenty of pink salmon, and sardines for your hubby's snacks will be more plentiful than usual.

All of the above items are suitable companions for home-grown squash—acorn, butternut and Hubbards. There are still lots of local green beans and the Florida crop will soon be ready to take over. Turnips, parsnips, rutabagas, yams and sweet potatoes come into their own in October. Count on all members of the cabbage family, from snowy white cauliflower to bright green broccoli.

Ohio apples will fill fruit counters for National Apple Week, October 11 through 20. This year's total U. S. apple crop is now estimated to be 11 percent above average. So, you'll find apples galore at your supermarket — for eating as they are, for baking, for pies, and for all those special occasions that fall in October.

Canned fruits and vegetables get high billing in grocery ads at this time of year. The new pack is being processed, and the remainder of last year's pack is being moved out to make room for the new.

You'll see many promotions on cling peaches and fruit cocktail. Look for prices to be the same, or slightly higher, on apple sauce and apricots. Cranberries will likely be the same or a little lower. While this year's crop is a record one, the pack will be restricted under a new Marketing Agreement. The agreement provides for eighteen percent of the new crop cranberries to be used in research and special programs to increase exports.

In the vegetable line of canned goods, look for snap beans to be specialed. The new pack is running large and there's a heavy carryover. Total supplies of other vegetables are still somewhat uncertain; generally, look for their prices to remain about the same.

Beware Of Government 'Coveruppers'

In a recent edition of The New Republic, it had this to say about our cloak and dagger fumblings in the Cuban fiasco:

McPeek

"The whole affair is a shocking demonstration of what is bound to happen under a policy of keeping the public business concealed from the public.

"When any government (or officials), not excluding a republic, operates under cover of darkness, its operations soon begin to stink. For the past 15 years there has been an increasing tendency not to permit the American people to know what the American government is doing.

"If the people are now caught in a position that costs them both blushes and money, well, they asked for it when they tolerated the policy of concealment."

As a newsman, I find these remarks especially significant. Because I, and every other newsman, for that matter, know that not a few of our officials — elected and appointed — no matter how great or small the office they hold, do their damnedest to conceal their activities.

Certainly it is to be expected when an official attempts to cover up acts of dishonesty or stupidity.

But when an official attempts to conceal a legitimate action of his office because he feels the people wouldn't understand, or because he is too cowardly or incompetent to defend the action, then he becomes just as contemptible and unworthy as the crooked politician.

If we permit officials who practice these habits to continue in office, then we deserve what we get, which usually turns out to be stinking, costly incompetence.

So if in the future you read a story in this or any area newspaper in which an event or official action is reported which obviously should have been made known to the public earlier, make a note of the officials involved.

Then don't forget them when you next go to the polls. If they attempt to pull the wool over the public's eyes once, there is no reason to think they won't try again.

Aid For Those 'Just Looking' For Church

A conversation to which I am often a party takes place when I visit a department store. The clerk approaches and asks, "May I help you please?" to which I (almost) invariably reply: "No thanks. I'm just looking." This expresses the attitude of many toward the Church; without reference to any formal connection in terms of membership.

Rev. Buchholtz

Some are "just looking" because they do not wish to become deeply involved. They recognize the value of church membership as a bit of contemporary American culture; or as an important agency at critical times in life. But they are afraid that real involvement costs too much in terms of time spent in worship or service; or of money from an already protesting budget; or of sympathy for those in less fortunate circumstances than their own. So they hold themselves aloof from deep involvement, just looking.

Religion does mean involvement. Jesus became hopelessly, wholesomely involved in the lives of many: Zaccheus, Nicodemus, Mary of Magdala, the Samaritan woman at Jacob's well — not to mention the disciples and many others. For you and me religion means participation in the life and ministry of the Church; involvement of the whole of personality and the whole of life — social, economic, political. The nature of the spiritual is such that a person either becomes ever more deeply involved, or ever less deeply involved until he is completely free from it. (Mark 10:17-31; John 14, 15, 16)

Others are "just looking" because they are searching for something, and can't find it. The Church is often so far removed from its real mission that it has forfeited its right to be a church — a fellowship of believing, forgiven people living in (more or less, but never quite) perfect obedience to the Church's Lord.

Sometimes people search for the wrong things. Membership even degenates at times into a weird kind of popularity contest among churches or among ministers — a sort of ecclesiastical Miss America contest, with much less beauty, and usually less brains.

If you're "just looking" for a a church to which you can give your love, your loyalty, ask three questions only. The first: "What does this church teach?" The second: "Does what this church teach, jibe with the plain teaching of the New Testament as I can read it and understand it; without recourse to individual interpretation; and with the Old Testament as interpreted through the New?" (Acts 8:26-40; II Peter 1:20).

As the first and second questions are answered to your satisfaction the third one will be too: "What is the quality of life produced by this church as demonstrated in the lives and social relationships of its members?" "Can grapes be picked from briars?" asked Jesus pointedly, "or figs from thistles?" The "fruits of the Spirit" are easily recognizable: "love (as defined in John 15:13), joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, fidelity (faithfulness), gentleness, and self-control." (Galatians 5:22).

It is good to look; it is better to find. Yet none of us becomes as deeply involved as he ought to, considering what the Lord of the Church has done for him.

I'm sure that the managers of stores (I hesitate to speak for the longsuffering clerks) are happy to see me come in and look around. They know that if I come in often enough, and look long enough, I'm going to buy something sometime. This is what store managers and preachers have in common.

God, in His own way, says the same thing, and attaches some very attractive promises to the assurance (Jeremiah 29:12-15).

And in the church, as in the store, one connot know the preciousness of his possession until he has committed himself and becomes an owner instead of a looker. There is joy in the search — but it cannot compare to the blessedness of the finding. Happy seeker! Happy finder!

PLANNING

A salesmanager looks at his graphs, thinks of his men, and plans his next campaign. A store manager calls in his department heads and his credit man and looks six months ahead. A paper boy thinks of his route and how best to save time and effort. A clergyman writes his next Sunday's sermon and wonders which of his sick and lonely he should see next.

Each of these and a thousand other jobs are all different. Yet they all have one thing in common: PLANNING. In this age of new skills and methods, scarcely any enterprise can succeed without it. And the more the better. Even then, failure may lurk just around the next corner.

Time was when a teamster could slap a little grease on four axles and be ready to go. If a wheel broke, he could carve and fit a new spoke in a few minutes. Now, a truck requires careful lubrication constantly and the periodic attention of a skilled mechanic if it is to do the job.

Wages, profits, costs, skills of hand, abilities of mind - - - all these and many more factors in modern enterprises are necessary, for we all depend upon them. They all require careful adjustments, our best thoughts - - - and planning.

When Adam and Eve got thrown out of the Garden they laid plans to build a new Eden. They didn't succeed. Nor have we. But we just could be on our way.

It says here . . . . . .
Plan your work and work your plan.

Some say that inflation is that period when everybody is so rich that no one can afford anything.

Some persons who complain about the high cost of food have the figures to prove it.

Adult education will continue to be a part of American life as long as the kids get homework.

AROUND EDUCATIONAL CIRCLES

VIEWING GOOD . . .

School instruction is relying on the use of audio-visual materials as never before, according to Clyde K. Miller of the State Department of Education. He recently reported that a total of 186,000 films was shipped by his department to aid teachers during the 1960-61 school year.

THREE MORE MARKS

Three new marks, H, P and I, have been suggested by a committee of Oberlin teachers for grades 7 to 12. H would be awarded for "superior work and/or creative achievement," P, meaning passed on effort," would be awarded to students with low ability, who worked hard. And I would stand for incomplete.

NO ROOM . . .

One of the things youngsters between three and 12 want in their room is a desk, according to a poll by the National Congress of Parents and Teachers. One nine year-old boy, however, was asked what he would like taken out of his room. He immediately replied: "My brother."

ENGINEERS DOWN

The number of engineering graduates, which shot upward following Sputnik, is dropping off at an alarming pace. Indications are that during the next ten years the U.S. will graduate about 37,000 engineers annually, as against an estimated need of 48,000.

$5000 Cash Awaits Suburban Homemaker

PHARMACISTS LAUDED

MAYOR WESTLAKE proclaimed the week of Oct. 7-13 as National Pharmacy Week in Columbus, and in so doing, called the attention of the citizens to the many services performed by the pharmacists here. An illustration was seen in the SOS Polio Program of last Sunday when some 300 pharmacists prepared and dispensed more than a half-million doses of the vaccine. Seen with the Mayor are Robert J. McLoughlin (left), president, and Charles H. Campbell, executive secretary of the Central Ohio Academy of Pharmacy.

It's as easy as pie — come these crisp fall days of apple and pumpkin harvest—to turn out your choice of family deserts; and it's even easier to treat your favorite homemaker in a very special way.

If you've read about our search for the top suburban homemaker, then just take a few minutes to think about all the gals you know who are doing a bang-up job of running their homes and pick the one you think is the best. All you need to do is give us a few facts about her so we can check them out. You might even think of the items as a "list of ingredients" about a person instead of about a pie!

That's why we jokingly said it's as easy as pie—and think how delighted your chosen homemaker would be if she should be the lucky one "to pull out the winning plum" of 1962.

Even if your favorite gal at home doesn't win the very top award, she might be invited to attend the gala conference Nov. 15 in Chicago, when the local winners, the judges, and a host of celebrities convene for an exciting event on the shore of Lake Michigan at the famous Sheraton - Blackstone Hotel. There will be a homemakers' conference in the morning, a festive luncheon with celebrities at noon, and an exciting award ceremony for the winner in the afternoon. The day will end with dinner and a theater event of seeing Jean Kerr's humorous Broadway hit, "Mary, Mary." Others plans are in the making. Seems to us that the lady of your choice might put you at the top of her list of what to be thankful for on Thanksgiving Day of 1962!

Remember, take the time to name your favorite homemaker. The following is a rough sample of what you should say in your letter describing your favorite homemaker.

Dear Editor:

My nominee for "Suburban Homemaker of the Year" is Mrs. John Doe, better known in the community as "Sally." She is about 42 and the mother of two boys and two girls ranging in age from four to 16.

Sally bubbles with enthusiasm whenever she enters a room. Although she does all her own housework, she never is too busy to pitch in and help her friends and neighbors.

She belongs to the WCTU, the PTA, and several service clubs for women. She has been chairman of dozens of committees in these organizations, and is always a willing volunteer for the many duties within these groups.

Sally seldom misses church with her family, and works actively on several church organizations. She encourages her children to participate in church activities.

On any of the local fund drives such as Cancer, Heart, or YMCA, it is not unusual to find Sally collecting from door to door with one or two little ones tagging along.

Much of Sally's evening time is spent helping her children do their homework. She always encourages them with their hobbies, and often has to become an expert in every hobby from raising white rats to button collecting.

An air of teamwork always prevails in the Doe household. Each member of the family has his regular chores to perform, and the family enjoys

The Fabric Doctor
"Are Imported Fabrics Up to Our Standards?"
—Miss M. E. D.

Dear Miss M E D.

Your question is timely. International trade brings not only fabrics but many other products into this country. The fashions, fabrics, and colors are very attractive and the glamour of foreign labels appeal to us all. However, foreign manufacturers do not all meet our standards for color-fastness and cleanability.

Typical, were complaints heard not long ago about Italian tweed suits. Some were black and white, tweed, some had red, yellow, blue, and green yarn flecks in them. These tweeds were of reprocessed wool, nylon, rayon and cotton. The chief complaint was against the black dye of the wool yarn. Moisture from stains caused the black to "bleed" over the white nylon, cotton and rayon fibers. The owners of the suits in attempting to remove stains quickly with water only increased the "bleeding," causing the white fibers to take on a gray appearance. In two-piece suits, when one piece was cleaned and the other not, the pieces did not match.

To test a garment for color-fastness, moisten an inside seam and blot it with a white blotter. If the black dye shows on the blotter, beware! And don't blame your drycleaner if your fine imported tweed "bleeds" to accepted stain and spot removal procedures.

Our growing international trade will reveal more and more of these problems. Foreign fabrics are often beautiful, long-wearing and practical, but remember standards are not as rigid abroad as at home.

Bexley High School LION's ROAR

By Harriett Nalty

Three Bexley Seniors Rank As Scholarship Finalists

Three Bexley seniors, Steve Ault, David Mayer and Edward Pritchett, are semi-finalists in 1962-63 Merit Scholarship competition.

"Outstanding performance on the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying test given last March made them eligible for this recognition," commented C. W. Jones, Bexley High School principal.

The Bexley seniors are among 625 semi-finalists from the 30,000 Ohio students who took the test. National winners include 11,000.

Finalists in the competition will be chosen on the basis of college board scores from tests taken on or before Dec. 1, 1962. Students earning a finalist rating are eligible for college scholarships.

The 1962-63 Bexley High Student Council has organized for another school year.

In elections held last spring Edward Pritchett was elected president, Joel Brandt, vice-president, and Lynn Elsass, secretary-treasurer. All are seniors.

Plans are being made now by the council for Bexley's homecoming Oct. 26. Committee heads are:

Debby Main, publicity; Mary Jane Chittenden and Lynn Elsass, social; Jeff McClelland, project, and Marilyn Kurtz and Joel Brandt, student services. Seniors will nominate 10 candidates for homecoming queen on Oct. 11.

First rating in final competition at Smith-Walbridge cheerleading camp in Syracuse, Ind., went to Bexley's 1962-63 cheerleading squad, captained by senior Claire Baas.

Bexley's cheerleaders, Barbara Kerr, Dody Schwartz, Shyla Jones, Betty Jane Shaw, Sharon Taylor and Claire, earned three firsts and one second during the summer's morning sessions.

With this year's first prize, a Bexley cheerleading squad has now placed first in final competition for four consecutive years.

Quill and Scroll, an international honorary society for high school journalism, has awarded the 1961-62 Torch, the student newspaper, an international honor rating. The rating denotes superior achievement and is based on the paper's news coverage, leadership, features and use as an educational laboratory.

Torch editors were Peggy Gregg and Jack Meyer.

Bowling Match At Main Lanes

Main Lanes, 4071 E. Main-st, will hold the grand opening of its 16 additional lanes on Oct. 13 and 14. This will make a total of 56 lanes, the largest number in central Ohio. Main Lanes further has completely remodeled its existing 40 lanes, installing new machines, score projectors, seating equipment, etc.

To help celebrate the occasion, American Machine and Foundry Corp. is sending four of its top bowlers who will appear in bowling clinics Saturday and Sunday with an exhibition match scheduled Saturday, Oct. 13.

DICK WEBER, from St. Louis, one of A.M.F.'s top stars, was winner of the last All Star tournament. He was also bowler of the year for 1961-1962.

Marge Merrick, from our city, needs no introduction to Columbus bowlers. She was winner of the world's invitational match game tournament last year and was on the American All-Star team.

Lindy Faragalli, who comes from Paterson, N.J., has maintained a 200 plus average for more than 20 years and has nine sanctioned 300 games as well as three 800 series.

Jan McNeil, the fourth bowling star to appear, comes from Dallas, Tex., and has won the Texas state singles as well as being a member of the winning team of the Dallas city doubles. She averages over 180 in three top leagues.

NAA Target Missile Passes Flight Test

The U.S. Army announced its new Redhead/Roadrunner target missile, currently undergoing testing, successfully completed its first low level flight at White Sands Missile Range, N. Mex., Sept. 19.

The missile, designed and built by North American Aviation's Columbus Division, flew at an altitude of about 500 feet, meeting another in its series of prescribed missions in the test program, the Army said.

It is designed to fly at altitudes from 300 to 60,000 feet. On high level missions it will travel twice as fast as sound.

Control is accomplished by electronic signals transmitted from a ground station to the missile's command receiver, which in turn feeds them to an autopilot.

The Redhead/Roadrunner, 19 feet long and a foot in diameter, is launched from the ground by a small booster rocket and is powered in flight by a ramjet engine burning standard JP-4 fuel. It is recoverable by a self-contained parachute/retro-rocket system.

The primary use of the Redhead/Roadrunner is as a target for batteries of the Army Air Defense Command. It will simulate high performance aircraft and air-breathing missiles.

REASSIGNED

Following completion of basic military training at Lackland AFB, Tex., Airman Basic Alvin J. Bancroft, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Bancroft of 291 Napoleon, has been reassigned to a technical training course for personnel specialists at Greenville AFB, Miss. He is a 1962 graduate of Eastmoor High School.

There is but one morality, as there is but one geometry. You say that most men know little about geometry. True; but if they study it ever so little, they all draw the same conclusion.—Voltaire.

Asks Removal Of Route 62

City Traffic Commission recommended Wednesday that Rt. 62 be taken off Nelson-rd. to relieve mounting traffic congestion at Nelson-rd and Broad-st.

Commission members admitted, however, that it may be difficult for the state to find an alternate street to carry the route's traffic to and from Broad-st.

History is the recital of facts represented as true. Fable, on the other hand, is the recital of facts represented as fiction. The history of man's ideas is nothing more than the chronicle of human error.—Voltaire.

Center Has Named Two New Staffers

East Columbus Recreation Center has two new staff members.

Paul Seitz, the athletic director was graduated from McKinley High School, and then received a physical education degree from Ohio State. He is a former minor league baseball player.

Gidget Boyd, from Houston, Tex., will be heading arts and crafts, tap and ballet dancing, and teen activities. In Houston she worked for a recreation center and Children's Theater.

Tap dancing is held on Wednesday at 4 and Saturday at 9. Girls and boys between the ages of 6-14 years of age are eligible.

Teen boys between the ages of 14-17 and with a minimum weight of 160 pounds can join the football league. Practice is held Wednesday and Friday at 4 at Krumm Park. Games will be played on Saturday mornings at 9:30. For further information contact Tom Golden at BE. 1-6428.

Teen dances will start Friday night at 7:15.

Ski Champ To Teach Course

Walter Neuron, a champion skier, will be in charge of the Jewish "Learn to Ski" program this year.

Neuron, a certified instructor at Snow Trails in Mansfield, will teach interested Jewish Center members preliminary skills at the Jewish Center and will continue the course with practical work on the Snow Trails slopes.

The initial meeting of the group is scheduled for Tuesday, Oct. 23, at 8:15 p.m. in the adult lounge. Neuron will present a display of ski equipment and will demonstrate the use of the equipment. He will also discuss the program and answer questions on fees and schedules.

Whitehall-Yearling RAM-blings

By DAVE WALKER

Change In Personnel For Whitehall's Chef Class

There has been a change in the chef class this year, but apparently the change is one in teachers, not in the "male animal." Mrs. Ruth Thomas, a young teacher fresh from college, has undertaken the job of teaching cooking and etiquette to junior and senior boys.

She is finding life full of the unexpected. One day she set a pan of muffins in the cupboard, turned around to check biscuits, went back to get the muffins and "when she got there the cupboard was bare." Who were the culprits? There are 19 of them.

Who would believe that Bill Perry, John Pappas, Pete Klein, Clark Fuller, Bill Young, Mike Fitsko, Ken Carson, Ken Cox, Joe Hoeller, Bill Sherman, Dale Wolfe, Dave Millington, William Gunter, Wendell Lyons, John Mercer, Herb Winkler, Dave Walker, Roger Butler and Doug Shepard would combine a career of crime and cookery?

Mrs. Thomas was asked about her impressions of the chef class. "Well, they're very good cooks, a little slow, and messy. They're very anxious to learn but perhaps more anxious to eat what they've cooked."

She went on to say, "Someday I hope they learn the difference between a teaspoon and a tablespoon."

The Differential Aptitude Test was administered to juniors this past week. The purpose of the test is to help in vocational and college planning.

The test gives a student a means of comparing his abilities with those of other students in his grade.

The DAT is designed to measure the pupil's abilities in nine areas: verbal reasoning, numerical ability, abstract reasoning, space relations, mechanical reasoning, clerical speed and accuracy, and language usage.

IMPORTANCE OF BEING EARNEST

Wilde Comedy Dated For Cap Program

"The Importance of Being Earnest," Oscar Wilde's top satirical comedy, comes to life at Mees Hall on the Capital University campus Friday, Oct. 19.

This production, by the Cleveland Play House touring company, is but one of four to be presented at Capital during the 1962-63 season. Others to follow are Mexican soprano Teresa Orantes on Nov. 13; balladsinger Earle Spicer on Feb. 12, and pianist Jean Casadesus on Mar. 26.

Wilde pulled no punches in pointing out the social hypocrisies of his day. One witty epigram follows another as the production pokes fun at high British society.

Two fashionable women declare they will not marry unless to men named Earnest. They become attracted to two men named Algernon and Jack, but these two are addicted to inventing fictitious friends, thus confusing the issue.

A third romance, that of a spinster governess who, in a refined flirtation, is intent upon marrying a clergyman, adds to the merriment.

The production begins at 8 p.m. Reserved seats may be obtained by writing the Office of Public Information, Capital University, Columbus 9.

Berwick Group Planning Dance

The Berwick Park Civic Association reported that it'll sponsor a dance Saturday, Oct. 20, at Bishop-Hartley High School.

According to co-chairmen Lou DiSabato and Mrs. Virgie Sheaf, music will be furnished by Tom Spafford. The event is open to members and guests at $2.50 per couple.

The dance begins at 9:30 p.m. and ends at 12:30 a.m.

New Boy Scout Troop Ready At Jewish Center

A reorganized Boy Scout troop is now being formed at the Jewish Center. This is an exciting opportunity for boys to join an organization with a program designed to teach the many skills of outdoor living and camping.

The group also offers a chance to make new friends and share many pleasant experiences with them. In charge of the troop is Scoutmaster Bob Reichgott. For further information call Barrie Segall, BE. 1-2731.

'I Am Camera' Tryouts Dated

Harold M. Eissenstein, adult activities director at the Jewish Center on College-av, announced this week that tryouts for the Gallery Players' production of "I Am A Camera" will be held Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 9 and 10, at the center beginning at 8 p.m.

For further information, call Eissenstein at BE. 1-2731.

Try-Outs Set

Try-outs begin today (Thursday) at Bexley High School for the Dramatics Club production "A Connecticut Yankee In King Arthur's Court." The play will be presented Nov. 18, 8 p.m. in the school auditorium.

Christ, Scientist Church Sponsors Public Lecture

A public lecture on the demands of love in an atomic age will be given Monday, Oct. 15, by Martin Broones of Beverly Hills, Calif, at 8 p.m. in Second Church of Christ, Scientist, W. First-av at Park-st.

It is an entirely different lecture than the one broadcast by Broones from Third Church of Christ, Scientist, a month ago. Admission is free.

Broones, a native of New York City, was educated at Columbia University and studied musical composition under John Ireland of the Royal College of Music in London.

Besides composing sacred songs and musical scores for light operas, he was director of the first music department for MGM Studios in Hollywood. He became a producer of motion pictures and radio programs.

He withdrew from business in 1948 to devote his time to the practice of Christian Science healing and became an authorized teacher in 1958.

Heroes are men who set out to be demigods in their own eyes, and who end by being so at certain moments by dint of despising and combating all humanity.—George Sand.

Bishop Starts New Program On Vocations

A new Catholic adult education program for vocations to the priesthood and sisterhood is being launched this week in the Diocese of Columbus.

Sponsored by the Most Rev. Clarence George Issenmann, bishop of Columbus, and directed by Msgr. Paul J. O'Dea, director of vocations for the diocese, the program will be operated on a "parish saturation" basis.

All adult parishioners attending Mass in the Catholic churches of the area are being given a booklet titled "Parents, You Have the Church's Future in Your Home." Another booklet, to be distributed in October, is titled "Questions Parents Ask About Vocations."

These are the first in a series of 10 booklets to be distributed at the rate of one a month from September through June, designed to alert Catholic parents to every aspect of the vocation problem, and to answer their questions.

The Catholic population of the country has increased more than 47 percent during the past 10 years. Vocations to the priesthood and the religious life are increasing, but not at the same rapid rate, causing concern to those looking toward the future development of the church in the Diocese of Columbus, and in America.

Catholic Church Plans Festival At North Shores

St. John Chrysostom Church, a newly-organized Catholic church of the Byzantine Rite, with Fr. Edward Zavell as pastor, will hold a fall festival Oct. 7 at the North Shoes picnic area.

The festival will begin at 2 p.m. with games, refreshments and dancing. Music will be provided by the "Polka Gems" band.

William Munich, 1375 Sunbury-rd, is general chairman, and Miss Mary Merva, 2112 Arlington-av, is activities chairman.

The public is invited. North Shores area is northeast of Westerville and signs will be posted along the way.

TV Rite Marks World Communion

A television studio communion will highlight the 23rd annual world-wide communion Sunday, Oct. 7, according to Rev. Harold Dutt, chairman of evangelism of the Columbus Area Council of Churches.

The TV service will be held from 11:30 to noon on WLW-C Channel 4, with Rev. Walter E. Eyster and Dr. G. Weir Hartman as celebrants.

Rev. Eyster was formerly pastor of North Methodist Church and now serves the First Methodist Church of Galion. The choir of the Galion church will sing the anthems.

The world observance was begun in 1940 as war clouds descended upon Europe, started by denominational leaders through the World Council of Churches.

Joy in HARVEST

The wheat fields have yielded an abundant crop, because some planted and labored. At harvest time, there is joy, happiness, and satisfaction in a job well done.

Our Lord compared those around us, who are in need of the Gospel, to a field ready for harvest. "The harvest truly is plenteous, but the labourers are few; Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he will send forth labourers into his harvest."

Invite someone to attend church with you this Sunday and share in the joy of the Harvest.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH ... THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

Another AUBLEGRAPH

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.
Hartley Entertainment Editor

'Brothers Grimm' Seen As Family Fare Entertainment

Big plug for "The Wonderful World of the Brothers Grimm"—if that house-packer needs a plug at all—came across the desk in the Interfaith Committee for Better Entertainment Newsletter. The four-page mimeographed dissertation reads: "It is truly superior entertainment and the epitome of what we consider family fare." It's currently running downtown at the RKO Grand.

WRFD and WRFD-FM announced this week that it'll once again carry play-by-play action of all Ohio State football games . . . The station has aired all games for the past 11 years, and also broadcasts the Cleveland Browns' games on Sundays . . . From Delaware, Ohio, this note: "An Evening with Poetry" by Robert Frost and the play "Medea '62" by actress Judith Anderson and Co. will highlight this year's Lecture-Movie series at Ohio Wesleyan University . . . Frost will appear Apr. 21 to conclude the program and Dame Judith appears Nov. 7 . . . The series opens Oct. 12 with a lecture "English and the Americans" by Malcolm Muggeridge.

With the first season of "Ben Casey" under his belt, ABC-TV's Vince Edwards (aired locally on WTVN-TV) wrote to give us a little self-diagnosis . . . "Heaven knows you columnists and magazine writers have had a field day dissecting my acting, my image and my private life since the series premiered last fall," Edwards writes . . . "To which I say: bless you." He added: "I was so naive when the show left the launching pad, I believed that I, Vince Edwards, could remain a man of mystery" . . . Locally, season book tickets for the Mershon Auditorium Celebrity Series will be sold just until 8 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 10, at box office 15th and High-sts.

Judy In Cartoons Now . . .

Word from Warner Bros. studios announces that Judy Garland — the pert and pretty with the magic vocal chords is doing singing and speaking for the cartoon character "Mewsette," a Paris cat in Warners' feature length animated musical "Gay Purr-ee" produced by UPA and having an original score . . . This is Judy's first screen musical role since "A Star Is Born." The UPA release telling about the show states. "The stigma of villainy, long edured by the pussy cats of the world, is about to be erased forever, and cat-lovers and their pets may raise their heads in pride, for at last they've got a heroine" . . . To which we can only add: "Wow!"

Judy

Speaking of Hollywood, watch for Jack Lemmon's drunk portrayal in "Days of Wine and Roses" to be compared to Ray Milland's in "The Lost Weekend" . . . And, the Warner people had to build a temple of love for "Not On Your Life" in the fabled isles of Greece where love was supposed to have been invented . . . Notice new PR man around WLW-C, TV 4. He's Rod Warner and, according to that station's promotion manager, John Burpee, Rod'll be handling all publicity releases in the future.

"Columbus Town Meeting" will once again come to the homes of Central Ohio via WBNS-TV to encourage free discussion and promote informed public opinion on the important local, national and international topics, Oct. 7 at 5-6 p.m. . . . Notice where the "Debutantes" all-girl band has returned to the Everglades on W. Broad-st . . . Get ready for Holiday On Ice of 1963 opening at the Fairgrounds Coliseum beginning Tuesday, Oct. 23, and running until Wednesday, Oct. 31.

'La Traviata' Is First In Hast-Amend Series

MARY BETH PEIL
. . . As Violetta

Verdi's masterpiece, "La Traviata," will open the Hast-Amend Civic Concert Series in Veterans Memorial Auditorium on Oct. 15. It will be performed by the Goldovsky Grand Opera Theater — a company of 50 including orchestra, soloists, new scenery and costumes.

Mary Beth Peil, a widely-known and very talented soprano, will sing the lead part "Violetta." This story of the Lady of the Camelias has become a classic and its popularity has almost turned it into a legend to be seen and enjoyed in many mediums.

"La Traviata" had its American premier in 1856 three years after its world premier in Venice) at the Academy of Music in New York. The Metropolitan first presented this work in 1883 when the fabulous 25-year old Marcella Sembrich recreated the role.

Ice Show Should Be Real Treat Here

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.

A preview look at this year's "Holiday On Ice of 1963" proves to be the greatest thing that ever happened to the cold stuff since the frozen food industry heard about it.

A 20-member contingent from Columbus journeyed to Troy on Friday for a sneak look at the show before it opens in Columbus at the Fairgrounds Coliseum for nine days beginning Tuesday, Oct. 23.

With more colorful surprises than a kindergarten birthday party, the show opened big and got progressively bigger. The opening number, "I'm Shooting High" set the stage for this year's production that seemingly sees the sky as the limit for gaiety.

The cast this year (the show's celebrating its 18th birthday) is a relatively new one. The average age of the skaters is 18 but the youth and vitality do everything but slow down the pace.

Designed particularly this year for the youngsters, a "Sleeping Beauty" sequence is, perhaps, the highlight of the performance. The team of Rosemarie and Robert Unger are standouts in this one and, the costumes are enough to make the viewer wear sunglasses.

With every act as spectacular as a finale number you never really know when the show ends unless you've bought a program.

Funnymen, The Maxwells, were real crowd-pleasers in the Hobart Arena in Troy. They do a "Tower of Fun" routine that's almost unbelievable.

Ted Deeley is back this year, too, funnier than ever.

Glamour — that's the key word in this performance. Female skaters from all over the world lend an international flavor to the production, too.

I mentioned to Hazel Eyes during the performance that I wish I could skate like those folks.

"I can do a figure eight the hard way," she replied.

"How's that?" I asked.

"Two fours," she said.

Tickets for the Columbus opening are on sale at Central Ticket Office, 37 N. High-st. Mail orders must be accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Rams Down Bexley, Warriors, East Win

BEXLEY AND Roger Williamson (80) leaps high in the Whitehall end zone to take in a 20-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Joel Brandt for the Lions' second score. Defending on the play is the Ram's Clark Fuller (42).

WHITEHALL quarterback Bill Dildine (14) hugs onto the football as he falls over the goal line on a one-yard plunge for the Rams' second score against Bexley. Whitehall topped the Lions, 36-20.

Bexley's fired-up Lions tainted Whitehall's perfect defensive record with three touchdowns before bowing, 36-20, to the Rams in a rainswept CBL game Thursday night.

Whitehall seemed to have the situation well in hand early in the game after going ahead, 12-0, with two first period scores: The Rams' Bill Dildine scored from the one with 7:47 remaining in the period after Jerry Ramsey gobbled up a Lion punt fumble on Bexley's three.

DILDINE DUPLICATED his feat six minutes later and it looked as if Whitehall would coast to its fourth straight win.

But Lion quarterback Joel Brandt oiled up his throwing arm and tossed a 40-yard pass to fullback Jay Maupin who took the ball to the four with Rick Harbold's plunge putting the Lions back in the game two plays later.

Bexley then took the lead, 14-12 with 1:17 remaining in the half when Brandt hit end Roger Williamson with a 20-yard TD pass.

WHITEHALL came on strong in the second half, regaining the lead after taking over on Bexley's 36 with Mike Short bulling over from the four with 7:43 remaining in the third period.

Mike Schmidt then pulled off his now famous "end zone fumble play" when he covered Short's fumble in the end zone to give Whitehall a 26-14 lead.

The Rams wrapped it up in ed 35 yards to paydirt to finish the evening scoring with 5:46 remaining in the game.

EASTMOOR RECORDED its second straight win by shutting out Walnut Ridge, 34-0. The Warrior's exhibited a rock-like defense, never allowing the Scots to penetrate deeper than the Eastmoor 40.

The Warriors, who scored in every quarter, were led by halfback Dean Ishida, who scored on a short plunge and an 18-yard run and Dana Van Horn, who also crossed the touchdown stripe twice on runs of five and eight yards.

EAST GAINED its second CL win with a 56-0 rout of Marion-Franklin. Halfback Marvin Owens led the Tiger attack with three touchdown runs of 20, 18 and six yards.

Quarterback Mike Gordon gave East supremacy in the air, hitting Ken Fowlkes with one 46-yard TD pass and Al Moore with another, covering 25 yards.

JOHN EDWARD'S 27-yard TD run and Steve North's conversion boot with six minutes remaining in the game wiped out a 6-0 St. Charles lead as Lancaster edged the Cardinals, 7-6.

The two teams had battled to a scoreless tie before halfback Bob Faller gave St. Charles a temporary 6-0 lead the final period when Clark Fuller circled end for 19 yards with a pass from Ramsey for Whitehall's final score. Bexley made a final bid shortly later when Maupin broke through the line and scampered 55 yards with a Viking pass to score the only touchdown in Academy's muddy 6-0 win over University. Tim Hirsch's fumble recovery on the Little Bucks' 21 set up the third period score.

BISHOP HARTLEY picked up its second win of the season without a loss Saturday night, shutting out DeSales, 14-0, in a Central Catholic League contest.

Halfback Jerry Emerick led the Hawk attack, scoring both Hartley touchdowns on runs of three and nine yards. Emerick, who picked up a total of 110 yards in 18 carries, completed his point splurge with a two-point conversion.

Friday night's action finds Whitehall 4-0) traveling to Mt. Vernon (3-1), Eastmoor (2-2) entertaining East (2-2), Walnut Ridge (1-3) journeying to South (0-4), Worthington (2-1-1) hosting Bexley (1-3), St. Charles (2-2) stopping at Marion-Franklin (1-3) and Aquinas (2-1-1) traveling to West (1-3). Academy (1-1) entertains Rosary (0-3) at 3 p.m. Friday and Hartley (2-0-1) visits Watterson (3-0-1) Saturday night.

PIRATES GRAB BEARCAT LEAD

Keith Edwards' three touchdown runs gave the Westside Pirates a 20-0 win over the Southside Blues, providing the winners with undisputed first place in the Ohio Bearcat League.

In other games, the Westside Eagles downed the Westgate Bears, 30-6 and Maryland AC shut out the UAW Tigers, 14-0.

Did Big Title Fight Really Kill Boxing?

"Well, that did it. That killed boxing." These two little sentences were flying around Broad and High-sts fast and furious last week after Sonny Liston had unceremoniously dethroned Floyd Patterson as world's heavyweight champion.

We even heard that little three-letter word — F-I-X — getting quite a workout by angry boxing fans who had payed their money (five bucks) and taken their chances (two minutes and six seconds worth).

WE HADN'T even comfortably seated our 160 pounds into seat CC 119 at the Palace Theater when we found it necessary to seek the nearest exit.

Actually, the only color the fight promoted occurred before a punch was landed (there weren't very many at that) was when Archie Moore danced into the ring for the prefight lineup of something old and something new garbed in a black cape and waving a straight cane.

But even ageless Archie's glamorous appearance probably wasn't quite worth the price of those $100 ringside seats for what had been billed as the "fight of the decade."

For Liston, who didn't figure it would go the full two minutes, the title win was nothing more than a foregone conclusion. For Patterson, the 10 count seemed to have rung a death knell for his insistence that he isn't just a "cheese" champion.

FOR BOXING, the question of survival is once again out on the firing line. Disregarding completely the increasing number of ring fatalities, we wonder what effect Liston's quick victory will have on the sport.

Despite the fact that a lighter but quicker Patterson was favored by a poll of boxing writers, the "boys in the back room" figured Liston on 7-5 odds. With Liston's tainted boxing background, this was a fight that couldn't afford to leave behind a bitter taste in the mouth. And yet, it did.

We doubt rather seriously that the Patterson-Liston bout killed boxing. In fact, we would feel safe taking odds (pardon the expression) that a "few" of last week's disgruntled patrons will be right back in their seats for a Liston-Patterson rematch.

THE MOST humorous aspect of the fight itself came in a newspaper description that had Liston's fatal punch spinning Patterson halfway across the ring. The squared circle in Comiskey Park might have been smaller than usual but none of Liston's punches seemed enough on target to accomplish such a feat.

Maybe we're not that much of a boxing expert. But we are confused as to how Sonny's big punch could blast through the ex-champion's peek-a-boo (hoo) defense and floor him for the count so early.

It could be that what the public is asking of boxing is more of a show rather than unrehearsed competition. Or it could be that ring fans are growing more concerned about the unhealthy inroads gambling has made into boxing.

MAYBE LISTON is that much better than Patterson. Many people insist that Floyd has never really faced a top contender. It's possible that Sonny Liston could provide this country with an unquestionable champion — something that has been lacking since Rocky Marciano hung up the gloves a few years ago.

Anyway, on paper, it was still "nice work if you can get it."

Patterson took a healthy purse of close to a million and a half dollars home as consolation prize for his sweatless, two-minute workout and Liston could continue on with his "I-told-you-so" monologue.

The fight of the decade might have been a bust and Liston's quick victory might be in for a lot of second guessing but we guess a guy who can win the heavyweight championship of the world, collect 12 and a half percent of a five million dollar take and still get us home in time to see most of the Untouchables must be all right in our book (pardon the expression).

Shepard Ready For Folks Seeking Practical Help

The staff at Shepard Library, 2185 E. Fifth-av, has noticed a definite trend lately and observes that more and more patrons are requesting books that offer practical help in a wide range of subjects and problems.

Techniques for selling your personality and ideas and making people like you are outlined in such recent books as Sylvanus Duvall's "The Art and Skill of Getting Along With People," and Paul Parker's "How to Use Tact and Skill in Handling People."

Serenity, contentment, peace of mind and a richer, fuller life may all be attained through positive thinking, according to Norman Vincent Peale in his book "The Power of Positive Thinking." This book as well as his other fine book, "The Tough-Minded Optomist," are still very much in demand.

"If You Would Be Happy," by Ruth Stout, which was published recently, is a guide to greater enjoyment and peace of mind in all areas of life . . . job, marriage, friendships, parenthood, adversity and old age. People who read more, achieve more—so come in or call Shepard Library, CL. 8-7111, and reserve your "self-help" book this month.

Although most grasshoppers complete their life cycle in one year, some species in high altitudes of the Rocky Mountains require two or three years for development, U.S. Department of Agriculture scientists have discovered.

NOTE FOR SKEPTICS

Still Time This Week To Get Sabin Swallow

Health officials claimed this week that "all but the skeptics" received Sabin Oral Polio Vaccine last Sunday but they added that they're sure to make "believers" out of most of them before the weekend is over.

Both County Health Commissioner Howard Reynolds and Columbus Medical Services Chief Dr. H. J. Leuchter agreed Tuesday that certain "bad publicity" from Canada was the chief reason for area skepticism.

"It's a shame," Dr. Leuchter commented, "that the people don't realize that the Canadian story concerned persons who received Type III vaccine —not the Type I variety as is being administered here."

Even so, the gigantic SOS campaign was labeled a success by officials. "What else can you say," Reynolds asked, "when you get 550,000 residents to take the Sabin out of the 715,000 living in Franklin County?"

Actually on Sunday, Sabin vaccine was given to 514,121 county residents but make-up stations downtown promise that the total will be 550,000 before next weekend.

The county and city health departments are operating the make-up station for those who missed out on Sunday. The county has set up operations in the Court House on S. High-st for day-time administration.

County staffers are on duty in the Court House from 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. all this week. They'll also be on duty in the evening, from 4:30 to 6 in the City Health Clinic, 181 S. Washingon-blvd, on Tuesday and Thursday.

Members of the City Board of Health will operate at the Washington-blvd Clinic durthe day, 8 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. and then will handle night-time duties there from 4:30 to 6 on Monday, Wednesdays but only the Washington-day and Friday.

In other words, both locations will be open during the bl site will be serving Sabin in the evenings — by both the County and City on alternating days.

Reynolds pointed out that the biggest "weakness" in the Sunday campaign was from residents living in the area bordered by Parsons-av on the east and Central-av on the west.

Dr. Leuchter said that the north end of Columbus took most advantage of the Sabin and that he "has reason to believe that some northern sites participated close to 100 per cent."

Sabin vaccine make-up clinics have been scheduled in other parts of the state, too, in case you'll be out of town this week.

Two clinics are scheduled in Madison County according to that county's chairman Dr. Sol Maggied. The Madison County Hospital station will be open Sunday, Oct. 7, from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Also, a clinic will be set up at the Jonathan Alder High School near Plain City on Monday, Oct. 8, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

According to Maggied, some 16,000 Madison Countians were immunized last Sunday out of the 25,000 residents there.

After this week of clinics is over, what can folks do to get the vaccine? "We just don't know," said Dr. Leuchter.

It May Be Later Than We Think

It was a privilege to be present at the Otterbein College convocation known as "Crisis In Freedom" this past Saturday evening. In an address that should have been heard by a far greater segment of Central Ohioans, Sen. Karl Mundt of South Dakota had much to say on the subject of how near we are to losing our remaining fragments of freedom. Excerpts follow:

It formerly was an axiom around congress that economic conditions determined political decisions. Now the axiom has been changed to: Political decisions determine economic conditions.

Freedom is something we have to exercise. It requires self discipline on the part of each individual.

The most severe critics of our system are those countries that have received over

Parade Tonight To Climax Columbus Sesquicentennial

Climax of the Columbus sesquicentennial celebration will be marked by an hour-long parade starting at 8 p.m. Thursday.

Robert J. Grueser, vice-president of the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co., and parade chairman, said plans have been completed for the demonstration.

Parade marshal James F. Worster, assistant safety director, and his assistants, Russ Pennell and Ray A. Jacobs, have arranged an eight-section parade.

The 120-piece Ohio State University Marching Band, will march in the opening section.

Mayor W. Ralston Westlake, city council members, and sesquicentennial queen Sue Zollinger will also be among the leading elements in the parade, which will start at Washington-st, and move westward on Broad-st past the reviewing stand at city hall to Marconi-blvd.

The Columbus Day, fire fighter and rose queens will also be featured. Woody Hayes and Jack Nicklaus have been invited to ride in open convertibles in the parade.

Floats are being prepared to tell the story of "150 Years of Progress," which is the theme of the parade.

Five high school bands and numerous marching units will participate. Bands and their directors are: West High, James Hill; Eastmoor High, Jerry Kaye; Linden-McKinley High, Daniel Baker; South High, Howard Cozart, and Whetstone High, Leslie Sust.

Military units will add to the proceedings. In one section, the 37th Division Band and Color Guard will precede units of the 83rd Division. Lockbourne Air Force Base will be represented by a marching unit.

The Old Guard Fife and Drum Corps of the 1st Battle Group, 3rd Infantry, will be on hand as will the Marching Cadets from St. Aloysius High in New Lexington.

Other elements in the parade will include: Knights of Columbus, Shriners, Fire and Police Department units, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, North American Clowns, Hurricane Majorettes, Recreation Department, Zoo Train, Franklin County Sheriff's Posse, Franklin Post Band and a calliope.

The parade will turn north on Marconi-blvd and disband in the parking lot north of the post office, according to Will Hellerman, vice chairman of the parade.

Gould Road Residents Seeking Street Lights

Four N. Gould-rd residents — attempting to voluntarily install street lights on the newly-paved thoroughfare — appeared before Bexley Council Tuesday night with three signatures short of success.

The three-man, one-woman committee, which has been seeking property owner signatures from 30 plots on N. Gould, reported that they had three residents who refused to sign.

They said that two or three others didn't sign because they were never at home when committee members called.

Council said that the residents were welcome to install the lights themselves. Cost of the job was estimated at $1,200, which means $40 from each property owner.

The solons suggested that, since three refused to be included, the committee should contact the others and see if they'd be willing to make up the difference.

One committee member said that he didn't think they would and, besides, he added, it "wouldn't be fair for a person to get full benefit from the lights without paying a penny."

"I guess the thing to do is to get more signatures, then," one of them said. "We'll be back."

In other action during the unusually light agenda, council:

- Passed a resolution which sets a public hearing Nov. 13 for an ordinance which would grant a special use permit for apartments on a residential tract at Parview-av and Bryden-rd.

Mayor William Schneider said he "wants to keep it a high class area."

The ordinance wouldn't allow current dwellings in the area to be remodeled into apartments — it merely sets conditions for new buildings.

- Considered an ordinance modifying the traffic code due to a problem which has arisen at Mound and College. "Everybody's squeaking their brakes there and like-a-that," Mayor Schneider said.

The ordinance would change the southeast corner of College from a 20-foot parking ban to one of 50 feet. Since College runs at an angle, motorists have trouble negotiating left turns east onto Mound-st.

The matter was referred to the safety committee.

Footballers Pick Queen Candidates

By DAVE WALKER
(Rash Correspondent)

Homecoming queen candidates have been chosen by Whitehall's football team.

Karen Beery

Twenty-five girls were nominated to participate in the competition. This number was limited by the senior class to six — Marsha Brantley, Lynne Srbe, Karen Beery, Sandy Joseph, Sylvia Orr and Joretta Eader.

On Oct. 10, the student body elected the 1962-63 queen. She will be crowned at half-time in the Whitehall-Delaware game on Friday night.

Following the game, the queen will reign at the dance in the gym, where she will make her way down the traditional red carpet to her throne.

The WYHS band and Ramettes will perform in the half-time ceremony.

The Cavaliers, a jazz quartet composed of Steve Samuelson, Garry Stein, David Wilhide and Dan Barker will supply the music for the dance.

Demo Clubs Combine For Mass Rally

The Bexley and Eastmoor Democratic clubs are sponsoring an all-Democratic candidates' rally Wednesday, Oct. 17, at 8 p.m. in the Bexley High auditorium. James W. Huffman has been named general chairman.

Speaker for the evening will be James A. Lantz, a member of the Ohio House of Representatives for three terms and Gov. Michael DiSalle's personal choice to serve as speaker in the 103rd General Assembly.

Lantz, a member of the Lancaster law firm of Dagger, Lantz and Johnston, is also president of the North American Equitable Life Assurance Co.

Oscar Fleckner will represent the Bexley club and Robert Smith the Eastmoor group. Judge Joseph Van Heyde will act as master of ceremonies

Mother Of Six Sons First Nominee For Suburban Homemaker Honors

FIRST NOMINEE in Hartley Newspapers' search for "Suburban Homemaker of The Year" is Mrs. L. T. McKinley, 835 E. Enfield-rd. Despite caring for six ambitious sons, a husband, and a wide assortment of species from the animal kingdom, Mrs. McKinley finds time to devote to one of her favorite hobbies, flower arranging.

By JERRY WOLFROM

"Well . . . gee whiz . . . what can I say? It's really very thrilling and flattering."

This was Mrs. L. T. McKinley's reaction when informed that she had been the Columbus area's first nominee in Hartley Newspapers' search for a "Suburban Homemaker of The Year."

Hartley Newspapers are conducting the local search, in cooperation with the Suburban Press Foundation, a national organization. The nationwide search will end in Chicago next month when a $5000 cash prize will be awarded to the national winner.

Any homemaker in the Hartley circulation area is eligible for nomination. Letters nominating homemakers can be written by friends, husbands, children, or organizations. Mrs. McKinley, or Midge, as she is known in her neighborhood, was nominated in a letter written by Mrs. Paul J. McDonald, 872 S. Kellner-rd.

Midge lives with her husband, Mac, and their six sons at 835 S. Enfield-rd. Mac is an associate with a local building contractor.

She is an active member of the Bishop Hartley PTA, Diocese of Columbus Catholic Women, Eastmoor South Pool Association, Marion Ladies, Catholic Nurses Association,

Hilliard Boy Wins Second Grid Contest

Gerstner picked 22 of 24 winners correctly to walk off with a check of $50. Under the rules of the contest winners who are paid subscribers to any of the seven Hartley newspapers double their money. Gerstner's $25 prize money was doubled because his father, Daniel A. Gerstner, is a paid subscriber.

The youth failed to pick only two winners. He missed on the Columbus Capitals-Louisville, and Army-Michigan games.

Other entrants who finished as runner-up to Gerstner were, James Rubadue, 344 Lennox-

St. Philip Acting Society Is Formed

It's not too unusual to make a play out of a book. But, to make a theatrical society out of a play is something else again.

A group of hard workers at St. Philip's Church in East Columbus have done just that, though.

★

The St. Philip Theatrical Society was formed this past summer by members of the Holy Name and Altar-Rosary Societies of the Apostle Catholic Church. It stemmed from a play, "Halfway 'Round The World," which was written by some of the parishioners.

The show will be presented in Walnut Ridge High's auditorium, E. Livingston-av and Lattimer-dr, on Saturday, Nov. 3, 8:30 p.m.

The original presentation is being produced and Student Leaders On Move . . .

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.

The toughest part of being named to Whitehall High's student council is upholding the sparkling tradition which began in 1958 and has been forging ahead at full steam ever since.

Stoking the boilers since the group's organizational meeting nearly a half decade ago is Mrs. Luella Compton, who shares student council interests at Whitehall with her position as dean of girls.

Highlight of the council's activities came in 1960, but the effects of an accomplishment in that year are still being felt in schools throughout the country.

In that year, student members wrote, produced and directed a 13-minute film, "Student Council of 1960 Elections" which has been since hailed as being "highly valuable" by an audio-visual aids survey conducted recently by the University of Mississippi.

The amateur production is significant of a trend toward home movies filmed by students in an effort to make up for the lack of new visual aids in student council education, and also to achieve self-expression in a subject they value highly," the survey reads. "As such, it merits serious attention."

According to Mrs. Compton, the film was shot in two weeks and edited in one at a total cost of $150. The 16mm camera belonged to the school and had previously been used to record athletic events.

The initial idea was Mrs. Compton's. One student wrote the script, advised by her. Other student council members directed, photographed, recorded and edited the film withou assistance. Chief credit goes to students Bill Cornell and Bob Leonard.

The purpose of the film is to show how elections are conducted at Whitehall. The Ole Miss survey further states that "the film achieves this purpose with a commendable degree of competence and completeness. The entire election process is depicted in orderly sequence that gives it educational value."

As of June, 1960, there were two versions of the film. One was the 16mm original, accompanied by a quarter-inch tape that can be played more or less in synchronization with the scenes by stopping and restarting the tape player.

Is Sunday Necessities Amendment Necessary?

Milk Company, Sunday Closing Association State Their Cases

FOR THE AMENDMENT

The Sunday Necessities Amendment is a proposal to make Sundays honest in a state where Sundays have been dishonest for decades.

No law of the land is more flagrantly ignored than Ohio's 131-year-old blue law. It has been found completely unenforceable in 99 per cent of Ohio's communities. Even in the scattered areas where an attempt is made to enforce it, the enforcement effort ends in a snarl of legal findings and counter-findings that are choking our courts.

It is estimated that the cases already in our courts will take three years to litigate, and more are being filed all the time.

Yet Ohio continues to keep on its books an unenforceable, confusing law that was passed in 1831—the same year in which six Ohioans in the Cincinnati area were tried for witchcraft.

The basic problem created by the law is its "necessity" clause. It says necessities may be available to the public on Sunday, but it makes no attempt to define what necessities are. Most people would agree that such utilities as electricity, natural gas and telephone service are necessities today. But they were not when the law was passed, because they were still unknown, and the "intent" of those who write the law must always be taken into account by the courts.

Surveys made this year show that a majority of Ohioans today consider milk and food necessities that should be available on Sundays, but some courts disagree. Our judges, in fact, disagree with each other. Some say that foresight is a factor — everything that could be bought ahead and stored up should be illegal on Sundays under the law. Others say you can't legislate foresight—people will run out of gasoline and milk and bread and household fuels simply because they are human beings, who can forget things on busy Saturdays.

As a result of the confusion surrounding the ancient law, enforcement efforts have been given up as hopeless in most areas, and the law has become a travesty. Businesses of all kinds are open now, and more are opening constantly without interference.

The Sunday Necessities Amendment, by simply spelling out necessities that can be agreed on by a majority of people as essential seven days a week, will eliminate this confusion and permit orderly enforcement of the law against non-essential business.

The amendment makes legal these items—and these items only: gas, electricity, telephone, telegraph, public transportation, other public utilities, newspapers, other news publications, radio, TV, other communications, household fuels, gasoline and oil, prescriptions and proprietary drugs, household medical supplies, personal hygiene products, milk, milk products and food.

Opponents of the amendment have issued statements claiming that all of these items have already been made legal by "court decisions," excepting only milk and food. They say that the Lawson Milk Company, which is sponsoring the amendment, is simply trying to add the products it sells to those that have already been legalized.

Many ministers and even some newspaper editors have accepted this statement as true, and if true, it would be a telling argument. There is, however, no truth to it. When asked to cite the specific court decisions that make these items legal, the opposition stammers and has nothing to put forward.

A search of Ohio's court decisions, all the way back to the 1830's, shows that all of the items in the amendment are under a cloud of doubt. In the words of the highly respected firm of attorneys who conducted the search, "None of the items in the amendment can be said to be clearly exempted (from Sunday closing) either by the present law or by decisions of the courts." A copy of the complete report, citing decisions that go back for more than a hundred years, is available to interested citizens.

The amendment, then, will eliminate the confusion, guarantee people the right to buy the necessities they need, and permit orderly enforcement of Sunday closing regulations against businessmen who are now selling non-essentials illegally.

As surveys prove beyond question, the public does want the items listed in the amendment, including milk and food, to be available on Sundays. Fresh milk, in fact, is the fourth most popular item in the group, ranking just behind prescription drugs, bus service, and gasoline, and ahead of such basic services as radio-TV broadcasting and telephone service.

If people understand what they are voting on, the amendment will pass with a landslide YES vote.

The merchants opposing it, however, have been able to convince some churchmen that the amendment poses a threat to the holiness of Sunday. Actually, it does not (and in a government based on the separation of church and state, that shouldn't be an issue anyway). Still, many ministers are campaigning against the amendment and further confusing the issue.

The Ohio legislature should rightfully have done this modernization job 50 years ago. Since 1915, 34 different bills have been introduced in the legislature to bring the law up to date, and our legislators, who are concerned about the religious controversy surrounding the issue, have backed away from every one of them. One state senator has said, "It would be political suicide for a legislator to identify himself with either side of such an issue."

It was not until 1959, when the Attorney General threatened to close down the state fair unless something was done to legalize it, that the so-called "recreation and amusement" exemptions were added. But nothing has ever been done to clarify the "necessity" clause of the law, which is what creates all the confusion. Since the legislature has done nothing for 131 years, this has become a job for the people.

The Lawson Milk Company has been accused of pure self-interest in sponsoring the legislation. But it must be remembered that about half a million Ohioans in 87 of the state's 88 counties signed the petitions to put this issue on the ballot. And Lawson's will not gain 10 cents more in additional business whether the amendment passes or fails. All Lawson stores in Ohio are open on Sundays, now, and have been open for 23 years under the present law.

Lawson's does of course have self-interest involved in the amendment. Today, all Sunday transactions, including Lawson's, are under a cloud of doubt. The company wants that cloud cleared away, and the law clearly defined. It is fortunate that an organization like Lawsons, with an unassailable record of public service extending back over two decades, has sponsored the campaign. If Lawson's didn't do it, who would?

The time is long past when ordinary citizens could rise up and undertake an initiative or referendum action if their legislature failed to act. Someone with courage, money, organization and widespread public support must sponsor and finance an effort of this kind in the public interest. The man in the street may want it, but he can't do anything about it by himself.

A NO vote to defeat the amendment will simply result in more of what we have now—hypocrisy, sham, dishonesty and widespread Sunday commercialism without restrictions of any kind in most communities.

A YES vote to pass the amendment will result in a clarification of our 131-year-old law, a guarantee that essentials will be available seven days a week, and orderly enforcement of Sunday closing regulations on an impartial basis throughout the state.

What should we do about Sunday sales?

Voters at the Nov. 6 election will be confronted with a proposal to amend the Constitution of Ohio relative to the sale, processing or rendition of certain commodities, products and services on Sunday. The proposal follows:

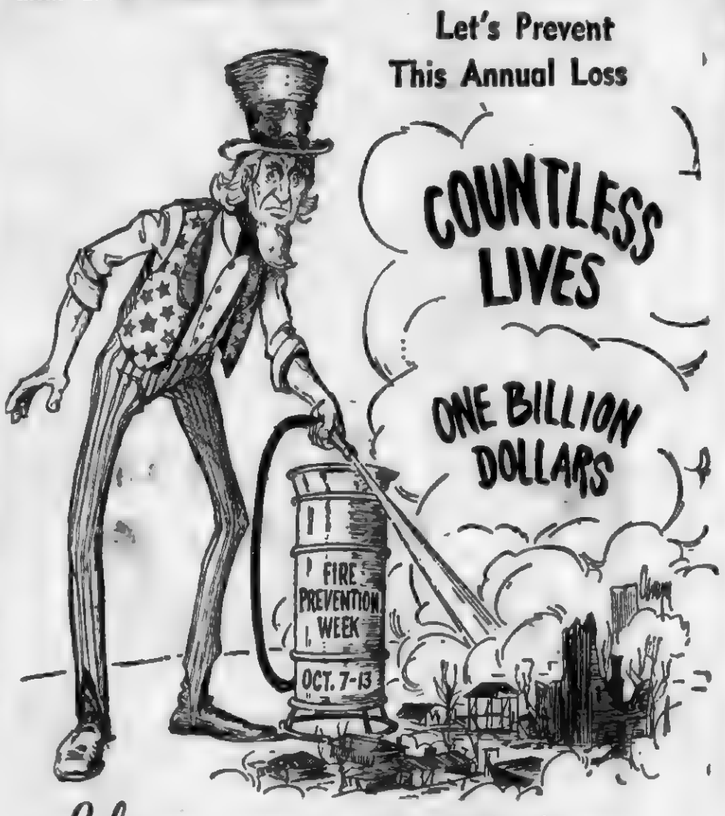
"No statute, ordinance or regulation shall be passed or enforced whereby the sale, processing or rendition of the following commodities, products or services shall be prohibited on Sunday or any other day of the week, to-wit: gas, electricity, telephone, telegraph, public means of transportation or any other public utility service or product; newspapers, other news publications, radio, television, or other public communications service; household fuels; motor fuels and lubricants for automotive vehicles; prescriptions and proprietary drugs, and household medical supplies; products used for personal hygiene and sanitation; milk, milk products, any food items or food product for human or animal consumption."

Hartley Newspapers this week is giving unlimited space to both the proponents and one of the best known local opponents of the ammendment so that they may state their positions. The Lawson Milk originated and is vigorously supporting the proposal. The Greater Columbus Sunday Association, which has carried out an effective campaign for enforcement of existing Sunday closing laws, opposes the Sunday necessities amendment. The effort has been intensified since by another group, the Voters Action Association.

Hartley Newspapers will publish an editorial opinion on the issue later this month.

AGAINST THE AMENDMENT

Read this amendment carefully—it is a clever attempt to benefit Lawson Milk Company, a corporation owned by Consolidated Foods of Chicago. Notice the tail-end of the amendment. Lawson has included its products, which cannot legally be sold on Sunday, with the other items which can legally be sold on Sunday. Lawson simply wants you to vote more business for Lawson. Is it any wonder why they doggedly push this amendment?



You will lose if you allow this amendment to pass. Open the door a crack and soon other clever men will force it wide open. Next year the clothing stores may try to push a similar amendment in your face. This time, retail groceries; next time, clothing. What next?

This amendment will begin the collapse of something special—Sunday. Sunday will be just another working day. On Sunday you should be able to attend church with your family, picnic, or go fishing. You are free—you should not have to work on Sunday. Your state law now guarantees you this right: Sunday is a day when the entire family, together with the entire community, can rest and worship and play. This is important to us; to some men the dollar is more important. Pass this amendment and you will be kept on the job some Sunday by an employer who has no choice but to meet the competition.

Lawson simply wants more business. The religious beliefs and social customs of the many thousand people in the retail food business make no difference to Lawson. Businessmen throughout Ohio, however, have stood by their convictions and refused to support this amendment. In fact, the only organized support we know for this proposed change comes from Lawson.

We believe our Sunday Closing Law is a good law and should be observed. Our present law prohibits only one thing, and that, unnecessary business. It does, in effect, preserve Sunday for the enjoyment of life. There is no question in our minds that the passage of Issue Number I will open the door to widespread commercialism and eventually complete employment on Sunday. The elimination of Sunday as Sunday threatens the very fabric of our lives here in America, and the image we project to the world.

We sincerely hope that the above thoughts will be of some benefit to you as you review the issue and decide how you shall vote. May we urge you, however, to join hands with such groups as the Columbus Area Council of Churches, Columbus-Franklin County AFL-CIO, the Retail Merchants Association, the Catholic Diocese of Columbus, and the many other concerned community organizations who are calling upon citizens to vote "No" on the proposed "Sunday Opening Amendment" at the November election.

AROUND EDUCATIONAL CIRCLES

To Overhaul Program

The State Board of Education is expected to take formal action at its Oct. 8 meeting on a proposal to overhaul the State Foundation Program, which allocates money to school districts, to the tune of $50 million a year.

In general, the proposal calls for increasing the amount of money allocated for teacher salary allowances, allowances for other operating costs, special state support for school guidance programs, and reduction from 30 to 27 the number of pupils required to qualify for a classroom unit allocation in grades 9-12.

Favors Prayer . . .

The Columbus Board of Education has passed a resolution encouraging the Columbus teaching staff to continue use of prayers in school. The board acted after being advised that the recent Supreme Court decision only ruled out established prayer.

Almost Gone . . .

The "little red schoolhouse" which is usually painted white, has all but disappeared from the American scene. A recent National Education Association report shows that only 15,018 of these one-teacher schools are left. In 1930 there were 148,711.

Bible Specifies Baptism Rite For Salvation

A scripture that is misunderstood more than any other, and is very essential to Salvation is: "Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the Name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost" (Math. 28:19). The Apostles knew what the name was, therefore, they baptized in the name of Jesus Christ, which is the name of the Father (St. John 5:43), name of the Son (Math. 1:21), name of the Holy Ghost (St. John 14:26). So Peter, on the Day of Pentecost, wasn't wrong when he said, "Repent and he baptized everyone of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost" (Acts 2:38).

Rev. Whalen

In the tenth chapter of Acts after the Holy Ghost fell upon Cornelius and his household, Peter commanded them to be baptized in the name of Jesus Christ. Philip went down to Samaria in the eighth chapter of Acts, and baptized the whole town in the name of Jesus. Paul, in the nineteenth chapter of Acts, met up with certain desciples and said unto them, "Have ye received the Holy Ghost since ye believed?" And they said unto him, "We have not so much as heard whether there be any Holy Ghost." And he said unto them, "Unto what then were ye baptized?" And they said, "Unto John's baptism." Then said Paul, "John was baptized with the baptism of repentance, saying unto the people that they should believe on him which should come after him, that is, on Christ Jesus." When they heard this, they were baptized in the name of Lord Jesus.

And when Paul had laid his hands upon them, the Holy Ghost came on them; and they spake with tongues, and prophesied.

Yes, the Apostles baptized all their converts in the Name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost; Jesus is the name. Peter tells us, "This is the stone which was set at nought of you builders, which is become the head of the corner. Neither is there salvation in any other: for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved." (Acts 4:11, 12).

The Holy Ghost speaking in tongues always accompanies baptism in Jesus name, because Jesus tells us "Verily, verily I say unto you except a man be born of water (baptism in Jesus Name) and of the spirit (The Holy Ghost speaking in tongues), he cannot enter into the kingdom of God" (St. John 3:5). My friends, if Matthew 28:19 was to be used as most religious people use it, it wouldn't pass God's Word in 11 Cor. 13:1, by the mouth of two or three witnesses shall every word be established. There isn't another place in the Bible where it mentions Father, Son and Holy Ghost. May God bless you and stir your hearts to search His word.

'Tiger' Charms Cat Hater

Many centuries before Christ, a wily ferret-faced Phoenician huckster tossed a passel of tame cats onto his floating push-cart and scudded down the Mediterranean to Italy where he was greeted at the shore by a bunch of open-mouthed Etrurians (early pre-spaghetti paisanos).

McPeek

Having never seen portable mouse traps before, the childish Etrurians happily loaded the shrewd Phoenician trader's boat to the gunnels with 90-proof grape-ade in exchange for the furry cargo of leg-rubbing creatures.

To trace the progeny of the alley cat and its subsequent penetration into the northern reaches of Europe would require taking even more liberty with history, for apparently the Italians and their neighbors soon took the rapidly proliferating little beasts for granted.

This must be so because history makes slight mention of them until two millenniums later, when in 936 A. D. Hywel Dda, the Prince of Wales, enacted a law for their protection. This was the earliest written record of the introduction of domesticated cats into Great Britain.

The historic significance of the Prince's law is that even at that early stage of civilized society it was apparent man had divided into two camps — cat-lovers and non-cat-lovers, a situation that prevails today.

As readers of this column know, until about a year ago I was more or less an indifferent member of the non-cat-loving faction. But then with the acquisition of "Tiger," a $2 calico runt dragged home from the animal shelter by my son, Dana, I gradually swung to the cat-loving side of the fence.

This, as I explained earlier, was because I was taken in by the antics of Tiger, who, apparently sensing my latent antagonism, shrewdly assumed the characteristics of a mutt. Instead of slinking, she bounded. Rather than be chased by the children, she did the chasing. Instead of drawing away from tossed objects, she returned them to the throwers feet.

So charmed was I by the odd behavior of this uncat-like cat, that several months later when Tiger, after a couple of all-night outings, started moping about the house with a serenely simple look on her whiskered face, I warmly blabbed in this column that a blessed event was soon to occur in the McPeek household.

As things turned out, or rather failed to turn out, I succeeded only in making a complete fool of myself. And because of the interest the column stirred in cat-loving readers, I soon had to write a second column confessing my rash gullibility.

The mortification was such that I vowed never to write about cats again.

And so some weeks ago when Tiger again donned a simple look of expectancy, I ignored her. Such tomfoolery would not work on me twice. Once was enough.

But now my son has put the pressure on me.

"You write a lot of silly stuff. Here's your chance to write something important," beseeched Dana tearfully.

So what can a father do?

Saturday Tiger gave birth to two kittens. Mother and children are doing fine . . . and father, whoever and wherever he is, assumedly is doing same.

Angie Ready For Hartman--Legs And All

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.
Amusement Editor

The fact sheet from a New York office said that Angie Dickinson has "the "trimmest pair of legs in Hollywood"

ANGELIC ANGIE Dickinson chats with noted director Lamont Johnson about the production of "The Perfect Setup" which opens at the Hartman Theater tonight (Thursday) and runs until Sunday. Talented Miss Dickinson is the holder of the "Golden Garter" award for having the most perfect set of legs since Marlene Dietrich, and Johnson is responsible for a view of them by Columbus audiences.

and I was heading toward the 16th floor of the Deshler to take a look for myself.

Miss Dickinson opens tonight (Thursday) at the Hartman Theater in "The Perfect Setup" with Gene Barry and Jan Sterling. The play runs until Sunday and the press preview of the stars was given in the Sky Room Tuesday evening.

Seated at a table with my wife, Hazel Eyes, surrounded by other newsmen and show people, we waited for Miss Dickinson's arrival.

She was late—but worth waiting for. She walked in and there was a slight conversational lull, a few "Hello, Angies" were exchanged and she sat down at our table.

"Well, now," she said, "what'll we talk about?"

"Legs?" I queried, taking a right elbow jab from Hazel Eyes.

"Okay," she smiled.

Angie holds the undisputed title to the "Golden Garter," award an honor bestowed on Marlene Dietrich 25 years ago and there have been few contenders since.

This Dickinson named Angie is a surprising gal to interview. It's rare that you get frankness from a movie queen.

"This 'Garters' award," she said seriously, "I'll have to admit, was a fantastic publicity stunt. The whole idea was dreamed up by an elderly fellow in Hollywood who makes unusual design decorations for nylons.

"I'm not so sure how accurate his selections are for his award, but I can't help but think that gals like Betty Grable, for instance, should've received it also."

"Betty would've been at least in the semi-finals," I said and this time Hazel Eyes used her elbows with the deftness of a basketball guard.

Angie said she got the award after someone saw her in the 1959 release of the film "Rio Bravo."

"I wore a short costume in this picture," she remembered.

Of course, Dietrich fans can recall that Marlene used her legs as a sort of "trademark." They were usually viewable during at least one scene in all of her movies.

Not so with Angie . . . and, frankly, she says she's disappointed about this.

"There have been times when I've tried to show my legs," she said, "but I can't."

She does get her chance, though, in "The Perfect Setup" and most of the thanks by the Columbus audience should go to Director Lament Johnson.

Personable Johnson, who's got a lot of directing experience behind him, stated emphatically that Angie's leggy look will be a prominent part of the show.

"Anyone who doesn't like Angie's legs," said Johnson, who also directs the "Nurses" TV show among other things, "should get a prescription examination of his eyes—or a prescription of some type."

Angie took a quick moment out from the interview to grab a few sandwiches and drink a Seven-Up.

Next item on the agenda was a picture-taking session with her and, since Johnson was so nice to include Angie's more attractive attributes in the production, I thought it would be fitting that he be in the picture with her.

I needed a table out of the way and a Sky Room waiter quickly obliged.

After the session, Angie smiled at the waiter and said, "Thanks for your help."

She turned to me and said, "You thank the waiter, too."

I did and Angie looked pleased and right then Hazel Eyes whispered to me:

"You know, she's a real nice girl."

"I think so, too," I answered.

Cassidy, Democratic nominee for the U.S. House of Representatives from the Twelfth Congressional District of Ohio, and Chalmers P. The format will be similar to that employed by the "Meet the Press" program.

Aries Staff Seeking Aid From Whitehall Students

Publishing the book will cost approximately $6.50. The students will pay $4.50 for each copy.

Costs will be met through yearbook advertising, donations by senior patrons, and candy sales. Of the 1200 students in the school, 700 are expected to buy the annual.

On Sept. 25, the Yearling Players had an organization meeting and elected officers for the coming year.

Karen Beery was elected president; Sandy Beckley, vice-president; Kay Pickworth, secretary and Sharon Bousman, treasurer.

Board Chairman Wins Life Membership

Edward G. Durell, 464 S. Parkview-av, was awarded a life membership in the Ohio Historical Society at a three-day meeting at Campus Martius Museum in Marietta.

The meeting was held by the Early American Industries Association. Durell is chairman of the board of the Union Fork and Hoe Co.

Fix Up Promised On Hampton-rd Walk Problems

Lino Guzzo, president of the Complete General Construction Co., has agreed to replace nearly 1,300 feet of slanted, faulty sidewalk atop an East Side water main at no charge to the city.

Guzzo blamed the Burgess and Niple Co:, the city's consulting engineers, for the faulty sidewalk along the east side of Hampton-rd, south of Broad-st.

Guzzo notified Service Director Ernest H. Stork that he will work out the cost of the job with Burgess and Niple.

Inspectors Will Repeat 'Silent Killer' Search

City officials are off to a head start in trying to head off carbon monoxide deaths this year.

Commencing Oct. 29, about 30 inspectors will check space heating equipment in a number of local homes. An intensive week-long campaign against the "silent killer" will be conducted by three teams from the Divisions of Housing Inspection and Building Regulations and the Fire Prevention Bureau.

Last year the campaign was held Jan 22-26.

There were nine monoxide deaths last year. In addition 73 persons were hospitalized. Safety Director Albert G. Giles said safety violations were found in 60 percent of the homes visited. A follow-up check revealed 100 percent compliance with the necessary corrections.

Since 1958 most of the monoxide deaths have occurred in the near South Side. Twenty-eight persons lost their lives in the area generally between Livingston-av and Broad-st. There were 12 deaths north of Broad-st.

Although many improperly installed and ventilated heaters were found in the West Side, no deaths have occurred since 1958.

Director Giles said exact location of the inspections will not be revealed in advance, in order to make the drive more effective. He implied, however, that inspectors will travel farther west this time, again into the South Side and to the University District.

Cap To Host High School Day Oct. 13

Capital University will host more than 700 area high school students in the first of two scheduled special High School Day programs Saturday, Oct. 13.

Invited to the first sessions are high schoolers from the counties of Cuyahoga, Franklin, Lucas and Montgomery and out-of-state students. Ohio residents in other Ohio counties except these four will visit Capital's campus Nov. 10.

The High School Day's program includes educational counselling for students, an informal clinic for parents and performances by the university's Chapel Choir, Glee Club, Concert Band, Masquers and Air Force ROTC.

Super Duper Appeals Sunday Sale Fine

Archives Open House Dated Sunday

The former Governor's Mansion, 1234 E. Broad-st, now named the Ohio Archives Building and administered by the Ohio Historcial Society, will hold an open house Sunday, Oct. 14, 1 to 5 p.m.

The public is invited to view the documents, papers and other items relating to Ohio history.

Of major interest will be a facsimile of the Constitution of 1803 by which Ohio was governed for the first 48 years of its history which will be on display in one of the eight [illegible] of archives arranged especially for the public information.

The original Constitution, housed in the office of the Secretary of State and rarely on view to the public bears the signatures of the 34 delegates who met at Chillicothe for the first Ohio Constitutional Convention in November, 160 years ago next month.

Other items on display at the open house will delineate what constitutes an archive, early maps and papers relative to the boundary dispute of 1831 between Michigan and Ohio, and material showing the rise and fall of the Ohio canals from federal grants of lands to their retrocession.

The Ohio Archives Building, which remains much as it was as the Governor's Mansion except for furnishings, serves lawyers, government officials and students of history by preserving official state and local archives.

Also included in the program will be a showing of pictures by the Covered Bridge Committee of the Ohio Historical Society.

Refreshments will be served by: Mrs. Wayne J. Graf and Mrs. Don E. Weaver, wives of society board members; Mrs. Erwin C. Zepp, wife of the society's director, and Mrs. Robert L. Bates, assistant librarian at the society's museum.

Parking is available on Broad-st.

Bexley CIA Planning To Intensify Pool Interests

The Bexley Civic Improvement Association (CIA) has been canvassing Bexley residents, offering first hand information and the opportunity to help in building the Bexley Community pool.

Due to summer vacations, a new school year starting, etc., many people have not, as yet, been contacted.

"Because of this and to answer many questions of the residents there will be a News Letter sent to every resident in Bexley within the next week or two, bringing them up to date as to the progress of this effort," according to Bill Birch, CIA chairman.

In addition to this News Letter there will be a Loan Certificate Pledge Form and the members of the Association urge residents who have not been contacted to fill out the Pledge Form and send it to the Bexley Civic Improvement Association, Box No. 6601, Bexley Station.

"The Association feels that the Drive should be terminated by Dec. 1, in order to assure the completion of the pool for the 1963 swimming season," Birch added. "By sending the pledge directly to the Box Number and responding quickly, the citizens of Bexley would greatly aid the Association in achieving this goal."

Those who sbscribed for a $100.00 Loan Certificate and make payment in full, will receive their certificates within 30 days.

Information is available by contacting Pat Crossley, CA8-6851, between 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The drive for the new pool is being handled solely by the Bexley CIA, a civic group of volunteers.

The Area Captains engaged in contacing residents are:

Mrs. Asher Moser, Mrs. George Bown, Mrs. William L. Hinkle, Michael Herrell, Joe Lanman, Al Wing, Harry Collier, Robert Macklin, Gale Roshon, Charles Salt.

Jack Heller, Charles Brubaker, Sidney Levoff, Donn Schneider, Mrs. Garth Harris, Sam Barrett, James Legg, Harold Regan.

JEWISH CENTER ACTIVITIES

Adult Course In Yiddish Planned; Modern Dance Classes Are Readied

For the second consecutive year, an adult course in Yiddish language and literature will be offered by the Jewish Center on Monday evenings at 8. The class will be offered on two levels. The group will continue into intermediate Yiddish. A second group will be conducted on a beginner's level. The first class will meet Oct. 22.

Mrs. Melvin I. Cooperman will again serve as instructor. Aspects to be stressed are conversation and written expression.

The course has as its objective the appreciation and understanding of the storehouse of Jewish culture contained in the literature of Sholem Aleichem and Y. C. Peretz, whose stories reflect the religious values of Jewish life as seen through the eyes of the Eastern European community of two generations ago.

Information regarding registration may be obtained by calling the center program office, BE. 1-2731.

Modern Dance

An expanded program of modern dance will be offered to Jewish Center girls and women during the fall and winter season.

Dorothy Bloom, well known Columbus dance instructor, will instruct a course for women on Wednesday mornings from 10:15 to 11:15 a.m.

Mrs. Bernice M. Rosen will instruct a course for teens and adults on Wednesday evenings from 8:15 to 9:15.

Mrs. Rosen studied modern dance technique with Martha Graham, Hanya Holm, Helen Tamiris and others. She has taught dance for the past 15 years in schools, community centers, etc.

The fee for both programs is $25 for a 20-week course. Advanced registration is required for both programs.

Ballet

Beginning Tuesday, Oct. 16, the center will offer two new classes in ballet for children seven to 11.

Classes are to be split by age, with the seven and eight year olds meeting from 4 to 5 p.m. and the nine and 10 year olds meeting from 5:15 to 6:15 p.m. every Tuesday.

The first 10 weeks are being conducted on an introductory course basis. Further instruction will depend on membership response. A $15-per-child fee for a 10-week session will be charged for the initial course.

High level professional instruction is being offered by the Jewish Center for these ballet classes. Mrs. Tatjana Smith will be dance instructor.

Registration is now open. A minimum of 12 students is required for each group. Those interested are urged to register immediately by calling Eli Esteriecher, junior worker.

Learn To Skii

Walter Neuron, proprietor of a Town and Country Photo Studio, and champion skier, will be in charge of the center's "Learn To Skii" program this year.

Neuron, a certified instructor at Snow Trails in Mansfield, will teach interested Jewish Center members preliminary skills at the center and will continue with the course with practical work on the Snow Trails slopes.

The initial meeting of the group is scheduled for Tuesday, Oct. 23, at 8:15 p.m. in the adult lounge. Neuron will present a display of skii equipment and will demonstrate its use. He will also discuss the program and answer questions on fees and schedules.

The program is open for coed Tweens through adults.

Junior Bowling

Because of many requests, the center's physical education department will start an instructional bowling league on Thursday afternoon starting at 4 p.m.

Junior boys and girls, ages nine to 11, will be taught the fundamentals of bowling by Mrs. Ethel Wiese, a certified instructor.

Teams will be established after a three-week period of free instruction. Teams will bowl two lines each week.

Instruction will be continuous during the season. League will start when registration is complete. Interested parents should call Howard Banchefsky or Eli Estreicher, at BE. 1-2731.

COLUMBUS—THE FIRST 150 YEARS . . .

Library's Development Parallels City's Growth

By GALVY GORDON

The old Carnegie Library at the eastern end of State-st isn't the Carnegie Library and it never was.

But it has grown into the nerve and processing center of the largest library system in central Ohio and its history is deeply interwoven with the progress of Columbus.

The Columbus Public Library, too, is immortalized in literature. Humorist Jim Thurber recounted in his autobiography that he was named for the first chief librarian of the Columbus Public Library and how he used to "hang out" at the institution in his youth.

But we're getting way ahead of our story. It was 90 years ago that City Council first established by ordinance the "Public Library and Reading Room of Columbus, Ohio," the direct forerunner of today's Columbus Public Library System.

We have to go back even further in the early days of the city, though to trace the birth of the public library concept.

Perhaps the earliest approach to a public library is recorded in the May 17, 1821 issue of the Columbus Gazette (successor to The Western Intelligencer and forerunner of The Ohio State Journal:

"The apprentices of Columbus have formed themselves into a society for the purpose of establishing a library solely for the benefit of apprentices. They have formed a constitution, elected their officers and have collected what books their scant libraries afforded, which are but few."

While this was a library for a special segment of the public and its eventual fate is only to be speculated upon, its establishment did demonstrate an awareness for the necessity of books for self-education.

From the middle of the 1830's on, there was a succession of organizations and groups that endeavored to finance libraries from private contributions and the proceeds of various ventures, such as lecture courses.

Most noteworthy of these was the Columbus Reading Room and Institute established in 1835. By the end of the decade the Institute was out of business, apparently because of a lack of support for the lectures.

Another not-quite successful attempt was the Franklin Lyceum, organized in December, 1846 and lasting some six years on the bounty of its lectures.

The Columbus Atheneum founded in January, 1853 was backed by prominent citizens and supported initially by private contributions in the hope that lecture courses would provide funds for perpetual maintenance of its library and Reading Room.

For several months housed in the Franklin County Court House at 338 S. High-st, the Atheneum was moved in May, 1853, from the Court House to The Ohio State Journal building at High and Pearl-sts.

It, too, folded from lack of attendance at its lectures and despite such editorial blessings as were bestowed on it in the columns of the Journal. One article read, in part:

"The reading room is well supplied with newspapers and magazines; easy chairs and plenty of reading make this an attractive point for visitors. Columbus needs and must have something of this kind. The wants of our young men demand it. We should offer them something better, more manly place of resort than the saloon and the gambling hall."

It is interesting to note that one of the few Atheneum lectures that could be considered a whopping success was the one entitled "Philosophy of a Humbug" and given by P. T. Barnum, showman and circus promoter, during the winter of 1853-4.

The Atheneum did not survive the decade, but in less than seven years, it had accumulated some 1200 books and had rendered great service to the community.

In 1867, the Ohio General Assembly took cognizance of the state-wide interest in public-supported libraries and passed an act empowering boards of education to levy a tax of one-tenth of a mill for the establishment of school libraries open to all families of the respective school districts.

A year later, the legislature authorized city councils to levy a tax of one-half mill on the dollar for free public libraries and reading rooms.

Columbus City Council on Jan. 15, 1872, passed an ordinance calling for the establishment in the City Hall building (present site of Loew's Ohio Theater on State-st) of "The Public Library and Reading Room of Columbus, Ohio."

Rev. James L. Grover, pastor of St. Paul's Episcopal Church and scholar of both the Scriptures and Shakespeare, was named first city librarian. And it was for this gentleman, a one-time circuit-riding pastor, that Jim Thurber was named.

The Public Library and Reading Room opened its doors for business in early March, 1873. Books from the old Atheneum launched the book collection.

For years, the Board of Education and the Public Library shared the same quarters at City Hall.

In early 1890, however, a state law, designed to separate school libraries from municipal libraries, went into effect and the Board of Education removed its books.

A Public School Library opened in the new Board of Education Building on E. Town-st in 1891. It was a general circulating library and was the pre-eminent library of Columbus for the next two decades, largely because of its liberal base of financial support.

In fact, chances are excellent that many golden agers who recall borrowing books in their youth and young adulthood, never visited the public library at all, but patronized the School Library.

A severe thunderstorm in 1911 wrecked the Board of Education Building and, when new headquarters were established, the general circulating department of the School Library was not resumed.

Despite one large room added on to the Public Library and Reading Room at City Hall, the library was too cramped to provide adequate service even before the turn of the century.

At about this time, the Library Board of Trustees entered into correspondence with Scottish-born philanthropist Andrew Carnegie in the hopes that he would provide funds for a new public library building.

Carnegie, it will be recalled, supplied the major construction funds for nearly 2000 American public libraries.

But by this time, Carnegie was no longer interested in helping establish large central libraries. He politely declined overtures from Columbus and said that he would be delighted to help build branches "if and when."

John J. Pugh, city librarian from 1896 until the time of his death in 1946, asked permission of the Library trustees to make a personal appeal to the great steelman.

He visited the immigrant in his New York apartment and was politely received. But the answer was still no—until Pugh reworded the request into the language he had learned in his youth as a member of the Columbus Welsh settlement.

Apparently the dialect was quite similar to that spoken by Andrew Carnegie as a boy, for it touched a sentimental chord.

Carnegie eventually was to give $200,000 or about two-thirds of the cost of the present day Main Columbus Public Library at 96 S. Grant-av, which was formally opened on Apr. 4, 1907.

The site itself is of historical interest, the old mansion on the grounds having served as the governor's residence for seven post-Civil War governors.

Gov. Rutherford B. Hayes, a president of the United States, lived for two of his three terms as Ohio governor in the mansion on the library grounds.

The Main Library in Columbus was and is among the most beautiful buildings in Ohio. The finest marble and granite were used in its construction and more than 100 pieces of marble sculpture adorn its facade.

Even before construction began in early 1903, the Library Board of Trustees had agreed to make "Columbus Public Library" the official name of the new building.

For about five years after the burning of City Hall on Jan. 12, 1921, the Columbus Public Library served as headquarters for the city government, its departments and City Council, pending construction of the present day City Hall on the Scioto River front in the Civic Center.

The first four neighborhood library branches were opened in October, 1928 in vacant storeroom leased in Clintonville, on the Hilltop, in Linden and on Parsons-av

Today, the Columbus Public Library system includes 13 neighborhood branches, five of them in buildings constructed and owned by the system.

Since the mid-thirties, all public libraries in Ohio which open their doors to all residents within the county have derived their financial support from the Ohio intangibles tax on stocks and bonds collected within their respective counties.

In 1950, the Columbus Public Library purchased and put into operation its first bookmobile. Today, the five bookmobiles account for about one-fourth of all books loaned to patrons.

About two and one-half million books are expected to be borrowed by about 170,000 registered patrons.

Circulating phonograph records and 16-mm sound films were added to the services of the library at about the same time, as was service to patients in hospitals and rest homes.

It is interesting to note that the Public Library and Reading Room of Columbus opened its doors in 1873 with 1600 volumes. Today's book collection approaches 650,000 volumes and nearly a third of these are housed in the Main Library.

Lockbourne Is Now 123 Years Old

Col. James Kilbourne, as agent for Joel Buttles, Demas Adams and others, laid out Lockbourne in 1831.

The settlement soon grew into a village of 70 families with a church, school, stores and warehouses, two or three doctors, taverns, and saw and grist mills.

Although incorporated by an act of legislature in 1839, residents didn't take advantage of the incorporation's provisions.

Nathan G. Smith was first postmaster when the post office was established in 1837.

He was succeeded the next year by Zebulon Marcy and, in 1839, by John H. Stage, who continued in the post for ten years.

Others were, C. M. Porter, Dr. A. N. Boales, Dr. J. R. Marshall, John A. Sarbera and from 1856 to 1858, J. H. Haire.

Population of Lockbourne and Shadesville in 1840 was 1,258, and this increased only a little more than 200 by 1908. Residents then totaled 1,493.

BOROUGH MAYORS

During the time Columbus was a borough, from 1816 to 1834, its mayors were, Jarvis Pike, 1816; John Kerr, 1818; Eli C. King, 1820; John Laughry, 1823; W. T. Martin, 1824; James Robinson, 1827; William Long, 1828, P. and H. Olmstead, 1833.

FIRST SAWMILL

The first sawmill was built on the Scioto in 1813, a short distance below the site of the present penitentiary, by John Shields and Richard Courtney.

Winchester Was Center For Trade

Canal Winchester was a bustling center of canal business in 1858 and before, and was the center especially of grain and produce trade.

Laid out in 1826 by John Colemen and Rueban Dave, both Fairfield County citizens, the town was located on six sections of land originally in Fairfield County. It became a part of Franklin County when the tract was annexed to the eastern end of Madison Township in 1851.

Canal Winchester and Groveport each boasted about 400 citizens in 1856 and, two years later, the towns had increased to nearly 500.

Later pioneers who followed the original settlers were the families of Ebenezer Richards, W. D. Hendren, Elijah Austin, James McLisle, Nicholas Goeches, William Godman, J. Gander, John Swisher, William Patterson, Alexander Cameron, W. W. Kile, James Pearcy, John Cox, William Mason, Joshua Ganville, M. Seymour, M. K. Earhart and John Helpman.

Peter T. Krag, first postmaster of the town, served from 1853 to 1863.

County's First Churchman Also Shaped State Schools

The influence of Franklinton's pioneer churchman, Dr. James Hoge, was destined to spread far beyond the little settlement he first joined in 1803.

He was to become instrumental in shaping the educational and charitable policy of the entire state and would head as moderator, the Presbyterian Church of the United States.

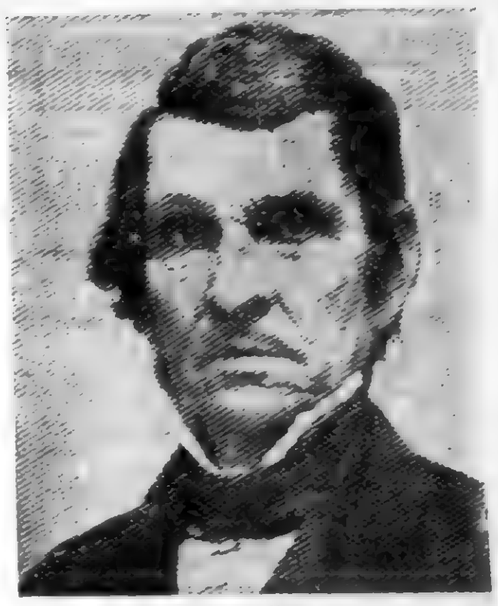
James Hoge's first journey to Ohio was in 1803 to do a piece of surveying of rather large land holdings the Hoge family had acquired in what is now Franklin and Pickaway Counties. He returned home the next year, fired with enthusiasm for the land and its opportunities.

Ordained a minister in the Presbyterian Church in the spring of 1805, he was, at his own request, commissioned a missionary "to the State of Ohio and parts adjacent thereto," on Apr. 17.

He reached Franklinton the following November, and established the Presbyterian Church, first in Franklin County.

Descended from a long line of Presbyterion ministers in Scotland and, before that, of the Hogue family, distinguished Protestants of Normandy, France, James Hoge was the eldest son of Moses Hoge, Virginia preacher and president of Hampton-Sidney College.

His mother was a member of the Paige family that numbered 200 ministers, ministers' wives and missionaries.



James was born at Mooresfield, Va. (now West Virginia) July 4, 1784. He was taught at home by his father, spent one year in an academy and later studied in Baltimore under Dr. Priestly.

On his way to Ohio in 1803 he stopped overnight at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Wood in Wheeling, Va. (later West Virginia) and there met their daughter, Jane.

In 1810 he returned to make her his bride.

Both James and Jane Hoge became leaders in the development of educational and charitable institutions in the city and in the state.

Dr. Hoge was instrumental

in legislaton that resulted in free public schools in Columbus, and in the establishment of the State's Deaf School and Blind School.

Mrs. Hoge was one of the organizers and first president of the Columbus Female Benevolent Society, first women's group organized after the cholera plague of 1833 to aid the widows, orphans and the poor.

Columbus' first Church School was organized in the basement of Dr. Hoge's Trinity In Unity Church when it was built in 1818, and taught by Sarah Reid.

Miami University conferred the title of Doctor of Divinity on Rev. Hoge in 1824. For several years he was a trustee of the University as well as of Ohio University at Athens.

He and President William McGuffey, author of McGuffey Readers, were close friends.

Dr. Hoge and two other men were chiefly responsible for the enactment by State Legislature in 1826 that provided for the establishment of the first public schools in Ohio.

Almost single-handedly, he brought about the founding of the State School for The Deaf. Dr. Hoge and two others sold for $300 the ten-acre site of the institution on Town-st, where the school was located for many years.

Dr. Hoge was also influential in founding the School for the Blind in 1837.

During the General Assembly held in Philadelphia in 1832, Dr. Hoge was elected moderator of the Presbyterian Church in the United States.

For many years, his daily morning prayers held in his church were attended by many state officers and prominent people.

Jane died in her home located where the Athletic Club now stands, in 1861, one year after she and her husband celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

Dr. Hoge preached his last sermon as pastor of the First Church on June 30, 1857, after 50 years as its minister.

He died two years later, Sept. 22, 1863 at 79.

Both were buried in Greenlawn Cemetery.

SWAMPS BREED DISEASE

Cholera Most Dreaded As Killer Of Pioneers In Early Columbus

Epidemics of fever and disease fostered by swamps and stagnant pools, tuberculosis, child birth fatalities, and the murderous smallpox and cholera raged in such proportion in early Columbus that its settlers' life expectancy was little more than 40 years, even as late as 1850.

Cholera, its cause and cure so mysterious in those times, was most dreaded of all.

The disease made its first appearance in northern Ohio in 1830, and despite quarantine efforts of officials in the village of Cleveland, swept steadily southward.

Its first appearance in Franklin County in July two years later inspired Methodist ministers to petition Gov. Duncan McArthur to proclaim a day of fasting and humiliation, asking for Divine intervention.

Frightened citizens even petitioned the governor to drain canals, preventing the arrival of immigrants who might be carrying the disease.

During the summer of 1833 it struck in full force, first on the canal in Madison Township and, on July 14, in Columbus.

Epidemic Claims 100

It is estimated that one-third of Columbus' population of 3000 fled from the region, and of those remaining, 100 died of cholera. Other diseases and fevers during that summer, so similar to cholera that it was difficult to distinguish between the two, claimed another two hundred lives.

It reappeared in 1849, taking a toll of 279 lives, including 116 convicts in the state penitentiary. The following year cholera claimed another 225 lives.

Columbus during epidemic was a city of the sick and dying.

Business was temporarily suspended, streets virtually deserted except for physicians who rushed from one patient to another, and the courageous few who remained behind to nurse the sick and bury the dead.

Cholera appeared again in Columbus in a less virulent form in 1852 and, for the last time, in 1854.

Cornerstones For Future

The frightful epidemics were not entirely without future benefit.

For out of their terror and grief came the will of the people to overcome causes of disease, accept scientific medicine and effect sanitation and health laws.

And, in the spring of 1849, citizens witnessed the cornerstone ceremony of a building at Third and State-sts, the recently-chartered Starling Medical College.

Dr. Gard Hero Of Cholera Epidemic

The heroism of Columbus' pioneer physicians was exemplified in Dr. B. F. Gard, whose life was sacrificed to the cholera he worked so hard to combat.

He moved to Columbus on the eve of the cholera epidemic of 1849, from the state's rural areas, where he had practiced for more than 20 years.

Although a few doctors fled from the area and others refused to treat the mysterious disease, Dr. Gard was among the physicians who volunteered to use all their medical skill to help the afflicted.

He treated residents of Columbus and Franklinton, and also was one of seven physicians appointed to aid Dr. Lathrop, penitentiary physician, in assisting the convicts.

Dr. Gard died of cholera July 11, 1849 and was the second to be buried in the new Green Lawn Cemetery.

Rev. Noble Also Ministers Here

Rev. Seth Noble, also a Presbyterian minister, arrived at the forks of the rivers soon after Dr. Hoge, and preached in the settlement.

A refugee from Nova Scotia, he located on a tract of the Refugee land and built a log cabin. He died there in 1807.

TOWN AND HGH CORNER AT THE TURN OF THE CENTURY

UNITED STATES HOTEL, famed as a stagecoach stop, was built on the northwest corner of High and Town-sts in 1824. Construction was of hand brick, buttressed with heavy, rough-hewn walnut beams. The building was razed in 1909 to make way for the new Lazarus Store.

Straightaway

This coming Sunday afternoon, Oct. 14, the Columbus Motor Speedway will ringdown the curtain on the 1962 racing season at the Williamsrd raceway, with one of the finest programs of the year.

There will be a total of $2500 in prize money, for the combined program of supermodifieds and flying-stocks, highlighted with a 100-lap feature for the modifieds and a 50-lap feature, for the stockers.

SPEEDWAY officials anticipates one the largest turnouts of race cars and drivers of the year, for the Season Championship races.

Al Smith, of Dayton, looks like the super-modified driver to beat. So far this year, Smith has won all championship features, a total of six, in addition to nine other feature events. Smith had a winstreak of 11-straight, until Urban's Neal Sceva, snapped that streak on Sunday, Sept. 30.

Time trials for the afternoon of action, will begin at 12:30 and the first race of the day is set for 2 o'clock.

In the speedway's game of "Total," there's $300 in cash waiting for the fan or fans, who can correctly select the first five finishers, in order, in Sunday's modified feature.

Tigers CL Leaders, Mounts Drop Rams

YOU'D HAVE to have X-ray vision to pick him out but East quarterback Mike Gordon has just battered across the goal line to give the Tigers their tieing touchdown in the final minutes of play against Eastmoor. The Warriors' Bob Whiteman (70) sandwiched between East's Mike Coleman (22) and Clarence Gossett (76) tries along with halfback Mark Smith (18) to halt Gordon. East's late score and a two-point conversion made the difference in the Tigers' 8-6 win.

East's rampaging Tigers, never given a tumble in preseason figuring for the City League title race, took over undisputed possession of the league's top spot Friday night with a thrilling, last minute 8-6 squeaker over Eastmoor.

Rugged, bear-like defenses featured the evening's play, but the Warriors broke the scoring ice late in the second period when halfback Jerry Marburger drove over the goal line from the four-yard line to cap a 56-yard drive, keyed by a pass interference play which gave Eastmoor a first down on East's four.

THE TIGERS had three serious scoring threats but penalties thwarted each drive and almost killed their winning march late in the game. A 50-yard touchdown run by Kent Schoolfield in the opening minutes of play seemed to have East on the move, but a clipping penalty nullified the score.

Twice later the Tigers drove deep into Eastmoor territory only to be stopped by their own mistakes and a tough Warrior line. Then late in the final period, East began its final drive with quarterback Mike Gordon teaming with end Ken Fowlkes on key passes that kept the drive alive.

Gordon ran to the four-yard line with two minutes remaining in the game but a clipping penalty again sidetracked the Tigers. But a 20-yard pass from Gordon to Fowlkes saved the day for East with Gordon sneaking over from the two a couple of plays later with 1:15 showing on the scoreboard clock. Gordon added the two-point conversion on a slant over tackle, providing the margin of victory. The win was East's third in the league this season without loss.

TOM O'LEARY scored two touchdowns to lead St. Charles to a 26-0 win over Marion-Franklin. The Cardinals, who led only 6-0 at halftime, came on strong in the second half, scoring three times to notch their third win.

O'Leary countered twice on six-yard runs while John Peterini added another score on a 25-yard run to paydirt.

WHITEHALL dropped out of the CBL lead, absorbing its first loss of the season at the hands of Mt. Vernon, 14-8.

The Mounties' freshman flash Jim Byrd scored both of the winner's TDs on short runs in the second period. The Rams fought back into contention in the final period when Mike Short scored on a short plunge, but Mt. Vernon held on to the ball on a sustained drive, moving to Whitehall's two-yard line as the game ended.

THE LARIMER boys, John and Terry, teamed up to score five touchdowns between them as Academy handed Rosary its fourth straight loss of the season, 42-0.

John scored three TDs on runs of 57, 70 and 21 yards, while kinsman Terry scooted 12 yards for one score and nabbed a second on a 67-yard pass play from Earl Peterson. The Vikings picked up 360 total yards.

BEXLEY FOUGHT back with two third period touchdowns to tie Worthington, 14-14, in another Central Buckeye League game.

Jay Maupin scored both the Lion touchdowns on runs of 20 and four yards while Mark Weller and John Abeggien notched the Worthington tallies.

SOUTH SCORED all its points in the second period and then hung on for a 12-6 win over Walnut Ridge. The Bulldogs scored what proved to be the winning points when Rocky Nelson tossed a 24-yard TD pass to Rich Howard after South had recovered a Scot fumble inside Walnut Ridge's 30-yard line.

Don Arledge picked up the Scots' only score in the third period when he broke over center for seven yards.

WATTERSON used a potent scoring attack and a stiff defense to hand Hartley its first loss of the season Saturday night, 60-6.

Halfback Keary Ryan paced the Eagle attack with four touchdowns, including a 55-yard punt return. The Hawks, trailing 38-0 at intermission, scored their lone TD in the third period when Bob Kastl plunged over from the one.

Friday night's action finds East (2-2) at South (1-4), Marion-Franklin (1-4) at Eastmoor (2-3), Whetstone (0-5) at Walnut Ridge (1-4), Delaware (3-1-1) at Whitehall (4-1), Bexley (1-3-1) at Mt. Vernon (4-1), Academy (2-1) at Dublin (2-3), University (0-2-1) at New Albany (0-5), and Hartley (2-1-1) at Springfield North. St. Charles (3-2) plays Aquinas (3-1-1) at South Saturday night.

'Watch, Wait' Plan For CL Expansion

By JACK WITTENMEIER

Watchful waiting. That's the policy that seems to sum up the conditions of the proposed County League expansion plan.

The plan, which would help solve the unbalance of the County League football circuit by the addition of two or four clubs to the league, was proposed at the league's athletic meeting last week.

IF THE clubs should be added to the league, in all probability, the County League would be subdivided into two divisions, one containing small enrollment schools, the other carrying those teams with a high enrollment of boys.

Two schools with an interest in the new league alignment plan attended last week's meeting and returned to their respective athletic councils with the bare ground work of the County League proposal.

A meeting of West Jefferson's athletic board was held last Thursday but Athletic Director Dick Culbertson reported that the league's plan was only discussed with its possibilities for the Rough Riders and no official decision had been reached.

THE OTHER school represented at the athletic meeting — Jonathan Alder — had come to no definite decision as of the past week, according to Principal Gordon Oxley. "We are looking over the plan," Oxley said, "and are interested in league play but we will have to wait until the County League makes their decision as to whether they will invite new entries into the league."

The final decision to expand or to continue the present setup will be decided at the next official County League athletic meeting, scheduled for Nov. 12 at 6:30 p.m. at Willard's Restaurant.

Until that time everything is pretty much guess work. Two things are certain. Under the present situation, New Albany is likely to press its release request made last month which touched off a revaluation of the league's balance.

IF THE expansion plan is approved, problems are also involved. The proposed setup would divide the league into a large vs large, small vs small division. This brings up the question of league champion. Would there be a playoff game between the two divisions or would there be two division champions crowned? This will have to be settled before the expansion can be put into effect.

The entries' competition will be figured on the size of male enrollment and it is hoped that this alignment will quiet the objections of the smaller schools in the league who point up increased injuries and poor gate, due to lack of competitive interest.

Although it's still early for a concrete decision, a good majority of County League members seem in favor of the expansion proposal.

THE SMALLER schools, such as University, with only 53 boys enrolled in the upper three grades, New Albany and Dublin, will most likely find expansion and league division the most feasible answer to their problems.

Rosary lines up on the side of expansion, although the Crusader representative, Coach Bud Trapp, admitted that his school's schedule would still most likely remain uncharged with games carded against the new league's other division as non-league competition.

At Reynoldsburg, Principal Jerry Hartman admitted that the Raiders could not commit themselves until the school's athletic council had a chance to study the proposal. However, Hartman feels that the expansion would be a definite advantage since a larger league would not face dissolution if one or two representatives decided to break away in the future.

BOTH HARTMAN and Hamilton Township Athletic Director Don Vansant expressed disappointment that only two representatives attended the league's last meeting, showing an interest in County League admittance.

Vansant admitted that the expansion proposal seemed quite satisfactory but that no official decision had been reached at the Ranger School.

And so the question of 'to expand or not to expand' remains aloft. The present league members must wait for interested 'customers' and the possible entries must waft until the league decides if it wants to increase its membership. The period of 'watchful waiting' could very likely remain status quo until Nov. 12.

There are many problems to be ironed out and quite a few individual decisions to be made between now and that second Monday night in November but, unless some other plan is suddenly originated or some additional fireworks are set off, this desk is betting that Nov. 13 will find a brand new assignment in the County League setup.

Hawks Host Hudson Club In Central Ohio 'First'

Bishop Hartley will host Hudson Saturday in the first varsity soccer game ever played in Central Ohio according to Hawk correspondent Tiw Wagner.

The Hawks, who stand 1-2 in competition this season, are one of only ten schools in Ohio that field varsity soccer teams. Since the game, which will be played on the Hartley field at 1:30, will also be a new experience for most fans in the area, a commentator will explain the game, its positions and its scoring, over a loud speaker during the course of play.

Hartley has also carded a neighborhood soccer match with St. Charles on Oct. 27, at 6 p.m. on the Hawk field.

Gornall, Engler Pace Capital's 24-16 Win

Capital University depended on the passing arm of quarterback Denny Engler to record its second straight win Saturday, downing Hiram, 24-16.

Engler tossed for all three Lutheran TDs, two of which were pulled in by Columbus Eastmoor product Larry Gornall, a freshman end.

Tim Runyon booted a 37-yard field goal to complete the Capital scoring, giving the Purple and White a 10-8 halftime margin.

'Dads' Night' Is Scheduled For October 26

"Dad Night" will be the theme pattern at the Reynoldsburg - New Albany football game on Friday, October 26, announced Gerald Hartmen, principal at the high school.

A pre-game ceremony will introduce the dads of all the Raider players. Dads will be honored during the half-time band show, and each will wear a large number corresponding to the number worn by his son on the team.

Leaf spots seldom kill a tree, but often they are unsightly. Rake and burn the leaves in the fall to reduce the inoculum that would carry over to the spring.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

NEWS OF GREAT EASTERN DISTRICT 5

Troop 436

The first meeting of the troop was held after school at the home of Mrs. George Thorpe, leader, Sept. 26. The following officers were elected: president, Teresa McAtee; secretary, Cheryl Ulsh; treasurer, Wendy Arnold; telephone, Annette Flocken; news reporter, Marsha Ceneskie; card sender, Teri Karr.

Refreshments were served. The remainder of the meeting was devoted to games and singing.

Troop 433

The first meeting of the troop was held on Sept. 22. Troop members visited Lazarus for the "Pinata Party" and were impressed by Reymunda Paliminos and her sister, Maria, Quechua Indian girls who live in the village of Huarocani, in the district of San Pablo, Peru.

They learned these girls lived in a mud house with no windows, and that living conditions in the Andes mountains haven't changed much in 500 years.

They also learned that the llama is of great importance to the life of these Peruvian Indians, and that this useful animal is the symbol of the "Pinata Party" event.

The llama is the beast of burden, the meat animal, and its hide provides fur for garments, rugs, bed covers, and fibers for handspun yarn.

Taking the troop members to this "Pinata Party" were Mrs. C. A. Sharp, Mrs. Crabtree and Mrs. Stambaugh.

The October council meeting will be held Tuesday, Oct. 23 at 7:30 p.m. in the Grange 4-H Auditorium at the Fairgrounds in Circleville.

The YWCA requests Girl Scouts to register in regular "Y" swimming classes this year. There will be classes for all girls, from beginning swimming to synchronized swimming.

Rates vary depending on the number in the troop. Medical examinations are required and must be reported on the YWCA form, but the Scout's own doctor may make the examination. For further information, contact Josephine Tyler at the YWCA.

There are over 13,000 girls in the Girl Scouting movement in the Ohio Trefoil Council. There were 14-day camp sessions with a total of 2,223 girls, 395 adults and 378 others attending, making a total of 2,996 in the day camping activity for the summer.

Tents down days at Ken-Jockety are Oct. 6 and 13, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. All hands are needed. Please contact your site chairman.

Brownie Service—It's time to help Muscular Dystrophy by stuffing walker kits. Brownies and younger intermediates can handle this service project. Interested leaders should call Mrs. Hugh Steele, Girl Scout service chairman; at HU.6-0085.

Small Business Solicitation In UA Campaign Begins Oct. 15

The United Appeal Campaign organization will begin its small business solicitation in this area Monday, Oct. 15. The women's residential campaign starts a week later.

The county-wide campaign is a total community effort on behalf of the entire community. Residents of this and other areas not only support and participate in the drive, but also take part in year-round planning and programs of UA, and the 64 UA financed agencies.

The wide range of services provided touch many homes in different ways. Youth-serving agencies, like Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Campfire Girls, Boys' Clubs, Settlement Houses and Y's reach many thousands of families with every day character-building and fun activities.

Specialized help to families and individuals under too much stress comes from agencies such as Family and Children's Bueau, Children's Mental Health Center, Catholic Welfare Bureau, Jewish Family Service, Legal Aid, Traveler's Aid, Day Care Centers and others.

Services to maintain health, rehabilitate handicapped and to handle emergencies, such as Red Cross, Cancer Clinic, Goodwill, Poison Control Center, Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation, Council on Alcoholism, and Public Health Nurses, receive substantial financial support from UA.

The 20-member volunteer Citizen Screening Committee establishes the UA goal, which this year is $3,785,510. This representative group from business and industry, labor and the professions, studies the budget and services of member agencies and the needs of our people.

The Screening Committee noted that the $165,000 goal increase over last year, reflects the growing needs in the community.

Clarence A. Pearce, 1962 Campaign Chairman, is confident that "the people of Franklin County recognize the importance of UA services, and will respond to the call to Help UA Help."

Red Cross Needs New Volunteers

Volunteers are needed by Franklin County Red Cross.

According to Mrs. Jack Neel Taylor, volunteer chairman, there is room available in all services for anyone who is interested and could spare a few hours a week.

Volunteers outnumber paid staff 50-1, and make possible many vital services such as blood program, disaster preparedness, assistance to members of the armed forces, veterans and their dependents, and the service to patients in our hospitals.

A member of United Appeal, Red Cross needs volunteers now and requests that anyone interested should call Franklin County Chapter, 995 E. Broad-st, CL. 3-8511, for further information.

City's Orderly Growth Gets Help From Jewel

Julius J. Cohen, president of the local-headquartered Jewel Builders, Inc., broke ground during special ceremonies this week for Lakeview Estates Apartments.

Some 200 guests witnessed the beginnings of the $6 million, 31-acre apartment project located near Route 161 and the North-South Freeway.

Lakeview Estates Apartments is one of the largest apartment projects of its kind ever conceived for the city. 31 rustic, contemporary buildings will house 472 in one, two and three bedroom living quarters for an average of $105 a month, Cohen said.

Highlight of Lakeview Estates will be a 7½-acre landscaped, springfed lake which will be stocked for fishing and available for boating and ice skating. In addition, a community pool with concession facilities is planned.

Cohen related that the general area is the first in the city that has been planned as a complex for orderly growth by the City Planning Commission in cooperation with the Franklin County Regional Planning Commission.

He pointed out that schools, churches, shopping facilities, parks and recreation facilities are located in the immediate area and the Lazarus-Sears Northland Shopping Center is nearby.

Flood Control Projects Get House OK

The House Public Works Committee, Washington, approved legislation last week authorizing Federal funds for six Central Ohio flood control projects in the Scioto River valley.

The projects will cost more than $55 million in Federal funds.

The House bill recommendations included chanel improvements at Columbus and reservoir dams on Alum, Mill, Salt and Deer Creeks.

The recently formed Scioto Conservancy District has a similar program for the development of the Scioto River Valley.

Presumably, if Congress passes the authorization bills on this plan and later passes accompanying money bills, the Conservancy District and the US Corps of Engineers could work out a co-operative program for the project.

Gockenbach Heads Briley Committee

H. C. Gockenbach Jr. of 2266 West Lane-av, will be chairman for the "Briley For Senate" organization in the Columbus area. John Marshall Briley is the Republican candidate for the United States Senate.

Gockenbach is president of the Dollar Federal Savings and Loan Association. He is a graduate of Bexley High School and Ohio State University.

He is a member of the Lions, Columbus Athletic Club, Scioto Country Club and the German Village Commission.

He is married and has four children.

Absent Voter Ballots Now Available

Applications for civilian absent voter ballots to be cast in the Nov. 6 general election will be honored by Ohio's 88 boards of elections.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown said that the law provides that only those electors who will be unavoidably absent and more than 10 miles from their polling place will be allowed to cast an Absent Voter's Ballot.

Brown advised those persons who plan on casting disabled or absent voter ballots that they have until 4 p.m. Nov. 1 to file their applications.

Those voting in person at the boards of elections must do so on or before 4 p.m. Nov. 1 and ballots returned by mail must be received by the boards by noon, Nov. 2.

Dear friends,

We thank the people of our community for the consideration they give to funeral processions.

It is generally understood that cars should not pass through a procession.

When approaching a funeral procession from the opposite direction, it is respctful to reduce speed but do not stop (unless so directed), as the cars behind might collide.

Respectfully,

Services Slated At Temple

Five days after Yom Kippur, the holiest day of the Jewish year, comes one of the happiest of festivals. It is called Sukkot, which means booths.

The Sukkah, or booth, made of boards and covered with branches, is a reminder of the makeshift shelters the Jews lived in during the years of wandering.

Sukkot is also known as the Harvest Festival.

At Temple Tifereth Israel, 1354 E. Broad-st, Rabbi Nathan Zelizer will conduct Sukkot services Friday, Oct. 12, 8 p.m. Refreshments will be served in the Sukkah following the service.

Saturday Sukkot services will begin at 9:15 a.m. Rabbi Zelizer's sermon will be "Man's Security Is In God."

Sunday services will begin at 9:30 a.m. Rabbi Zelizer's sermon will be "The Way To Rear Our Children."

Removing the THORN

Almost everyone that has ever removed a shoe and run barefoot through the fields, knows of the wonderful feeling of freedom that this gives. Most, also have known what it is to remove a sticker or a thorn. The first attempts to pull it out are usually handled so gingerly and slowly, and then, screwing up your courage you yank it out, and find that this was the easiest way after all.

There are many thorns in life, and these evils should be removed swiftly, and put out of our lives. Attend Church, receive help and encouragement in removing the thorns from your life.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

It Happens On TV 4

'Perfect Setup' Opens Tonight At Hartman; 'Mary, Mary' Next

Martin Melcher's stage production of "The Perfect Setup" opens tonight (Thursday, Oct. 11) at the Hartman Theatre for a three-day stand, followed by "Mary, Mary," which begins a one-week run on Monday, Oct. 15.

Starring in "The Perfect Setup" are Gene Barry, Angie Dickinson and Jan Sterling. The play is author Jack Sher's first for the stage, although he is well known as a novelist and top-rated motion picture writer.

Gene Barry, for many years a TV favorite as Bat Masterson, just completed playing the leading role in the musical "Brigadoon," in San Diego, Calif.

Angie Dickinson has scored in a number of motion pictures — the latest being "Jessica" with Maurice Chevalier. Jan Sterling is a star in stage, screen and TV and some of her movies include "The High and Mighty," "Johnny Belinda," "Rhubarb" and "Pony Express."

There will be a matinee Saturday, Oct. 13. After playing here, the company goes to Cleveland for a week and then to Broadway where it will open at the Cort Theatre on Oct. 24.

'MARY, MARY'

"A comedy about the unending battle of the sexes, spiced with jokes, needling remarks, assorted retorts and bright, impertinent lines" just about sums up what local audiences can expect when "Mary, Mary" opens Monday.

This is Jean Kerr's hilarious comedy which has been hailed as Broadway's brightest, wittiest play. It will star Lee Bowman (TV's Ellery Queen and star of the TV series "Miami Undercover"), Patricia Smith, John Lasell with Clinton Sundberg and Ellen Weston in featured roles.

Jean Kerr, you may remember, is the author of the best seller "Please Don't Eat the Daisies." In "Mary, Mary," this talented writer sharply and amusingly points up the small frailties of people.

During the weeks run, there will be matinees on Wednesday and Saturday. This will be the first play of the Theatre Guild subscription series. Members will receive their tickets for the first three evening shows and the Wednesday matinee.

Patrons are urged to get mail orders in early to Room 409, Hartman Theater Bldg. All orders should be accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

An orchestra new to Columbus, but conducted by a musician who is an old friend of audiences here, will open the season for the Symphony Club of Central Ohio at Veterans' Memorial on Thursday evening, Oct. 18, at 8:30.

The French National Orchestra, on tour in America for the second time, will be under the leadership of Charles Munch, who last August retired after 13 years as conductor of the Boston Symphony.

Munch, in what may be his farewell appearances in this country, has chosen a program of French masterpieces with which his name is associated and by which he evidently wants to be remembered.

Miss Teen Age America Candidate Is From Eastmoor High . . . Again

When it comes to talent and good looks, go to Eastmoor.

At least, that's what the judges in the Miss Teenage America contest have been doing for two years and with rewarding results.

Last year's candidate from Columbus (the national contest is in its second year) was also from Eastmoor — pretty Mary Ann Kimerly.

Fifteen-year-old Miss Gornall now reigns as Miss Teenage Columbus. She will leave Oct. 20 for Dallas, Tex., to compete for the national title, which will be televised nationally over CBS-TV, Oct. 28.

The Columbus finals were held in the Neil House ballroom with 20 teenagers competing before a panel of 10 judges. In all, over 700 area teens sent in entry blanks.

MELVA GORNALL

First runner-up was Shart Gasaway, 2666 Tremont-rd, a senior at Columbus School for Girls. Second runner-up was Vickie Hixson, 907 Maurine-dr, a freshman at Ohio State University.

Third runner-up was Sandy Joseph, 742 Beechwood-rd, a senior at Whitehall High School. Fourth was Andrea Gorenstein, 1580 Kenwick-rd, a senior at Eastmoor.

Since no one picked all 24 winners entitling them to the snowballing jackpot, $75 will be up for grabs this weekend. The $25 bonus will be added to the jackpot each week if no one qualifies for it. This means that several hundred dollars may be riding on the 10th round of the contest.

Complete rules can be found elsewhere in this paper along with 24 more top college, professional, and local high school games. These games will be played on the weekend of Oct. 20

100 billions in grants.

Let's remember that not everyone in our presence wants freedom for everyone.

The biggest political party in this country is CORE. They collect and spend more money on politics than both major parties combined. It is one of our greatest challenges to freedom. It makes both parties look green with envy.

Another of our great perils is the group known as Americans for Democratic Action. It is made up of dreamers and schemers who call themselves liberals.

A conservative today is defined by many as the man who says, "Keep your hand out of my pocket."

We need to beware of the politician who says, "Let me have more of the money you earn so I can buy the things you need but are too dumb to buy for yourself.

A political monopoly is more dangerous than an economic monopoly.

The decisive battle for freedom will be won or lost in our generation at the polling places.

We need to remind our public office holders that the constitution lays emphasis on "promote rather than provide."

Woman of the Month

Friends of Mary Miller were pleased at her selection by the United Church Women of Columbus and Franklin County as the "Woman of the Month." An article in their magazine, The Courier, points out "Mary Miller is one of the busiest women in Columbus." And it is a fact that she gives unstintingly of her time and talents to many community organizations. Among other positions she is staff program director of the Hilltop YWCA. We join in a word of praise to Mary Miller.

We always like our admirers: we do not always like those we admire.—Rochefoucauld directed by Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Lindenberg. Writers are Mrs. Richard H. McIntosh and Mrs. Edward G. Owens.

The chorus is under the direction of James A. Mokas. Choreography is being handled by Mrs. David G. O'Brien and a St. Mary's of the Springs High Schooler, 16-year-old Diane Butler. (She performs a South American dance in the show.)

Luis Rubio is business manager for the newly formed society, Mrs. William L. Fox designed the sets, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nieman are stage managers and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rath take care of props.

Acts in the production include: Children's Chorus, teen-age gals' dance routine, adult dancers, adult chorus, comedy routine and solo, duet and quartette renditions.

and Eastmoor South Civic Association.

Midge's devotion to her husband, her children, and to her home have never suffered. In fact, all her outside interests in some way concern her family.

She is a registered nurse but her nursing assignments are now confined to neighborhood calls—a duty she performs free-gratis.

"I don't see how Midge finds time to trot all over the neighborhood sitting up with sick persons and bandaging cut fingers," a close friend commented.

The six McKinley boys, aged three, five, seven, 12, 13 and 14 have a number of hobbies which Midge helps supervise. "Unfortunately for me," she laughed, "We're over-run with animals right now."

The McKinley household harbors a cat, two rabbits, a bowl of tropical fish, two turtles, and a chamelon.

The three oldest sons are altar boys, and play baseball, football, and are members of local swim teams. Needless to say, Midge is their staunchest rooter.

Mrs. McDonald, who belongs to several organizations with Midge, admits that "Let Midge Do It" is the favorite slogan in most clubs. "Midge works hard on the Heart Fund and Cancer drives. She currently is active in the Sabin on Sunday campaign, Mrs. McDonald said.

Despite six energetic boys, the McKinley home is managed with precision and order. Each boys takes his turn at the kitchen sink doing the dishes, and each regularly pitches in to keep the tile floors spotless and their rooms tidy.

"In fact," smiled Midge, "One of the boys has learned to iron his own clothes."

Living in a bustling atmosphere is traditional for the McKinleys. Soon after the couple was married, they purchased a house near Ohio State University, where Mac was enrolled. Part of the family income came from the upstairs rooms which were rented to 10 college men.

"Things for Midge and Mac were pretty tough in those days," confided a neighbor, "But Midge's cookie jar always had a little extra change in it for the college boys when they ran short. And even though she held a steady job and was raising three children, she did part of the laundry for those 10 men."

Midge McKinley is not really an unusual housewife. There are countless homemakers in the Columbus area who deserve recognition for the national "Suburban Homemaker of the Year."

If you know of such a homemaker, and nearly everyone does, sit down and write a letter of 500 words or less telling about her. Use the official judging standards provided elsewhere in this paper as a yardstick in composing your letter.

Present plans call for several local finanists to be sent to Chicago as guests of Hartley Newspapers to participate in the national awards program. While in Chicago the women will make several radio and television appearances and participate in a National Homemaker panel discussion.

Working with individual farmers and with groups, the agricultural extension service has encouraged the application of research findings for the benefit of all people.

Student—

The second was a low-quality kinescope of the TV image of the original with an adult announcer narrating.

But student council members at Whitehall have starred in much more than films.

For example, this year's president, Roger Roberts, 231 Fairway-blvd, was a discussion leader at the National Student Council Conference held this June at San Gabrial High School in San Francisco.

Whitehall has been recognized as a discussion leader in the national get-together for the last four years.

The council was recognized on TV last year for the "Patriotism Week Contest" it sponsored.

Also last year, the council hosted a two-day workshop in which 19 schools participated. Guest speaker and consultant was Dr. George Mathes, of Denver, Colo., who is lauded as being the top national authority in the country on the subject of student councils.

This year, Mrs. Compton received an honor herself. She was elected to the state executive advisory board which met Monday and Tuesday at the Nationwide Inn.

The future, as speculative as it may be, looks rosy if the past is any indication. Couple this with the fact that Mrs. Compton is even more bright-eyed and enthusiastic now than she was four years ago and you can pretty well conclude that succeeding chapters to the "Whitehall Student Council Magic" will be, at least, as equally outstanding.

to introduce all of the candidates.

The following members of both clubs will head up the committees:

Richard Mann and Margaret Byrne, meeting hall arrangements; Dan Kozelek and Mary Hayes, attendance; Helen Cannon and Mary Hayes, communications; Robert Smith and Irwin Barkan, state and local candidates; John Holden and A. C. Strip, invitations and arrangements for local guests; Fleckner and Thomas Connor, program; M. D. Portman and Camille Barkan, publicity; Rosalie Leach and Lena DeNucci, budget and finance; Rosemary Bell and Catherine Dunkle, refreshments; Betty Jay and Bonnie Byrne, special services.

The non-fund raising event will be followed by a reception. Refreshments will be served and the public is invited to attend.

Tip-Top Set To Market New Bread

Monk's Bread, a loaf created by the Trappist Monks of the Abbey of the Genesee, is to be sold in local food stores. The Trappist Monks have been famous for their homemade bread for many years. The loaf, baked by the Tip-Top Bakers, under the license of the Trappist Monks, is tall and slender in shape and has a firm texture.

In the Abbey the bread is the mainstay of the monks' simple diet, for they eat no meat, poultry, fish or eggs. It has to be rich enough in nutritive qualities to be practically a meal in itself. Unbleached flour is used in the white loaf, stone-ground flour is used in the whole wheat.

Known as "the bread that was never meant to be sold." Monk's Bread has gained its wide distribution through its flavor and quality. Originally it was baked only for the Monks. Visitors to the abbey were so impressed that they began to take home loaves to their friends and relatives. Then regular bakery facilities had to be set up in the abbey to meet the growing demand. Distribution was broadened, but when even this could not keep up with the demand, bakers in various sections of the country were selected to painstakingly reproduce this bread under license of the monks.

FOR HIS GOOD WILL . . .

MR. AND MRS. HARRY C. Moores, 151 S. Parkview, admire an honor token presented to Mr. Moores, long time friend and supporter of Goodwill Industries, at a meeting of the Goodwill board of trustees, Sept. 13, at Columbus Goodwill Industries, 1331 Edgehill-rd. The prize consists of an inverted miniature basket, over an electric bulb to symbolize the scriptural passage which refers to hiding one's light under a bushel. A plaque is inscribed: "Salute to Harry C. Moores, whose glowing generosity is not hidden from his grateful friends of Goodwill Industries."

Five Bexley Students Win Journalism Writing Awards

In writing competition held Oct. 5 and 6 on the Ohio State University campus, five Bexley High School students were winners. The competition was part of the two-day program for the 32nd annual conference of the Journalism Association of Ohio Schools.

Jeff Fischer and Betsy Brust, seniors, earned first place trophies for their winning stories. Jeff's story resulted from a tour of the WOSU-TV laboratory; Betsy's article was a speech report on "Planning Your College Budget."

Junior Connie McCleary received a second-place certificate for her story on the women's dormitories. Doug Woodyard, junior, and Harriett Nalty, senior, won third place awards for their stories on Mershon Auditorium and sororities, respectively.

In a Saturday morning press conference with Mrs. Ruth Whitney, executive editor of Seventeen magazine, Harriett received a third place certificate.

Nine new teachers have joined Bexley's 1962-68 faculty. Mrs. Esther Darrow, a Wooster College graduate, teaches English III and IV. Donald DeJong, who has played football with the Los Angeles Rams and the Philadelphia Eagles, teaches boys' health and physical education. He will also coach baseball and is now an assistant football coach.

A Duke University graduate, Mrs. Susan Ferguson, teaches biology. Mrs. Patricia Neidhart is teaching sociology and economics. The new Spanish I teacher is Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy, a graduate of Capital University.

Bexley's new basketball coach, Gene Millard, captained the 1957 Ohio State University basketball team. He also teaches economic geography and American history.

Margaret Palumbo, an OSU graduate, is teaching girls' physical education. A graduate of the University of Michigan, Mrs. Rosalind Silverstein, teaches English II and III. Bexley's new librarian, Connie Ryan, is a graduate of St. Mary of the Springs.

Trial Begins For Nickell

One of three men accused of breaking into the home of Margaret Datz, 75, and her sister, Bertha, 70, on Ringsrd, May 4, was placed on trial Monday in County Criminal Court.

Charles Nickell, 31, of Piketon, was indicted by the grand jury on charges of abduction for purposes of extortion, burglary and armed robbery.

Prosecuting Attorney Earl Allison said the abduction would be dropped and Nickell would be tried only on the two lesser charges.

Similarly indicted are Carl Roberts, 39, of Newport, Ky. and Emmit H. (Fats) Evans, 56, of 1128½ N. High-st.

Police say the sisters were beaten and robbed of $8000.

Patrolman Leads Vandalism Crackdown In Whitehall Area

STARTS NOV. 5

Survival Education Course Is Planned At Bexley High School

An Adult Education Civil Defense Course in "Education For Survival" will be offered at Bexley High School beginning Monday, Nov. 5.

The course will consist of six 2-hour sessions with meetings held weekly. Meetings will be held on Nov. 5, 12, 19, 26 and Dec. 3 and 10, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., in the high school building, Room 306.

The course will be taught by Floyd R. West, a high school staff member who has completed the course required by the Civil Defense Adult Education Department of the State Department of Education. West is a physics and modern science instructor.

The 12-hour course is made possible through the cooperation of the State Department of Education and the United States Office of Education with funds made available from the United States Office of Civil Defense.

"Education For Survival" is designed for the adult citizen who is concerned about the safety of his family and home during a disaster, and who wishes information on how to prepare for major natural or man-caused catastrophies, according to West.

The local class will concern itself with such topics as: The Importance of Family Planning; The Duties of Federal, State and Municipal Governments in the Event of Major Emergencies; How Shelters May Be Effective in Personal, Family, and Community Survival Efforts; Emergency Food and Water Supplies; Our National, State, and Local Air Warning Organization; How to De-contaminate Yourself and Your Family from Radioactive Fallout.

Registration for the course can be done by calling the Of-

Republican Rally Set In Whitehall

A four-ward Republican rally will be held Thursday, Oct. 25, in Etna Road School, 4541 Etna-rd, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Candidates will be introduced by Arch J. Warren, Columbus city treasurer.

Refreshments will be served.

Concerned With Damage To Rosemore

By JOHN AUBLE, JR.

"V" stands for vandals and viciousness—but it also stands for victory and this is the aim of Patrolman John Clark, who paid an impromptu visit to Whitehall Council session Tuesday night.

Patrolman Clark, who is Whitehall police juvenile officer, hit close to home with parents of teenagers who attended the meeting when he displayed weapons recently confiscated from young vandals in the suburb.

It's all part of Patrolman Clark's — and the Whitehall Police Department's — current effort against vandalism in the city. The so-called crackdown can be made more effective, the juvenile official believes, if the public lends its support.

Heading in this direction, Clark has dated numerous speaking engagements in Whitehall in an effort to enlighten parents on juvenile delinquency problems.

"Juvenile delinquency is the biggest threat we face today," Patrolman Clark told some 40 persons assembled in the new council chambers. "It's a bigger threat than the A-bomb."

Most vandalism in Whitehall has been directed toward schools, he reported. Rosemore Junior High has felt it the most.

To make his talk more emphatic, the patrolman

THE PLOT(NICK) THICKENS

MRS. DONALD PLOTNICK has been selected to play the female lead in the Temple Israel production of "Never On Saturday," it was announced this week. The male lead will be played by Dr. Burton Louis. The show, an hilarious musical comedy patterned after "Bye-Bye, Birdie," will be presented at the Temple Nov. 4.

DIVERSIFIED ART PROGRAM OFFERED

A BEAUX ARTS PARTY for children is just one of the many diversified projects handled regularly by the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts on E. Broad-st. The most recent get-together for the youngsters was held Saturday with Luci Gasaway (of Luci's Toy Shop TV fame) and Chuck White entertaining with a puppet show. The youngsters include Janet Gruesale, Mary Kay Finkes, Deborah Whitten, Bruce Hesse and Linda M. Smith. Next Beaux Arts party (all of them open to the public) will be held Dec. 1 from 2 to 4 p.m.

Council Slows City Office Lease Plans

The prospect of turning a city-owned building into a commercial venture bothered Councilman Ray Shipley and he was outward with his feelings during Whitehall Council, Tuesday night.

Shipley gained quick support and the solons said that they would not allow Service Director Robert Mickey to lease the former city income tax office, 298 Yearling-rd, adjacent to the new municipal building, for this reason.

"I'd never vote for anything like this," Shipley stated. "Why, a person could put a laundromat . . . or, anything . . . in there. I won't have that."

Shipley indicated that he would like the building used for professional offices but Solicitor Paul Haytcher said that the term "professional" would be a hard one to define.

The property is now zoned local commercial and cannot be restricted, Haytcher added.

Mickey said that the councilmen could either change the zoning or limit the physical changes in the building so a lessee could not start a commercial enterprise there.

He added, however, that he doubted if council could arbitrarily limit the use to offices. The matter was sent to committee.

In other moves, the solons:

- Established the amount of bond required for officers and certain employes of the city and established a blanket bond for Department of Public Safety and authorized payment of premium.
- Passed an ordinance providing a tapping fee of $3 a front foot for the sanitary sewer system in addition to the city's present $50 tapping fee.
- Passed an ordinance to advertise for bids for vending machines in the new city hall basement as part of a planned recreation program. Proceeds are to go to the city's recreation fund.
- Tabled an ordinance establishing an equalization board to consider estimates for assessments for street improvement projects in Truro Township.

QUEEN SCENE

Who Gave Bexley Pep Talk Last Friday . . .

By JACK WITTENMEIER
Hartley Newspapers Sports Editor

Bexley's win-hungry Lions, locked tight in the CBL cage all season, broke loose Friday night with a revenging roar that sounded loudly through the streets of Mt. Vernon.

The Lions scored the first three times they sank their claws in the pigskin and when the dust cleared at halftime Bexley had an 18-0 lead over the first-place Mounties and had literally taken Mt. Vernon more impressively than Grant took Richmond.

Bexley coach Ben Tenwalde didn't believe his boys were particularly pointing for their 24-8 win over the Mounties. "We just got some confidence from our tie with Worthington the week before. Then we scored early—that helped."

And score early the Lions did. Bexley marched the ball 85 yards in the opening moments of play with Rick Harbold going the last 16. A recovered fumble and 72 yards in 14 plays later the Lions were in business again with Jay Maupin doing the honors. Rick Mauger added the finishing touches to an explosive first half shortly later, capping a 46-yard drive with Bexley's third score.

"We've had the offense all

LOCAL OPTION ISSUES ON NOV. 6 BALLOT

Four requests have been filed with the Franklin County Board of Elections for a local option vote to be placed on the ballot in the Nov. 6 general election.

One of the areas is in the South Side, two in the east Columbus area and the fourth includes all of Madison Township except Groveport and Canal Winchester.

Janet Carroll, supervisor of permits with the State Liquor Control Board, stated Tuesday that the ballot included five general questions pertaining to the sale of liquor in the given areas.

The South Side area is precincts M and B of Ward 3 which centers mainly west of Lockbourne-rd—bounded on the south by Whittier-st, the north by Livingston-av, and on the west by Wilson-av.

The two East Side precincts are J and O of the Sixth Ward and a combination of D in Ward 7 and E in Ward 6.

Theme Is 'Medieval Memories' at Capital

The weekend festivities will include a play, "You Can't Take It With You," both Friday and Saturday nights; a variety show, "Camelot," and parade, "Canterbury Tales," on Saturday morning; a football game between Capital and Marietta Saturday afternoon; and a dance, "Royalty in Rhythm," featuring the Tommy Dorsey band, under the direction of Sam Donahue, Saturday night.

One of six coeds will reign over the homecoming events as queen. The candidates are:

Pat Wilson, Zanesville; Janice Dunn, Georgetown; Janet Kelly, Carroll; Joan Mayer, Lakewood; Linda Newhouse, Galion, and Rebecca Harshbarger, Anna.

The queen will be announced Saturday, Oct. 20.

Berwick Meet Is Readied

Roy Wilkerson, president of Berwick Manor Civic Association, announced that the annual general meeting of the association will be held on Wednesday, Oct. 24, at Scottwood Community Church at 7:30 p.m.

All residents of Berwick Manor are urged to attend. An election of officers for the coming year will be held. A $25 Savings Bond will be awarded.

CHRIST THE KING 'KAPERS' CAST

CONCERT LECTURE SERIES OPENS FRIDAY AT CAPITAL

Although Tom Foolery has no place in the cast of "The Importance of Being Earnest," it does abound in the dramatic spoof of British high society to be presented Friday (Oct. 19) as the opening production of Capital University's 1962-63 Concert Lecture Series.

Oscar Wilde's satire tells of Jack and Algy who, in their moments of rakish philandering, meet Gwendolyn and Cecily, two single socialites, who will only marry men named Ernest.

But both young men make the eternal mistake. They become enamored.

Algy, too, has comic complications arise from his Ernest deception. His girl, naturally, believes him to be someone else.

One more entanglement finds a spinster governess carrying on a highly refined flirtation with a clergyman who does not wish to "love, honor and obey."

Such is the scene when the Cleveland Play House traveling group takes the stage at 8 p.m. at Mees Hall.

Ticket information may be acquired by writing to the Office of Public Information, Capital University, Columbus 9.

The Fabric Doctor
"Why Did My Coat Change Color After Cleaning?"
—Mrs. W. B. B.

Dear Mrs. W. B. B.:

Your winter coat had been cleaned, stored at home, then when you wanted to wear it, it had changed color in several places. It was not improper handling on your drycleaner's part that caused your coat to fade. The damage was caused by "fume fading". This occurs when certain types of dyes in certain types of materials are subjected to combustion gases in the atmosphere. These oxides of nitrogen are in the air wherever gas, oil or coal are burned for heating or cooking. Metal heated by electricity will form this gas. Sulphur fumes also cause this damage.

Your drycleaner cannot be blamed because the color change would have occured even if the coat had not been drycleaned. Fume fading also occurs in some dresses and other fabrics especially acetates. Sometimes a fabric will have a complete color change from this cause. At other times it occurs in streaks or along folds.

This damage does not occur as often as it once did. Textile manufacturers are selecting dyes that resist fume fading or they treat the fabrics with durable antifume finishes. However, this won't help you, Mrs. W. B. B. Once fume fading has affected your garment, little can be done. Your best action is preventive. Choose your garments carefully from reliable manufacturers. Keep garments stored in tightly-closed garment bags hung in closets a good distance away from chimneys. Keep your coats or dresses away from direct contact with deodorants or antiperspirants. These precautions will help avoid fume-fading.

Study The Issues Now!

Be an educated voter.

Whether you are Democrat, Republican or Independent, you should know what you are voting for or against, and know it first-hand.

Many meetings and speeches are being held in the area to acquaint the voters with the issues at stake Nov. 6.

These meetings are for your benefit, to give you the chance to know what is wanted and to decide whether or not you think it is necessary.

Party platforms and second hand information mean nothing if you don't understand the issue in question and investigate it for yourself.

We urge you to attend some of these meetings and ask questions of the people in charge — then make up your mind. The Voters Information bulletin of the League of Women Voters also is a valuable reference. Read it.

Then when you vote Nov. 6, it will be with a clearer understanding and you will have the satisfaction of feeling that your vote was valuable.

Best Homemaker Search 'Accentuates' The Positives

Our community's current search for the "Suburban Homemaker of the Year" gives us all an opportunity to stop for a moment and think about our sense of values, about whether we have been setting too much store by material objects, objects which may have a built-in obsolescence.

We would like to repeat one vital point regarding the search for the 1962 Suburban Homemaker. It is not a contest nor is it seeking out beauty, wealth, social position. It is, on the contrary, planned as a recognition of and tribute to our community homemakers. We want to credit our homemakers for what they are and what they do. Material possessions are not the key to our quest. We are seeking stature not status.

"Suburbia" — whatever the term may mean — has come in for some pretty hard knocks in recent years. It has been portrayed as a tinseled fascade behind which neurotics frantically strive to keep us with one another in acquiring "status symbols." It has been painted as a frantic rat race of club meeting, private lessons for the children, swimming pools and car pools, as the epitome of conformity and community "togetherness."

The picture is overdrawn, but it has, of course, certain elements of truth in it. It is the hope of this newspaper and of the other Suburban Press Foundation newspapers throughout the country that through this search for the "Homemaker of the Year" our values can be re-assessed, our goals re-defined, and a truer picture of "Suburbia" shown. And Oct. 14-20, National Newspaper Week, is as suitable a time as any to reaffirm our faith in a fine future for Suburbia.

The stories of our community's homemakers, as they are coming into our office through nominations made by families and friends, are refuting the negative picture which has been painted. We are proud of the stature of our homemakers, as it is emerging through these stories and "between the lines" of these stories. We are proud to have this opportunity to bring these stories to our readers and to play a part in "accentuating the positives" of our community's way of life.

Cartoon by John Chase, 1962-63 President of the Association of American Editorial Cartoonists, and cartoonist for the New Orleans States-Item.

Variety . . . by I. F. Howell

THE HILLS OF HOME

In 31 of our states, in Canada, and in Europe, this writer has seen a great variety of climate and terrain. But always his heart was back in Ohio.

The fertile plains and picturesque hills and valleys of southern Canada stretch from sea to sea between the Great Lakes and the frozen lakes and forests of the northland.

In Europe, the high Alps look down upon the broad Hungarian Plain, the lazy rivers of France, and the hill-bound Valley of the Rhine, similar to our Hudson and Ohio River Valleys.

In our own land, the great, granite, snow-capped Rockies divide the treelands and fields and deserts of the Pacific Slope from the Great Plains, the wheatlands that drop gently to the Mississippi. In the East, the Appalachian skyline supports a 2,000-mile foot trail from Main to Georgia. The foothills extend to Central Ohio, below the rich plains of our northern counties.

From home you can spend a day in October in the lovely and ancient Hocking Hills and find, in their colors, a peaceful therapy and rest for mind, body, and spirit. Or, in a leisurely afternoon, drive up Sunbury-rd along Big Walnut into Delaware County, cross over, and come down the Scioto or the Olentangy. You will be refreshed and reconciled, if need be, to armchair traveling to ends of the earth.

Our own yard is not so bad, and it is home.

It says here . . . . . .
Travel is for the mind; home, for the heart.

Say U.N. Dangerous

To The Editor:

"United Nations Day" — reflections:

As Oct. 24 approaches let us remember our American heritage. Let us remember the constant encroachment upon our way of life which our membership in this organization has brought about.

Let us remember that a press under government pressure (demanded by the United Nations Organization's zealots) will be less than a "free press."

It is a matter of historic record, and demonstrable, that our enemy seeks to place his authority over this America without resorting to war. To this end (the end of freedom in America) our enemy has placed a communist in the key position in the Security Council.

Let us remember the names of our honored dead, who fought for victory over tyranny — who died because they believed in the integrity, the freedom and purpose of America. Under God, and the protection of the Constitution we are free to choose our way of life. Under the godless United Nations we cannot claim freedom, nor should we anticipate fair treatment as a nation — at the mercy of a gangster nation dedicated to aggression, and violence, as required.

America stands imperiled, and cries to reason and religion for succor.

The interference in our affairs by the United Nations Organization is hardly conducive to our national welfare. The twisted language and the empty covenants manufactured in the minds of Marxian robots should be rejected now . . . while a choice remains to be made.

We must work for the resurgence of Americanism, we must strive to regain our national souvereignty . . . we must pray for God's blessing upon us as a nation.

J. R. Hutchison

October 24 is U.N. Day and we are encouraged to fly the Stars and Stripes and the blue U.N. flag together.

We are told the U.N. has kept peace in the world, Russian peace it is, and quite different from American freedom. It is not to be relished whatsoever.

Through this U.N. which is said to be an instrument of peace rather than war, there have been thousands of people killed and much blood shed. Many peaceful people have been murdered and tortured, women have been ravished and hospitals bombed under this U.N. flag by U.N. troops of Communist countries. Why? In order to impose Communist rule over these people!

A few of the countries enslaved are Cuba, Laos, Katanga, Portugal, Hungary, Poland. Treatments to Katanga was shameful and more is to come. Consequently we are surrounded by communist countries, which we helped to enslave by contributing money and planes because we are a member nation.

Are there any freedom-loving Americans, who, in the face of all this, think we should honor the U.N. flag? Are there any who think we should use our children and babies (Cub Scouts) to promote the flying of the U.N. flag over America? America, a one-time sovereign power! Ladies and gentlemen, think!

Duck Shooting Difficult, Sporty Here

INSIDE ON THE Outdoors By ROB COCHRAN

Warm weather and abundant food continue to hold waterfowl in the North. This was the word from the Canadian prairies, as duck hunters in this area prepared for the opening of the season Oct. 17. Most of the teal have moved south and pintails have been drifting southward. Mallards are concentrated on larger areas and geese are in good numbers at the usual concentration points.

This report is from Ducks Unlimited, located in Winnipeg, Manitoba. While some ducks will continue to remain in Canada as long as the Indian Summer weather lasts, the first severe cold front will send all but the mallards and scaup south. This could happen at any time.

This section of the state does not offer much opportunity for wildfowling in the traditional sense, that is if you consider large numbers of decoys, punt boats, blinds camouflaged with march grasses, and retrievers as being traditional to duck hunting. With few exceptions, duck hunting here is confined to jump shooting on streams or ponds, and pass shooting in grain fields.

It would not be fair to advise a lot of hunters that duck shooting this fall is going to be good. With the duck population at a low ebb, flights through Ohio have diminished. Personally, I have not hunted ducks for a couple of years, although I continue to buy duck stamps to help build the system of federal waterfowl refuges.

The person who wants to work at it, however, can have some excellent sport. He will have to spend much time along stream banks and in corn fields. But he will find some ducks, and the shooting will be difficult and sporty.

You can jump-shoot ducks from a stream either from the bank or by floating downstream in a canoe. Floating is the relaxed way to jump-shoot, because walking the shores is often not easy. You will flush ducks usually in small nubers — from singles up to five or six. Many will go out too far ahead of you to shoot, but the experienced hunter can take a few each season by this method. Jump shooting is probably the most popular way to hunt ducks here.

In hunting grain fields you may either locate feeding waterfowl, and then attempt to stalk them until you are in gun range. This is plenty difficult. An easier way is to hide in some cover upwind from the flock, and wait patiently until they decide to leave. Not being alarmed, they will usually pass within range. Still another approach is to conceal yourself in a feeding area, and wait for the ducks and geese to come to you. Some decoys are helpful in drawing them in.

There is a reduced duck season of 25 consecutive days this year, with two ducks per day and a bonus scaup (bluebills) limit. The season opens at noon Wednesday, Oct. 17. Daily bag limit is two ducks which may contain two wood ducks or one black duck or mallard or one hooded merganser. Canvasbacks and redheads are completely protected this year. A bonus limit of two scaups daily or four in possession may be taken in addition to the regular limits, because this species has been underharvested.

A $3 federal duck stamp is needed in addition to an Ohio hunting license to hunt waterfowl.

You, Too, Can Grow A Delinquent

Would you like for your child to grow up to become the number one delinquent in your neighborhood?

If so, here are some helpful rules endorsed by local police officers for raising delinquent children.

McPeek

(1) Begin with infancy to give the child everything he wants. In this way he will grow up to believe the world owes him a living.

(2) When he picks up bad words laugh at him. This will make him think he's cute. It will also encourage him to pick up cuter phrases that will blow off the top of your head later.

(3) Never give him any spiritual training. Wait until he is 21 and let him "decide for himself."

(4) Avoid the use of the word "wrong"; it may develop a guilt complex. This will condition him to believe later when he is arrested for stealing a car, that society is against him and he is being persecuted.

(5) Pick up everything he leaves lying around—hooks, shoes, and clothes. Do eveything for him so he will be experienced in throwing responsibility on others.

(6) Quarrel frequently in the presence of your child. In this way he will not be too shocked when the home is broken up.

(7) Give a child all the spending money he wants. Never let him earn his own. Why should he have things as rough as you had them?

(8) Take his part against neighbors, teachers, policemen. They are all prejudiced against your child.

(9) When he gets into real trouble, apologize for yourself by saying, "I never could do anything with him!"

Now if your child should grow up without making much of a mark as a juvenile delinquent, don't feel badly. Perhaps it's not your fault. It could be that you're kind of old-fashioned and raised your child to have pride, honesty and respect for himself and others.

FOOD MARKETS THIS WEEK

List Of Autumn Foods Continues To Grow

By ESTELLE B. FRANKS

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Fruits — Apples, cider, Tokay grapes, frozen orange juice.

Vegetables — Cauliflower, salad greens, celery, cabbage, potatoes.

Apples now make eye-catching displays at all of the roadside markets and food stores. Special prices are offered on many varieties for the weekend, winding up National Apple Week, Oct. 11-20. Choose McIntosh, Cortland, Jonathans and Grimes Golden for general purpose apples, Red and Golden Delicious are considered best for using raw although many good cooks are discovering that the Golden Delicious make excellent pie and sauce.

Mrs. Franks

Tokay grapes are especially good buys and the Red Emperors are beginning to arrive. You'll find western pears, cider, and fresh grape juice to add variety. New crop coconuts, dates, figs and mixed fruits are showing up; quality is good. Cranberry supplies increase weekly looking riper now.

Florida's new fresh citrus season is getting under way in earnest. There are more grapefruits each week and the first juice oranges (Hamlins) are in markets this week. Growers predict that this year's orange crop will be bigger than last season's heavy record-breaking production. And it looks now like the grapefruit crop will be a good one. The quality of both fruits is good for early season citrus, but will improve as the season progresses.

Outstanding vegetable buys at present are the leafy green ones. They like cool weather and are showing good color and substance. Salad greens—escarole, endive, Romaine—are at their very best. You can take your pick this week of field grown or hothouse when you purchase leaf or bibb lettuce.

Cauliflower, brussels sprouts and broccoli are important fall vegetables in good supply. Cooler weather also means high quality for these "cabbage cousins." Locally grown Chinese cabbage, snap beans, lima beans, beets; eggplant and green peppers will be around until that first freeze.

Potatoes—Ohio grown and eastern—are not expensive. While this year's potato crop is substantially smaller than last year's heavy production, it is still a fifth above a 10 year average.

Scripture Text, Isaiah 21: 11, 12
"The Night cometh and also the Morning."

Christian Faith And Hope Herald Dawn

That there is night in this world few will question. He must be a bold optimist who thinks everything as it is, is for the best possible in the best possible worlds.

Darkness still covers the earth. God's children, who have a glorious light within them, have dark night all round about them. Night is the symbol of gloom and suffering; and it is the season of sin. It is moral night, because men love darkness rather than light because their deeds are evil. Every true-hearted, earnest Christian is a watchman; he watches for his own soul, and for the souls of others; and he longs for the advent of the world's new morning when the shadows shall flee away. Regarding the earnest Christian as the person accosted in the text, what are his thoughts and fears about the night? What are his hopes about the morning?

Rev. Rahrer

When the Christian looks out upon the world, he sees himself surrounded by the night of unbelief and irreligion, and yet he beholds streaks of sunny dawn.

There are many things at which if he looked exclusively he would despair — there is materialism taught by popular teachers, atheism the creed of not a few, abounding luxury, sensuality defiling and degrading all classes of the community. But looking beyond these, he sees evidence of Christian faith and hope such as the world never before witnessed—Sunday schools, tract societies, home and foreign missions, various organizations generously supported and efficiently maintained; and, as he looks, he feels that the morning drawth nigh.

There is hope for our race because of what Christ is, the revealer of God, the Saviour of sinners, the Head of the Church, the Restorer of humanity. Let us live for Him, be spent for Him, then we shall be blessed of Him, and will be the means of helping and blessing others. Together through the Divine Revelation we will look for the bright rays of a blessed morning. Amen.

Junior High Camp Fire Girls Are Feted During Reception

Junior Hi Camp Fire Girls, seventh and eighth grade members of Southeast District, were guests of honor recently at a reception for all new Junior Hi members in Glick's Town and Country meeting room.

During the afternoon the special Junior Hi program, the newest division for Camp Fire Girls in the seventh and eighth grades, was introduced. Mrs. Jenny Klie, member of the district training committee, presented each of the guests a colorful booklet illustrating and describing the highlights of the new program, which is planned with the girls' interests in mind.

Groups make plans for all sorts of things to do outdoors and indoors. Over and above all this they learn to be of service to others.

Membership is open to girls of all races and religions. Previous membership in the Camp Fire Girls program is not required. Meetings are held in girls' homes, at school, in recreation rooms of churches, synagogues, or community centers. Junior Hi Camp Fire Girls groups meet once a week, occasionally in the evening. Special meetings and social affairs are also held.

Each group has an adult leader, a woman called the Junior Hi Camp Fire Girls guardian. She helps the girls make plans for the group. She must be 18 years of age or over; she may be a mother, older sister, relative or teacher, or an interested woman from a church or synagogue. There may be an assistant guardian also.

In addition, each group has the backing of adult sponsors, men and women. They help the group find meeting places, assist with special projects, with financial undertakings, and group activities.

In the new group Torch Bearer rank, the girls explore and select activities from seven different areas: home, arts, science, service, sports and games, outdoors, and party fun. Junior Hi Camp Fire Girls not only carry out activities with friends, but they develop their own special interests too.

The individual Torch Bearer rank allows them to take stock of their talents and develop one of them into a real skill. They choose from as many as 25 subjects, all the way from aerospace and business through interior decorating, photography, and so on to advanced swimming.

In earning her individual Torch Bearer, each girl has the aid and advice of an adult who specializes in the field of her choice. In this new Junior Hi program the girls learn a new way to express themselves through the use of symbols and ceremonials.

For more information about this new program please contact the office of the Columbus and Franklin County Camp Fire Girls, 718 S. High-st, HI. 3-9713.

Among the groups represented at the reception were the following guardians:

Tanda Group, Johnson Park Junior High School, Mrs. Donald Kloss; Te-yo-han, St. Philip's School, Mrs. F. P. Laihr; Ta-wan-ka, St. Catharine's School, Mrs. Elmer R. Gall, Mrs. Edward H. Kramer, Mrs. William Stal.

Ha-ca-da-pi, St. Leo's School, Mrs. L. L. Evans; O-ki-ci-ya-pi, St. Leo's School, Mrs. Leo Mertens; A-ki-ta-fu, Barrett Junior High School, Mrs. Otto Waldner; Ot-ya-kwa, Canal Winchester Junior High School, Mrs. Donald Fisher; O-ki-wa, Groveport Junior High School; Mrs. Frank E. A lecture on the major themes of the holy days was discussed by Rabbi Seymour Fox, associate dean of the Teachers Institute of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America.

Rabbi Fox and other professors from the seminary have actively participated in the in-service training conducted for the educational staff of the congregation under the sponsorship of the Melton Research Center.

Directing the program on the local level are: Rabbi Nathan Zelizer, spiritual leader of Congregation Tifereth Israel; Prof. George Lewis of the College of Education at Ohio State University, and Saul Wachs, director of religious education for the congregation. Assisting Wachs are Mrs. Willard Brenner and Barbara Mathless.

WORD POWER!

One of our popular publications, encourages the learning of new words, and in each edition prints a few words that we can add to our vocabulary.

Words have swayed thousands, even changed the course of history. It is through the use of words that men are saved.

"For after that in the wisdom of God the world by wisdom knew not God, it pleased God by the foolishness of preaching to save them that believe."..."Because the foolishness of God is wiser than men."

ATTEND CHURCH...HEAR GOD'S WORD PREACHED

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for men to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

West Side Mothers Are Nominated In Suburban Homemakers Contest

By JERRY WOLFROM

Leading sociologists who are alarmed because "American family life is disintegrating," obviously haven't paid a social visit to the Oliver Tallman or Frank Roby households.

Both Mrs. Ju e Tallman, 3306 Stephen-dr S., and Mrs. Eleanor Roby, 9184 Hayden Run-rd, have been nominated in Hartley Newspapers' search for Suburban Homemaker of the Year.

It does not stretch one's imagination to understand why each was nominated for the contest, which offers a final prize of $5,000 to the winner.

Mrs. Tallman has been married for 14 years, and is the mother of three daughters, eight, nine and 11. The girls attend Binns Elementary School where Mrs. Tallman serves as a PTA board member and works on the study group committee.

She is the leader of a Girl Scout troop. "I haven't had much experience roughing it outdoors," she said, "But I'm learning to really like it." She recently took her troop to a three-day campout where they slept out in 42 degree temperatures.

A great deal of pleasure is taken by Mrs. Tallman in planning recreational projects for the entire family. They enjoy candle making, and the three daughters are placed in charge of adding the final decorative touches.

Female members of the family also combine their culinary talents in several gigantic cookie baking projects each year. Both the candles and cookies are given away as gifts.

A Sunday School teacher for the past seven years, Mrs. Tallman is often called upon to double as home veterinarian. Several weeks ago she nursed one of the family's four parakeets back to health. "Our youngest daughter was so upset when the bird got sick, I had to do something," she smiled.

Mrs. Eleanor Roby believes a rural atmosphere is best for raising a family. Her husband of 14 years, Frank, is an auctioneer, farmer and seed corn representative.

The Robys have three daughters, 10, 9 and 7, and a baby boy of six months. Mrs. Roby is a Sunday School teacher at the Big Darby Baptist Church were she also belongs to the Missionary Society. In addition, she serves as chairman of the Girls' Guild and Children's Work programs.

The Roby girls attend Canaan Elementary School, and their mother is a member of the Mothers' Club there.

Mrs. Roby plays piano "a little bit" and particularly enjoys playing religious hymns. Her three daughters presently are taking piano lessons.

Although sewing is one of her favorite hobbies, Mrs. Roby admits she can't find time to do as much as she would like to do. She also enjoys collecting and trying new recipies.

Recreation is a family activity in the Roby home. "We seldom have a chance to take a real vacation, so we spend as many weekends as we can touring Ohio," Mrs. Roby said. Picnic lunches are also a favorite pastime at the Robys.

Why were June Tallman and Eleanor Roby nominated in the Hartley Newspapers' search for a national Suburban Homemaker of the Year? Are these women really unusual?

The answer is no, neither are unusual homemakers. Their names were submitted because someone cared enough about them, and appreciated them enough to seek for them the recognition they honestly deserve.

Do you know of a homemaker who you would like to see enter the Hartley search? Why not send us a letter telling about them? In less than 500 words, let us know how she has revealed her spiritual and moral strength, how she maintains the spiritual and moral strength in her family, and how she cultivates the mental, physical and emotional fitness of her family. We are interested in her civic and community activities and how she creates an atmosphere of love and respect for her loved ones.

Your letter and the style of presentation of your nomination will not be judged. finals in Chicago next month.

Several Columbus area women may enter the national The national winner will be selected through a series of interviews. Homemaker candidates will not be called upon to demonstrate any physical household abilities.

Deadline for nominations is Oct. 20. Write your letter of nomination today. Additional information can be received by contacting the Suburban Homemaking Editor, Hartley Newspapers, 2465 W. Broad-st, Columbus, O. Telephone BR. 4-1155.

• • •

Mrs. Gladys McAndrews, 1936 Fairmont, mother of five children, active in Girl Scouting and Cub Scouting, member of Christian Mothers Club, member Parish Council of Catholic Women.

To Talk On Socialization Of Medicine

Members of the panel will be Drs. H. William Porterfield, Thomas R. Curran, Jonathan G. Busby, and Donal S. O'Leary.

Tom Moody, attorney and member of the Columbus City Council, will serve as moderator. The program is open to the general public and there will be no admission charge. It is being sponsored by the "Guiding Hands" Ohio Child Conservation League of Reynoldsburg.

QUITE SURPRISED is the third nomination, Mrs. Eleanor Roby, 3184 Hayden Run-rd. A mother of four children, Mrs. Roby loves the rural atmosphere. She and her husband, Frank, are proud of their three daughters who study piano.

SECOND NOMINEE is Mrs. June Tallman, 3306 Stephen-dr. Mrs. Tallman enjoys Girl Scout work, PTA, Sunday School teaching and family recreation projects. She was nominated by her husband, Oliver, a representative for a local paper firm.

HITS $50 PRIZE

Robert Merz Is Third Round Victor

For the second time in three weeks the Hartley Newspaper Football Contest Editor had to rely on the tie-breaker to find the weekly winner.

After the smoke cleared away from an extremely close contest, Robert Merz, 60 E. Kelso-rd, was named to the top honor, and is being awarded $50 in prize money. He received double his money because he is a paid subscriber to one of the Hartley Newspapers.

Merz edged Richard Moore, Grove City, and Clayson Herren, West Jefferson, on the strength of his guess on the Ohio State-Illinois final score. All three contestants picked 21 of 24 winners, but Merz' tie-breaker estimate was 41-10. Herren guessed 27-13, and Moore guessed 35-6.

Closely following the three finalists with only four misses were: Russell Blythe, 354 S. Warren-av; Jack R. Ladyga, 62 N. Westgate-av; W. F. Thompson, 127 S. Hampton-rd; S. L. Pidcock, 3656 Seabrook, and E. C. Heater, 4640 Annhurst-rd.

In the first three rounds of the contest no one has been able to select all 24 winners qualifying him for the jackpot which goes up $25 each week.

The jackpot bonus for the contest of the weekend of Oct. 20 will contain $100 in addition to the regular prize of $25.

The rules of the contest can be found below along with 24 top games to be played on the weekend of Oct. 27. Be sure your choices are matched with the advertiser's name on the entry blank.

WG, Plumbers, Arlington Keep Pace In OBFF

Teams in the Ohio Boys' Football Foundation battled in inter-league scraps Sunday but the individual leaders weren't the least bit fazed by the new opposition.

The Westgate Hawks, led by Rick Winston and Marty Barnes, remained in front in the National loop with a 22-6 win over the Harley-Davidson Comets while Duckworth's Plumbers and Arlington remained undefeated and unscored upon in the American Division.

East Blanks South, Eastmoor Tops MF

East's rampaging Tigers continued to assume the role of the team to beat in the City League race this season as the Aufcaltus Thomas - coached eleven racked up their fourth straight loop win without defeat.

The Tigers maintained their first place tie with North Friday with a 14-0 shutout win over South as quarterback Mike Gordon scored one touchdown and passed for the other.

Oops! We goofed. We were considering percentages when we listed East in first place in the City League last week. The league is figured on a point basis so East (4-0) is still tied for the leader spot with North (4-1)—each team with eight points.

EAST, compiling 235 yards in total offense, drove 60 yards for its initial score in the first period with Gordon driving in from the one.

After that the Tiger defense took over and maintained the six-point margin until Gordon connected with end Ken Fowlkes on a pass play that covered 45 yards and six points in the last quarter.

The Tigers still have a long way to go to cop CL honors, playing Central, West and Aquinas the final three weeks of the season.

Surprising Academy maintained its share of the County League spotlight with a 30-14 win over Dublin. John Larrimer continued his torrid scoring pace with a pair of TDs on runs of seven and 31 yards.

Eastmoor hung onto its dim title hopes with a 44-0 blanking of hapless Marion-Franklin. Halfback Dean Ishida scored twice for the winners on runs of one and 17 yards.

Jerry Aggas, Vince Van-Horn and John Ranft added other touchdowns for Eastmoor but the big play that brought Warrior homecoming fans to their feet was a 65-yard scoring pass from Van-Horn to end Paul Naumoff.

The Eastmoor defense was rugged, holding the Red Devils to a mere 53 yards total offense while the Warrior backs were racking up a total of 382 yards.

Aquinas struck for two touchdowns early in the game to hand St. Charles its third loss of the season Saturday night, 20-0.

Mike Welling's 68-yard punt return set up the Terriers first score with halfback Pat Purcell hitting end Tom Verhoff with a 27-yard touchdown pass on a fourth down situation.

Welling added Aquinas' second touchdown later in the period with an 11-yard jaunt while Jim Fortcamp climaxed the evening's scoring with a short plunge in the third period. The Terriers outgained the Cards rushing, 224-77.

Whitehall all but dropped out of the running in the Central Buckeye League race, swallowing its second straight loss at the hands of Delaware, 22-20.

Halfback Steve Aller set off on TD runs of 61 and 80 yards to stun the Rams, who left the field at halftime on the short end of a 22-14 score.

Quarterback Bill Dildine raised Ram homecoming hopes in the third period when he moved Whitehall back into contention with a short TD plunge. However, the conversion try failed and the Rams were unable to put together another scoring drive.

Clark Fuller notched Whitehall's first score on a short plunge and Dildine's pass to end Mike Schmidt with three seconds remaining in the first half completed the Ram scoring.

Whetstone downed Walnut Ridge, 36-22, in a game where everybody ignored defense. John Schuman paced the winners attack with two scores on 62 and 70 yard runs.

Don Arledge racked up two of the Scot scores on short runs while fullback Dennis Day went seven yards for Walnut Ridge's final tally, adding four more points on two conversion runs.

Springfield North exploded for 20 points in the second period and went on to hand Hartley's Hawks their second straight loss of the season, 26-0.

Pete Brown was chief source of trouble for the Hawks, scoring twice on an eight-yard gallop and a 30-yard pass from quarterback Davis.

Friday night's play finds Urbana (0-4-2) at Bexley (2-3-1), Walnut Ridge (1-5) at Central (3-1-2), East (4-2) at Whetstone (1-5), Eastmoor (3-3) at Lancaster (4-1-1), University (1-2-1), and Whitehall (4-2) at Arlington (5-1). In Saturday night action, Hartley (2-2-1) visits Newark Catholic and St. Charles (3-3) hosts Springfield Central Catholic at Hartley.

THEY'LL TAKE THE HIGH ROAD

Pirates Roll In Bearcat Loop

An invitation to St. Louis, a gala homecoming celebration and continued success by the Westside Pirates told the story of doings in the Bearcat Football Association this past weekend.

An estimated crowd of better than 1,000 fans attended the Westside Pirates 20-12 homecoming win over Maryland AC Sunday at Starling Field. Proud parents received flowers and cigars during the halftime ceremonies.

The Bearcat League's top team (at the present time, the Westside Pirates) will travel to St. Louis in November to compete with that city's top little league football team, it was announced Monday.

In other action in the Bearcat loop Sunday, the UAW Tigers shutout the Westgate Bears, 24-0, and the Westside Eagles used Jim Fout's first period 14-yard TD run to top the Southside Blues, 8-0.

Westside Pirates	14	6	0	0	—20
Maryland AC	0	0	6	6	—12

Pirates scoring: TD's — Harold Prasure (14, run); Robert Arnett (20, run); Keith Edwards (43, run), EP — Jim Bell (run).
Maryland scoring: TD's — Paul Carmichael (4, pass from Harold Belcher); Walter Meeks (28, run).

UAW Tigers	8	0	8	8	—24

Tigers scoring: TD's — Arthur Thomas (36, run). EP — Lewis Hollis (30, run). EP — Arthur Thomas, safety; Norman Jones (35, pass from Bob Brown). EP — Norman Jones.

Westside Eagles	0	8	0	0	—8
Southside Blues	0	0	0	0	—0

Eagles scoring: TD — Jim Bell (14, run). EP — Jim Mitchell.

Ineligibility Hits Irish CL Hopes

Aquinas received a mortal blow to its dreams of a City League championship this season Monday with the forfeit of five games due to an ineligible player on the Terrior squad.

The Ohio High School Athletic Association handed down the decision ruling that the player in question had attended more than the maximum of eight semesters permitted for eligibility in a four-year school.

The Terriers, only one point out of first place in the City circuit, dropped wins to South, Whetstone, West and St. Charles and a tie with Central, placing Aquinas in a last-place tie with a 0-4 mark in City Loop standings.

The ineligibility ruling was most advantageous to Central, who moved into a first-place tie with East and North with a new 4-0 mark and 8 league rating of eight points.

'Fearless' Predictions

Urbana-Bexley—New Life in those Lions. Bexley.

Walnut Ridge - Central — Scots shanghied. Central.

St. Marys-Academy—Rams in a toss up. St. Marys.

East-Whetstone — If Tigers don't look ahead. East.

Eastmoor - Lancaster — 'Castor oil. Lancaster.

Hartley - Newark Catholic — Hawks on the win path. Hartley.

St. Charles-Springfield C. C.—It's in the cards. St. Charles.

Capital U. Wins Third Straight

Capital University used the combination of a grinding ground attack and an alert defensive backfield to make Kenyon its' third straight Ohio Conference victim, 20-14 Saturday.

THE PURPLE and white trailed 8-7 at intermission but Skidmores running and five timely pass interceptions kept the Lords at bay although Kenyon threatened as late as the final 20 seconds when Cap's John Petterson broke up a Lord's aerial TD attempt on Capital's one-yard line.

The Purple and White take to the road this Saturday to a tough Wittenberg Tiger eleven (3-0).

The Lutherans are hurting this week, personnel-wise with regulars Al Miller (fullback), Denny Engler (quarterback), Matt Kerschbaum (guard) and Paul Scherzer (linebacker) nursing injuries.

'Quo Vadis' Question On Bucks vs Bowl

Latin may well be a dead language but one of its most coined expressions, 'Quo Vadis' (where ya' goin'), is about the liveliest, most sensible question in regard to that age-old Ohio State vs the Rose Bowl situation.

As of last week, Ohio State's off-again, on-again agreement to accept a bowl invitation (if offered) is back on the affirmative side of the fence.

THE OSU Faculty Council approved the Athletic Council's unanimous recommendation that the faculty group not bar participation last week by a 36-20 count and the annual 'run for the roses' jumped once more into the spotlight.

At the same time, the council set down strict regulations involving sponsorship, gifts and other commercialization—something like giving junior a piece of candy and then forbidding him to put it into his mouth.

When you sit right down and analyze it, the New Year's Day classic is beginning to show more sides than a lopsided octagon and contains more tragicomic elements than the heaviest soap opera.

THE WHOLE question has been popping up and down in front of the public sports eye since the academic vs athletic elements set up their respective camps when the whole bombshell burst wide open three years ago.

The whole matter is still a touchy subject in some quarters and poking fun at the whole matter might be as risky as joking with President Kennedy about the Cuban situation.

Last year, you remember, the council said 'no' and the biggest, unplanned parade in the city's history tramped down the streets of Columbus.

THIS YEAR, thanks to the council's decision, we're happy to report to the city's street engineering division that there will be no assault on the asphalt if the Bucks get the Big Ten bowl nod. No march on the state capital, no parade down High-st — maybe just a little quiet collegiate celebration.

It seems obvious that the change of view was brought about by more than the furor of the students when the invitation was turned down last year. It might just be that certain pressures were brought to bear to bring about such a reversal in policy—most likely something a bit more subtle than Woody's resignation or an empty horseshoe on a Saturday afternoon.

The house is still divided and we wouldn't be at all surprised if when the question comes up again (not later than 1966), the position is once again reversed.

Anyway, the road to the Rose Bowl is open for the moment at least, and the general majority seems happy. Maybe this latest decision will hold for awhile.

To tell the truth, we'd like to see the real Faculty Council decision stand up, PLEASE.

COMING UP AT VETS MEMORIAL . . .

The future looks bright at Vets Memorial with these fine acts dated for stands there. Pictured at left is Caroline Dixon who'll play the lead in the return (and farewell) engagement of "My Fair Lady" from Tuesday, Nov. 6, through Saturday, Nov. 10. The lavish musical was here in 1959. Center are Alex Hassilen, Don Gottlieb and Glenn Yarbrough — better known as the "Limelighters." They'll grace the Vet stage Saturday, Oct. 20, at 8:30 for one night only. Just before the "Limelighters," famed pianist Liberace (at right) will perform Friday, Oct. 19, at 8:15 p.m., in an all-new show. Tickets for all the presentations are available at Central Ticket Office (Richman's), 37 N. High-st. and the Turntable Record Shop. Include stamped, self-addressed envelope with mail orders.

'Mary, Mary' Keeping Hartman Crowds In Stitches This Week

Perhaps the saddest thing about Jean Kerr's hilarious comedy "Mary, Mary" is that it closes Saturday at the Hartman Theater.

This play, which opened Monday and finishes with a 2:30 p.m. matinee Saturday, was hailed as Broadway's brightest, wittiest in many years (and Columbus' audiences verify it) and stars Lee Bowman, TV's Ellery Queen and star of the TV series "Miami Undercover," Patricia Smith and John Lasell.

Clinton Sundberg and Ellen Weston have featured roles. Roger L. Stevens, who presented this comedy on Broadway, is also presenting the vehicle here.

"Mary, Mary" is a comedy about the unending battle of the sexes, spiced with jokes, needling remarks, assorted retorts and bright impertinent lines.

Jean, the author (she wrote the best seller "Please Don't Eat the Daisies") sharply and amusingly points up the small frailities of people. She possesses an unerring skill at coining a lively phrase.

A spot check with folks this week indicate that they're taking home with them a private degree of personal identification with Bob and Mary in "Mary, Mary."

The play revolves around a young couple on the eve of their divorce, with a motion picture idol thrown in to liven up and complicate the proceedings.

A combination of the tax department and a snowstorm brings a turning point to this joyous, sparkling comedy which is now enjoying its second year on Broadway.

FILM VERSION

HOLLYWOOD (Special) —The tremendous personal triumph of Barbara Bel Geddes and Barry Nelson in "Mary, Mary" has resulted in their being signed for the Warner Bros. motion picture version, Jack L. Warner reported to Hartley Newspapers.

Filming of the long-running New York comedy hit by Jean Kerr is scheduled to occur soon after the first of the year.

Mervyn LeRoy will produce and direct "Mary, Mary."

Jack Denton To Celebrate 1st Birthday

A special anniversary show at 9 a.m., Tuesday, Oct. 23, will mark the one-year birthday of the "Jack Denton Show" on TV 4.

To mark the event Denton will be on the receiving end of skits and jokes formed by the TV 4 talent staff of Hugh DeMoss, Stan Robinson, Jimmy Crum, Clay Eager, Clark Smith, Phil Samp and Dick Simpson.

Of course, the Jack Denton show regulars, Jeanne Cummins, the Al Waslon Big Band and Nancy Courtwright will be there to add their own brand of merriment.

It was a Monday, one year ago, Oct. 23, when Jack Denton, once the low man in a perch-pole act, greeted TV 4 audiences with his own brand of quick wit.

The low-man-on-the-pole start for Jack was back in 1941. He soon graduated from the bottom man role to the drummer spot with Bob Chester's band and toured in the Great Lakes area.

In 1945 he started writing gags for Milton Berle and then Red Skelton. In 1947, he formed his own act and began night club appearances across the country.

Gradually, Jack branched out into summer stock and then to radio and television. He performed on the same stage with Bob Hope, George Jessel, Gary Grant, Jerry Lewis, Libraca, Nat King Cole, Gene Barry, and Shelley Berman.

MERCY, SUE!

Starting Saturday, Oct. 20, Loew's Ohio will show the dramatic suspense feature in CinemaScope and color, "I Thank a Fool," starring Susan Hayward as a doctor accused of mercy killing. Peter Finch and Diane Cilento are in the cast. Co-feature will be "13 West Street."

Spectacular Holiday On Ice Opens In Columbus Tuesday

The only trouble about trying to publicize a production as spectacular as "Holiday On Ice of 1963" is that you find yourself wondering what else you can say about it and, too, quickly tire of superlatives . . . The show's so spectacular that PR gal Joan Loomis is finding it hard to describe it in new ways . . . Perhaps, merely saying that it's nothing short of great will suffice. It opens Tuesday, Oct. 23, at the Fairgrounds Coliseum and runs until Wednesday, Oct. 31 . . . Oh yes, one thing more. Get ready to have a good time if you plan to attend.

• Maramor crowd pleasers' Nelson Eddy and Gale Sherwood returned to the downtown nitery on Monday and will be stationed there until the end of the week . . . Doing two shows nightly, 8:30 and 11 . . . Lovely Gale has been Eddy's partner since he first heard her in a night club at Las Vegas . . . Glenn Karbrough, the major solo voice with the Limelighters, has been described as "singing with the voice of an angel and looking like a wrestler" . . . The fine group will make a one-night stand Saturday, Oct. 20, at Vets Memorial. Tickets on sale for the 8:30 show time at Central Ticket Office (Richman's), 37 N. High-st.

• Columbus residents will have a big chance to celebrate New Year's eve when the "Sound of Music" opens in beautiful Vets Memorial Auditorium Dec. 31.

FRANK COON, Rt. 2, Ashville, displays penguin and duck, easily made from one of his gourds.

SURROUNDED by prize winning pumpkins and squash, Frank Coon holds an Australian variety, just one of many champion-sized products from his farm located near Ashville.

ROSEMARY PAYNE, Rt. 2, Ashville, assists Coon brothers in preparing prize variety for Pumpkin Show.

Ashville Champion Growers Prepare For Pumpkin Show

By BOB KIEBEL

When Ohio proudly tallies its champions at the end of the seasons — two receptive farmers, George and Frank Coon, Rt. 2, Ashville, internationally known champion pumpkin, squash and gourd list, year after year.

"It all began back in 1933 and 34, when we started growing them while in the Future Farmers of America, during our high school days," Frank explained. "At first we only sold our pumpkins to the cannery that was located in Ashville."

There are over 80 varieties of pumpkin, squash and "millions" of gourds. The seeds originated from Japan, Australia, France, Hungary and all corners of the earth. "We search the world for seeds," George said. "When we hear of a big one, we write for the seeds. Then we compete for the champion." By the same token, the brothers receive letters from all sections of the globe.

There is a champion Mexican squash that is not eaten as such, but produces a seed about the size of a 50-cent piece. "These seeds are roasted and eaten like peanuts," Frank pointed out.

In preparation for the Circleville Pumpkin Show, Oct. 17-20, there are squash, pumpkins and gourds covering a large area of the ground near the house on Frank's farm. One large squash tips the scales at 201 pounds. "The one next to it is 198 pounds," Frank pointed to another monstrous squash at its side, "and all the others are in th 180's." Each group is separated by types and variety.

Frank also pointed to the large gourds in one group in the yard. The "Langaneria or 'White Blossom' is dried during the winter and painted for house decorations," he said.

"I occasionally give talks to garden clubs and other organizations," Frank added modestly and then displayed two popular gourds he had prepared for a garden club meeting the night before. One was the "Penguin" gourd, and it was easy to see where it derived its name. With only a white and black tuxedo and a painted face, the gourd was an exact duplicate of the quaint little bird from the South Pole. The other, a "Maranka" or Chinese variety of gourd, was painted white, and with only a minimum amount of imagination, clearly resembled a duck.

How They Do It

There seems to be a theory that champion squash growers inject milk intravenously into the plants. However, George quickly disquieted that theory. "We've tried milk, but there doesn't seem to be any great difference in the size of the product," he explained, when asked. "We never use milk for three reasons. First, it's too expensive, it takes too much time, and milk will sour, ruining the vines. Although it has been tried, we never use it."

When asked if they would resent divulging their secrets in raising such fine specimens, both brothers readily stated they held no secrets.

"We plant seeds 12 feet apart and leave one plant in each hill. Then we pluck all but one squash from each vine. To grow, we use about 50 pounds of fertilizer per acre then water well," George said.

"We always plant in the rich bottom ground around the creek, where you find sandy loam soil," Frank added. "Then we irrigate early to beat the dry weather and before the creeks dry up. We have a portable pump that pumps 500 gallons per minute. We operate this for three hours, which is equivalent to two inches of rain."

With pride, George called attention to twin squash, 192 and 189 pounds from a single vine which had won high honors at the last Ohio State Fair. "It would probably have broken a record if it had been plucked," he added, indicating that it possibly had been grown by error. "I believe it would be possible for squash to reach 400 pounds if special care were given," George said, and gave a negative shake of his head when asked if his squash were pampered. "No, we just let them grow out in the fields."

Town and Country Features Space Exhibits This Weekend

On Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week the merchants of Town and Country Shopping Center, 3600-4000 E. Broad-st, are staging a unique event called "Satellite Days."

This event differs from the usual shopping center offerings in that the emphasis is on education rather than sheer entertainment. Everyone from students to oldsters will find stimulating and educational exhibits and demonstrations in the atmosphere of the "Space Age."

Organization and government services capable of providing such display have given fine cooperation to the end that Town and Country will really be the place to visit this weekend.

The Ohio Bell Telephone will show its "Telemobile," the 35-foot showcase has a dual purpose. In the event of disaster disrupting regular telephone service, it functions as a communications headquarters until normal service is resumed. It also houses many new developments in the communications world, including a model of Echo I, the first space communications satellite.

Another interesting feature will be a Planetarium, to be housed next to Darling Flowers, on the rear street. Scientist Richard Lamson, who has lectured all summer at the Seattle World's Fair, will give free lectures in the Planetarium. He will also have outdoor telescopes and will supervise the showing of space-science movies day and night.

In the same room as the Planetarium, there will be science exhibits by the Air Force, Marine Corps and by youths from various high schools sponsored by the Ohio Academy of Science.

The Ohio Department of Health will have window exhibits on disater and rescue. Survival and disaster displays will be offered by the Department of Civil Defense.

All of the Town and Country stores are saying "The Sky's the Limit" in their effort to provide "out of this world" values for this thrill-packed event.

A COMMUNICATIONS SHOWCASE on wheels that can also be used as an emergency telephone center, and which also houses communication satellite displays, will be on free display at the Town and Country Shopping Center Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week, as a part of the center's Space Age event—"Satellite Days."

Burger Boys Win Friends In Community

Next to fine food, probably the biggest reason for the phenomenal growth of the the Burger Boy Food-O-Rama Drive-Ins, is the fast service, their managers believe.

But, like fine food, the fast service didn't "just happen." Consultation with experts in the business, long sessions with employes and careful supervision are the factors behind this phase of the Food-O-Rama operation.

General Manager Jim Near, who has been with the organization since the talking stage, maintains a firm but friendly vigilance over every movement of each and every one of the five drive-ins. Hardly a day goes by that he doesn't visit each location, inventorying supplies and checking with each manager.

The Burger Boy Food-O-Rama Drive-Ins are locally owned and operated. Owners Roy Tuggle, who has the big Burger Boy Drive-In at 2133 E. Livingston-av, and Milt Lustnauer, who owns the Green Gables Drive-In at Central Point Shopping Center, also keep a close eye on everything from daily grinding of meat to the dispensing of the various food products.

Food-O-Rama Drive-Ins have grown from one location to five in less than two years—a testimonial to their food and service.

Newscaster Is Guest Of Eastern Club

"While the Germans made the best use of the foreign aid we gave them, they nevertheless like Americans the least," said Hugh DeMoss, WLW-C newscaster.

Speaking to the Eastern Sertoma Club on Oct. 10, DeMoss, whose telecasts occur twice daily, emphasized that "the growth of the common market will eventually reduce our dependence upon the military forces of NATO, because the trading relations developed through the market bind the participating nations ever closer together."

"Khrushchev's fear of NATO is dwarfed by his realistic fear of the common market because it will lead to a United States of Europe and then to an Atlantic community against which the Communist bloc of the Warsaw Pact nations cannot compete," DeMoss concluded.

Progress Report Given On Ohio Boy Scout Camping

C. A. Gimre, chairman of Central Ohio Camp development plans, announced that contracts have been let for the swimming pool and the first four of 11 buildings for the new Greenhills Boy Scout Reservation.

Twelve of 14 campsites have been cleared of brush and plans are now underway for the water and sanitation systems. The parking lot in section "B" should be completed soon, as well as power into the pump house.

Tom Fitzpatrick is the working chairman of the Greenhills development. This camp will be in operation by the summer of 1963.

Gimre also stated that under the direction of William Mackenzie, chairman of weekend site development, two new adirondacks have been completed at Camp Madison on Madison Lake near London. There are now three shelters at this camp and it is ready for use by troops of Central Ohio Council. Reservations should be made through council headquarters.

Projects at Camp Lazarus, under the chairmanship of Frank Sayers, include renovating the picnic area on which two shelters are being erected, a modern parking lot and the erection of two new toilets. These projects should be completed within a week.

Work has also started on the development of the first of several new troop sites.

This new development and the improvement of existing camping facilities is being done as the result of successful camp capital development campaign conducted throughout the nine-county area of Central Ohio Boy Scouts early this year.

Vandals—

brought with him an ominous display of items that he took from 12 boys and a girl — ages 13 to 16 — who are being held in connection with recent Rosemore Elementary vandalism.

"Most of these items were stolen by the youths," Clark said, gesturing over the weapon-laden table. Prominent were three bottles of cheap wine which, he reports, was also stolen and "which is one of the major causes of vandalism."

A few of the items were homemade. There were two pipes with bicycle handle bar grips cemented on one end and thick chains attached to the other end. "These type of weapons date back to the gladiators," the patrolman said, frowning.

Seven or eight bayonet-type knives were also among the collection — apparently stolen from a local concern which makes them under government contract.

There were also two slingshots which were believed to have been stolen from Whitehall merchants and a chain-like item labeled by Clark as a "choker."

"They wrap this thing around your head," he said, "or neck, and they can rip the skin right off." Safety Director Richard Moling added that this "choker" should serve as a warning to parents of teenage girls since it is frequently used to subdue a female victim in a criminal assault.

The vandals, who had collected these items, are said to have caused "thousands of dollars" of damage at Rosemore School.

Clark is a six-year veteran with the force. Since working with juveniles, he theorized that most of the blame for delinquency rests on the shoulders of the parents.

"They'll slip through a stop sign occasionally, or say 'Tell him I'm not in' in regards to a phone call . . . all little things, but things that leave bad impressions with youths. They're not taught to have respect for the law and for the property of others. Even when parents steal a hotel towel, they're creating a bad image for their children."

The patrolman praised Police Chief Ralph Walker for "placing the entire department at my disposal" in his crackdown campaign.

ASK PARENTS TO HELP 'ON HALLOWEEN

School officials, civic organizations the police department and the recreation department are working collectively in Columbus to carry out the "Fun Without Destruction" Halloween activity.

Capt. Phil Mumberg of the police juvenile division, reported Wednesday that they expect activity on two nights. Oct. 30 has been designated as beggars night, penny night and UNICEF night while Oct. 31 will be a time for planned activity — block parties, schol functions, etc.

"We're pleading for the assistance from parents to help us control the usual flow of vandalism," Capt. Mumberg said. "As usual, many people from the bureau will be working on these two evenings along with special 'Scouts' from American Legion posts."

Director Moling added that "in all fairness, it should be said that there are many, many fine teenagers in this city. There are a few bad ones, though, and we're doing all we can to straighten them out."

Hemorrhage Causes Death

An autopsy report by Coroner Robert A. Evans reveals that 15-year-old Roy J. Wilkerson, who died in the water of the Grandview Heights Pool last July 16, succumbed to a spinal cord hemorrhage.

The report was sent to Roy D. Wilkerson, father of the youth.

In the report, Evans said the hemorrhage could have been triggered by a "minimal traumatic incident," or some sort of minor shock or injury.

year," Tenwalde said. "We got better blocking this week and only made one mistake. We were sharp and they weren't, that's all."

The win was a simple lesson in possession-football with Bexley controlling the ball for two-thirds of the game. Defense also played an important factor, the Lions yielding only three first downs in the first half.

It was hard to pick out individual standouts in such a team victory but Tenwalde lauded senior co-captain Rick Mauger for an outstanding game on both offense and defense.

Especially effective in handling the Mounties explosive offense was the center of Bexley's defensive eleven, Tom Leukart at middle guard and Dick Curl and Bob Congrove at the two defensive tackle spots.

Where Bexley goes from here nobody knows for sure but up Mt. Vernon way it might be a long time before they forget the night the Lions came to town.

Bexley hosts winless Urbana this Friday night.
